Air Pollution: Hertfordshire

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what (a) resources and (b) advice are issued to councils to help improve air quality management areas; and what change there has been in the air quality in (a) St. Albans and (b) Hertfordshire over the last 10 years. [189483]

Jonathan Shaw: Local authorities have statutory duties for local air quality management under the Environment Act 1995. To help local authorities carry out their duties, the Department runs an air quality grant programme, which allows local authorities to bid for a share of the approximately £2.3 million available. The Department also provides statutory guidance on local air quality management, which is in the process of being revised for publication later in 2008. In addition, DEFRA funds the UK Air Quality Archive website and air quality help desks, providing specialist advice to local authorities.

St. Albans and Hertfordshire are not on the Automatic Urban and Rural Network through which DEFRA monitors air quality. However, St. Albans district council undertakes continuous ambient air quality monitoring as part of the Hertfordshire and Bedfordshire Air Pollution Monitoring Network (www.hertsbedsair.org.uk).

Local authorities are responsible for local air quality management under part IV of the Environment Act 1995, which includes the responsibility to report on levels of air pollution in their area assessed against the objectives contained in the Air Quality (England) Regulations 2000 (as amended).

Animal Welfare

Mr. Morley: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which of his Department's advisory non-departmental public bodies are concerned with animal health and welfare; whether an animal welfare specialist is on the board of each; and if he will make a statement. [199967]

Jonathan Shaw: The information requested is set out in the following table:

| Non-departmental public body | Animal welfare specialist? |
|---|---|
| Farm Animal Welfare Council | Yes |
| Animal Health and Welfare Strategy England Implementation Group (EIG) | Yes |
| Independent Scientific Group on TB in Cattle | No animal welfare specialist but members have related experience in differing fields including wildlife diseases/badger ecology |
| Spongiform Encephalopathy Advisory Committee (SEAC) | No animal welfare specialist but deputy chair is a practicing vet and a member is Head of the Department of Pathology and Infectious Diseases at the Royal Veterinary College |
| Veterinary Products Committee | No animal welfare specialist but members are experienced in various fields including veterinary surgeons and toxicologists |

Animal Welfare: Horses

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many prosecutions have been initiated under section 4 of the Animal Welfare Act 2006 (a) in total and (b) in relation to alleged offences of excessive whipping of a racehorse; and if he will make a statement. [190047]

Jonathan Shaw: The Animal Welfare Act 2006 came into force in England on 6 April 2007 (and in Wales on 27 March 2007).

Court proceedings data for prosecutions under the Act for 2007 will be available this autumn. No separate record is maintained for alleged offences relating to racehorses.

Bovine Tuberculosis: Compensation

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much was spent by his Department on compensation to farmers whose cattle were slaughtered as inconclusive reactors to tuberculosis in each of the last three years. [190578]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The following table shows the total amount of compensation paid to farmers in England, in each of the last three years, for cattle compulsorily slaughtered for bovine tuberculosis control reasons.

Compensation paid to farmers for all cattle slaughtered under bovine tuberculosis control measures[1]

|---|---|
| 2005 | 27.2 |
| 2006 | 16.1 |
| 2007 | 15 |

[1] The compensation payments are for England only.

The Government require the compulsory slaughter of inconclusive reactor cattle that fail to resolve after three tests. Repeat inconclusive reactors must be deemed to be reactors under EU legislation.

The way that these cattle are recorded and slaughtered means that we are unable to provide a breakdown showing the amount of compensation paid for this sub-group of cattle.

Bovine Tuberculosis: Disease Control

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of the number of cattle slaughtered in (a) Devon and (b) England which had (i) tuberculosis and (ii) lesions in lymph glands and lungs in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [190577]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The following table shows the number of cattle slaughtered under bovine tuberculosis (TB) control measures in (a) Devon and (b) England in each of the last five years, with the number of cattle with demonstrable post-mortem evidence of infection (for instance, visible lesions of TB and/or isolation of the bovine TB bacterium on culture).

|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Number of cattle slaughtered[2] | Number of "confirmed" cases | Number of cattle slaughtered[2] | Number of "confirmed" cases |
| 2003 | 3,767 | 1,118 | 17,551 | 5,293 |
| 2004 | 4,758 | 1,699 | 17,323 | 5,385 |
| 2005[2] | 6,660 | 2,012 | 23,135 | 7,622 |
| 2006[2] | 4,468 | 1,684 | 16,006 | 6,242 |
| 2007[2] | 5,383 | 1,906 | 19,777 | 7,211 |

[1] Includes cattle slaughtered as skin and gamma-interferon test reactors, skin test inconclusive reactors and direct contacts.
[2] 2005-07 figures are provisional, subject to change as more data become available.

Data on the number of cattle displaying TB lesions in particular organs or parts of the carcase is not centrally collated in an electronic format.

Following a TB breakdown, we aim to carry out post-mortem inspections of all the slaughtered cattle and to take tissue samples from the reactor (or if several animals must be removed, from a representative subset of those), to attempt isolation and molecular typing of the causative organism in the laboratory. This is done to support epidemiological investigations and management of the incident, rather than to validate the ante-mortem test results.

Failure to detect lesions of TB by post-mortem examination, or to culture M. bovis in the laboratory, does not imply that a test reactor was not infected with bovine TB. In the early stages of this disease, it is not always possible to observe lesions during abattoir post-mortem examination and, due to the fastidious nature of this organism, it is very difficult to isolate it from tissue samples without visible lesions.

Meaningful "confirmation" proportions for TB test reactors cannot be provided, as substantial numbers of skin and gIFN positive animals are not subject to laboratory culture, for example, once infection has already been identified in other cattle from the same herd.

Business Resource Efficiency and Waste: Finance

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the business resource efficiency and waste (BREW) budget is for 2008-09; and what funding has been allocated to each of the organisations within BREW. [190831]

Joan Ruddock: The business resource efficiency and waste (BREW) programme was set up to return £284 million raised from landfill tax back to businesses between 2005 and 2008 through resource efficiency and waste projects.

From 2008-09, budgets previously under the BREW programme will be amalgamated into a single, more focused approach of allocating DEFRA funding to increase resource efficiency and reduce carbon emissions.

Funding for business resource efficiency will be focused on providing the necessary evidence to encourage businesses to change behaviour, rather than funding profit-making business beyond that point. This move forms part of a purposeful strategy by DEFRA towards behaviour change for a low-carbon Britain.

Funding allocations for 2008-09 were announced by the Secretary of State on 21 February. The following table sets out DEFRA's allocations for 2008-09 for delivery bodies working on business resource efficiency. Except where indicated, the allocations in the areas listed were previously provided through the BREW programme.

Resource and capital funding for 2008-09

| Activity (1) | £ million |
|---|---|
| Action Sustainability - promoting sustainable procurement amongst businesses | 0.300 |
| BREW Centre for Local Authorities (2), (3) - support for local authorities working with their local business community to become more resource efficient | 0.800 |

Resource and capital funding for 2008-09

| Activity (1) | £ million |
|---|---|
| Carbon Trust (4) - accelerating the move to a low carbon economy by working with organisations to reduce carbon emissions and develop commercial low carbon technologies | 89.063 |
| Centre for Remanufacture and Reuse (Oakdene Hollins) (2) - promoting remanufacture and reuse | 0.500 |
| Construction Resources and Waste Platform (AEA Technologies and the Building Research Establishment) (2) - liaison with the construction industry and filling evidence gaps on construction resource efficiency | 0.500 |
| Environment Agency - programmes on waste protocols (shared with WRAP), NetRegs and former BREW waste crime programme | 2.750 |
| Envirowise - embedding resource efficiency into business decision-making | 9.390 |
| Implementing Energy White Paper Commitments (Market Transformation Programme) - raising the efficiency of energy-using products | 2.750 |
| National Industrial Symbiosis Programme (NISP) - industrial symbiosis - value from unused resources | 5.025 |
| Business Reuse Fund (Royal Society of Wildlife Trusts -RSWT) (5) - obtaining value from unused resources | 0 |
| Technology Programme (6) - supporting technology and innovation | 0 |
| Waste Data Strategy - research and development of waste data, particularly on business waste | 1.325 |
| Waste and Resources Action Programme (WRAP) (4) - encouraging and enabling businesses and consumers to be more efficient in their use of materials and recycle more things more often | 43.223 |

Notes:

1. Also relevant is funding to the Regional Development Agencies (RDAs), which have received ringfenced BREW programme throughout the programme period, to co-ordinate business resource efficiency activities at the regional level and to conduct various regionally-specific projects. This was in addition to the DEFRA contribution to the RDA single programme ("single pot"), which gives RDAs the ability to address national priorities, on which they are tasked by Government (including activities to promote business resource efficiency), as well as regional objectives. With Government tasking and funding now fully aligned through the single pot, RDAs will no longer receive separate funding for resource efficiency activities. Total funding for RDAs from DEFRA in 2008-09 is £53 million.
2. In 2006-07, DEFRA funded nine pilot projects to conduct innovative work in the area of business resource efficiency. Seven of these activities were scaled up in 2007-08. Following a review of the activities, the three identified activities will continue to be funded by DEFRA in 2008-09, with the remaining four no longer receiving specific DEFRA funding. DEFRA is working with the latter four projects, listed , to ensure that learning is embedded in wider activity on business resource efficiency:
(i) Business Link Kent: Business Link Diagnostic Tool;
(ii) Community Recycling Network: Compost Doctors;
(iii) Environment Practice: Mentoring for Success in Construction; and
(iv) White Young Green: Sector specific environmental best practice programmes using a BS8555-phased approach.
3. The title of the BREW Centre for Local Authorities is under reconsideration, given that the BREW programme has been amalgamated into a single, more focused approach of allocating DEFRA funding to increase resource efficiency and reduce carbon emissions.
4. Activities undertaken by the waste and resource action programme (WRAP) and the Carbon Trust cover a range of areas, including but not restricted to business resource efficiency. For example, in the case of the Carbon Trust, £47.4 million is being provided from the domestic environmental transformation fund to support the development and deployment of low carbon technologies. DEFRA is in discussions with WRAP and the Carbon Trust about the appropriate spread of work between these various areas.
5. In 2006-07 and 2007-08, the Royal Society of Wildlife Trusts (RSWT) has managed the business reuse fund, which provides grant funding for activities involving the third sector to promote materials re-use among businesses. Following discussions with DEFRA, RSWT chose not to bid for future funding for the continuation of the fund.
6. The technology programme, overseen by the Technology Strategy Board, has received funding throughout the period of the BREW programme. The funds have been used to promote research and development into environmental technologies. BREW funding is additional to funds provided by the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills (DIUS), the sponsoring department of the Board. From 2008-09, DEFRA will no longer provide funding to the programme, but will work with DIUS to seek opportunities for integrating environmental sustainability considerations into the work of the programme.

Cuckmere Estuary

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much the Environment Agency has spent on its plans to alter the Cuckmere Estuary; and what further expenditure is expected. [190563]

Mr. Woolas: The Environment Agency has spent £527,000 on the Cuckmere Estuary Strategy, to date, and expects further expenditure of £20,000.

Departmental Co-ordination: Computers

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions he has had with Ministers from other Departments on the merits of virtualisation of server hardware. [187903]

Jonathan Shaw: New DEFRA transactional systems of any magnitude are now developed and deployed by IBM on server infrastructure that is based on the principles of virtualisation. DEFRA currently has over 120 separate server images mapped across approximately 12 physical servers. We adopt this approach to reduce IT costs by using resources efficiently and to reduce our carbon footprint.

Discussions on the merits and best practice in deployment of the virtualisation of server hardware are held at official level with other Government Departments through the Cabinet Office chaired Chief Technology Officers Council and with our supplier IBM.

Dredging: Gravel

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what price per tonne HM Treasury receives for the gravel excavated by marine dredging; and if he will make a statement. [190813]

Jonathan Shaw: HM Treasury currently receives 1.60 per tonne of dredged marine aggregates. This will be rising to 1.95 per tonne from 1 April 2008.

Drinking Water

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions he has had with the House authorities on ceasing the use of bottled water on the Parliamentary Estate and providing tap water instead; and if he will make a statement. [187969]

Mr. Woolas: This is a matter for the House.

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what his Department's policy is on the use of (a) tap water and (b) bottled water; and if he will make a statement. [187970]

Mr. Woolas: DEFRA's policy on tap and bottled water was set out in a notice to staff published on 9 February 2007:

> The Department is to stop supplying bottled mineral water for meetings in order to be more environmentally-friendly. Instead, as of 19 February 2007, covered jugs will be left in meeting rooms, for meeting organisers to fill up with tap water from the nearest kitchen point.
> This measure is a commitment by DEFRA to sustainable development. The bottling process is resource intensive and uses energy that generates greenhouse gas emissions, through both manufacture and transportation. It also generates waste plastic and glass which will, at best, have to be recycled if it is to be kept out of landfill. Even the recycling process uses energy and has an impact on the environment.

DEFRA's caterers will also remove bottled water from the hospitality menu.

Energy Conservation: Heating

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps the Government is taking to ensure that the energy-using products directive maximises carbon savings from heating controls. [189853]

Joan Ruddock: The Government are committed to raising product efficiency and we are working with key stakeholders from the boiler and water heater industry and the European Commission to develop proposals which will maximise the standards and efficiency of products covered under the energy-using products directive.

Heating controls play an important role in improving the efficiency of heating systems and the Government have recently published a consultation paper setting out indicative standards for better use of existing controls and advanced controls for domestic heating.

Environment Protection: EU Law

Martin Horwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the effects of the operation of the comitology procedure for the delegation of powers from European legislation on the (a) development and (b) implementation of (i) proposed and (ii) effective directives on environmental issues; whether the Government is seeking changes to the procedure; and if he will make a statement. [189733]

Jonathan Shaw: The Government supported the changes to the revised comitology procedure for the delegation of powers and which culminated in Council Decision 2006/512/EC. While it is recognised that the revised procedure is likely to extend the process for adopting individual implementing measures, the Government consider that any adverse consequences will be outweighed by the greater accountability introduced into the scrutiny process as a result of this change and are not, currently, seeking changes to the system.

The European Commission has committed itself to examine all existing Acts in force adopted under co-decision with a view to adapting them to the new procedure and making appropriate proposals. The Council has not however made any commitment to adopt these proposals and all such proposals are being considered on a case-by-case basis.

Fisheries

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 24 January 2008, Official Report, columns 2123-24W, on fisheries, (1) whether he intends to re-apply to the European Commission; whether he has had further discussions with (a) the Commission and (b) other EU member states about pelagic pair trawling; and if he will make a statement; [190466]

(2) what his estimate is of the (a) damage to marine life and (b) the numbers of cetaceans killed as a result of the European Commission turning down the request made under Article 9 of Council Regulation 2371/2002; and if he will make a statement. [190467]

Jonathan Shaw: Council Regulation (EC) 812/2004 requires member states to set up by-catch observer programmes in certain fisheries and present an annual report to the European Commission. The latest report submitted to the European Commission for 2006 by France reported that no by-catch was observed in the 26 tows monitored in the bass fishery in International Council for the Exploration of the Sea (ICES) areas VII and VIII.

ICES has been asked by the European Commission to look at all member states' annual reports and they are currently in the process of doing so. When ICES advice becomes available we will consider whether further representation needs to be made to the Commission in respect of pelagic pair-trawling.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the Special Report No. 7/2007 of the European Court of Auditors on the control, inspection and sanction systems relating to the rules on conservation of Community fisheries resources; and if he will make a statement. [190470]

Jonathan Shaw: The European Court of Auditors report has highlighted a number of weaknesses in the control regime applicable within the European Community. Those weakness undermine the overall effectiveness of the common fisheries policy and the achievement of its objective of sustainable fisheries. We therefore welcome its publication. We also welcome the positive stance taken by the Commission in response to the report and the measures that it has already announced to simplify and harmonise the control regime. Those measures include, in the short term, improving the vessel monitoring system, introducing electronic logbooks and sales notes, improving member states' and the Commission's databases, enhanced cross-checking of data and the application of more effective and consistent sanctions throughout the Community. In the medium term, the Commission is working towards the publication, in October 2008, of a proposal to replace the existing Control Regulation with one designed to rationalise and standardise rules, strengthen cooperation and collaboration between member states and help to develop a culture of compliance among the industry. We intend to play an active part in the discussions to ensure that these objectives are met.

Fisheries: Enforcement

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will place in the Library copies of the correspondence his Department has had with the Marine and Fisheries Agency on the number of annual (a) patrol days and (b) hours of aerial surveillance coverage required for the purposes of fisheries enforcement and protection; and if he will make a statement. [190471]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA has had no such correspondence with the Marine and Fisheries Agency. Arrangements for the provision of aerial and surface surveillance coverage are an operational matter for the Marine and Fisheries Agency to decide upon, in order to ensure the effective tasking and deployment of patrol vessels and surveillance aircraft.

Flood Control: Finance

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much has been spent on flood defences in each constituency over the last five years for which figures are available. [189735]

Mr. Woolas: Figures for spend on flood defences by constituency are not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

The Environment Agency is the principal operating authority with responsibility for flood risk management in England and is responsible for the vast majority of spend. The Agency's annual report and accounts are laid before Parliament each year and contain detailed information about their spend.

Food: Procurement

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 26 February 2008, Official Report, column 1340W, on food: procurement, what advice he has provided to other Government Departments and public bodies to encourage purchasing of food from local sources. [190911]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The Government continue to take steps through their Public Sector Food Procurement Initiative (PSFPI) to encourage and help public bodies to increase opportunities for small and local food producers.

Further guidance, tools, case studies and other information is available on the DEFRA website. An updated procurement toolkit on the website explains how public sector bodies can break their catering contracts into lots and sets out how to specify seasonal and fresh food. This approach can create opportunities for small and local producers to do business with the public sector.

Industrial Wastes: Recycling

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what proportion of business waste was recycled by each local authority in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [190529]

Joan Ruddock: DEFRA does not hold data on the proportion of business waste recycled by individual local authorities.

The most recent survey on industrial and commercial waste was carried out in 2002-03 by the Environment Agency. Information was collected from approximately 4,500 businesses and included the type, quantity and form of the waste, as well as the disposal or recovery method used. Data collection was limited to controlled waste and related to England only. The information is available, broken down by region, from the Environment Agency's website.

Marine and Fisheries Agency: Finance

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs for what reasons he decided to reduce the budget for the Marine and Fisheries Agency from 2007-08 to 2008-09; and if he will make a statement. [190461]

Jonathan Shaw: The operational budget has not been reduced. The Marine and Fisheries Agency initial budget for 2008-09 is based on 2007-08 operational responsibilities. Additional resources for any other activities that the MFA may be asked to undertake in 2008-09 will be provided accordingly.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will place in the Library copies of correspondence between his Department and the Marine and Fisheries Agency on the setting of the agency's budget for 2008-09; and if he will make a statement. [190462]

Jonathan Shaw: Information about the Marine and Fisheries Agency's resources, budget, priorities and activities is set out in their business plan for 2008-09, copies of which I will arrange to be placed in the Library of the House.

However, I do not plan to place in the Library, copies of correspondence between DEFRA and the Marine and Fisheries Agency on the setting of the Agency's budget for 2008-09. It would not be conducive to setting a responsible and balanced budget for the Department and its delivery bodies, and would be to the detriment of public service provision.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what grant in aid he plans to provide to the Marine and Fisheries Agency in each of the next five years; and if he will make a statement. [190463]

Jonathan Shaw: As an Executive Agency, the Marine and Fisheries Agency receives an allocation from DEFRA not grant in aid.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he informed the Marine and Fisheries Agency of its budget for 2008-09; and if he will make a statement. [190464]

Jonathan Shaw: The MFA received formal confirmation of its initial allocation shortly before the public announcement in DEFRA's press release of 21 February 2008.

Mauve Stingers

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps he is taking to protect fisheries and the UK aquaculture sector from mauve stingers; and if he will make a statement. [188415]

Jonathan Shaw: Last year, the mauve stinger jellyfish Pelagia nocticula engulfed the cages of a private company's sites in Glenarm Bay and Red Bay, Northern Ireland. Some 260,000 salmon were destroyed.

Jellyfish blooms are not rare, although there is little science on Pelagia nocticula, an oceanic species widely distributed in warm and temperate waters. Losses through jellyfish on this scale are not unknown in the industry and there are current reports of similar incidents in both the Republic of Ireland and Scotland.

Aquaculturists on marine sites have to recognise that they are operating in a highly mobile environment and that it is impossible to protect their operations against every conceivable risk of invasion by unwanted species. I see no case for Government assuming this risk.

Nature Conservation: EU Action

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether he plans to propose conservation measures under Article 9 of Council Regulation 2371/2002; and if he will make a statement. [190468]

Jonathan Shaw: I have no plans to do so at present.

Noise

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he plans to publish a combined national noise strategy for England covering ambient and neighbourhood noise. [191599]

Jonathan Shaw: The Government plan to publish for consultation, a combined National Noise Strategy for England, covering ambient and neighbourhood noise, later this year.

Rural Areas: Housing

Mr. Binley: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when a decision is expected to be announced by the Housing Corporation on the proposed Rural Housing Challenge Fund. [189834]

Jonathan Shaw: As part of our preparations for the comprehensive spending review (CSR) during the summer of 2007, DEFRA asked the Housing Corporation to provide advice on the feasibility of a potential revenue funding programme to support activity to improve the delivery of affordable rural housing at local level. We always made it clear that this would be considered in the light of the CSR settlement.

That advice has now been carefully considered. However, given the Government's undertaking on increases in housing supply generally—which will benefit rural as well as urban areas—we have concluded that the value of a small challenge fund would not be enough to merit a switching of resources away from other priority areas of DEFRA's business.

The Government have already set out proposals to increase the supply of housing and will be allocating £8.4 billion across the regions over the next three years. The Housing Corporation will be tasked with spending this money most effectively. The Government's long-term housing supply and affordability public service agreement (PSA) target specifically covers rural as well as urban affordability.

In addition, the Housing Green Paper sets out the Government's intention to establish a national target for rural affordable housing. The Department for Communities and Local Government (CLG) is in the process of developing this target, based on advice from the Regional Assemblies and the Housing Corporation. It is much more important to ensure that these measures work for rural areas, rather than to focus attention on small packets of funding from DEFRA.

Together with CLG, we remain committed to addressing the affordable rural housing problem. At a national level, the policies and funding to deliver are largely in place, but we want to ensure that they feed through into delivery. That is why my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister has asked the hon. Member for Truro and St. Austell (Matthew Taylor) to carry out a review to find out how land use and planning can better support business and deliver affordable housing in rural areas. The hon. member will report to both DEFRA and CLG in the summer.

Sea Fishing

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he expects to introduce inshore netting restrictions for the UK's recreational sea fisheries. [189946]

Jonathan Shaw: Last year I announced a review of bass nursery areas and inshore netting restrictions, for the benefit of both inshore recreational and commercial fishing. The next step will be to engage with stakeholders to agree how and when to take forward this work collaboratively this year. I am also currently consulting on a draft recreational sea angling strategy which considers a package of measures for the development of recreational sea fishing. The consultation closes on 31 March.

Seals

Stephen Hesford: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the size of the UK seal population is; and what assessment he has made of risks to that population. [191283]

Jonathan Shaw: Seal conservation is a devolved issue. The most recent estimates of seal populations in Great Britain are between 50,000 and 60,000 for common seals and between 107,000 and 171,000 for grey seals. Of these, 85 per cent. of common seals and 90 per cent. of grey seals occur in Scotland.

The most significant threat to the common seal population was posed by the outbreaks of Phocine Distemper Virus (PDV) in 1988 and 2002. This greatly reduced the common seal population on the east coast of England.

Under the Conservation of Seals Act 1970, the Natural Environment Research Council has a duty to provide the Government with scientific advice on matters related to the management of seal populations. Such advice is provided annually and the latest report, for 2007, can be found on the Sea Mammals Research Unit website.

Seas and Oceans: EU Action

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions he and his predecessors had with the Foreign and Commonwealth Office on the likely impact of the (a) proposed European Constitution and (b) Lisbon Treaty on (i) fisheries, (ii) the marine environment and (iii) marine biological resources; and if he will make a statement. [190469]

Jonathan Shaw: Since the new provisions are designed only to confirm existing Community powers as they relate to the common fisheries policy, I have not seen the need to undertake any substantive discussions with colleagues in other Government Departments. Experience in areas already subject to co-decision has shown that proposals can be improved. The additional scrutiny and debate in the European Parliament will offer new opportunities for the UK and other member states to secure better regulation. We have a lot of experience of dealing with the European Parliament and we will certainly draw on this—and our good reputation—when it comes to engaging with them on fisheries. But this will not apply to all aspects of the CFP, in particular the setting of annual catch limits, which will continue to remain the exclusive preserve of the Commission and member states acting in concert.

Sewers

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what work is being undertaken to map the underground water drainage network. [190415]

Mr. Woolas: The 10 water and sewerage companies in England and Wales have a statutory duty to keep records of the location of every public sewer, lateral drain or disposal main which is vested in them. They must also keep a record of the location of those that are subject to a declaration of vesting and those where an agreement to make such a declaration has been made.

There is no requirement to keep, and no comprehensive record exists of, the location of private sewers or drains. In March 2007, the Government published a Regulatory Impact Assessment (RIA) to accompany the announcement of its decision to proceed with the transfer of private sewers and drains in England and Wales into the ownership of the water and sewerage companies. The RIA recorded that the unpublished 2002 UK Water Industry Research report, 'The Real Cost of Taking Over Private Sewers and Drains', estimated that a mapping exercise for private sewers would cost £118 million.

Paddy Tipping: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many responses he received to his consultation on the adoption of private sewers; if he will publish summaries of those responses; and what steps he now plans to take. [191408]

Mr. Woolas: A total of 119 individual responses to the consultation were received. In addition, 68 letters were received from franchisees in support of a national drainage contractor's response and 26 identical letters in support of one from a residents' spokesperson.

I will ask officials to inform the hon. Member when the full breakdown of responses has been made available on the DEFRA website.

DEFRA officials are currently working with a stakeholder steering group on the practical aspects of implementation. This is necessary before preparing any draft regulations which would put transfer in place. The Government will consult on these regulations before presenting them to Parliament for approval.

Sustainable Development: Products

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps his Department is taking to ensure that the energy- using products framework directive does not distor the market for such products. [190106]

Joan Ruddock: The Government's Market Transformation Programme is currently assessing the full range of possible impacts of implementation of the energy-using products directive, based on the Commission's current proposals.

DEFRA officials have invited key stakeholders, including members of the boiler and water heater industry, to discuss implementation of the energy-using products directive and raise any concerns on implications for the UK. The Commission is currently analysing responses from the industry and the alternative proposals it has put forward.

DEFRA officials have also attended meetings with the European Trade Associations in order to learn more about the issues the boiler and heating industry face across Europe.

Waste Disposal: Small Businesses

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the proportion of the total waste stream attributable to small and medium-sized enterprises in each of the last three years; and if he will make a statement. [191241]

Joan Ruddock [holding answer 3 March 2008]: DEFRA does not hold data on the proportion of the waste stream attributable to small and medium-sized enterprises.

The most recent survey on industrial and commercial waste was carried out in 2002-03 by the Environment Agency. Information was collected from approximately 4,500 businesses and included the type, quantity and form of the waste, as well as the disposal or recovery method used. Data collection was limited to controlled waste and related to England only. Results for commercial waste from this survey show an estimated total tonnage of nearly 68 million tonnes. An unpublished analysis of the size of enterprise shows that, where employee size was known, around 15 per cent. of commercial waste was produced by those with fewer than 10 employees and around 37 per cent. was produced by enterprises with 10 or more, but fewer than 100 employees.

Further information is available, broken down by region, from the Environment Agency's website.

White Fish: Conservation

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will introduce measures to protect spawning bass. [189947]

Jonathan Shaw: Scientific advice from the International Council for the Exploration of the Sea in 2004, and subsequent advice to DEFRA from the Centre for Environment, Fisheries and Aquaculture Science, suggests that the bass stock is fished sustainably. I currently have no plans to introduce measures to protect spawning congregations of bass. However, with a view to providing additional protection for stocks of bass, I announced last year a review of bass nursery areas and inshore netting restrictions.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Antisocial Behaviour: Shopping Centres

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps the Government has taken to tackle antisocial behaviour in shopping precincts since 1997. [190535]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 29 February 2008]: While we have not taken any specific steps to tackle antisocial behaviour in shopping precincts, we have provided practitioners with a toolkit to tackle antisocial behaviour, which they operate according to local priorities, and a practitioner website and advice line. The case studies and advice provided help tackle antisocial behaviour in a number of settings, including shopping precincts.

Asylum

Mr. Brazier: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many failed asylum seekers were removed from the UK (a) in total and (b) at port in each of the last five years. [178728]

Mr. Byrne [holding answer 4 February 2008]: Published figures are available in "Control of Immigration: Statistics United Kingdom".

Copies of this publication and others relating to immigration to the UK are available from the Library of the House and from the Home Office research, development and statistics directorate website at:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/immigration1.html

CCTV

Mark Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the number of closed circuit television cameras in each region of England and Wales. [189675]

Mr. Coaker: No data on the number of CCTV cameras operating on a local or on a national level is centrally held by the Home Office.

Crime

Mr. Milburn: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what change there has been in (a) crime and (b) detection rates in (i) each category of offence and (ii) overall in each basic command unit in the last (A) year and (B) five years for which figures are available. [186312]

Mr. Coaker: The available information is given in the tables placed in the House Library. Data from 2002-03 has been used in the calculations rather than using data from five years ago (i.e. 2001-02). This is because data for 2001-02 is not directly comparable with that for later years.

Some forces have re-structured their basic command units which has resulted in many comparisons not being possible.

It should be noted that non-sanction detections that contribute to the percentage change in detection rates have fallen in recent years reflecting a significant shift by many police forces away from recording detections of crime where no further action is taken. For this reason overall detections rates over time are not fully comparable. From 1 April 2007 the rules governing recording of non-sanction detections were revised to reduce the scope within which they can be claimed to a very limited set of circumstances.

Crime Prevention: Schools

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps the Government plans to take to tackle criminal activities at or near school entrances in Coventry. [180718]

Mr. Coaker: The Government are committed to improving the life chances of children and young people, by having fewer young people affected by crime and reduce youth victimisation.

There is already a great deal of work going on across Government to tackle offenders and help vulnerable young people achieve the Every Child Matters outcome to 'Stay Safe'. Initiatives include Safer School Partnerships, Youth Inclusion Support Panels and the Youth Inclusion Programme and since 2004, we have invested over £45 million in youth offending teams which have pioneered antisocial behaviour prevention activities for young people at most risk.

Safer Schools Partnerships (SSPs) were launched in 2002 in England and Wales and they help tackle criminal activity at or near school entrances. SSPs are a successful mechanism for ensuring joint working between schools and police, to identify and support children and young people regarded as being at high risk of victimisation, offending and social exclusion. There are now about 500 SSPs of one form or another. Evaluations have shown that they are proving effective in improving behaviour and attendance, developing strong and positive relationships between the police and young people, and to help young people develop a sense of being part of the local community.

Reports from front-line staff suggest that the introduction of school-based officers under SSP have gone some way to improve the overall safety of the schools in Coventry and the wider community. One school has suggested that crime fell between 70-80 per cent. since the introduction of these measures.

There is also a local scheme (Operation Rhyme) encouraging schools to stagger the end of school days in an effort to minimise potential problems between pupils. The school entrances are patrolled by uniformed police officers with the assistance of police community support officers.

The use of metal search archways and the use of a police dog have also been used as a deterrent in some Coventry schools. This has been at the consent of the schools involved as well as the pupils and parents. Local police officers involved in the scheme say it has lead to a greater well-being and safer school environment.

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps her Department has taken to work with schools to reduce crime on school premises since 1997. [180719]

Mr. Coaker: The main initiative to tackle crime on school premises in the last 10 years has been the Safer School Partnerships (SSPs).

SSPs are a successful mechanism for ensuring structured joint working between schools and police. Evaluations have shown they are proving effective in improving behaviour and attendance, with truancy falling significantly and pupils and staff feeling much safer. Originally launched in areas targeted by the Street Crime Initiative in 2002, there are now over 500 SSPs in one form or another across the country.

Because of the proven success of SSPs, the Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF) has been working closely with the Home Office, the Association of Chief Police Officers (ACPO) and the Youth Justice Board (YJB) to encourage more schools and police to engage in this type of early intervention and preventative work which is so vital to achieving the outcomes we are all committed to.

DCSF also announced, in October 2006, that schools had a power randomly to screen pupils using metal detectors in arches or hand-held wands. The use of screening arches in schools and other places was introduced in May 2007 by the Government and brought in force a new power for schools to search without consent, pupils suspected of carrying a weapon.

The great majority of schools don't have a problem with knife crime. Nevertheless, in a very small number of schools it may be necessary, at the discretion of the school and working with the police, to search pupils. The Government introduced in May last year new measures to enable the searching of weapons by teaching staff to ensure schools continue to be safe and secure places to learn. The use of search arches—in schools and other places—is currently being considered by the Government as part of a range of measures to tackle knife crime, which will be featured in the Violent Crime Action Plan to be published in February.

The Government have also launched various wider initiatives which contribute to reducing crime in schools.

Since 2004, it has invested over £45 million in youth crime prevention funding to youth offending teams which have pioneered crime prevention activities for young people at most risk. Their work includes:

Youth Inclusion Support Panels; and Youth Inclusion Programmes.

The Home Office has invested in other prevention programmes such as Positive Futures. Around 22,000 young people are currently involved in Positive Futures projects nationwide.

Crimes of Violence: Crime Prevention

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps the Government is taking to reduce the incidence of (a) knife crime, (b) gun crime and (c) violent crime. [187447]

Mr. Coaker: On 18 February 2008, the Home Office published 'Saving Lives. Reducing Harm. Protecting the Public. An Action Plan for Tackling Violence 2008-11'. This sets out cross-Government work to reduce the most serious violent and sexual offences, and to ensure an effective and efficient response by the Criminal Justice System in bringing offenders to justice where they do occur. It includes actions to reduce knife crime, in particular involving young people, gun crime and gang-related violence.

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps the Government has taken to reduce violent crime since 1997. [188410]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 22 February 2008]: The Government have undertaken a wide-ranging programme to tackle violent crime which has resulted in a reduction of 31 per cent. since 1997.

For example, through the Tackling Violent Crime Programme, the Home Office has been working intensively with practitioners in a small number of local areas with high levels of more serious violent crime, to support their efforts to reduce alcohol-related crime and domestic violence, to improve police and other agencies' performance and partnership working, and to improve local strategies. The Tackling Gangs Action Programme is also working in four cities (London, Liverpool, Manchester, and Birmingham) to tackle gangs and associated issues, in particular firearms.

As a further example, in the context of domestic violence, we have developed the Multi-Agency Risk Assessment Conference (MARAC) process, whereby a range of agencies work together to share information about known domestic violence victims and develop co-ordinated multi-agency action plans to reduce the risk of repeat victimisation. In Cardiff, an independent evaluation has shown that MARACs there have cut repeat victimisation from over 30 per cent. to below 10 per cent.

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what resources have been committed to the delivery of the Action Plan for Tackling Violence 2008-11. [188824]

Mr. Coaker: Tackling violence is core business for the police and other agencies. In 2007-08, the Home Office has made over £7.5 billion available for spending on policing, crime reduction, antisocial behaviour and drug misuse in England and Wales.

In addition to this core funding, some extra resources will be committed to the delivery of the Tackling Violence Action Plan. Funding details have not been finalised, but will include a new £1 million campaign to challenge the 'glamour', fear and peer pressure that can drive youngsters to knife crime. More than £20 million will be made available over the next three years to support the rollout of multi-agency interventions and information sharing, involving local police, council and health workers across the country to manage and identify people at risk of committing serious violence as well as providing support for victims. We will also be providing resources for other actions in the plan.

Crimes of Violence: Football

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what steps the Government have taken to reduce football-related violence; [180973]

(2) what steps the Government have taken to prevent football spectators bringing weapons to matches. [180974]

Mr. Coaker: Significant violence at football matches is now extremely rare. The multi-agency football disorder strategy introduced after Euro 2000 has been highly successful in reducing levels of English and Welsh football violence both at home and abroad. Arrests for offences of football violence, both inside and away from grounds, have decreased by 46 per cent. over the past three seasons and are now the lowest on record. Last season around 39 million spectators attended football matches involving English and Welsh club and international teams and on average there was just one arrest in connection with each match. The arrests were for a wide variety of football-related offences committed inside and away from grounds and included a total of 41 arrests for possession of an offensive weapon. In view of the reduced risk of violence or disorder, and on the basis of a police risk assessment in respect of each match, 43 per cent. of all League and Cup matches in the 2006-07 season were played with no police in attendance.

The success of the Home Office co-ordinated strategy is a result of a number of factors, including tough but proportionate football banning order legislation, intelligence-led policing operations, integrated in-stadia safety and security arrangements and the dedication and commitment of all parties, including the fans. There is no complacency. Preventing and tackling the lingering, if much reduced, threat of football violence will continue to be treated as a high priority.

Debt Collection: Regulation

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps she has taken to bring the regulation of private bailiffs within the purview of the Security Industry Authority; and if she will make a statement. [187007]

Mr. Coaker: The Ministry of Justice will publish on its website in March the analysis of responses to their consultation paper, "Regulation of Enforcement Agents". This recommends regulation of enforcement agents by the SIA. The Home Office has started work, with the Ministry of Justice, to draft an affirmative order which will amend Schedule 2 of the Private Security Industry Act 2001 to extend the remit of the SIA to licence enforcement agents. We aim for this to be laid before Parliament later this year, with a common commencement date in 2009. Further details about the timescale will be in the Final Impact Assessment, which the Ministry of Justice will publish later in the year.

Departmental Manpower

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) men and (b) women of each civil service grade are employed by her Department. [172738]

Mr. Byrne: The number of staff (FTE) employed by Home Office broken down by grade and gender as at 30 September 2007 is as follows.

| Grade | Women | Men | Total |
|---|---|---|---|
| Home Office HQ | | | |

Domestic Violence

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what percentage of reported domestic violence incidents resulted in (a) caution, (b) arrest and (c) charge in each police authority area in each of the last five years. [184760]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office collects data on the proportion of domestic violence incidents that result in an arrest. However, we do not require police forces routinely to flag cautions or charges as domestic violence related. This is due to arrests as a proportion of domestic violence incidences being included in the 2007-08 Police Performance Assessment Framework. This is also being proposed for the 2008-09 Assessment of Policing and Community Safety Performance Framework.

Domestic violence related arrests by police authority area are published on the Home Office website and can be found at the following link:

http://police.homeoffice.gov.uk/performance

The published data are for 2005-06 and 2006-07, the two years the Home Office has been collecting this data.

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) convicted and (b) arrested domestic violence perpetrators had previous convictions for violence in the last five years. [188268]

Mr. Coaker: This information is not collected centrally. However, the new cross-Government Tackling Violence Action Plan, published on 18 February 2008, includes action to strengthen the arrangements for managing those individuals, including domestic violence perpetrators, who are identified as being at risk of committing serious violence. We are currently in the process of establishing what data are needed to monitor this action effectively.

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she intends to implement section 12 of the Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004. [188271]

Mr. Coaker: Section 12 of the Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004 will enable courts to impose restraining orders on those convicted of any offence, and also on those who are acquitted for any offence. This will mean that restraining orders will be available in a much wider range of cases.

We are currently working with the Ministry of Justice on the resource implications of this provision. When we have resolved this issue, we will be in a position to agree timetable for the implementation of this section of the Act.

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department in how many non-molestation order cases perpetrators have been (a) held on remand, (b) bailed and (c) bailed without notice. [188272]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office does not routinely collect these data from the police.

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much has been allocated to dedicated domestic violence courts for (a) 2007-08, (b) 2008-09 and (c) 2009-10. [188302]

Mr. Coaker: In 2007-08, funding was allocated to independent domestic violence adviser (IDVAs) services and to implement multi-agency risk assessment conferences (MARACs) within specialist domestic violence court (SDVC) areas. Further IDVA funding was accessed in 2007-08 by areas wishing to develop an SDVC. This funding totalled £3 million for IDVAs and £1.85 million for MARAC administration.

Funding decisions for future years will be dependent on the number of SDVCs selected in this current selection round and in future selection rounds.

Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what monitoring she has undertaken of the implementation of the Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004; and if she will make a statement. [184754]

Mr. Coaker: The Ministry of Justice/Her Majesty's Courts Service have commissioned an evaluation of the impact of the most recently implemented provision in the Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004—section 1, which made breach of a non-molestation order a criminal offence. An evaluation report is due shortly.

Earlier provisions commenced in 2005—for example, extending to members of same sex couples the right to apply for a protective civil injunction against domestic violence from a partner—now form part of standard business. Her Majesty's Court Service monitors trends in applications and orders through the family court IT system.

Domestic Violence: Homicide

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she intends to use the power in the Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004 to direct the establishment of domestic homicide reviews. [188813]

Mr. Coaker: Following a public consultation exercise in 2006 on the draft guidance for establishing and conducting domestic homicide reviews under section 9 of the Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004, issues around the potential impact of this provision on local authorities were raised.

We are currently working with colleagues in Communities and Local Government (CLG) on the resource implications of implementing this provision, and hope to be in a position to commence this section shortly.

Drugs: Research

Mr. Burrowes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the purpose is of the research into illegal drug markets by the Research, Development and Statistics Directorate of her Department; and if she will make a statement. [188498]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 22 February 2008]: The 2002 update to the UK's Drug Strategy highlighted knowledge gaps in relation to the dynamics of the illegal drug markets. In particular, there was a dearth of evidence on the supply chain from importation to street-level sale; the routes and methods used to supply the market; and, the way in which interventions affected the key players in the supply chain.

By interviewing a sample of convicted drug traffickers and dealers, the study commissioned by the Research, Development and Statistics Directorate (RDS) aimed to fill this gap in the knowledge base and provide us with a crucial insight into the dynamics of the drug market.

The findings from the research, which have been published, includes information on how dealers and traffickers enter the market, how they run their enterprises and how they respond to the risks they perceive. The findings are very useful for the further development of policy and practice to disrupt the supply of illegal drugs.

Forced Marriage

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what guidance (a) her Department, (b) other departments and (c) other agencies issue on forced marriage; and how her Department monitors compliance with that guidance. [186896]

Mr. Coaker: The Forced Marriage Unit has produced guidelines on tackling forced marriage for police, social services, health and education practitioners. The Unit is currently reissuing guidelines for social workers in two versions, one for those working with vulnerable adults and another for those working with young people.

The Forced Marriage (Civil Protection) Act, which received Royal Assent in July 2007, makes provision for these guidelines to be reissued on a statutory basis.

Forced marriage is addressed as an issue in the cross-Government Tackling Violence Action Plan, published on 18 February 2008. The Ministerial Action Group responsible for implementing the Plan will ensure that the guidelines are adhered to.

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps her Department is taking to tackle forced marriages in England; and if she will make a statement. [187218]

Mr. Coaker: The Forced Marriage Unit was set up by the Home Office and the Foreign and Commonwealth Office in 2005. The unit contributes to Government policy on forced marriage, and its actions, which include the co-ordination of an outreach programme to raise awareness of the problem of forced marriage, and a dedicated support and advice helpline for victims, form part of the National Domestic Violence Delivery Plan.

In 2007 the unit assisted approximately 400 victims of forced marriage and also contributed to the passage of the Forced Marriage (Civil Protection) Act 2007 through Parliament.

The unit has issued guidelines for professionals (police, education professionals, health and social workers) on dealing with cases of forced marriage. When implemented, the Forced Marriage (Civil Protection) Act 2007 will place these guidelines on a statutory footing.

Over the coming months we will be working closely with the Association of Chief Police Officers to develop an action plan for honour based violence.

We will also be running a series of regional seminars on honour based violence and forced marriage starting in the spring. The aim of these seminars will be to raise awareness in local communities and to stimulate decisive action to protect victims and potential victims. It is envisaged that this will also be the start of a continuing dialogue with communities.

This work will be embedded in the next three years through the Tackling Violence Action Plan which will seek to reduce all homicides and serious violence including honour-related killings.

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what requirements exist for agencies to carry out multi-agency risk assessments in cases of suspected forced marriages. [188919]

Mr. Coaker: Guidance issued by the Forced Marriage Unit to the police, social services, health and education professionals covers risk factors which may indicate that a person is being forced into marriage. The guidance recommends the use of the Government's 'Framework for the Assessment of Children in Need and their Families' to establish the level of risk.

Other risk assessment tools have been developed in relation to domestic violence, the definition of which includes forced marriage, and local Multi-Agency Risk Assessment Conferences are starting to receive referrals which involve forced marriage, as local agencies become more aware of forced marriage as an issue.

Forced Marriage: Victim Support Schemes

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what accredited training is available to agencies working with victims of (a) forced marriage and (b) attempted honour killings. [188920]

Mr. Coaker: A wide range of people deal with the issue of forced marriage, including teachers, social workers, youth workers and health professionals. It is recognised that specialist training is required to provide these professionals with the skills needed to identify and manage cases of forced marriage. Staff from these professions receive training in accordance with their professional training bodies. In-house training is provided to Forced Marriage Unit (FMU) staff and overseas staff in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office to prepare them for working with victims of forced marriage. The FMU also provides briefing sessions to other agencies that deal with forced marriage.

The Home Office provides funds for Independent Domestic Violence Advisers to receive accredited training from the Coordinated Action Against Domestic Abuse, which covers the issues of forced marriage and honour-based violence.

Homicide: Females

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will hold discussions with Muslim community leaders on advice to women who are in fear of honour killings. [188686]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 26 February 2008]: As part of the National Domestic Violence Delivery Plan we will be running a series of regional seminars on honour based violence and forced marriage starting in the spring.

The aim of these seminars will be to raise awareness in local communities and stimulate decisive action to protect victims and potential victims. It is envisaged that this will also be the start of a continuing dialogue with communities.

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps her Department is taking to tackle honour killings; and if she will make a statement. [187217]

Mr. Coaker: In March 2005 we developed our National Domestic Violence Delivery Plan. This focuses on five key outcomes:

to reduce the number of domestic violence homicides;

to reduce the prevalence of domestic violence;

to increase the rate that domestic violence is reported; to increase the proportion of domestic violence offences that are brought to justice; and to ensure that victims of domestic violence are adequately protected and supported.

As part of this Delivery Plan, specific action has been taken to address honour based violence and forced marriage. Over the coming months we will be working closely with the Association of Chief Police Officers to develop an action plan for honour based violence.

We will also be running a series of regional seminars on honour based violence and forced marriage starting in the spring. The aim of these seminars will be to raise awareness in local communities and to stimulate decisive action to protect victims and potential victims. It is envisaged that this will also be the start of a continuing dialogue with communities.

This work will be embedded in the next three years through the Tackling Violence Action Plan which will seek to reduce all homicides and serious violence including honour-related killings.

Human Trafficking

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people were (a) arrested and (b) convicted for human trafficking offences in (i) Cambridgeshire, (ii) Peterborough and (iii) the UK in each of the last five years. [187137]

Mr. Coaker: The Sexual Offences Act 2003 came into force on 1 May 2004. 232 arrests have been made for human trafficking offences with 134 being charged with trafficking and trafficking related offences. Conviction figures under dedicated trafficking legislation for the United Kingdom are as follows:

| | Number of convictions |
|---|---|
| 2004 | 3 |
| 2005 | 21 |
| 2006 | 30 |
| 2007 | 17 |

There have been six arrests in Cambridgeshire all of which took place in 2007-08 all of which are being processed through the criminal justice system.

There are no figures available in relation to the number of arrests in Peterborough specifically.

Illegal Immigrants

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many and what proportion of illegal immigrants removed from the United Kingdom were removed having not passed immigration control. [178663]

Mr. Byrne: No Government has ever been able to produce an accurate figure for the number of people who are in the country illegally, particularly since the phase out of exit controls in 1994.

Internet: Children

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps she has taken to encourage internet service providers to reduce children's access to harmful internet content. [190226]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Secretary's Taskforce on Online Child Protection brings together Government, law enforcement, children's agencies and the internet industry to work together to ensure that children can use the internet in safety. It has the aims of making the UK the best and safest place in the world for children to use the internet.

There are excellent working relationships with the internet industry, and they have developed strong working practices and guidelines relating to services they offer and content they host. Where a UK ISP is advised—usually by law enforcement—that they are hosting material, which is illegal, they have an excellent record in removing it.

In September 2007, the Prime Minister announced a review into the risk to children of exposure to harmful or inappropriate content in video games and online. The review will also assess the effectiveness and adequacy of existing measures to help prevent children from being exposed to such material and help parents understand and manage the risks of access to inappropriate content.

Dr. Tanya Byron is conducting this review and will report to Ministers in March 2008. The Home Office looks forward to hearing the recommendations.

Internet: Crime

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment she has made of levels of e-crime (a) in the last year and (b) over the last five years. [188866]

Mr. Coaker: The Government prosecute all crimes based on illegal actions and not the medium used. As such, all legislation criminalises offences regardless of whether they were committed on or off line and so there are no estimated levels of e-crime as a whole.

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what mechanisms exist for the reporting of e-crime to law enforcement authorities. [188916]

Mr. Coaker: The Government take the view that the UK should prosecute criminal acts based on the offence committed and not the medium used. Therefore crimes committed using the internet should be reported in the same way as crimes committed offline; to the police.

Where credit or debit card fraud is involved, the cardholder should report the matter directly to their bank or card company. It is then for the bank or card company to verify the crime and report it to the police. This applies to card fraud committed online as well as offline.

The Government have allocated £28 million over three years to implement the recommendations of the fraud review. This includes the creation of a National Fraud Reporting Centre (NFRC) which will cover online fraud.

Both the Child Exploitation Online Protection Centre (CEOP) and the Internet Watch Foundation (IWF) have reporting mechanisms aimed at members of the public to report instances of child abuse or websites containing child abuse images.

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what discussions she has had with internet search providers on tackling the use of search engines to provide (a) illegal and (b) harmful internet content. [190225]

Mr. Coaker: In December 2005, the Home Office Task Force on the Protection of Children on the Internet published the "Good Practice guide for search providers and advice to the public on how to search safely". This document was produced in conjunction with representatives from the search provider industry and other UK experts, and is aimed at the public and at companies who provide search across all platforms. It provides a model of good practice to search providers and gives advice to help the public, especially parents and carers, make good use of search engines and reduce the risk of being exposed to unwanted and unsuitable results.

Furthermore, the major search provider companies work closely and effectively with UK self-regulatory body, the Internet Watch Foundation (IWF), to promote online safety. The IWF provides a dynamic list of child sexual abuse websites to search providers which enables them to better manage the quality of search returns, blocking those that feature on the child sexual abuse list, to help protect internet users.

The IWF is also in a position to provide intelligence around the number and nature of search returns regarding potentially illegal and potentially inappropriate online content. It has provided this intelligence recently, for example, to the Government's consultation on Extreme Pornography legislation, the Byron Review and the DCMS Select Committee Review regarding online content such as adult pornography, child sexual abuse 'cartoons', and mutilation, bestiality and necrophilia websites.

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps she plans to take to ratify the Cybercrime Convention; and when she expects ratification to take place. [190341]

Mr. Coaker: The Government fully supports the Cybercrime Convention and detailed work will begin on its ratification in April 2008.

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the average length of time taken was between discovery and removal by internet service providers of (a) illegal and (b) fraudulent content on the internet in each of the last three years. [189340]

Mr. Coaker: On the rare occasion child sexual abuse content reported to the Internet Watch Foundation is found to be hosted in the UK, the organisation's successful self-regulatory partnership with the online industry means it is removed expeditiously; typically within a matter of hours. It is worth noting that in 1997 18 per cent. of child sexual abuse content was found to be hosted in the UK and that this figure has been less than 1 per cent. since 2003 because of the work of the IWF with the online sector and the success of their universal notice and take-down initiative ensuring any such abuse of UK online services is dealt with swiftly and effectively.

As regards incitement to racial hatred and criminally obscene content, there have been no instances of UK hosted incitement to racial hatred content between 2005 and 2007 and just two instances of UK hosted criminally obscene content in the same period which were removed.

In relation to fraudulent websites, ISPs are required to shut down these sites within a reasonable amount of time once they have been informed about its existence by law enforcement under the e commerce directive. The directive offers ISPs protection from liability for hosting, transmitting or caching illegal material of which they have no knowledge (this would include fraudulent content). Once the material is brought to the attention of the ISP (by law enforcement), they lose their protection unless they take the material off their site as quickly as possible. There are excellent working relationships between the internet industry and law enforcement, and they have developed strong working practices and guidelines relating to services they offer and content they host. The internet industry has an excellent record in removing websites operating illegally.

The Government do not hold information on the time taken to remove these sites.

Internet: Regulation

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what Acts passed in the last 10 years for which her Department is responsible contained provisions regulating the internet. [188829]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office manages the Computer Misuse Act 1990 which covers crimes committed against computer systems. We do not regulate the internet or computer systems as such.

Internet: Standards

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when her Department first asked the British Standards Institution to produce a kite mark for internet filters. [188835]

Mr. Coaker: The BSI kitemark project arose from the Home Secretary's taskforce on Online Child Protection and is a joint Home Office and Ofcom initiative. The British Standards Institution (BSI) was first approached in October 2004 to produce publicly available specification for rating filtering and monitoring software.

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she expects the good practice guidance for social networking and user interactive services to be published; and what discussions she has had with the multi-stakeholder project group working on this. [190224]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office is actively considering dates, this will be confirmed in the near future.

The project group has had active support from Home Office Ministers throughout its development.

Internet: Young People

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what support her Department has provided to Safer Internet Day in each of the last five years. [188878]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office fully supports the work of Safer Internet Day, part of the EU's Safer Internet Plus programme. Since the creation of the child exploitation online protection centre (CEOP), they have co-ordinated awareness raising among children and parents on staying safe online. CEOP is UK awareness node for the EU's Safer Internet Plus programme.

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when a reply will be sent to the hon. Member for West Chelmsford's letter of 7 January 2008 (acknowledgement reference: HO: M453/8) concerning his constituent Mr. S. Stratton. [187495]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 21 February 2008]: The issues that were raised in the letter related to operational matters that are solely the responsibility of the Security Industry Authority (SIA). The original correspondence (ref M453/8) was passed to the SIA and I understand that they wrote to the hon. Member about Mr. Stratton's application on 20 February.

Offensive Weapons

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many people under the age of 18 years were arrested for carrying a (a) knife and (b) firearm in (i) England and Wales, (ii) the north east, (iii) the Tees Valley and (iv) Middlesbrough, South and East Cleveland in each of the last 10 years; [185285]

(2) how many school pupils were arrested for taking a weapon into school in (a) England and Wales, (b) the north east, (c) Tees Valley district and (d) Middlesbrough, South and East Cleveland constituency in each of the last five years. [185508]

Mr. Coaker: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Offensive Weapons: Injuries

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what proportion of all reported injuries as a result of assault were inflicted by knives in the most recent period for which figures are available. [181760]

Mr. Coaker: From the information collected centrally on police recorded crime, it is not possible to identify those offences where an assault with a knife resulted in injury. The details of the circumstances of specific offences do not feature in the recorded crime statistics.

However, with effect from April 2007, police forces have been providing data on knife-enabled grievous bodily harm and robbery offences. The first full year's data for this will be available from July.

Offensive Weapons: Prosecutions

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what legislative proposals she intends to bring forward to ensure that everyone found in possession of a knife in public in a crime hot spot is prosecuted. [182757]

Mr. Coaker: The Tackling Violence Action Plan, published on 18 February, outlines the Government's efforts to tackle knife crime over the next three years.

We are currently working with the Crown Prosecution Service and the police to see how the arrangements agreed in London for the prosecution of knife possession offences might be extended more widely.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will issue guidance to the police to ensure that everyone found in possession of a knife in public in a crime hot spot is prosecuted. [182923]

Mr. Coaker: We are currently working with the Crown Prosecution Service and the police on how the arrangements agreed in London for the prosecution of knife possession offences might be extended more widely.

Organised Crime: Crime Prevention

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps the Government have taken to combat organised crime since 1997. [181577]

Mr. Coaker: Since 1997, the Government's aim has been to make the UK a more hostile environment for organised crime.

In 2002 we introduced the Proceeds of Crime Act. Since the Act came into force in 2003 we have recovered over £360 million of criminally derived assets and there has been a five-fold increase of moneys recovered annually. We have targets to recover more; doubling the annual amount to £250 million by 2010.

In 2004, we issued a White Paper "One Step Ahead - A 21st Century Strategy to Defeat Organised Crime" from which flowed the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005. This Act introduced new measures to help disrupt criminal activity and convict those responsible.

The Act also established the Serious Organised Crime Agency which became operative on 1 April 2006. It brought together the main national agencies for tackling organised crime into a single unit with the aim of reducing the harm caused to the UK by organised crime. It is already demonstrating its success as described in its annual report for 2006-07.

In October 2007 the Serious Crime Act 2007 gained Royal Assent. The Act introduced new measures to prevent and detect serious crime, including Serious Crime Prevention Orders which allow courts to impose restrictive conditions on those proved to be involved in serious crime. The Act will also merge the Asset Recovery Agency with the Serious Organised Crime Agency from 1 April 2008.

Perjury: Expenditure

Mr. MacNeil: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) in how many cases the cost of investigating alleged offences of (a) perjury and (b) attempting to pervert the course of justice has exceeded £1 million in the last five years; [190055]

(2) what estimate she has made of the cost of investigation of the most expensive case of (a) perjury and (b) attempting to pervert the course of justice in each of the last five years; and how many police officers were engaged in the investigation of each such case in each year. [190058]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 28 February 2008]: The information is not held centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Pornography: Internet

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the proportion of child abuse internet websites hosted in the United States; and what discussions she has had with the US Administration on reducing the number of such sites. [188872]

Mr. Coaker: The Internet Watch Foundation's (IWF) last published figures (Annual Report 2006) show that 54.3 per cent. of all child sexual abuse domains known to the IWF appeared to be hosted in the US, and 62 per cent. of commercial child sexual abuse domains. The IWF passes intelligence relating to US hosted child sexual abuse websites to its Hotline partner in the US (Cybertipline, part of National Centre for Missing and Exploited Children (NCMEC)) and via Child Exploitation Online Protection Centre (CEOP) and Interpol, to US law enforcement. The IWF recently hosted a visit from associates at NCMEC who were keen to learn from IWF experience. The IWF has also recently visited the US Hotline for a similar sharing exercise.

A US Congress delegation visited the UK in 2007 on a fact finding tour. This led to the publication of the Congress Report by the US House of Representatives 109th Congress following their inquiry into child sexual abuse content on the internet last year. The main references to recommended best practice and the IWF are on pages 6-8. Key issues mentioned are NCMEC and IWF sharing lists of child sexual abuse websites; the US emulating the UK/IWF blocking initiative; and pressure being put on ICANN to combat false and illegal domain names which have been selling illegal images for many years on the same website address:

CEOP also have close working relationships with US partners through the Virtual Global Taskforce.

The Home Office has had no recent discussions with the US Administration on reducing the number of websites hosting child abuse images hosted in America.

Risk Assessment: Domestic Violence

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans she has to enable multi-agency risk assessments to be on a statutory basis. [188950]

Mr. Coaker: Multi-Agency Risk Assessment Conferences (MARACs) are a recent development in services offered to victims of domestic violence.

MARACs are being rolled out incrementally to ensure that standards are maintained and monitored through the Home office funded MARAC Implementation programme provided by the charitable training agency Coordinated Action Against Domestic Abuse (CAADA). We currently have no plans to place MARACs on a statutory footing, but are keeping the situation under review.

Romford Police: Stop and Search

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many individuals were found to be carrying (a) illegal weapons and (b) illegal drugs during stop and search procedures by the police in Romford in each of the last four years. [186898]

Mr. Coaker: This information is not collected centrally. Information about stop-and-search procedures for the Essex police force area as a whole is given in the following table.

Searches by Essex police of persons or vehicles under section 1 of the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 and other legislation[1] and resultant arrests, by reason for search/arrest

Number

| | Searches made by reason for search | | | Arrests made by reason for arrest | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|

| 2005-06 | 753 | 3 | 1 |

Note:
Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the police forces. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when these data are used.

Sexual Offences: Multiple Occupation

Mr. Moss: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will take steps to counter violence and sexual assault in mixed houses when in the context of multi-occupancy housing in areas with large migrant worker populations. [188173]

Mr. Coaker: The Government have introduced the mandatory licensing of Houses in Multiple Occupation (HMOs) of three or more storeys, housing five or more persons who form two or more households. Landlords of licensable HMOs must be identified as being "fit and proper" persons.

Local housing authorities must have regard to any previous convictions relating to violence, sexual offences, drugs, fraud, housing and landlord and tenant offences, before licences can be issued. Landlords may also seek possession of a property if a tenant is in beach of their tenancy agreement, or has been guilty of unlawful conduct.

Sexual Offences: Staffordshire

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many residents in (a) Tamworth constituency and (b) Staffordshire were on the national sex offenders register at the most recent date for which figures are available. [187857]

Mr. Coaker: Data on registered sexual offenders are collated geographically by police force area and broken down to basic command unit (BCU) area. The data are published in local Multi-Agency Public Protection Arrangements (MAPPA) annual reports, which are available in the House Libraries and online at:

http://www.probation.justice.gov.uk/output/page30.asp

The Tamworth constituency is not coterminous with any BCU area, but is covered by the data relating to the Trent Valley BCU in Staffordshire.

As of 31 March 2007, there were 145 registered sex offenders in Trent Valley and 676 in Staffordshire.

Shoplifting

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps her Department is taking to reduce shoplifting. [189324]

Mr. Coaker: The Government are working in partnership with retail organisations to tackle retail crime including shoplifting. As part of this work we have set up a National Retail Crime Steering Group to provide an opportunity for discussion of retailers' crime concerns and to devise strategies to deal with these.

We have made a commitment to raise the profile of crimes against businesses, make provision for better information about them and produce guidance to support local partnerships in their efforts to tackle the crimes which affect them.

The Home Office has also provided funding to the Perpetuity Group to develop a crime reduction tool for small and medium sized retailers to design out crime in their stores and significantly reduce the opportunities for shop thieves to operate.

Shoplifting: Cleveland

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment she has made of the incidence of shoplifting in (a) the Cleveland Police Area and (b) Stockton in the latest period for which figures are available. [189323]

Mr. Coaker: It is not possible to accurately assess the incidence of shoplifting. For a variety of reasons many offences are not reported to the police and many offences do not come to the attention of the victim. The available information is contained in the Home Office recorded crime statistics.

Between 2005-06 and 2006-07, shoplifting offences recorded in Cleveland decreased by 6 per cent. from 4,924 to 4,652 offences. In 2006-07, shoplifting accounted for 7 per cent. of all crime recorded by the police in the Cleveland police force area.

Overall in 2006-07 there was a fall of 5 per cent. in total recorded crime in Cleveland. There were also significant decreases in some of the high volume crimes with theft of a motor vehicle both down 22 per cent. and domestic burglary down 15 per cent.

Between 2005-06 and 2006-07, shoplifting offences recorded in the Stockton Basic Command Unit decreased by 9 per cent. from 1,151 to 1,053 offences. In 2006-07, shoplifting accounted for 6 per cent. of all crime recorded by the police in the Stockton BCU.

Overall in 2006-07 there was a fall of 5 per cent. in total recorded crime in Stockton. There were also significant decreases in some of the high volume crimes with violence against the person and theft of a motor vehicle both down 12 per cent., theft from a vehicle down 14 per cent. and domestic burglary down 9 per cent.

Support Orders

Ann Coffey: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department with reference to the answer of 25 January 2007, Official Report, column 2029W, on support orders, when she will publish the results of the three month survey of 50 respect areas to assess the use of individual support orders. [188762]

Mr. Coaker: The results of last year's survey of 50 areas will be placed in the Library when the next set of antisocial behaviour order data, which will include national data on the use of individual support orders, is published. We expect to do so shortly.

Task Force on Child Protection

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the operating budget was of the Child Exploitation Online Protection centre in each month since its inception in 2006; and how many dedicated staff were employed by it in each year. [190815]

Mr. Coaker: The Child Exploitation Online Protection Centre (CEOP) receives an annual budget from the Home Office, which is paid through the Serious Organised Crime Agency (SOCA) to which it is affiliated. In addition to the Home Office grant, CEOP receives significant levels of support from industry and the third sector.

In 2007-08, CEOP received an annual budget (from the Home Office) of £5.657 million and an annual budget of £5.110 million in 2006-07.

At the end of CEOP's first operational year 2006-07, it had nearly 80 staff, of whom, 10 were seconded from partner agencies. The figure is now 115, of which, 24 posts are either provided free by partners or are funded externally for discrete projects.

Terrorism: Internet

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps she is taking to reduce the potential of the internet to be a tool for extremist groups. [181576]

Mr. McNulty: We are working with law enforcement and industry partners to target extremist use of the internet and where there is illegal material we are working to remove it. Under the Terrorism Act 2000/2006 this includes material that either incites or encourages terrorism. In the coming weeks we will be talking to industry, and those in the community, about what more we can do to protect communities from extremist exploitation of the internet.

Thefts: Metals

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps she is taking to reduce the incidence of metal thefts from ecclesiastical properties in Peterborough and Cambridgeshire; and if she will make a statement. [190915]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 3 March 2008]: We are working closely with a range of stakeholders, other Government Departments and the police to develop a response to tackle these crimes.

I am aware that theft of metals is a growing concern which affects business, transport, communication and ecclesiastical properties.

The Association of Chief Police Officers (ACPO) has set up a working group, chaired by the British Transport Police and with Home Office representation. The group is developing an action plan to address the problem from national co-ordination to local responses to tackle metal thieves, including an examination of the effectiveness of current legislation relating to scrap metal recycling.

A national day of action was held at the end of January. In Cambridgeshire this resulted in several arrests in addition to checks being made on scrap metal dealers.

OLYMPICS

Departmental Advertising

Tom Brake: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what percentage of her budget has been spent on advertising since its inception. [187184]

Tessa Jowell: The public sector funding package for the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games does not include any specific provision for expenditure on the promotional advertising of the Games and none of this funding has been spent on such a purpose. This is because promotional advertising of the Games is planned and co-ordinated by the London Organising Committee for the Olympic Games and Paralympic Games (LOCOG), as the body responsible for hosting and staging the Games in 2012. LOCOG's budget of £2 billion will be met almost entirely from private sources (the exception is a small contribution towards the staging of the Paralympic Games). LOCOG is, therefore, not funded from the public sector funding package.

Olympic Games 2012

Robert Neill: To ask the Minister for the Olympics which public authorities will have liabilities for operating and maintaining the facilities built for the London Olympics after 2012. [184422]

Tessa Jowell: Options are currently being developed for the long-term arrangements for ownership and management of the Olympic Park, including for the operation and maintenance of the facilities built for the London Games in 2012. Decisions are expected to be taken during 2008, in parallel with the development of the Legacy Masterplan Framework.

Olympic Games 2012: Construction

Robert Neill: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what estimate (a) her Department and (b) its agencies have made of the annual revenue costs of (i) running buildings and facilities constructed for the 2012 Olympics and (ii) associated debt repayments once the Games are over; and to which public bodies liability for these costs will fall. [184426]

Tessa Jowell: The Olympic Delivery Authority and London Development Agency are currently considering the long-term viability of each of the venues to be constructed for the London Games. Work is also being carried out to develop a fully integrated business plan for the Olympic Park as a whole, which will take into account the likely annual revenue costs for the individual venues and other facilities. This work will also help the development of the Legacy Masterplan Framework, and development of the options for the long-term arrangements for the ownership and management of the Olympic Park, decisions on which are expected to be taken during 2008.

Olympic Games 2012: Essex

Mr. Amess: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what steps her Office (a) has taken and (b) plans to ensure that local authorities in Essex share in the (i) economic, (ii) social and (iii) sporting benefits arising from the 2012 Olympic Games; what discussions her Office has had with local authorities in Essex; and if she will make a statement. [188995]

Tessa Jowell: The Government and the London Organising Committee of the Olympic Games and Paralympic Games (LOCOG) are working hard to ensure the benefits of 2012 reach across the UK and have established a Nations and Regions Group (NRG) to oversee this work chaired by Charles Allen. Additionally, the Local Government Association (which is represented on the Group) is supporting local authorities across the UK in the lead up to the Games.

Cllr Stephen Castle, who is the regional representative on NRG, chairs the Nations and Regions East (NRE) Board. This Board has representation from each of the six county areas in the East of England and each county has a 2012 working group. In Essex a Strategic Board has been set up and is supported and led by Essex County Council. The Board is chaired by Gary Sullivan, also Chair of the Thames Gateway South Essex Partnership. The Board has the full involvement and representation from both Thurrock and Southend unitary authorities and provides relevant and appropriate activity to maximise the benefits from 2012.

On 16 January, the London 2012 Business Network was launched, helping businesses across the country access and compete for 2012-related contracts. 1018 businesses from the East of England have already registered on CompeteFor—a ground breaking 'business dating agency' which goes further than previous Games in opening up the supply chain. 52 of the Olympic Delivery Authority's suppliers are Cabinet Office registered in the region.

Local authorities can also apply to be a Beacon authority on Olympic and Paralympic legacy. The Beacon scheme will help us use the 2012 Games to encourage communities to be more active. Successful applicants to the scheme will be at the forefront of delivering programmes to increase participation at a local level and championing best practise. Applications are due in June and successful authorities for 2009 will be announced early next year.

Olympics 2012 Business Opportunities Network

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what the regional publicity schedule for the Olympics 2012 Business Opportunities Network in South Wales is; what liaison has taken place with (a) the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform and (b) the Welsh Assembly Government on the promotion of the Olympics 2012 Business Opportunities Network amongst small and medium-sized enterprises in Wales; and what interest has been shown by Welsh small and medium-sized enterprises in bidding for prospective Olympics 2012 contracts. [183860]

Tessa Jowell: On 16 January the Olympic Family nationally launched the London 2012 Business Network—a new mechanism for engaging SMEs in 2012 supply chains. The onus is now on businesses to sign up and get support to bid for and win contracts.

We are now in the process of agreeing with the Welsh Assembly Government a date for a Welsh launch when London 2012 will talk face to face with Welsh businesses in partnership with BERR and the Welsh Assembly Government

London 2012 will be further engaging with businesses across the country throughout the next four years to discuss both delivery and Games time contracts.

To date 692 Welsh businesses have registered for e-alerts notifying them of forthcoming contract opportunities, which demonstrates a great enthusiasm for getting involved in 2012.

Television

Mr. Maude: To ask the Minister for the Olympics how many plasma television screens have been purchased by her office, and at what cost, in the last 24 months. [191072]

Tessa Jowell: Since my appointment as Minister for the Olympics and London in June 2007, no plasma television screens have been purchased by my office.

TREASURY

Bingo

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will visit a bingo club in Castle Point constituency to discuss the effects of bingo club closures on (a) employment and (b) Exchequer revenues; and if he will make a statement. [190422]

Angela Eagle: Treasury Ministers have no plans at present to make such a visit.

Customs Officers: Training

Mr. Amess: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many HM Revenue and Customs officers are trained in Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species-related issues; how many were trained in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [190783]

Jane Kennedy: Approximately 4,500 staff are engaged in anti smuggling duties and undertake training in Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species-related issues, as part of their mandatory training.

The following table below highlights how many staff were trained in each year, since centrally kept records were kept:

|---|---|
| 1999 | 72 |
| 2000 | 389 |
| 2001 | 438 |
| 2002 | 178 |
| 2003 | 195 |
| 2004 | 574 |
| 2005 | 172 |
| 2006 | 211 |
| 2007 | 224 |

Departmental Equality

Roger Berry: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what conclusions his Department has reached in fulfilment of the duty under section 3.111 of the statutory code of practice of the disability equality duty. [190672]

Angela Eagle: In fulfilment of the duty under section 3.111 of the statutory code of practice of the disability equality duty the Treasury will publish a report in spring 2008 when it publishes its Single Equality scheme. The Single Equality scheme will amalgamate the Treasury's three current equality schemes on (race, disability and gender).

Departmental Manpower

Jim Cousins: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what change there was in the number of employees of (a) his Department and (b) each of its agencies and public bodies in (i) 2004-05, (ii) 2005-06 and (iii) 2006-07; and what percentage of the total change was accounted for by changes in each region and county. [190818]

Angela Eagle: The following table shows the change in the number of employees in the Chancellor's Departments over 2004-05, 2005-06, and 2006-07.

Changes in Chancellor's Departments

Disabled

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many (a) disabled people and (b) lone parents of working age there were in each quarter since 1992; and how many and what proportion of these were (i) employed, (ii) unemployed and (iii) economically active in each such quarter. [191325]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 4 March 2008:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question about how many (a) disabled people and (b) lone parents of working age there were in each quarter since 1992; and how many and what proportion of these were (i) employed, (ii) unemployed and (iii) economically active in each such quarter. (191325)

The attached table gives the estimates of disabled people and lone parents of working age who were employed, unemployed and economically active for the three month period ending June each year 1997 to 2007. Comparable estimates are not available for disabled people prior to 1999 and for lone parents prior to 1997. Estimates are not available for 1998 and 2000 for either category.

A historical series of lone parent employment rates is published in the 'Work and worklessness among households' First Release, which is available on the National Statistics website: http://www.statistics.gov.uk/statbase/Product.asp?vlnk==8552.

The LFS estimates at this detailed level are consistent with the UK population estimates published in February and March 2003, whereas those in the Labour Market Statistics First Release are based on more up-to-date population figures.

As with any sample survey, estimates from the LFS are subject to a margin of uncertainty.

Duty Free Allowances

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will reassess personal allowances for importation of (a) tobacco products and (b) alcoholic drinks. [191279]

Jane Kennedy: Since the completion of the single market in 1993, persons travelling between EU member states have been able to bring with them unlimited quantities of alcohol and tobacco, provided that the product is bought duty paid in the member state of purchase, is for their own use (including gifts), and is transported by them.

For travellers entering the UK from a non-EU country, there are limits, which are laid down in EU legislation, on the amount of alcohol and tobacco that can be brought back without paying UK tax or duty. Any changes to these allowances must be agreed unanimously by all 27 EU member states.

Following a proposal from the European Commission concerning the tax and duty-free allowances for travellers from non-EU countries, EU Finance Ministers agreed unanimously at the Council meeting on 20 December 2007 on the adoption of a directive which, among other things, will increase the still wine allowance from 2 litres to 4 litres and introduce a new allowance for beer of 16 litres. These changes will come into effect from 1 December 2008. No changes have been made to the allowances for other alcohol or tobacco products. It was also agreed that all the allowances would be reviewed every four years.

Foreign Loans: World War Two

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what payments were made to the US in respect of war debt incurred by Britain during and following the second world war, including the (a) line of credit and (b) land lease loan in each of the last 10 years; and if he will make a statement. [191162]

Angela Eagle: World war two repayments were completed on the 29 December 2006. Information on the total interest and capital payments for world war two loans in the last 10 years is as follows:

Foreign Workers

Chris Huhne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his most recent estimate is of the number of non-UK born persons in employment in each county of the UK in each of the last five years. [190816]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 4 March 2008:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question on what the most recent estimate is of the number of non-UK born persons in employment in each county of the UK in each of the last five years. (190816)

The Office for National Statistics compiles statistics on migrant workers for local areas from the Annual Labour Force Survey and the Annual Population Survey (APS). The National Statistics method for estimating the number of migrant workers employed in the UK is routinely based on the number of people at a given time who were born abroad, are of working age (16-64 for men, 16-59 for women) and in employment. This question has been answered on this basis. It means, for example, that some people who are UK nationals will be included in the total of "foreign born" and that people who are working but are above state pension age are not included.

APS estimates at this detailed level are only available consistent with population estimates published in February and March 2003 and are not comparable with the estimates published in the Labour Market Statistics First Release on 13 February 2008, which are based on latest population estimates.

The table attached, shows the numbers of working age in employment who were not born in the UK and were resident in each UK county, Unitary Authority and Metropolitan County, during the twelve month periods ending in March for 2005, 2006, 2007 from the APS and, for the 12 month periods ending in February for 2003 and 2004 from the Annual LFS.

When interpreting these figures, it is important to bear in mind that the APS/LFS are not designed to cover everyone who is present in the UK. The survey may undercount the numbers of people who were born overseas. The reasons are set out in the table footnote.

As these estimates are for a subset of the population in small geographical areas, they are based on small sample sizes, and are therefore subject to large margins of uncertainty.

Notes:
1. Estimates are subject to sampling variability.
2. It should also be noted that the country of birth question in the APS gives an undercount because:
it excludes certain people who have been resident in the UK for less than six months.
it excludes students in halls who do not have a UK resident parent.
it excludes people in most other types of communal establishments (eg hotels, boarding houses, hostels, mobile home sites, etc.).
it is grossed to population estimates which exclude migrants staying for less than 12 months.
microdata are grossed to population estimates consistent with those published in spring 2003 which are significantly lower than the latest population estimates.

Gold

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much gold bullion the Government sold in each of the last 15 years; and what the average sum received per kilogram was in each year. [190828]

Angela Eagle: 395 tonnes of gold were sold from the reserves between July 1999 and March 2002. The Government have not conducted an official gold sales programme since 2002. However the physical stock of gold may change for a number of reasons, including sales of small amounts of gold sovereigns by the Royal Mint; and transaction costs incurred in gold lending and swaps. Data on the physical stock of gold and its current value is available on the Bank of England website:

http //213_225.136_206/statistics/reserves/Tempoutput.xls

Table 1 details average amounts received annually from the official gold sales programme.

Table 1

|---|---|---|
| July to December 1999 | 75 | 270 |
| January to December 2000 | 150 | 277 |
| January to December 2001 | 130 | 270 |
| January to March 2002 | 40 | 290 |
| Total | 395 | 275 |

Note:
That gold is priced per troy ounce, rather than per kilogram. One metric tonne is equivalent to 32,150 troy ounces.

Government Departments: Property

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 24 January 2008, Official Report, column 2133W, on Government departments: property, what his definition is of (a) actual, (b) future and (c) potential vacant space. [191288]

Angela Eagle: The definitions are as follows:

(a) Actual vacant space that is available now

(b) Future vacant space that is planned to be available at a specific date in the future

(c) Potential vacant space that might become available in the future, but for which no specific date has been identified.

Hacking

James Brokenshire: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether the use of a hacking tool or other malicious software enabling information to be (a) retrieved and (b) manipulated by a third party has been detected on a (i) network and (ii) computer in (A) his Department and (B) HM Revenue and Customs. [190336]

Angela Eagle: It is not in the interests of the UK's national security for Departments to confirm whether they hold information about attacks against their IT systems. This would enable individuals to deduce how successful the UK is in detecting these attacks and so assist such persons in testing the effectiveness of the UK's IT defences. This is not in the public interest.

Import Duties: Motor Vehicles

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many vehicles were seized on entry to the UK for exceeding importation allowances in the last five years; what proportion of such vehicles was (a) not owned by one of those occupying the vehicle at the point of seizure and (b) returned to the owner after seizure; and if he will make a statement. [190425]

Jane Kennedy: The information requested is not available.

Income Tax: Wirral

Stephen Hesford: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what proportion of residents of Wirral West constituency paid the higher rate of income tax in each of the last two years for which figures are available. [191281]

Jane Kennedy: The number of individual income taxpayers by constituency can be found in table 3.15 "Income and tax by Parliamentary Constituency" on HM Revenue and Customs' website.

Estimates are based on the Survey of Personal Incomes, of which 2005-06 is the latest available.

Information on the number of higher rate taxpayers at constituency level is not readily available. Sample sizes at constituency level are small and estimates can demonstrate a large variability from year to year, therefore any inference from the information in table 3.15 should take into account the confidence intervals in table 3.15a "Income and tax by Parliamentary Constituency, Confidence Intervals".

Life Expectancy

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate (a) the Government Actuary and (b) his Department has made of the impact on longevity of percentage changes, in the winter or summer mean temperature. [190820]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 4 March 2008:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your question regarding what estimate has been made of the impact on longevity of a percentage change, up or down, in the winter or summer mean temperature. (190820)

There have been a number of studies of the short-term effects on mortality of summer heatwaves and the intensity and duration of cold spells in winter. However there is no consensus on what impact such seasonal variation has on average longevity, or how a change in mean temperature would impact on mortality.

Members: Correspondence

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he will reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire, dated 29 January, transferred from the Ministry of Justice (PO reference: 7/15515/2008), on the Financial Ombudsman Service. [191220]

Angela Eagle [holding answer 3 March 2008]: I have replied to the hon. Member.

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he will reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire, dated 3 January, about the abolition of the 10 per cent. tax band for pensioners (PO reference: 1/53530/2008). [191223]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 3 March 2008]: I replied to the hon. Member on 28 February.

Mr. Winnick: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many replies to hon. Members' correspondence on constituency cases from the Preston tax credit office were signed by the Director of that office in the last 12 months. [191232]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 3 March 2008]: HM Revenue and Customs does not keep the statistical information requested by my hon. Friend.

National Insurance Contributions: Foreign Workers

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many national insurance numbers issued under the Foreign Worker Registration Scheme have no contributions credited to them. [190901]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The information is not available. There is no requirement for a person to register with the Worker Registration scheme before applying for a national insurance number (NINO), and the national insurance recording system does not record whether an individual has registered with the Worker Registration scheme.

National Insurance: Personal Records

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people have had their national insurance records lost during the last 12 months; what his policy is on paying benefits and pensions to those people; and if he will make a statement. [190998]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 3 March 2008]: National insurance records are held under an individual's national insurance number on the National Insurance Recording System. Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs has no record of lost national insurance records during the last 12 months.

Natural Gas: Prices

Mr. Prisk: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what market price of gas was assumed in his Department's modelling of corporation tax revenues from the UK's oil and gas fields for the Budget Statement 2007 and Pre-Budget Statement 2007 projections. [189977]

Jane Kennedy: The projections for gas prices, used in the North sea revenues forecast take into account the spot price for gas, long-term contract prices, futures prices and the expected movement in sterling oil prices.

Gas prices will thus vary on a field by field basis.

Northern Rock

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether the obligations of Northern Rock to repurchase mortgages under certain circumstances in accordance with the documentation for the Granite securitisation programme are covered by a Treasury guarantee. [188945]

Angela Eagle: As set out in HM Treasury's announcement of 18 December 2007, the guarantee arrangements for Northern Rock cover all obligations of Northern Rock plc to make payments on the repurchase of mortgages under the documentation for the "Granite" securitisation programme.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what proportion of Northern Rock's total mortgage assets are contained in the Granite Master Trust. [188959]

Angela Eagle [holding answer 25 February 2008]: Information on the value of mortgage assets contained in the Granite Master Trust is set out in investor reports on Granite, which are available on the Northern Rock website. Northern Rock's financial statements are also available on its website. Northern Rock's annual report for 2007 will be published by the end of March 2008.

Prostate Cancer

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the standardised mortality rate from prostate cancer was in each year since 1997, broken down by (a) Government office region and (b) parliamentary constituency. [191553]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 4 March 2008:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking what the standardised mortality rate from prostate cancer was in each year since 1997, broken down by (a) Government Office region and (b) parliamentary constituency. (191553)

The tables attached provide the age-standardised mortality rate per 100,000 population, where prostate cancer was the underlying cause of death, for (a) Government Office regions and Wales, from 1997 to 2006 (the latest year available) (Table 1) and (b) parliamentary constituencies in England and Wales, for the years 2001 to 2005 combined (the only period available) (Table 2). A copy of Table 2 has been placed in the House of Commons Library.

Revenue and Customs

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Blaby (Mr. Robathan) of 24 January 2008, Official Report, column 1626, on HM Revenue and Customs, for what categories of individuals security is a higher priority; and how many people there are in each category. [191039]

Jane Kennedy: HMRC applies high standards of confidentiality and security to all customer data. It would not be in the public interest, and could put individuals at personal risk, to disclose information about the categories of individuals in relation to whose records HMRC provides additional safeguards.

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Blaby (Mr. Robathan) of 24 January 2008, Official Report, column 1626, on HM Revenue and Customs, which Minister authorised the practice of according a higher priority to the security of some categories of individual. [191040]

Jane Kennedy: HMRC applies high standards of confidentiality and security to all customer data. The provision of additional safeguards, within HMRC, in respect of data relating to certain categories of individuals is an operational matter for HM Revenue and Customs.

Self-Employed Contributions

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many self-employed people were late in registering their national insurance contributions with Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs in each of the last five years; how many of those (a) received and (b) were given an exemption from paying a fine; and what the reason for granting an exemption was in each case. [190586]

Jane Kennedy: The numbers of individuals registering late as self employed for national insurance for the last five complete tax years are as follows:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 83,259 |
| 2003-04 | 94,155 |
| 2004-05 | 100,357 |
| 2005-06 | 86,967 |
| 2006-07 | 71,828 |

Data on the number of £100 penalties issued for full tax years prior to 2005-06 is not held but HMRC can confirm the numbers for

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 2006-07 | 23,580 |

The information regarding the reasons for exemption from fines is not available. Common reasons for the penalty not being applied or subsequently being removed include where the earnings in the period of non-registration are within the Small Earnings Exception level, where the individual has advised some part of HMRC of their trading activities or where the individual can demonstrate a reasonable excuse for the delay in notifying.

Smuggling

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the (a) mode, (b) median and (c) mean proportion by which goods confiscated from vehicles seized on entry to the UK exceeded permitted allowances was in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [191278]

Jane Kennedy: Centrally held records do not provide the breakdown required.

Suicide: Peterborough

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many suicides there were in Peterborough constituency in each of the last 10 years, broken down by (a) age, (b) sex and (c) ethnic origin. [190008]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 4 March 2008:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many suicides there were in Peterborough constituency in each of the last 10 years, broken down by (a) age, (b) sex, and (c) ethnic origin. (190008)

The tables attached provide the number of deaths where suicide was the underlying cause of death, by (a) age and (b) sex in Peterborough constituency, for 1997 to 2006 (the latest year available). Figures on suicides by ethnic group are not available, as ethnicity is not recorded at death registration.

Table 1: Number of deaths where suicide was the underlying cause of death, Peterborough constituency[1], by age-group[2],1997-2006[3]

Deaths (persons)

| | Age group | | |

| 2004 | 5 | 9 | 1 |
| 2005 | 5 | 2 | 0 |
| 2006 | 6 | 2 | 2 |

[1] Suicide was defined using the International Classification of Diseases, Ninth Revision,(ICD-9) codes E950-E959 and E980-E989, excluding E988.8 for the year 2000, and the International Classification of Diseases, Tenth Revision (ICD-10) codes X60-X84 and Y10-Y34, excluding Y33.9 (where the Coroner's verdict was pending) for the years 2001 to 2006.
[2] Suicide and undetermined intent deaths have not been included for children under the age of 15 years.
[3] Figures are for deaths registered in each calendar year.

Taxation and Income

Dan Rogerson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people in each parliamentary constituency in (a) Cornwall and (b) inner London declared an income of (i) between £5,645 and £16,505 and (ii) over £39,400 for tax purposes in the most recent 12 month period for which figures are available. [191535]

Angela Eagle: The number of individual income taxpayers by constituency can be found in table 3.15 "Income and tax by Parliamentary Constituency" on HM Revenue and Customs' website.

Estimates are based on the Survey of Personal Incomes, of which 2005-06 is the latest available.

A breakdown by level of income at constituency level is not readily available. Sample sizes at constituency level are small and estimates can demonstrate a large variability from year to year, therefore any inference from the information in table 3.15 should take into account the confidence intervals in table 3.15a "Income and tax by Parliamentary Constituency, Confidence Intervals".

Taxation: Alcoholic Drinks

Peter Bottomley: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make taxation of alcoholic products proportionate to the amount of alcohol in the product. [191291]

Angela Eagle: Decisions on the appropriate levels of excise duty are made on a Budget-by-Budget basis, taking into account all relevant factors. These include the particular circumstances of the industry concerned and the Government's spending priorities.

Taxation: Domicile

Mr. Swire: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many members of (a) the House of Commons and (b) the House of Lords are registered as non-domiciled for tax purposes. [191498]

Jane Kennedy: HMRC are under a statutory duty not to disclose the tax affairs of individuals.

Taxation: Pay

Chris Huhne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the maximum weekly amount of cash is that an employee may receive from his or her employer for expenses undertaken in the course of their duties, but without provision of receipts proving that the payments were so undertaken, before HM Revenue and Customs treats the payment as taxable; and whether there are any exceptions to this rule. [191047]

Jane Kennedy: There are no set financial limits governing the provision of receipts to show that expenditure qualifies for tax relief. However, HMRC would expect employees to be able to provide appropriate evidence that they have incurred allowable expenditure.

Taxation: Personal Records

Mr. Gummer: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the policy of his Department is in relation to people suspected of the theft of information about taxpayers from the Government. [191423]

Jane Kennedy: HMRC takes the security and confidentiality of all information it holds in connection with its functions extremely seriously.

If HMRC were to become aware of an alleged theft of information about taxpayers the Commissioners would investigate the matter in conjunction with the relevant authorities.

Taxation: Second Homes

Jim Cousins: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will estimate the effect on Exchequer revenue in 2007-08 of cancellation of the benefit in kind rule on company-owned second homes abroad; and whether any repayments have been made of tax previously collected under this rule. [191630]

Jane Kennedy: The estimated effect on Exchequer revenue in 2007-08 of cancellation of the benefit in kind charge on company-owned second homes abroad is negligible. No repayments have been made of tax previously collected under this rule.

Taxation: Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether trades union subscriptions paid through payroll-giving are deducted from (a) pre-tax or (b) post-tax income under HM Revenue and Customs rules. [191090]

Jane Kennedy: Trade union subscriptions paid from salary are deducted from post-tax income unless they relate to one of the organisations for which tax relief on fees paid to them can be claimed under section 344 Income Tax (Earnings and Pensions) Act 2003. Where tax relief is due it is normally given through the employee's tax code.

VAT: Bingo

Lorely Burt: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much was paid by the licensed bingo industry in value-added tax in 2007. [190550]

Jane Kennedy: HM Revenue and Customs does not collect data on the amount of VAT paid on individual goods and services.

VAT: Sunscreens

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will reclassify suncare products as essential healthcare items for value-added tax purposes; and if he will make a statement. [190507]

Jane Kennedy: The VAT treatment of suncare products is no different from the VAT treatment of other healthcare products. VAT is not charged on certain healthcare and suncare products when dispensed by a pharmacist on the prescription of a registered doctor. When otherwise supplied by retail sale they are chargeable with VAT at the standard rate.

Wealth

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will commission research to determine the extent to which wealth created over the last 10 years is sustainable. [190951]

Jane Kennedy: The Government carries out and commissions research on a range of wealth and related issues. Examples include HM Revenue and Customs National Statistics on Personal Wealth and the Department for Work and Pensions Family Resources Survey. The Wealth and Assets Survey, to be published by the Office for National Statistics in 2009, will also enhance understanding of the accumulation and distribution of wealth across Great Britain. Interim findings from this survey were published in January 2008.

Welfare Tax Credits: Internet

James Brokenshire: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what plans he has to re-establish the tax credits website. [190338]

Jane Kennedy: The tax credits e-portal will be reopened only when the necessary security checks are in place. HMRC is developing an identity authentication service to provide the capability to securely transact with customers.

Wines

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much his Department has spent on wine in each of the last three years. [190109]

Angela Eagle: Spending on wine is not separately identified within our accounting system so cannot be disaggregated from official. Entertainment spending without incurring disproportionate costs. For details of official entertainment spending I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by the then Financial Secretary to the Treasury (Mr. Healey) on 15 May 2007, Official Report, column 689W, to the hon. Member for Romford (Andrew Rosindell).

Winter Fuel Payments

Mr. Crausby: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will give consideration to increasing the winter fuel allowance for pensioners in preparing for the forthcoming Budget. [190693]

Angela Eagle: The Government keeps all tax rates and benefit payments under review as part of the Budget process.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Alcoholic Drinks: Misuse

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what steps the Government has taken to tackle binge drinking while protecting consumer rights. [190539]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The Licensing Act 2003, which came into effect in November 2005, aimed to provide a balanced package of freedoms and safeguards. It has an important role in the prevention of crime and disorder and public nuisance perpetrated by a minority while giving the responsible majority more freedom and choice about how they spend their leisure time.

Bingo: Closures

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will visit a bingo club in Castle Point constituency to discuss the effects of bingo club closures on (a) social cohesion and (b) quality of life for local residents; and if he will make a statement. [190423]

Mr. Sutcliffe: My right hon. Friend is grateful for the invitation, which has been passed to me as the responsible Minister. I have visited a bingo club in my own constituency and fully recognise that bingo clubs provide a unique social network in many communities. My officials are in close dialogue with the Bingo Association to see whether there are any measures we may take to help bingo through the difficulties which the sector appears to be experiencing. I hope to be able to make an announcement shortly.

Capita

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport pursuant to the answer of 6 February 2008, Official Report, column 1168W, on Capita, what travel services Capita provides for flights. [189991]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Capita Business Travel provides a flight ticket booking service for the Department, which was procured through the Office of Government Commerce Buying Solutions framework agreement.

Casinos: Licensing

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many casinos in England are licensed to operate 24 hours a day. [191317]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 3 March 2008]: Under the Gambling Act 2005 (Mandatory and Default Conditions) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007, default conditions attaching to casino premises licences state that no facilities for gambling shall be provided on the premises between the hours of 6 am and noon on any day.

Casino operators can apply to their licensing authority for an extension to these hours. This is a matter for individual licensing authorities to determine. Information on the number of casinos which operate for 24 hours a day is not collated centrally.

Climbing

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport when he next plans to meet the British Mountaineering Council to discuss Government support for mountaineering. [191601]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Secretary of State has no immediate plans to meet the British Mountaineering Council.

Cultural Services Improvement Unit: Finance

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what funding (a) his Department, (b) the Museums, Libraries and Archives Council, (c) English Heritage, (d) the Arts Council and (e) Sport England provided for the Cultural Services Improvement Unit at the Improvement and Development Agency in each of the last three years; and what plans there are for continuation of funding from each body in the next three financial years. [191372]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department and its NDPBs are currently reviewing their work programmes and have yet to agree the level of funding they will provide to the Improvement and Development Agency in future.

The total funding provided by the Department and its NDPBs to the Cultural Services Improvement Unit at the Improvement and Development Agency over the last three years is £830,000. A full breakdown of this follows:

| Funder | 2005-06 year 1 | 2006-07 year 2 | 2007-08 year 3 |
|---|---|---|---|
| DCMS | 20,000 | 20,000 | 20,000 |
| Sport England | 85,000 | 85,000 | 85,000 |
| Arts Council England | 50,000 | 50,000 | 90,000 |
| Museums Libraries and Archives Council | 80,000 | 80,000 | 120,000 |
| English Heritage | 15,000 | 15,000 | 15,000 |

Departmental Transportation Programme

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much his Department's transformation programme has cost to date; how much the two all-staff conferences to discuss the transformation programme cost; how many consultants have been employed to work on the transformation programme; which consultancy companies have been involved in the programme; and how much has been paid to each such consultancy to date. [190622]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Costs associated with the DCMS transformation programme from April 2007 to date are as follows:

| | Cost (£) |

Departmental Equality

Roger Berry: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what conclusions his Department has reached in fulfilment of the duty under section 3.111 of the statutory code of practice of the disability equality duty. [190760]

Mr. Sutcliffe: DCMS officials have completed their review of the action taken by the Department to meet the disability equality duty and drafted an annual report for publication. The report will be published as soon as it is approved by Ministers.

Departmental Information Officers

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many (a) press and (b) communications officers his Department and its agencies employed in each of the last five years. [187580]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The number of press officers employed by the Department in each of the last five years is:

| | Press officers |
|---|---|
| 2003-04 | 10 |
| 2004-05 | 9 |
| 2005-06 | [1]13 |
| 2006-07 | [1]13 |
| 2007-08 | [1]10 |

[1] This includes press officers working on the Olympics.

The Department does not have a "communication officer" grade. The "White Book" of contacts in Government Departments and Agencies contains listings for the Department and the book is updated twice yearly.

The Department has only one Agency, the Royal Parks Agency. The number of officers employed in the Royal Parks Agency is:

| | Press officers | Communications officers |
|---|---|---|
| 2003-04 | 0 | 1 |
| 2004-05 | 0 | 1 |
| 2005-06 | 1 | 1 |
| 2006-07 | 1 | 1 |

Departmental Written Questions

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many written parliamentary questions have been tabled for answer by his Department in Session 2007-08; and what the average number of days taken to answer them has been. [190241]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The number of written parliamentary questions tabled for answer by my Department this Session is 903. This figure includes those written parliamentary questions tabled to the Minister for the Olympics.

Information on the average number of days taken to answer them is not readily available in the format requested and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many and what proportion of parliamentary questions for answer on a named day to his Department received a (a) holding and (b) substantive answer on the named day in each year since 2001. [190284]

Mr. Sutcliffe: DCMS aims to ensure that hon. Members receive a substantive response to their named day question on the named day. Unfortunately, this is not always possible but this Department makes every effort to meet this timescale. The information requested is provided in the following table.

Named day parliamentary questions

| | (a) Received holding answer | | (b) Received substantive answer on named day | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Number | Percentage | Number | Percentage |
| 2002 | 288 | 52.9 | 256 | 47.1 |
| 2003 | 63 | 42.6 | 85 | 57.4 |
| 2004 | 57 | 29.2 | 138 | 70.8 |
| 2005 | 126 | 44.5 | 157 | 55.5 |
| 2006 | 126 | 28.6 | 315 | 71.4 |
| 2007[1] | 227 | 47.2 | 254 | 52.8 |

[1] Includes named day questions answered by the Minister for the Olympics since June 2007

Gambling: Internet

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what arrangements there are to prevent children under the age of 18 years using internet gambling sites; and if he will bring forward proposals for users to prove their age before accessing those sites. [190515]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Operators of internet gambling sites which are licensed by the Gambling Commission must comply with tough social responsibility measures to prevent underage gambling. These measures include procedures requiring customers to affirm they are of legal age, warning customers that underage gambling is an offence and requiring gambling websites to permit filtering software so that parents can restrict access to those sites.

All remote operators are required to complete age verification checks for customers that register to gamble using a debit card or other means of electronic payment other than a credit card, which are not generally available to under 18s. In addition, customers are not permitted to withdraw winnings until satisfactory age verification checks have been completed.

For credit card users, there are separate provisions which require operators to carry out a programme of random checks to ensure compliance with age restrictions.

If operators fail to comply with these requirements they are subject to regulatory action from the Gambling Commission.

For websites in other jurisdictions that are not licensed by the Gambling Commission, operators will be subject to the age verification measures required by the relevant jurisdiction.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many internet gambling companies are registered in the UK. [190516]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Gambling Commission has issued (as of 1 February) a total of 144 remote operating licences allowing companies to operate on-line gambling sites from Great Britain.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what European legislation governs provision of internet gambling services based in one member state to people in another member state. [190517]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The EC Treaty applies to the provision of internet gambling services between member states. There is no secondary EU legislation in this area as the directive on electronic commerce (2000/31/EC) and the directive on services in the internal market (2006/123/EC) both exclude gambling activities.

Gaming Machines

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will commission research into the impact on small seaside town businesses of restricting the number of fruit machines to four per venue and halving the minimum stake for the £500 jackpot. [190658]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 3 March 2008]: The Gambling Act, which came into force on 1 September 2007, introduced a range of measures designed to assist the gaming machine industry. For the first time adult gaming centres can offer up to four category B3 machines with a £1 stake and a £500 prize.

The Government have asked the Gambling Commission to prioritise its research into the impact of high stake, high prize gaming machines.

Research into arcades based in small seaside towns would have little value since adult gaming centres are based in a wide range of locations across the country.

Members: Correspondence

Helen Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport when he will reply to the letter of 21 January from the hon. Member for Warrington North on the Orford Park project. [190997]

Mr. Sutcliffe: A reply to the letter of 21 January from my hon. Friend will be sent as soon as possible.

Mineral Waters

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many litres of bottled water were purchased by his Department in each of the last three years; and if he will make a statement. [191245]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department purchased 19,558 litres of bottled water during April 2006 to March 2007.

National Lottery: Grants

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much funding the National Lottery Commission received from (a) the National Lottery Distribution Fund and (b) the Olympic Lottery Distribution Fund in each of the last five years. [191364]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The sums deducted from each fund in respect of the National Lottery Commission's expenses are given in the following table.

| | National lottery distribution fund | Olympic lottery distribution fund |
|---|---|---|
| 2006-07 | 8,047,000 | 700,000 |
| 2005-06 | 7,291,000 | 0 |
| 2004-05 | 4,401,000 | — |
| 2003-04 | 3,765,000 | — |
| 2002-03 | 2,342,000 | — |

These figures are taken from the National Lottery Distribution Fund and Olympic Lottery Distribution Fund accounts. The significant increase in the last two financial years is attributable mainly to the Commission's work on the preparation and running of the competition for the third licence to run the national lottery.

Sport England: Grants

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what funding Sport England provided for each sport in (a) 2005-06, (b) 2006-07 and (c) 2007-08. [190138]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The funding provided for each sport by Sport England is as follows:

Sports

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport pursuant to the answer of 20 February 2008, Official Report, column 716W, on sports, how many people each percentage figure in the tables represents. [189976]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Pursuant to the answer of 20 February 2008, Official Report, column 716W, the table shows how many people each percentage figure represents, rounded to the nearest 10,000. The data are taken from the DCMS Taking Part Survey.

The active sport indicator is defined as at least one occasion of participation in an active sport during the past four weeks.

Sports: Expenditure

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much capital expenditure was allocated to evening sports clubs for young people in Bexley in each year since 1997. [191003]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Funding is allocated by DCMS for capital projects throughout England, but no records are kept by DCMS or funding distributors (NDPBs) on what purpose building projects that benefit from this funding are used for. It is therefore not possible to provide an answer to this question.

Wembley Stadium: Finance

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much his Department spent on Wembley Stadium in each of the last 10 years; and what outstanding financial commitments it has relating to the stadium in each of the next three years. [191371]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The overall public sector contribution to the Wembley Stadium project is £161 million, broken down as: £120 million from Sport England Lottery Funding; £21 million from the London Development Agency; and £20 million from DCMS towards the cost of non-stadium infrastructure works.

DCMS spend in each financial year against the £20 million contribution is as follows:

| | £ |
|---|---|
| Pre 2004-05 | 0 |
| 2004-05 | 10,044,999 |

Afghanistan: Armed Forces

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the (a) size and (b) capability is of the (i) Afghan National Army and (ii) Afghan National Police. [190893]

Des Browne: The Afghan National Army (ANA) has approximately 50,000 soldiers trained, equipped and deployed. It is capable of both joint combat operations alongside the international forces deployed in Afghanistan, and company level independent operations—as demonstrated in the recapture of Musa Qaleh.

The Afghan National Police (ANP) is currently over 74,000 strong, but its level of capability is lower than in the ANA. Both the ANA and ANP require further training and mentoring to enable them to operate more effectively.

Afghanistan: Peacekeeping Operations

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of the security situation in Kabul. [190666]

Des Browne: Although the number of violent incidents occurring in Kabul increased from 2006 to 2007, it remains low relative to the provinces in the south and east where the insurgency is stronger. However, the proportion of incidents in Kabul involving suicide attacks has increased markedly over the past 12 months.

Aircraft Carriers: Contracts

Willie Rennie: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what (a) long lead items and (b) other contracts have been let by (i) his Department and (ii) the Aircraft Carrier Alliance and its constituent companies in relation to the aircraft carrier/CVF programme. [191563]

Des Browne: Since my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Defence announced on 25 July 2007, Official Report, column 865, our intention to place orders for two aircraft carriers the Department has authorised the companies forming the Aircraft Carrier Alliance (ACA) to let contracts in support of manufacture as follows:

| | Item |
|---|---|
| Identification Friend or Foe (IFF) system | Blown Fibre Optical Cable Plant (BFOCP) |
| Integrated Navigation and Bridge System (INBS) | Long Range Radar (LRR) antennae |
| Davits for ships' boats | Portable lifting equipment |
| Replenishment at Sea (RAS) Liquid | Windlass and capstans |
| Main diesel generators | Emergency diesel generators |
| Steel | Propulsion motors |
| Propulsion converters | Propulsion motor bearings |
| Gas Turbine Alternator (GTA) rotors | GTA Enclosures (Cabinets) |
| Castings for ships' rudders | Steering gear machinery and controls |
| Forgings for ships' stabilisers | Forgings for ships' shaftlines |
| Low-voltage switchboards, electrical distribution cabinets and transformers | Flying Control (FLYCO) rooms |
| Visual Landing Aids (VLAs) | Aviation Fuel systems equipment |
| Civil works at Rosyth dockyard | Reverse Osmosis equipment |

The companies have also let numerous minor works and service contracts.

Armed Forces: Deployment

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many UK service personnel were deployed on operations on the most recent date for which figures are available, broken down by location. [190695]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The following table shows the number of UK Service personnel deployed on operations by location at 18 February 2008. The number of personnel in theatre will naturally fluctuate on a daily basis for a variety of reasons, including leave (rest and recuperation), temporary absence for training, evacuation for medical reasons, the roulement of forces and other factors.

Number of personnel deployed by location[1]

| Location | Number |
|---|---|
| of which: | |
| Afghanistan | 7,100 |
| Iraq | 4,100 |
| At Sea | 600 |
| Qatar | 410 |
| Cyprus | 280 |
| Kuwait | 380 |
| Oman | 190 |
| Kosovo | 120 |
| Bahrain | 60 |
| Bosnia | 10 |
| Other | 30 |

[1] Countries with 10 or more personnel are shown separately. Other countries with fewer than 10 personnel per country include Georgia, Nepal, Sudan, Sierra Leone, Democratic Republic of Congo and Liberia.

Armed Forces: Health Services

Sir Paul Beresford: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if the Government will contribute to the Help for Heroes appeal to build a new gymnasium and fitness pool for injured military personnel at the Headley Court Defence Medical Rehabilitation Centre. [189181]

Derek Twigg [holding answer 26 February 2008]: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 17 December 2007, Official Report, column 1025W. We are continuing to work closely with the charity on this project.

Armed Forces: Recruitment

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many personnel in the (a) Army, (b) Royal Navy and (c) Royal Air Force are involved in recruitment; and whether these figures meet the manning requirement. [183150]

Derek Twigg: All armed forces personnel, either directly or indirectly, have a recruiting role. Nevertheless, the numbers of Naval Service and Royal Air Force personnel primarily involved in managing or delivering the regular service recruiting process are as follows:

Naval Service: 339, against an establishment of 356;

Royal Air Force: 324, against an establishment of 348.

Details of the numbers of Army personnel primarily involved in recruitment activities are not readily available and I will write to the hon. Member with the details in due course.

The numbers primarily engaged in recruiting activities is regularly reviewed against requirement with adjustments being made to reflect priorities.

Substantive answer from Bob Ainsworth to Nick Harvey:

Derek Twigg undertook to write to you in answer to your Parliamentary Question on 7 February 2008 (Official Report, column 1487W) about the number of Army Personnel involved in Recruiting.

There are 1,105 Army Personnel directly involved in recruiting, against an establishment of 1,165. These personnel are Army Careers Advisors or members of Army or Corps Recruiting Teams.

The number of personnel primarily engaged in recruiting activities is regularly reviewed against requirement and, where necessary, adjustments are made to reflect priorities.

Armed Forces: Terrorism

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what progress has been made on the review of the role of the armed forces in counter-terrorism announced in July 2007; when a report will be published; and if he will make a statement. [190637]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: My right hon. Friend the Member for East Kilbride, Strathaven and Lesmahagow (Mr. Ingram) was asked to review the role of the Ministry of Defence in counter-terrorism and resilience by the Prime Minister in July 2007. He is making good progress and expects to report to the Prime Minister in the summer.

Armed Forces: Training

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the annual training requirement is for infantry (a) officers and (b) other ranks; and what percentage has been fulfilled in the last 12 months. [190634]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: All regular officers and other ranks are mandated to complete military annual training tests (MATT) covering the following:

Personal Weapons Training

Fitness

Battlefield Casualty Drill

Chemical, Biological, Radiological and Nuclear (CBRN)

Navigation

Values and Standards

The requirements are identical for officers and other ranks although they may vary slightly depending on the individual posting—for example officers and soldiers employed within a non-deployed headquarters are not required to complete the combat fitness test unless they are preparing for an operational tour.

Information on MATT completion rates is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost. However, given that this training is mandatory and that the requirement is enforced, the expectation is that the completion rate in the last 12 months has been 100 per cent. and there is no reason to suspect otherwise.

Armoured Fighting Vehicles

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he expects the recent order for 174 Mastiff vehicles to be delivered to the UK; whether the delivery will be staggered; and how long it will take for those vehicles to be in theatre. [190408]

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he expects to complete the order for the additional tranche of Mastiff vehicles announced by the Prime Minister on 7 October 2007. [191346]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: I refer the hon. Members to the answer I gave on 20 February 2008, Official Report, columns 698-99W.

We are in the final stages of the approval period and until this process is complete, the precise delivery schedule cannot be agreed.

Army Air Corps: Manpower

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the strength of each regiment of the Army Air Corps was at the most recent date for which information is available. [190646]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: As at 27 February 2008 the regular strengths of the Army Air Corps Regiments were as follows:

| Regiment | Regular numbers |
|---|---|
| 1 Regt AAC | 186 |
| 2 (Trg) Regt AAC | 65 |
| 3 Regt AAC | 338 |
| 4 Regt AAC | 346 |
| 5 Regt AAC | 115 |
| 6 Regt AAC (V) | 8 |
| 7 Regt AAC (V) | 17 |
| 9 Regt AAC | 325 |

Strength varies between regiments due to a number of factors including role and the number of squadrons each regiment contains.

AWE Burghfield

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when the two licence instruments giving agreement to the limited continued use of process facilities for weapons assembly and disassembly at AWE Burghfield were issued; when his Department first required a warhead operations licence; and if he will make a statement. [190143]

Des Browne: The licence instruments in question were issued on 20 June and 5 November 2007. As the management and operation of atomic weapons establishment (AWE) sites is conducted under Government owned/contractor operated arrangements, it is the incumbent contractor which is licensed for nuclear operations. The first such licence was issued on 16 June 1997. The requisite licences were subsequently renewed on 29 March 2000 to take account of a change in contractor.

Cluster Munitions

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what recent representations he has received on the use of cluster munitions; and if he will make a statement. [191159]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Ministers and officials meet regularly with a variety of groups to discuss the UK policy on cluster munitions.

Most recently, my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Defence engaged with his counterparts from other nations in the run up to the 'Oslo' Process Meeting in Wellington and along with his Foreign and International Development counterparts, met Lord Elton and members of the All Party Landmine Eradication Group.

Chelsea Barracks: Sales

Dr. Murrison: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 6 February 2008, Official Report, column 1151W, on Chelsea Barracks: sales, what portion of the proceeds from the sale of Chelsea Barracks will be applied to (a) the defence married quarters estate and (b) single living accommodation. [186821]

Derek Twigg: Question 184828 referred to the cash flows arising from the Chelsea disposal. Defence expenditure is based on the overall spending settlements agreed with the Treasury. Within 2007-08, some £250 million will be invested in single living accommodation (SLA) and as outlined in the recent comprehensive spending review (CSR) White Paper some £550 million of the Chelsea receipt is ring-fenced for investment in service accommodation over the next three years. A further £159 million will be programmed over future CSR periods. I have therefore set out in the following table both the cash flow profile arising from sale of Chelsea and the investment profile for SLA and service family accommodation (SFA) contained in the defence financial plans.

| | 2007-08 | 2008-09 | 2009-10 | 2010-11 | Next CSR period |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Chelsea cash flow | 383.6 | 191.8 | 191.8 | 191.8 | — |
| SLA expenditure | 250 | | 500 | | 159 to be programmed |
| SFA expenditure | 0 | | 50 | | — |

The balance of the investment is directed at SLA, as half of the worldwide stock is currently at the lowest acceptable condition. Under current plans, 30,000 new or improved SLA bed-spaces will be delivered by 2013. This Department plans to invest a total of £134 million on SFA in Great Britain over the next three years, of which £50 million is capital from the Chelsea receipt.

Commonwealth: Armed Forces

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what percentage of soldiers in (a) non-commissioned and (b) commissioned ranks are from Commonwealth countries. [190046]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: As at 1 January 2008 there were 7.1 per cent. of non-commissioned soldiers and 1.3 per cent. of commissioned officers with a Commonwealth nationality recorded.

These percentages relate to trained regular personnel only and include the non-commissioned private soldiers.

Correspondence

Mr. Salmond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he will reply to the letter dated 27 September 2007 from the right hon. Member for Banff and Buchan regarding a constituent, Mr. N. Wilson of Forglen. [187801]

Derek Twigg: We have no record of receiving a letter from the right hon. Member for Banff and Buchan regarding Mr. Wilson. However, my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Defence replied to a letter from Mr. Stewart Stevenson, the Member of Scottish Parliament for Banff and Buchan, on 25 February. A copy of this reply was sent to the right hon. Member as Mr. Wilson's Westminster MP.

Departmental Assets

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 28 January 2008, Official Report, columns 33-4W, on departmental assets, which assets of his Department in (a) the UK and (b) abroad have been sold since 2000; what the (i) sale completion date and (ii) price realised was for each; what proportion of receipts from each sale was retained by his Department; and if he will make a statement. [185015]

Derek Twigg: The Ministry of Defence (MOD) retains the full benefit of disposal receipts, which form part of the Defence budget agreed with HM Treasury during the periodic spending reviews.

The MOD disposes of thousands of assets each year. Records of each sale are not held centrally and could be provided only with disproportionate cost. However, the total proceeds from the disposal of the Department's fixed assets from 2000 are as follows:

|---|---|
| 2000-01 | 317,987 |
| 2001-02 | 287,923 |
| 2002-03 | 404,774 |
| 2003-04 | 481,298 |
| 2004-05 | 266,912 |
| 2005-06 | 299,317 |
| 2006-07 | 489,808 |

In addition, a table providing details of MOD land and property in the UK sold since 2000 will be placed in the Library of the House.

Departmental Carbon Emissions

Mr. Kemp: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what steps he has taken to reduce his Department's carbon dioxide emissions in the next financial year. [191021]

Derek Twigg: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave him on 4 February 2008, Official Report, columns 796-97W.

Departmental Public Buildings

Andrew Stunell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what percentage of new buildings approved by his Department were built to the Building Research Establishment Environmental Assessment Method (a) very good and (b) excellent standard in each of the last five years; and what the construction cost of those buildings was. [172291]

Derek Twigg [holding answer 10 December 2007]: In March 2006 this Department introduced the Defence Related Environmental Assessment Methodology (DREAM), which the Office of Government Commerce recognises as equivalent to the Building Research Establishment Environmental Assessment Method (BREEAM), for Ministry of Defence construction projects.

The percentage of new buildings built to these standards for the years in which information is available is shown in the following table:

| | Assessment method | Total new builds assessed | Percentage new builds reaching excellent standard | Percentage new builds reaching very good standard |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2005-06 | BREEAM | 49 | 6 | 12 |
| 2006-07 | DREAM | 18 | 50 | 14 |
| 2007-08 (To end January 2008) | DREAM | 9 | 100 | 0 |

The construction costs of each building built to these standards are not separately identifiable and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) if he will break down, by sub-head in (a) near cash and (b) non-cash terms his Department's (i) gross resource outturn, (ii) operating appropriations in aid outturn, (iii) gross capital outturn and (iv) non-operating appropriations in aid outturn for financial years 2001-02 to 2006-07; [191679]

(2) what his Department's (a) gross resource departmental expenditure limit (DEL), (b) operating appropriations in aid, (c) net capital DEL and (d) non-operating appropriations in aid outturn, broken down in (i) near cash and (ii) non cash terms, was for financial years 2000-01 to 2006-07. [191682]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: I will write to the hon. Member and place a copy of my letter in the Library of the House.

Departmental Sick Leave

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what percentage of working days lost by his Department's staff was attributed to stress-related conditions in the most recent year for which figures are available. [187867]

Derek Twigg: The following table shows the percentage of sickness absence for Ministry of Defence civilian personnel[1] which was attributed to anxiety, depression and stress (Mental and Behavioural Disorders ICD10 category) in the calendar year 2007. The MOD does not have a specific sickness absence code for stress.

[1] This includes all permanent and casual non-industrial and industrial civilian personnel, but excludes Trading Fund, Locally Engaged Civilian and Royal Fleet Auxiliary personnel.

| Time period covered | Percentage[1] of total sickness absence days lost due to anxiety, depression and stress |
|---|---|

[1] The percentage of total staff has been rounded to the nearest decimal point.

Stress-related illness may have social or domestic causes and is not necessarily work-related. However, our policies are clear in terms of the recognition of such illnesses and the support we provide.

We advise our employees on how to avoid stress by explaining how stress can be recognised and managed. Line managers are actively encouraged to look for signs of stress in their staff and to take action to manage it. Specifically, we emphasise that individuals vary in their ability to cope with stress and explain that one person's unbearable pressure may be another person's positive challenge. On our web portal page we list the various physical and psychological symptoms to help line managers to identify early signs.

http://defenceintranet.diiweb.r.mil.uk/DefenceIntranet/PeopleServices/HealthWellBeingAndSickness/PromotingHealthAndWellBeingAtWork/UnderstandAndManageStress/

For those employees who do succumb to stress-related illness, the support of the Occupational Welfare Service is available.

Departmental Translation Services

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) how much was spent on translation services for people in the UK who do not speak English by his Department, associated agencies and non-departmental public bodies in (a) 2003-04, (b) 2004-05, (c) 2005-06, (d) 2006-07 and (e) in 2007-08 to date; [187999]

(2) what documents his Department, associated agencies and non-departmental public bodies translate for people in the UK who do not speak English. [188000]

Derek Twigg: The Ministry of Defence holds records of translation work that was centrally contracted out for UK based customers during 2003-04 and 2004-5. However, the records do not specify whether the ultimate customers for the translations were non-English speakers. The following figures represent the costs during 2003-04 and 2004-05 of translation work centrally contracted out by the Ministry of Defence Language Service:

These costs are for translations for solely UK-based customers into Welsh, Nepali, Bengali, Urdu, Hindi, Punjabi and Gujarati. The documents translated consisted of a wide variety of general correspondence, official publications, courts-martial transcriptions, website content and promissory notes.

Since 2005, responsibility for the commissioning of external language services has been devolved across the Department. Equivalent information for the latter years therefore is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Written Questions

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many and what proportion of Parliamentary questions for answer on a named day to his Department received a (a) holding and (b) substantive answer on the named day in each year since 2001. [190299]

Derek Twigg: The number of named day questions received by the Ministry of Defence is shown as follows.

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 2001-02 | 1,677 |
| 2002-03 | 869 |
| 2003-04 | 686 |
| 2004-05 | 278 |
| 2005-06 | 1,064 |
| 2006-07 | 799 |

Information on the number and percentage answered on the named day is only available for the 2006-07 parliamentary Session. Of the 799 questions received, 180 (25 per cent.) received a substantive answer on the named day. All questions not answered substantively on the named day receive a holding answer.

EU Rapid Reaction Force

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) Army, (b) Royal Navy and (c) Royal Air Force personnel form the British commitment to the Helsinki Headline Goal; and what percentage of the Army's commitment is formed from the infantry. [190714]

Des Browne: The Helsinki Headline Goal has been superseded by the Headline Goal 2010.

The UK declaration to both the Helsinki Headline Goal and the Headline Goal 2010 were based on units of capability and not numbers of armed forces personnel. These offers do not commit the UK to any action and requests for forces to support EU operations are considered on a voluntary case-by-case basis. Copies of the UK response to the Headline Goal 2010 are available in the Library of the House.

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether the EU Battlegroup concept under the Headline Goal 2010 relieves the UK of its commitment to the European Rapid Reaction Force under the Helsinki Headline Goal; and if he will make a statement. [190721]

Des Browne: There is no European Rapid Reaction Force. However, the EU has an objective to be able rapidly to generate forces to support crisis management operations. The EU Battlegroup initiative has been developed to help meet this requirement for rapid response.

The UK's offer of forces that could be potentially made available to support EU operations whether through our response to the headline goal 2010 or through the provision of a Battlegroup does not commit the UK to any action. Requests for forces to support EU operations are considered on a voluntary case-by-case basis.

Future Strategic Tanker Aircraft

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) how much it has cost to establish the Future Strategic Tanker Aircraft private finance initiative in each year since 1999; [189271]

(2) what estimates have been made of the total costs of the Future Strategic Tanker Aircraft; how much it has cost to check the value of a private finance initiative against a public sector comparator; and what the cost has been of the auction and negotiations with the preferred bidder. [189272]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Whole Life Cost of the Future Strategic Tanker Aircraft PFI programme is currently estimated to be around £13 billion. To date, the Department has incurred expenditure of approximately £47.5 million in conducting the Assessment Phase, including the internal running costs of the DE and S Integrated Project Team. The following table shows this expenditure by financial year.

|---|---|
| 2000-01 | 1.05 |
| 2001-02 | 4.01 |
| 2002-03 | 14.10 |
| 2003-04 | 5.03 |
| 2004-05 | 4.20 |
| 2005-06 | 6.46 |
| 2006-07 | 6.83 |
| 2007-08[1] | 5.84 |
| Total | 47.51 |

[1] Reflects 2007-08 expenditure to January 2008

Iraq: Peacekeeping Operations

Colin Burgon: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to his Answer of 4 February 2008, Official Report, column 800W, on Iraq: peacekeeping operations, what information his Department holds on the (a) number and (b) cost to the public purse of private contractors employed by his Department in Iraq. [190582]

Des Browne: Where contractors are employed in Iraq by the MOD, the manpower required forms part of the contract. Each contractor is required to provide reports of the actual numbers of staff employed under each contract. The Department is currently developing a database to record this information centrally, but until it is fully populated, the information is not held centrally, and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

The cost of each contract is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many non-infantry personnel have served in an infantry role in (a) Iraq and (b) Afghanistan since 2003. [190718]

Des Browne: This information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many members of the armed services are in theatre in Iraq, broken down by (a) sex, (b) age, (c) service and (d) regiment; and how many were in theatre in Iraq in each year since 2003 in each category. [190800]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Information on the sex, age and regiment of military personnel deployed to Iraq is not held centrally. Information on the service of military personnel deployed to Iraq is not held centrally prior to December 2005.

The total number of UK military personnel deployed to Iraq at the end of May in each year since 2003 is available on the Department's website and can be found at:

http://www.mod.uk/DefenceInternet/FactSheets/OperationsFactsheets/OperationsInIraqFactsandFigures.htm

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the hourly cost of internet access was for (a) frontline troops in Iraq in each month since January 2003 and (b) frontline troops in Afghanistan in each month since January 2001. [191449]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The MOD welfare internet service is provided free of charge to personnel serving in Iraq and Afghanistan. However, it is not possible to provide information on the hourly cost of internet access because of the technical solution that is used to provide the welfare communications service. This involves all voice (telephone) and data (internet) transmissions being combined and sent via a single satellite feed with the MOD being charged for the total number of megabytes of information transmitted.

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much free telephone time frontline troops are entitled to in (a) Afghanistan and (b) Iraq; and how much it costs them to top-up phone time by (i) 20 minutes, (ii) 30 minutes, (iii) 45 minutes and (iv) 90 minutes. [191450]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Service personnel deployed in Afghanistan and Iraq are entitled to 30 minutes of free telephone time per week. The majority of personnel are able to use satellite cabins to make their welfare calls although those in very austere locations or on board ship will instead use Iridium or INMARSAT satellite phones.

Personnel calling an off-peak UK landline from a satellite cabin are able to top up their phone time at a cost of £2.20 for 20 minutes; £3.30 for 30 minutes; £4.95 for 45 minutes; and £9.90 for 90 minutes. Personnel calling from an Iridium satellite telephone will pay £17.80 for 20 minutes; £26.70 for 30 minutes; £40.08 for 45 minutes; and £80.10 for 90 minutes. Personnel calling from an INMARSAT system will pay £23.40 for 20 minutes; £35.10 for 30 minutes; £52.65 for 45 minutes; and £105.30 for 90 minutes. Iridium and INMARSAT charges are set by third party satellite services providers and not by the MOD communications contractor. Charges for calls to mobile telephones will vary according to the network provider chosen by the individual.

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many members of the armed forces who are (a) deployed and (b) awaiting deployment to (i) Iraq and (ii) Afghanistan have not been issued with a pair of Midel or Magnum boots; and if he will make a statement. [191467]

Des Browne: Since July 2007, members of the UK armed forces deploying to Iraq and Afghanistan have been provided with a pair of Meindl desert boots and a pair of Magnum desert boots as standard. Troops deploying for the winter months are also provided with an additional pair of boots designed for cold and wet conditions.

Following a further study of the optimum arrangements, and as stocks allow, deploying troops will be given the option to choose Lowe desert boots as an alternative to Meindl boots.

Iraq: Resettlement

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many Iraqi citizens formerly employed by the Ministry of Defence have been recognised by the Office of the UN High Commissioner for Refugees as refugees in need of resettlement. [189944]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: To date, we are aware of one Iraqi civilian formally employed by the Ministry of Defence who has been recognised by the UN High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) as a refugee in need of resettlement.

Iraq: Weapons

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment his Department has made of the accuracy of the defence intelligence staff estimates prior to the Iraq war that claims about Iraqi weapons of mass destruction had been exaggerated. [189428]

Des Browne [holding answer 3 March 2008]: On 3 February 2004, the then Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs my right hon. Friend the Member for Blackburn (Mr. Straw) announced the establishment of a Committee of Privy Councillors, to be headed by the right hon. Lord Butler of Brockwell KG GCB CVO, to review intelligence on weapons of mass destruction.

The Terms of Reference of the Committee included investigation of the accuracy of intelligence on Iraqi WMD up to March 2003, examination of any discrepancies between the intelligence gathered, evaluated and used by the Government before the conflict, and between that intelligence and what had been discovered by the Iraq Survey Group since the end of the conflict.

The Butler Committee delivered its formal report "Review of Intelligence on Weapons of Mass Destruction" (HC898) on 14 July 2004. That report, the conclusions of which the Government accepted in full, constitutes the formal Government review on this matter; no subsequent assessment on this matter has been undertaken within the Ministry of Defence.

Military Bases: Manpower

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which 10 UK military installations have the largest numbers of military personnel. [190713]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Individual defence installations do not routinely publish personnel data, as different organisations and agencies are responsible for the same location or site. Figures for the stationed location of UK Regular Forces are only available at local authority level using centrally held data; to do otherwise would involve disproportionate cost.

Listed are the 10 local authorities with the most stationed military personnel:

1. Portsmouth
2. Richmondshire
3. Plymouth
4. Salisbury
5. Kennet
6. North Kesteven
7. North Wiltshire
8. Westminster
9. Moray
10. West Oxfordshire

Naval Service personnel on sea service are included against the local authority containing the home port of their ship.

Military Equipment: Land Mines

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 7 February 2008, Official Report, column 1494W, on military equipment: land mines, when the armed forces procured the Husky, known as Chubby vehicle sets; at what price they were purchased; when they were disposed of; to whom they were sold; and at what price they were sold. [190314]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Although Chubby vehicle sets were used in Bosnia in 1996, provided, we believe, as an urgent operational requirement, we no longer hold the relevant procurement records. The Chubby vehicle sets were gifted by the MOD to the Halo Trust on 20 March 2001. The value of the gift is recorded as £27,000.

Nuclear Power: Waste Disposal

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether nuclear (a) waste and (b) materials originating in the UK have been dumped at sea since 1978. [187709]

Mr. Woolas: I have been asked to reply.

Pure nuclear materials (i.e. fissile plutonium and uranium) have not been knowingly dumped at sea since 1978. However, laboratory and process waste, contaminated by nuclear materials from both the civil and military sectors, was disposed of from 1978 until 1982 into areas of the north east Atlantic.

Small Scale Focused Intervention Battlegroup

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which units will form the Small Scale Focused Intervention Battlegroup. [190669]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Black Watch The 3rd Battalion The Royal Regiment of Scotland assumed the Small Scale Focused Intervention Battle Group role on the 15 February 2008 and will retain this commitment until the 19 of May 2008, when it will hand over to the 2nd Battalion the Royal Regiment of Fusiliers.

Territorial Army Continuous Attitude Survey

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library a copy of the latest Territorial Army Continuous Attitude Survey. [190652]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Yes. I will place a copy of the latest Territorial Army Continuous Attitude Survey Technical Annex, produced in April 2007, and the associated questionnaire in the Library of the House.

Western European Armaments Group: Finance

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the (a) annual budget of and (b) UK's contribution to the Western European Armaments Group was in each year from 1997 to 2005. [190719]

Des Browne: The Western European Armaments Group budgets and UK contribution to those budgets for the years 1997 to 2005 were as follows:

| | Approved WEAG budget (€) | UK contribution (€) | UK contribution in sterling (estimated using the average general accounting rate (GAR) for that year) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2005 | 950,000.00 | 128,212.00 | 89,321.00 |
| 2004 | 483,855.00 | 65,301.00 | 45,091.00 |
| 2003 | 552,840.00 | 74,611.00 | 48,484.00 |
| 2002 | 844,544.00 | 113,980.00 | 70,931.00 |
| 2001 | 984,971.00 | 132,932.00 | 82,448.00 |
| 2000 | 631,669.00 | 103,278.00 | 68,478.00 |
| 1999 | 478,452.00 | 78,227.00 | 55,237.00 |
| 1998 | 450,720.00 | 73,693.00 | 49,708.00 |
| 1997 | 438,058.00 | 71,623.00 | 49,057.00 |

PRIME MINISTER

Departmental Pay

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Prime Minister how much was claimed in reimbursable expenses by Senior Civil Service staff in his Office in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [187550]

The Prime Minister: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my hon. Friend the Parliamentary Secretary to the Cabinet Office on 3 March (UIN 187551).

Press

Mr. Laws: To ask the Prime Minister (1) what the total annual cost of his press office was in each year since 1996-97; what the cost was for each quarter since 1 April 2007; and if he will make a statement; [189742]

(2) pursuant to the answer of 21 February 2008, Question 163573, on the press office budget, for what reasons it is not possible to estimate the expenditure of the Downing street press office for each (a) quarter and (b) year since 31 March 1997; and if he will make a statement. [189763]

The Prime Minister: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 22 February 2008, Official Report, columns 1099-1100W. Non-comparable information for previous years is a matter of public record and can be found in the Official Report.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Prime Minister how many press officers were employed in the Downing street press office in each reporting period since 31 March 1997; how many were employed on the most recent date for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [189764]

The Prime Minister: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 15 October 2007, Official Report, columns 819-20W, and to the answers given by my predecessor (Tony Blair) on 30 November 2006, Official Report, columns 895-6W, 22 March 2004, Official Report, column 561W, 10 April 2002, Official Report, column 11W and 22 November 2001, Official Report, column 471W.

Television

Mr. Maude: To ask the Prime Minister how many plasma television screens have been purchased by 10 Downing street, and at what cost in the last 24 months. [191030]

The Prime Minister: I refer the right hon. Member to the answer given by my hon. Friend the Parliamentary Secretary to the Cabinet Office today.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

British Indian Ocean Territory: Military Bases

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Statement of 21 February 2008, Official Report, column 547, on terrorist suspects (renditions), whether he plans to (a) review and (b) seek changes to the agreement between the UK and the US on the military use of the Chagos Islands. [190233]

Meg Munn: The 1966 Exchange of Notes, by which the British Indian Ocean Territory was set aside for the defence purposes of the UK and the US, will continue in force for a further period of 20 years beyond 2016, unless it is duly terminated. The UK and US will of course continue to consult closely on their mutual defence needs.

Burma: Arms Trade

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make it his policy to support calls for a universal arms embargo on Burma and to introduce such an embargo through the UN Security Council. [189963]

Meg Munn: The UK works closely with its partners at the UN to press the Burmese regime to engage constructively with the Secretary-General's Good Offices mission. We have made clear that, should the regime fail to make progress towards genuine national reconciliation, under UN auspices, we would press for further UN action. We would support the imposition of a UN arms embargo. Such a measure would require the adoption of a Chapter VII Resolution by the Security Council.

A strict EU arms embargo is already in place. We stand ready to elaborate further restrictive measures if we see no, or limited, progress on reform by the Burmese regime.

Burma: Sanctions

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make it his policy to support calls for targeted banking sanctions against members of the military regime in Burma. [189964]

Meg Munn: We are actively examining the options for extending existing measures to include targeted banking sanctions against members of the military regime in Burma.

The EU common position on Burma includes a ban on investment and the provision of financial services to certain enterprises linked to the military regime. It also includes an asset freeze, which targets the regime leadership, the senior ranks of the military and their family members.

Burma: Singapore

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will take steps to urge the government of Singapore to introduce a visa ban on members of Burma' military regime to prevent them from entering Singapore for any reason. [189965]

Meg Munn: We are in regular contact with the Singaporean authorities regarding the situation in Burma. I spoke to the Singaporean Ministry for Foreign Affairs, 2nd Permanent Secretary Bilahari Kausikan, on 18 February to discuss recent developments in Burma.

Singapore, both nationally and in its current role as Association of South East Asian Nations (ASEAN) chair, has made clear its concerns about the violent repression carried out by the Burmese authorities last year, its wish to see the regime engaging in genuine dialogue with Burma's opposition parties, and its support for the UN Secretary-General's goodwill mission. Singapore and its ASEAN partners do not support the application of sanctions at this time. The imposition of sanctions is part of our ongoing conversation with Singapore and other countries in the region.

We will continue to encourage all our ASEAN partners to do all they can to support political reform and national reconciliation.

Departmental Parliamentary Questions

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what (a) guidance and (b) training is provided by his Department to (i) Ministers and (ii) officials in relation to the answering of (A) written and (B) oral parliamentary questions; and if he will make a statement. [191208]

Meg Munn [holding answer 3 March 2008]: Ministers appointed to work in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) receive on arrival a bespoke briefing pack, which includes guidance on parliamentary procedures.

The FCO's intranet contains written guidance on all aspects of parliamentary work, including drafting replies to written and oral questions. The FCO's Parliamentary Relations Team run a one-day course for officials on parliamentary work, which includes advice on drafting replies to written and oral questions. In addition, FCO officials have the option of attending other courses on parliamentary work offered by the National School of Government.

Diplomatic Service: Security

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on how many occasions British Embassies and Consulates have been subject to (a) data security breaches, (b) physical intrusion and (c) incidents which have compromised the physical integrity of the premises or the safety of staff since 1997; and what the nature of each incident was. [189987]

Meg Munn: It is not Foreign and Commonwealth Office practice to comment on security at its overseas posts.

Equatorial Guinea: Diplomatic Service

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will reopen the UK mission to Equatorial Guinea. [190237]

Meg Munn: The UK has never had a mission in Equatorial Guinea.

Non-resident diplomatic cover for Equatorial Guinea is provided by our high commissioner in Abuja and his staff. Consular cover is provided by our deputy high commission in Lagos and there is a British Honorary Consul resident in Malabo.

The Government have no plans to establish a permanent diplomatic presence in Equatorial Guinea at this point. We believe that current arrangements are sufficient to represent UK interests in Equatorial Guinea.

Equatorial Guinea: Simon Mann

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he expects a date to be set for the trial of Simon Mann in Equatorial Guinea; and if he will make a statement. [191240]

Meg Munn [holding answer 3 March 2008]: The timing of any trial is a matter for the Equatorial Guinea legal authorities.

European Union: Banks

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what plans he has to discuss the use of European banking systems to facilitate (a) tax evasion and (b) criminal activity on the part of UK citizens with the EU Council of Ministers. [190065]

Mr. Jim Murphy: We expect tax evasion and related issues to be discussed at the Economic and Financial Affairs Council today, in advance of the spring European Council on 13-14 March. The UK believes the EU has a key role to play in tackling cross-border tax evasion and financial crime. The EU continues to work to prevent tax evasion and financial crime under various directives, including the savings tax directive and relevant agreements with third countries.

Islam

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what visits abroad were funded by his Department in relation to the Projecting British Muslims project in each year since it was established; what the cost of each visit was; and who the members of the relevant delegations from Britain were who participated in each visit. [191597]

Dr. Howells: With regard to Projecting British Islam delegations, I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave him on 13 December 2007, Official Report, column 831W.

Israel

Dr. Starkey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations were made to the Israeli authorities following the attempted arrest of General Almog in September 2005 on the denial of police access to the El Al aeroplane at Heathrow Airport. [190351]

Dr. Howells: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office made no representations to the Israeli authorities on this issue. Aviation security is a matter for the Department for Transport and policing at Heathrow airport is a matter for the Metropolitan Police and the Home Office.

Dr. Starkey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether his Department has obtained assurances from the Israeli authorities on the co-operation of armed Israeli air marshals with UK police officers in the lawful execution of their duty on aircraft on British soil. [190352]

Dr. Howells: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office has not sought assurances from the Government of Israel regarding air marshals. Aviation security is a matter for the Department for Transport and policing at Heathrow airport is a matter for the Metropolitan Police and the Home Office.

Japan: Whales

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions the Minister for Asia had with the Japanese Foreign Minister in Tokyo in January on Japan's whaling programme in the Southern Ocean; and if he will make a statement. [189968]

Dr. Howells: My noble Friend the Minister for Africa, Asia and the UN, the right hon. Lord Malloch-Brown, visited Tokyo from 17-19 January. During his discussion with the Japanese Foreign Minister, the Minister reiterated the UK's strong opposition to Japan's whaling programme.

The Government believe whaling is inherently cruel and continue strongly to urge Japan to cease its whaling activities. In December last year our ambassador in Tokyo took part in a 30 country (plus the European Commission) demarche to the Japanese Ministry of Foreign Affairs to protest against Japan's whaling programme. The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs my hon. Friend the Member for Chatham and Aylesford (Jonathan Shaw) met with the deputy head of mission at the Japanese embassy in January and robustly challenged Japan's policy on whaling, pointing out that the UK would continue to state our opposition on this issue publicly.

Mineral Waters

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many litres of bottled water were purchased by his Department in each of the last three years; and if he will make a statement. [191252]

Meg Munn: The information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Nepal: Elections

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what support he plans to provide to assist democratic elections in Nepal. [191602]

Dr. Howells: We continue to believe that the elections to a Constituent Assembly in Nepal, currently planned for 10 April, are key to sustaining the momentum of the current peace process. It is important that all political parties in Nepal, with the support of the international community including the UK, work to ensure that they are credible, free and fair and that they allow a voice to all marginalised groups. We have maintained our wide-ranging backing for the electoral process, including through co-funding the Election Commission and supporting voter education programmes. In addition, we have provided funding to allow the Carter Centre and Asia Foundation to provide international and local non-governmental organisations to monitor elections. As part of our efforts to encourage wider international support, we have pressed the EU to increase the number of election monitors it will deploy to Nepal. Through the UK's Global Conflict Prevention Pool, we have recently approved funding for a number of hon. Members to travel to Nepal to take part in an election observation mission.

Nepal: Human Rights

Mr. MacDougall: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the political and human rights situation of the Madhesis people of Nepal. [191422]

Dr. Howells: The question of Madhesi rights and engagement in the political process has risen sharply up the agenda through the last year, following significant disturbances and violent protests across the Terai region. Throughout this period, the UK, with our international partners, has continued to urge the Government of Nepal to engage with Madhesi groups, to address their legitimate concerns and to bring them into a fully representative electoral process. The UK joined with our EU partners in welcoming the 28 February 2008 agreement between the Government of Nepal and the United Democratic Madhesi Front, which addresses many of the main Madhesi demands and which has allowed Madhesi parties to start the process of nominating candidates to the elections.

Through the UK's continuing support of the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights in Nepal and local and international non-governmental organisations, the UK has worked to reduce human rights violations in the Terai and elsewhere in Nepal. While the agreement of 28 February 2008 will go some way to ensuring the recognition of Madhesi rights, the UK will continue to work with human rights defenders across Nepal to help promote respect for international human rights standards.

Pakistan: Politics and Government

Mr. MacDougall: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the political situation in Pakistan. [191421]

Dr. Howells: I welcome the opportunity taken by the people of Pakistan to exercise their democratic voice in the recent elections. I endorse the EU Election Observation Mission report's findings and we are pleased they assessed that the elections were competitive, despite the well-documented procedural problems.

Despite fundamental problems in the electoral process in the run up to election day, we recognise there has been progress since the last elections in 2002. The Government are determined to work closely with the people and Government of Pakistan to help them meet the challenges they now face—including political, economic, education and health.

Spain: Football

Dr. Iddon: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with his Spanish counterpart on the violence at the Bolton Wanderers versus Atletico Madrid football match in Madrid on 21 February 2008. [190041]

Mr. Jim Murphy: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has not held discussions with his Spanish counterpart on this issue. The Home Office has requested police and other reports on the incident. Bolton Wanderers and the Football Association are also pursuing this matter with UEFA.

Sudan: Armed Conflict

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he has received reports of clashes between the Misseriya and Dinka in Southern Kordofan. [189995]

Meg Munn: We are aware of clashes between the Misseriya and Dinka tribes in South Kordofan which the UN Mission in Sudan has attributed to disputes over land access, grazing rights and migration. Through the Department for International Development, we are funding a stability assessment in South Kordofan and governance capacity-building programme (implemented through the UN Development Programme) to improve institutional capacity to respond to such disputes and deal with returning internally displaced persons.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he has made representations to the government of Sudan on attacks carried out by Sudanese government forces in West Darfur since 8 February and the impact of the violence on the humanitarian situation there; and if he will make a statement. [189996]

Meg Munn: Our ambassador in Khartoum, in a meeting with Sudanese presidential adviser Mustafa Osman Ismail on 21 February, expressed our deep concern about civilian casualties and displacement following the Sudanese armed forces attacks in the Jebel Moun in West Darfur on 18-19 February. She called on the Sudanese Government to meet their responsibilities under international humanitarian law to protect civilians and to end all aerial bombing immediately.

My right hon. Friends the Foreign Secretary and the Secretary of State for International Development, called on all parties to stop the violence, allow immediate humanitarian access, to protect civilians and to facilitate the deployment of the UN-African Union Mission in Darfur in a joint statement of 27 February.

Sudan: China

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether progress was made during Liu Guijin's visit to the UK on co-operation between the UK and China on issues pertaining to Darfur and Sudan; and if he will make a statement. [189993]

Meg Munn: My right hon. Friend the Prime Minister agreed with Chinese Premier Wen, when they met in Beijing in January, that they would work together to advance both political talks and deployment of the UN-African Union peacekeeping force for Darfur. Since then my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister has discussed the issues further with Premier Wen and Chinese State Councillor Tang, and my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary with the Chinese Foreign Minister Yang, in advance of his visit to China last month.

My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for International Development, along with other ministerial colleagues and officials, has also raised these points with the Chinese Special Envoy for Africa, during the envoy's visit this week to London and in particular have encouraged him to urge restraint on all sides during his forthcoming talks in Khartoum and N'Djamena.

Tourism: Football

Dr. Iddon: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps his Department takes to protect non-violent British football supporters when they attend football matches in other countries. [190044]

Meg Munn: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) plan for football matches involving British clubs, held overseas to ensure the level of consular support they provide to travelling British supporters is proportionate to the risk of disruption and violence. Officials work closely with the relevant local authorities, the Home Office (which has lead responsibility for policing and public safety issues at matches overseas), clubs, the Football Association and relevant fans' groups to determine the level of risk. In all cases, officials will provide British supporters with consular assistance as set out in the FCO's publication "Support for British Nationals Abroad: A Guide". The Home Office is working closely with football safety experts across Europe in taking forward a pan-European programme of measures designed to mitigate safety and security risks at international football matches.

Turkey: Armed Conflict

Mr. Llwyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the government of Turkey on its decision to engage Kurdish forces in the North of Iraq. [191108]

Mr Jim Murphy: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has urged his Turkish counterpart that Turkey should conclude this operation as quickly as possible, and then withdraw its troops from northern Iraq. We have also pressed Turkey to take all possible steps to avoid causing harm to civilians. We continue to encourage the Turkish government, the Iraqi government and Kurdish Regional authorities to work together to resolve this issue through dialogue.

Western Sahara: Human Rights

Mark Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with his Moroccan counterpart on the human rights situation in Western Sahara. [190659]

Dr. Howells: The UK is concerned about the welfare of the people of Western Sahara. While my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has not discussed human rights in Western Sahara with his Moroccan counterpart, I have discussed a range of issues regarding conditions on the ground in Western Sahara with the Moroccan Foreign Minister, Fassi Fihri, most recently in July 2007. Officials in Rabat, London and New York are in regular dialogue with the Moroccan authorities, civil society and other interested parties regarding Western Sahara, including on human rights.

The UK also remains concerned that the issue of the status of Western Sahara remains unresolved, with consequent problems for the people of the region. The UN Security Council unanimously adopted resolution 1783 on 31 October 2007, which renewed the mandate of the UN Mission for the Referendum in Western Sahara until 30 April 2008. The resolution also calls upon the parties to continue negotiations under the auspices of the UN Secretary-General, without preconditions and in good faith. The UK fully supports these negotiations, with a view to achieving a just, lasting and mutually acceptable political solution, which will provide for the self-determination of the people of Western Sahara.

JUSTICE

Crown Dependencies

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice on what occasions (a) Ministers and (b) officials in his Department or its predecessor met representatives of the government of the Isle of Man in each year since 1997; what issues were discussed; what the (i) location and (ii) duration of each meeting was; whether a record of each meeting was kept; who attended each meeting; and if he will make a statement. [190787]

Mr. Wills: There are regular meetings between officials in the Ministry of Justice and their counterparts in the Isle of Man and it would not be possible to list each one. Some of these meetings have taken place in the Isle of Man, some in the Ministry of Justice and some in other Government Departments. In general no formal or permanent record of these meetings is kept and most often action points are agreed between the respective officials.

From records and in the time available I can confirm that the following high-level meetings have taken place.

On 31 July and 1 August 2002 the then Parliamentary Secretary at the Lord Chancellor's Department, the right hon. Member for Doncaster, Central (Ms Winterton), with officials visited the Isle of Man and held meetings with the Chief Minister, the Lieutenant Governor, the Chief Secretary, the President of Tynwald, the Speaker of the House of Keys and members of Tynwald. Among the issues discussed were international tax, the exchange of information, terrorism, the undersea gas pipeline, the euro, access to national lottery proceeds, student visas and Sellafield.

Between 26 and 28 November 2002 the Lord Chancellor and Permanent Secretary with other officials visited the Isle of Man and held meetings with the Chief Minister, the Lieutenant Governor, the Chief Secretary, the Chief Financial Officer, the President of Tynwald, the Speaker of the House of Keys, members of Tynwald and the Financial Supervision Commission. Among the issues discussed were, international tax, the euro, security issues (routes to Isle of Man), speed of response on fisheries matters, the Isle of Man aircraft register, extension of maritime conventions to Isle of Man and Sellafield.

On 4 and 5 November 2003 my hon. Friend the Member for Tottenham (Mr. Lammy) (then Parliamentary Under Secretary to Department for Constitutional Affairs) with officials visited the Isle of Man and held meetings with the Chief Minister, the Lieutenant Governor, the Chief Secretary, the President of Tynwald, the Speaker of the House of Keys, members of Tynwald and the Deputy Deemster. Among the issues discussed were, the competitiveness of the Isle of Man shipping register, airport slots and regional access, taxation and market access, fisheries, the lottery, UK higher education and top - up fees, qualified teacher status, visa applications for full time study in the Isle of Man, the inclusion of the Isle of Man in UK co-production treaty arrangements, UNESCO and the nomination of Tynwald Hill as a World Heritage Site.

On 22 and 23 September 2005 the Lord Chancellor with officials visited the Isle of Man and held meetings with the Chief Minister, the Chief Secretary, the Attorney-General, members of Tynwald, the Deemster, the Chief Financial Officer, the Director of External Relations, the Financial Services Commission and the Insurance and Pensions Authority. Among the issues discussed were relations between the Isle of Man and the UK, the Isle of Man financial services industry, the impact of EU and UK initiatives on the Isle of Man, tax information exchange agreements, development of the Isle of Man's international profile, the Isle of Man space business, UK e-gaming regulation, the World Trade Organisation, immigration and anti-terrorism measures.

On 25 and 26 January 2007 the Permanent Secretary for the Department for Constitutional Affairs with officials visited the Isle of Man and held meetings with the Lieutenant Governor, the Chief Minister, the President of Tynwald, the Treasury Minister, the First Deemster, the Chief Secretary, Attorney-General, Chief Financial Officer, and the Director of External Relations. Among the issues discussed were the Isle of Man's external relations, the development of the relationship between the Isle of Man and the UK and the development of an international identity framework, taxation and entrustment.

On 5 December 2007 the Isle of Man Chief Minister with officials visited the Ministry of Justice for an introductory meeting with me. Among the issues discussed by Ministers and officials was the Isle of Man's external relations and working relations between the respective administrations.

Crown Dependencies: Legislation

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice on what occasions the Privy Council consulted his Department or its predecessor on legislative matters submitted for promulgation from the Isle of Man in each year since 1997. [190784]

Mr. Wills: The Privy Council has not consulted the Ministry of Justice, or its predecessors, on any legislative matter submitted for promulgation from the Isle of Man since 1997. Isle of Man legislation is not submitted directly to Privy Council but to the Ministry of Justice so that the Secretary of State for Justice, in his role as the Privy Counsellor primarily responsible for matters relating to the Crown Dependencies may advise:

(a) His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor of the Isle of Man whether he may exercise his delegated authority to give Assent, on behalf of Her Majesty, to the legislation or

(b) that legislation dealing with defence; international relations; nationality and citizenship; the powers and remuneration of the Lieutenant Governor; the constitutional relationship between the UK and the Isle of Man; or which affects the Royal prerogative or the rights of The Queen in Her private capacity should be reserved for the signification of Her Majesty in Council and submitted to the Privy Council with the recommendation that Her Majesty in Council may properly be advised to make an assenting Order.

Records from 1997 to 2001 are not accessible in the available time but between 1 January 2001 to 31 December 2007 a total of 98 Isle of Man Bills were promulgated. Of those, only one was reserved for the Signification of Her Majesty in Council, the Constitution (Amendment) Act 2005.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) what legislation introduced by the Government was considered for extension to the Isle of Man in each Session since 1997; and if he will make a statement; [190786]

(2) on what occasions the Government has consulted the administration of the Isle of Man on legislative issues since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [190785]

Mr. Wills: Since 1997 the Government have consulted the Isle of Man about extension of the Acts of Parliament listed as follows.

This list is complied by year rather than by session due to the manner in which records are held, and is not definitive as only electronic records could be accessed in the time available.

Departmental Equality

Roger Berry: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what conclusions his Department has reached in fulfilment of the duty under section 3.111 of the statutory code of practice of the disability equality duty. [190674]

Mr. Wills: The Ministry of Justice (MoJ) is committed to promoting equality of opportunity for disabled people and welcomes its responsibilities under the Disability Equality Duty.

This Department will shortly be publishing its 'Disability Equality Scheme, Annual Review'. The report will be published in conjunction with the first MoJ Disability Equality Scheme (DBS) for the period 2008-11.

Key priorities identified by our stakeholders with disabilities are access to justice, to buildings and information; community engagement; and training. Related actions on these priority areas will be taken forward during the life of the forthcoming MoJ DES.

Departmental Marketing

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer of 5 February 2008, Official Report, column 1110W, on departmental marketing, how many (a) items of corporate display materials, (b) publications, (c) public information booklets, (d) items of building signage, (e) items of hard stationery and (f) lanyards his Department has procured since its establishment; and what its total expenditure on such products has been to date. [190585]

Maria Eagle: The Ministry of Justice was created on 9 May 2007. Quantities of each item procured by the Department are detailed in the following table. Records for orders are not held centrally; the answer has therefore been based on available data.

Total expenditure on these products was given in the answer on 28 February 2008, Official Report, column 1922W.

Departmental Private Finance Initiative

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the (a) value and (b) start date was of each private finance initiative project approved by his Department in each of the last three financial years. [190797]

Maria Eagle: The capital value and start date for every signed PFI project are recorded centrally on the Treasury's website at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/documents/public_private_partnerships/ppp_pfi_stats.cfm

Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice when the courts will begin to make restraining orders on acquittal under section 12 of the Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004. [188814]

Mr. Coaker: I have been asked to reply.

Section 12 of the Domestic Violence Crime and Victims Act 2004 will enable courts to impose restraining orders on those convicted of any offence, and also on those who are acquitted for any offence. This will mean that restraining orders will be available in a much wider range of cases.

We are currently working with the Ministry of Justice on the resource implications of this provision. When we have resolved this issue, we will be in a position to agree a timetable for the implementation of this section of the Act.

Employment Agencies

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much his Department paid to recruitment agencies in relation to departmental appointments in each year since 1997. [184914]

Maria Eagle: My Department does not hold this information centrally and it is, therefore, not possible to collate this without incurring disproportionate costs.

For posts below SCS, recruitment agencies are not used, other than in exceptional circumstances when a particular skills set is identified. This information is not held centrally.

The Civil Service Recruitment website, which was launched in December 2002, is the site of first choice for central government recruitment. There is no advertising cost associated with this facility.

As a part of the Civil Service Reform agenda applications from outside the Civil Service and from all sections of the community are encouraged. External recruitment support may be used to facilitate this.

Feltham Young Offender Institution and Remand Centre

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many inmates have been detained within the Ibis Unit at HM Young Offender Institution Feltham in each of the last 36 months; and if he will make a statement. [190627]

Maria Eagle: The information is set out in the following table and includes people who may have been held on Ibis Unit for as little as one hour.

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the criteria are for determining whether an inmate at HM Young Offender Institution Feltham should be placed within the Ibis Unit; when these criteria were last reviewed; and if he will make a statement. [190628]

Maria Eagle: HMPYOI Feltham follows the national policy set out in Prison Service Order 1700 (Segregation) when determining whether an offender should be located on Ibis Unit. A full review of PSO 1700 is currently in its latter stages. The last review was completed in November 2003. Adjudications (including decisions on whether to segregate as a punishment) are conducted in accordance with the requirements of PSO 2000 (The Prison Discipline Manual).

HM Prison Norwich: Smuggling

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what assessment he has made of the volume of contraband in HM Prison Norwich in each of the last 36 months; and if he will make a statement. [190823]

Maria Eagle: From 1 January 2005 to 31 December 2007 there were 208 drugs finds and 149 mobile phones finds at Norwich prison. The figures are broken down by month in the following table. As the table demonstrates there has been a decrease in drug finds year on year from 86 in 2005 to 52 in 2007. The assessment is that the reduced number of drug finds has coincided with a drop in the Positive Mandatory Drug Testing rate at Norwich to 5.67 per cent. (April 2007—January 2008), which indicates that a significant proportion of drugs coming into the establishment are being intercepted. Norwich has strategies in place to maximise mobile phone finds, and the number of such finds suggests the strategy is generating some success. It is not Prison Service policy to disclose details of individual establishment strategies for intercepting contraband.

Monarchy: Marriage

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) whether the opinion in respect of royal marriages, prepared by the Attorney General and dated 28 October 1955, at the request of the Lord Chancellor, Viscount Kilmuir is still extant; and if he will make a statement; [188413]

(2) what guidance he holds on who comes within the scope of section (a) 1 and (b) 2 of the Royal Marriage Act 1772; and on how many occasions the process in section 2 has been implemented in the last 30 years. [188412]

Mr. Straw: Any amendment to the Royal Marriages Act 1772 that touched on Succession to the Crown would engage the Statute of Westminster 1931. The opinion that the Attorney-General provided in 1955 to the then Lord Chancellor, is publicly available on the Ministry of Justice website:

http://www.dca.gov.uk/rights/dca/inforeleased/royalmarriages.htm

The Department holds no guidance on the scope of section 1 beyond the requirement on the face of the Act that it applies to the descendants of George II except those who are the issue of princesses married into foreign families. There is no record of the process in section 2 having been implemented in the last 30 years.

Polygamy

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what (a) research he has commissioned and (b) representations he has received on the recognition of polygamous marriages. [190488]

Bridget Prentice: The Ministry of Justice has not commissioned research or received any official representations on the recognition of polygamous marriages.

A person domiciled in a country where polygamous marriage is permitted, is free to enter into such a marriage in that country. Provided the parties follow the necessary requirements under the law of the country in question, the marriage would be recognised in England and Wales as a valid and polygamous marriage.

Prisoners: Health

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners detained in Essex have been classified as in need of assistance for mental health problems; and if he will make a statement. [190704]

Maria Eagle: This information is not held centrally.

Investment in prison mental health in-reach services has been nearly £20 million each year since 2004-05. In total, the Government are investing around £200 million on prison health services in 2006-07—a substantial increase on the £118 million spent in 2002-03.

All prisoners, both new prisoners and those transferred from one prison to another, benefit from a new health screening process that is designed to detect physical and mental health problems.

Prisoners who are identified as needing further help can be referred to a mental health in-reach team, who will arrange further assessment and follow up referral.

Prisons

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much his Department has spent on feasibility studies of the proposed titan prisons; and if he will make a statement. [188156]

Mr. Straw: The Government announced on 5 December that it had accepted Lord Carter of Coles' recommendation to build up to three Titan prisons. Lord Carter had access to a range of expertise and advice in drawing up his report and consulted a variety of stakeholders. The cost of work to date to examine the feasibility of Titan prisons is not separately identifiable.

Prisons: Scotland

Mr. Ingram: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice whether there have been discussions between his Department and the Scottish Executive on the provision of high security facilities within the Scottish Prison Service for the imprisonment of terrorists convicted under the Scottish judicial system. [190851]

Mr. Hanson: I am not aware of any discussions with the Scottish Executive on this subject. However, HM Prison Service liaises with the Scottish Prison Service and the Northern Ireland Prison Service on a range of issues of mutual interest.

Speed Limits: Fines

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many fines arising from speed cameras in London were (a) unpaid after exhaustion of the legal process and (b) overdue at the most recent date for which figures are available. [190525]

Maria Eagle: Information on unpaid and overdue fines from speed camera convictions is not collected centrally.

The information collected by my Department identifies the number of fixed penalties ordered to be paid and the number and amounts of court fines issued for such offences within each police force area. Fixed penalties that remain unpaid after the statutory period (28 days in the case of a fixed penalty resulting from unattended camera operation) are registered as fines at one and a half times the original fixed penalty amount.

The overall payment rate for fines in general for the period to January 2008 is 92 per cent. It is not possible to breakdown the total of unpaid fines for individual offences.

Suicide: Internet

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will bring forward legislative proposals to give young people greater protection from suicide-related web sites. [188281]

Maria Eagle: I understand concerns about these websites and the influence they may have over vulnerable people, particularly young people. As part of its review of the law relating to assisting and encouraging crime, the Law Commission examined the issue of suicide websites and made some recommendations which the Government are considering. Those recommendations, if implemented, would update but not substantively change the law. The Law Commission were absolutely clear in their conclusion that existing law is capable of dealing with the contemporary problem posed by suicide websites.

We have looked again at this area of law in the light of recent tragic events in Bridgend but we believe that the offences of assisting and attempting to assist suicide should together be sufficient to respond to any behaviour that ought to be unlawful.

Trials: Measurement

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many cases are (a) under investigation and (b) awaiting court proceedings in respect of the use of imperial weights and measures; and if he will make a statement; [190478]

(2) what cases in which legal proceedings have been completed have been prosecuted in relation to preventing the use of imperial weights and measures in each of the last three years. [190479]

Maria Eagle: The available information on prosecutions under the Weights and Measures act 1985 for offences related to weights and measures provisions is provided in the following table:

Number of defendants proceeded against at magistrates courts under the Weights and Measures Act 1985 for offences related to weights and measures provisions, England and Wales 2004-06 [1,2]

| 2004 | 54 |
| 2005 | 37 |
| 2006 | 28 |

[1] These data are provided on the principal offence basis.
[2] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete.
Notes:
However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the police forces and courts.
As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.
Source:
Court Proceedings Database—Office For Criminal Justice Reform

It is not possible to identify the number of these prosecutions relating solely to the use of imperial weights and measures from other prosecutions under the Weights and Measurement Act 1985.

Enforcement of weights and measures legislation is undertaken by local authority Trading Standards Departments. Local authorities do not report the number of cases under investigations or awaiting trial under weights and measures legislation to my Department.

HEALTH

Abortion

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) second and (b) third abortions were carried out in England and Wales in 2007. [189982]

Dawn Primarolo: The Annual Abortion Statistics for England and Wales 2007 will be published in June this year. Statistics for repeat abortions for 2006 and previous years are available in the "Annual Statistics, England and Wales", statistical bulletin copies of which are available in the Library.

Adult Audiology Services

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many primary care trusts purchased additional adult audiology services in each of the last two years. [191216]

Mr. Ivan Lewis [holding answer 3 March 2008]: This information is not held centrally.

Air Pollution: Health Hazards

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the levels of respiratory diseases in areas which are subjected to air quality management orders in the latest period for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [189478]

Ann Keen: The Department has made no assessment of the levels of respiratory diseases in areas which are subjected to air quality management orders.

Alcohol Health Alliance

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent meetings he has had with representatives of the Alcohol Health Alliance. [190129]

Dawn Primarolo: On 12 December 2007, I met with Professor Ian Gilmore, who is President of the Royal College of Physicians and Chair of the Alcohol Health Alliance. The meeting was to discuss the newly established Alliance and the action the Government are taking under its strategy "Safe, Sensible, Social. The next steps in the National Alcohol Strategy".

On 21 November 2007, the Prime Minister, the Home Secretary, the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport and I, met with alcohol retailers, alcohol manufacturers, enforcement agencies, representatives of local councils and doctors and academics specialising in alcohol issues, to discuss the problems of under-age drinking and binge-drinking. Professor Gilmore and other representatives of Alliance member organisations took part in this meeting.

Alcoholic Drinks: Death

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of deaths were alcohol-related for (a) men and (b) women in the latest period for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [190130]

Dawn Primarolo: In 2006 the male death rate was 18.3 deaths per 100,000 population, and the female death rate was 8.8 deaths per 100,000 population.

These latest figures for alcohol-related deaths show that much more needs to be done to address the chronic and acute harms that are caused by alcohol misuse. It is vital that we ensure that everyone understands the sensible drinking message and that the public drinks within the low risk levels.

That is why "Safe. Sensible. Social.?the next steps in the National Alcohol Strategy", seeks to implement key actions to raise awareness, by:

promoting a culture of sensible drinking;

raising unit awareness—the Department of Health and the Home Office will jointly launch a much expanded, £10 million sustained national communications campaign in spring that will raise the public's knowledge of units of alcohol and ensure that everyone has the information they need to estimate how much they really do drink;

providing more help for those who want to drink less, through a £3.2 million investment to establish a series of intervention and brief advice 'Trailblazer' projects in health and criminal justice settings to identify people who are drinking at harmful or potentially harmful levels and to offer them help and advice; and supporting harmful drinkers—the Government will support the development of a range of new kinds of information and advice aimed at people who drink at harmful levels and their families and friends. These will run alongside other kinds of support and advice from the national health service.

We have put in place a new NHS indicator to measure the change in the rate of hospital admissions for alcohol related harm (Hospital Episode Statistics data)—the first ever national commitment to monitor how the NHS is tackling alcohol health harms. This indicator is expected to encourage primary care trusts to invest in earlier identification of people who drink too much linked to advice and support from general practitioners or hospitals—shown to be the best way of reducing the kind of 'everyday' drinking which over time leads to liver disease and other problems.

Notes:

The ONS definition of alcohol-related deaths (which includes causes regarded as most directly due to alcohol consumption) was revised in 2006. Details can be found at: www.statistics.gov.uk/statbase/Product.asp?vlnk=14496 and link on this page to 'Alcohol-related deaths in the UK'. ONS has agreed with the GROS and NISRA that this definition will be used to report alcohol-related deaths for the United Kingdom.

Sources:

Office for National Statistics (ONS), General Register Office for Scotland (GROS), Northern Ireland Statistics and Research Agency (NISRA) (published on 25 January 2008).

The introduction of the Tenth Revision of the "International Classification of Diseases" (ICD-10) for coding cause of death means that data following its implementation are not completely comparable with earlier years. Mortality data for England and Wales show that the introduction of ICD-10 resulted in a difference in the number of alcohol-related deaths below one per cent.

Rates are based on deaths registered in each calendar year and are directly age-standardised using the European Standard Population.

Allergies: Health Services

Dr. Starkey: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people were referred on for diagnosis of a suspected allergy to (a) allergy specialists, (b) paediatricians, (c) pathologists and (d) dermatologists by GPs in 2007. [189765]

Ann Keen: Information on the number of people referred on by general practitioners for diagnosis of a suspected allergy is not collected.

Dr. Starkey: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what work his Department has undertaken with Skills for Health to develop national occupational standards for staff involved in allergy services. [189766]

Ann Keen: The Department has commissioned Skills for Health to work with stakeholders to develop national occupational standards (NOS) for staff working with allergy. The NOS will be:

informed by best practice in delivery of health care with allergy; based on patient-led standards ensuring high standards; and a relevant resource for the four countries of the United Kingdom and encompass the expressed need of the voluntary, independent and public sector health care services.

Dr. Starkey: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether he has designated a lead strategic health authority for allergy services. [189768]

Ann Keen: The Department is currently exploring the feasibility of designating a lead strategic health authority (SHA) for allergy services with interested parties, including SHAs and specialised commissioning groups.

Ambulance Services: Manpower

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the (a) target and (b) actual number of ambulance personnel recruited in England was in each of the last five years. [187854]

Ann Keen: The Department does not set targets for ambulance personnel recruitment. The number of ambulance personnel recruited each year is not collected centrally. Local national health service organisations are best placed to assess the health needs of their local health community and plan the workforce they need. The numbers of qualified ambulance staff and support to ambulance staff working in the NHS in England over the last five years are shown in the following table:

NHS Hospital and Community Health Service ambulance staff by type—England as at 30 September each year

| | | 2002 | 2003 | 2004 | 2005 | 2006[1] |

[1] More accurate validation in 2006 has resulted in 9,858 duplicate records being identified and removed from the non-medical census. Although this represents less than one per cent. of total records, it should be taken into consideration when making historical comparisons.

Notes:

In 2006 ambulance staff were collected under new, more detailed, occupation codes.

As a result, qualified totals and support to ambulance staff totals are not directly comparable with previous years.

These 9,858 duplicate records, broken down by main staff group, are: 3,370 qualified nurses; 1,818 qualified scientific, therapeutic and technical staff; 2,719 support to doctors and nurses; 368 support to scientific, therapeutic and technical staff; 1,562 NHS infrastructure support; and 21 in other areas.

The impact of duplicates on full time equivalent numbers has been minimal with the removal of 507.

The information on ambulance staff recruited or employed in Wales is not collected by the Department. The information will be available from the devolved administration in Wales.

Breast Cancer: Screening

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the national standards for uptake of (a) breast and (b) cervical cancer screening were being achieved in (i) England and (ii) Gloucestershire on the latest dates for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [189065]

Ann Keen: Uptake of cervical screening is not measured, women make their own appointments following receipt of a reminder letter. Therefore, to provide consistency, the figures given as follows are for coverage.

The national standard for breast screening coverage is 70 per cent., and the national standard for cervical screening coverage is 80 per cent. The following table gives coverage figures for England and Gloucestershire primary care trust (PCT), for 2005-06, for breast and cervical screening.

Breast screening programme: coverage of women aged 53-64[1][2], at 31 March 2006

| | Eligible population[3] | Number of women screened test) | Coverage (less than 3 years since last (percentage) |
|---|---|---|---|
| Gloucestershire PCT | 44,798 | 36,242 | 80.9 |

[1] The coverage of the breast screening programme is the proportion of women resident and eligible that have had a test with a recorded result at least once in the previous three years. Coverage of the screening programme is best assessed using the 53 to 64 age group as women may be first called at any time between their 50th and 53rd birthdays.
[2] The breast screening programme covers women aged 50 to 64 but it was extended to invite women aged 65 to 70 in April 2001. The last unit began inviting women aged 65 to 70 in April 2006 and full coverage should be achieved by 2008-09.
[3] This is the number of women in the registered population less those recorded as ineligible.
Source:
KC63, The Information Centre for health and social care.

Cervical screening programme: coverage of women aged 25-64[1], at 31 March 2007

| | Eligible population[2] | Coverage (less than 3.5 years since last adequate test) (percentage) | Coverage (less than 5 years since last adequate test) (percentage) |
|---|---|---|---|
| Gloucestershire PCT | 144,927 | 66.3 | 82.1 |

[1] National policy for the cervical screening programme is that eligible women aged 25 to 64 should be screened every three or five years (women aged 25 to 49 are screened every three years, those aged 50 to 64 every five years).
[2] This is the number of women in the resident population less those with recall ceased for clinical reasons.

Cancer

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, when the national programme for advanced communication skills training for senior cancer health care professionals will be rolled out; [187555]

(2) further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, how he will ensure that general and community based clinicians and other health care staff who treat and support cancer patients have access to good communication skills training; [187556]

(3) further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, when a national course will be developed on specific communication skills for effective face-to-face communication with children and young people with cancer; and if he will make a statement on the pilot schemes. [187557]

Ann Keen: The national Advanced Communication Skills Training (ACST) programme has been rolled out, via cancer networks, over the last three years with over 1,500 senior health care professionals within cancer being trained and with 250 facilitators appointed to support delivery of the programme. The course has recently been reviewed and enhanced with the new programme being launched nationally from July 2008. Educational grants are being made to cancer networks to enable the introduction of the updated model locally.

It is for cancer networks working in partnership with strategic health authorities, national health service trusts and postgraduate deaneries to put in place a sustainable process to assess, plan and review their workforce needs and the education and training of all staff linked to local and national priorities for cancer. A number of networks are already looking to deliver communication skills courses to community based and generalist staff groups and it is anticipated that the "End of Life Care Strategy", which is due for publication in summer 2008, will contain further information on communication skills training for the wider workforce.

An adaptation of the ACST programme for children and young people with cancer were piloted and successfully evaluated in April 2007. When the updated model for the ACST programme is introduced in July 2008, training facilitators to deliver programmes for senior staff working in children's and young people's cancer services will commence.

Cancer: Screening

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to increase the uptake of screening for cancer; what initiatives are being undertaken in Gloucestershire; and if he will make a statement. [189063]

Ann Keen: It is important to remember that no screening method is perfect and anyone invited to be screened for cancer must be aware of both the benefit and harm of being screened and be able to make an informed decision on whether to take part or not.

However, we do recognise the important role that screening plays and, as set out in the 'Cancer Reform Strategy', we are taking steps to build on and improve our existing screening services.

This includes extending the age ranges for both breast and bowel screening, so that as many people as possible have the opportunity to be screened. We estimate that this will mean that an extra three million men and women will be screened over the next five years.

It is for strategic health authorities working in partnership with their primary care trusts, local screening services and stakeholders to provide appropriate cancer screening services for their local populations, this includes promotion of local screening services.

Chronically Sick: Health Services

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the number of patients with chronic conditions supported in the community by telemedicine services in the most recent period for which figures are available. [189226]

Ann Keen: The Department does not collect data on the number of patients with chronic conditions supported in the community by telemedicine services.

Departmental Publications

Mr. Mark Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the estimated cost is of the (a) Healthcare for London: Consulting the Capital and (b) Our NHS, Our Future consultation. [187168]

Ann Keen: The estimated cost of the Healthcare for London: Consulting the Capital exercise is not held centrally; nor are the estimated costs of consultation undertaken by other strategic health authorities as part of the nationwide Our National Health Service, Our Future review. However, the estimated cost of Our NHS, Our Future activity and materials organised and produced nationally by the Department in 2007-08 is £2.5 million.

Doctors: Manpower

Mr. Allen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many doctors and nurses were employed by the NHS in (a) the Nottingham primary care trust area and (b) England in (i) 1997 and (ii) 2007. [187305]

Ann Keen: The number of doctors and nurses employed by the national health service in the Nottingham primary care trust (PCT) area and England in 1997-2001 and in 2006 is shown in the following table. The figures for 2007 will be published mid March 2008.

[1] All hospital doctors but excludes medical hospital practitioners and medical clinical assistants, most of whom are GPs working part time in hospitals, and consequently they are included in GPs.

[2] General medical practitioners (excluding retainers and registrars) includes GP providers and GP others.

Notes:

1. In 2005 the Queen's Medical Centre NHS Trust and Nottingham City Hospitals NHS Trust merged to form Nottingham University Hospitals NHS Trust. 2001 figures are an aggregate of these two organisations.
2. Nottingham City PCT was formed in 2001 from part of Nottingham Community Health NHS Trust, along with four other PCTs. It is impossible to calculate figures for Nottingham City PCT prior to 2001.
3. More accurate validation processes in 2006 have resulted in the identification and removal of 9,858 duplicate non-medical staff records out of the total work force figure of 1.3 million in 2006. Earlier years' figures could not be accurately validated in this way and so will be slightly inflated. The level of inflation in earlier years' figures is estimated to be less than 1 per cent. of total across all non-medical staff groups for headcount figures (and negligible for full time equivalents). This should be taken into consideration when analysing trends over time.

Drug Resistant Tuberculosis

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 19 February 2008, Official Report, columns 668-69W, on drug resistant tuberculosis, whether his Department has powers to detain an individual diagnosed with drug resistant tuberculosis; and if he will make a statement. [189625]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department does not have powers to detain an individual diagnosed with drug resistant tuberculosis.

The Public Health (Control of Disease) Act 1984 contains provisions relating to notifiable diseases (which includes tuberculosis) that enable a local authority to apply to a justice of the peace for an order to remove an infected individual to hospital (section 37) and to detain an infected individual in hospital (section 38), where that individual could pose a serious risk of infection to others. Such orders may direct that the period of detention should last for a specific length of time, and a justice of the peace may renew an order where necessary.

In practice, these powers are rarely used, and usually as a last resort when other efforts to encourage an individual with tuberculosis to comply with drug therapy have failed. The Health Protection Agency estimate that there are approximately 10 to 20 orders made under the 1984 Act provisions each year.

Emergency Services: Manpower

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many emergency care practitioners worked in the NHS in each year since 2005. [189230]

Ann Keen: The role of emergency care practitioner came into being in 2005 and was included in the annual national health service census for the first time in 2006. In 2006 438 (431 full time equivalent) emergency care practitioners were recorded.

Food: Advertising

Mary Creagh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the Food and Drink Advertising and Promotion Forum is scheduled to (a) next meet and (b) publish codes on the promotion of unhealthy foods to children across non-broadcast media. [189988]

Dawn Primarolo: A date for the next Food and Drink Advertising and Promotion Forum meeting has yet to be set. The advertising industry's Committee on Advertising Practice (CAP) is responsible for the self-regulatory British Code of Advertising, Sales Promotions and Direct Marketing, which contains rules of the content of advertising in non-broadcast media. In July 2007, CAP updated this Code to tighten the rules governing the advertising of food and drink to children in line with new restrictions on broadcast advertising. The Department is working with key external stakeholders to address concerns about other forms of marketing including in store promotions and food packaging.

Food: Labelling

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions (a) he and (b) Ministers in his Department and (c) officials have had with representatives of the food industry on the relationship between provision of information on (i) salt, (ii) sugar and (iii) fat content of foods and individuals' ability to manage diabetes, heart disease, stroke, obesity and other chronic medical conditions; what recent representations he has received about this issue; what discussions on the matter he has had with colleagues in the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs; and if he will make a statement. [186401]

Dawn Primarolo: Officials in the Department of Health have regular discussions with the food industry and other Government Departments, including the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, about the provision of information to consumers that enables them to make healthier food choices. People with chronic diseases such as diabetes and stroke should seek advice from their general practitioner or other health care professional about their particular dietary needs.

Food Standards Agency (FSA) officials are in regular dialogue with food industry representatives on this issue as part of discussions on the development and review of front of pack nutrition signpost labelling. The Department is encouraging the industry to provide traffic light colour coded front of pack labels for these nutrients, in line with the FSA's recommendations, which were developed to provide individuals with at-a-glance information to help them make healthier choices in line with their particular dietary needs. This is just one of a range of Government initiatives designed to improve diets, and in doing so, contribute to reducing the prevalence of diet-related diseases, such as obesity, coronary heart disease and some cancers.

Food: Salt

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent meetings (a) Ministers and (b) officials in his Department have had with Consensus Action on Salt and Health on salt intake in diet and health. [190217]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department is aware of the work of the Consensus Action on Salt and Health (CASH) and I spoke at an event organised by CASH during their annual National Salt Awareness Week in January this year. Officials have met CASH to discuss the review of the voluntary salt reduction targets, which is currently under way. CASH have also been present at 19 recent stakeholder meetings held by the Food Standards Agency to inform the Review.

Health and Social Services: Discrimination

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many complaints of age discrimination in healthcare were received by his Department in each of the last 12 months; [187679]

(2) how many complaints of age discrimination in social care were received by his Department in each of the last 12 months; [187684]

(3) what assessment he has made of progress towards the elimination of age discrimination in mental health services; [187685]

(4) what assessment he has made of progress towards the elimination of age discrimination in social care services; [187686]

(5) what assessment he has made of progress towards the elimination of age discrimination in health services; [187687]

(6) what steps his Department has taken in the last 12 months to prevent age discrimination in the provision of healthcare. [187690]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Action to address age discrimination in the provisions of health services and social care was a central aspect of the 'National Service Framework (NSF) for Older People', published in 2001. Since then there has been steady progress in eliminating age discrimination including an increase in the proportion of older people receiving intensive help to maintain a high quality of life independently at home rather than in residential care. In addition, specialist services for age related needs such as stroke and falls continue to improve and increasing numbers of older people are taking advantage of health promotion opportunities, for example stopping smoking.

Local national health service organisations and social services departments are responsible for the management and investigation of complaints, including those of age discrimination; as such, this information is not collected centrally by the Department.

We are committed to the principle of mental health services that meet people's needs regardless of their age. As new policy is developed it is assessed for its potential impact of different age groups, and existing policy and practice is kept under review.

Health Services: Children

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent steps the Government have taken to improve health care services for children. [190034]

Ann Keen: We have initiated a full programme of work across local authorities and primary care trusts to improve services for children with disabilities following the publication of "Aiming High for disabled children", a copy of which is available in the Library. We have also set up a comprehensive child and adolescent mental health service for children with mental health needs as part of the wider child health and wellbeing public service agreement target.

Health Services: Greater London

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence's guidance on Supportive Palliative Care has been fully implemented in Leyton and Wanstead. [190617]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: It is for individual primary care trusts (PCTs), including Redbridge and Waltham Forest PCTs, within the national health service to commission services for their resident population, including end of life care, based on assessments of local needs and priorities. The NHS has been required to set out action plans to achieve compliance with the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence recommendations on supportive and palliative care. Implementation is being monitored by strategic health authorities (SHAs).

Information on the rate of progress locally can be obtained through the London SHA.

Health Trainers

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many health trainers there are in (a) each primary care trust and (b) the NHS. [179130]

Dawn Primarolo: In September 2007 there were 1,282 qualified health trainers (individuals not whole time equivalents) employed, funded, or supported by the national health service in primary care trust (PCT) areas. The following table shows the distribution between PCTs.

| Number of health trainers as at September 2007 | |

Hereditary Diseases

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of information produced by the NHS and aimed at the public on the risk of genetic disorders in children of consanguineous unions. [187699]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department has not made any assessment of information produced by local national health service organisations on consanguineous marriage and the risk of genetic disorders to the public.

Incontinence

Greg Mulholland: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 29 January 2008, Official Report, column 343W, on incontinence, how many letters his Department received commenting on the proposed changes to Part IX of the Drug Tariff from (a) right hon. and hon. Members and (b) others in each year since 2004; and whether the views expressed in those letters will be taken into account when he considers the options for Arrangements under Part IX of the Drug Tariff for the provision of stoma and incontinence appliances and related services to primary care. [188411]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 22 February 2008]: The Department has received a large volume of correspondence on stoma and incontinence issues, however due to the way in which correspondence is recorded the information requested could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

The views expressed in these letters have been and will continue to be considered by the Department in its review of the arrangements under Part IX of the Drug Tariff.

Lung Cancer: Nurses

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the role of lung cancer clinical nurse specialists in the patient journey and in multi-disciplinary teams. [190039]

Ann Keen: In 1998, the Department issued guidance on "Improving Outcomes in Lung Cancer". The Guidance identified clinical nurse specialists as core members of the lung cancer multi-disciplinary team.

The guidance has since been fully implemented across the national health service.

The most recent round of peer review (2004-07) found that for lung cancer, almost 95 per cent. of multi-disciplinary teams had lung cancer nurse specialist provision at the time of the review.

In February 2005, the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) published clinical guidelines on the treatment and diagnosis of lung cancer. The guideline recommended that all cancer units/centres should have one or more trained lung cancer nurse specialists.

NHS compliance with NICE clinical guidelines was assessed for the first time as part of the Healthcare Commission's health checks for 2006-07. Self-assessment by NHS trusts showed that 90 per cent. are making excellent, good or fair progress towards implementing NICE'S clinical guidelines.

The results of this exercise has informed performance management activity by strategic health authorities. Detailed results of the latest 2006-07 exercise can be found on Healthcare Commission's website at:

www.healthcarecommission.org.uk/healthcareproviders/serviceproviderinformation/annualhealthcheck/overviewofresults2006/2007.cfm.

The 2007-08 health check will assesses how well the NHS has continued to perform during the financial year from 1 April 2007 to 31 March 2008. The Healthcare Commission's website contains information about the health check for 2007-08 at:

www.healthcarecommission.org.uk/healthcareproviders/serviceproviderinformation/annualhealthcheck/annualhealthcheck2007/2008.cfm

Maternity Services

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps the Government plan to take to improve maternity services. [190035]

Ann Keen: In April 2007, we set out our plans for improving maternity care in "Maternity Matters: Choice, access and continuity of care in a safe service", a copy of which is available in the Library. In the autumn of 2007, as part of the public service agreement (PSA) announcement, we introduced a PSA maternity indicator to encourage early access to maternity care, which we believe will lead to improved outcomes for mothers and babies.

Members: Correspondence

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he will reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire, dated 25 January 2008, on the future availability of primary medical care to non EU visitors. [190775]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The letter from the hon. Member was answered on 27 February 2008.

Mental Health Services

Stephen Hesford: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients treated for a mental illness in 2007 received NHS counselling and therapy services; and what steps his Department is taking to increase availability of such services. [191287]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The information about numbers of patients who received national health service counselling and therapy is not collected centrally. The Government are investing annually in expanding this provision with funding rising to £173 million in 2010-11. As a first step, the Department is committed to expanding these therapies in 20 primary care trusts in the 2008-09 financial year.

Mental Health: Essex

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of those who committed suicide in Essex (a) had been previously treated and (b) were under treatment at the time of their death for mental health problems in each of the last five years. [190707]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The latest information for the former Essex strategic health authority (SHA), has been set out in the following table.

| Year of death | Number of suicides general population | Number of inquiry cases | Proportion of inquiry cases (percentage) |
| 2001 | 125 | 39 | 31 |
| 2002 | 144 | 39 | 27 |
| 2003 | 155 | 49 | 32 |
| 2004 | 160 | 45 | 28 |
| 2005 | 132 | 42 | 32 |
| Total | 716 | 214 | 30 |

Notes:
1. Figures include open verdicts and suicide verdicts.
2. Inquiry cases are those suicide cases who had contact with mental health services in the 12 months prior to death.
3. Essex SHA merged with Norfolk, Suffolk and Cambridgeshire SHA, and Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire SHA in July 2006, to form the current East of England SHA.
4. 2005 is the latest year for which data in question is available.

Mental Health: Legislation

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will ensure that the new mental health advocacy services are put in place before the introduction of community treatment orders under the Mental Health Act 2007. [190530]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The main provisions of the 2007 Mental Health Act, including those for community treatment orders, are being introduced from October 2008. Due to the need to develop suitable training and commissioning arrangements for independent mental health advocates the Department aims to implement the provisions of the Mental Health Act in respect of independent mental health advocacy from April 2009.

Musculoskeletal Disorders

Mrs. Riordan: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much additional funding he has allocated to the monitoring of service provision and consultation with patients and their representative groups under the Musculoskeletal Service Framework. [189492]

Ann Keen: Allocations to primary care trusts (PCTS) provide them with funding to deliver all national and local priorities. Expenditure on implementation of the musculoskeletal service framework will depend on local decisions on how to implement this and other priorities.

National Institute for Mental Health

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what the budget is for the National Institute for Mental Health in England in 2008-09; [186743]

(2) how many (a) staff and (b) full-time equivalent staff are employed by the National Institute for Mental Health in England; [186744]

(3) what objectives have been achieved by the National Institute for Mental Health in England since its foundation. [186745]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The National Institute for Mental Health in England (NIMHE) was established in 2001 as a nationally co-ordinated but regionally focused organisation to support local implementation of mental health priorities across health and social care. NIMHE has provided a dedicated focus on policy implementation and support for service improvement in relation to a wide range of mental health issues that challenge services and commissioners across health and social care. Much of NIMHE's work has been done at a local level through its regional development centres and the objectives for this work are agreed with and monitored by local stakeholders in the national health service, local authorities and the third sector.

The resources supporting NIMHE are predominantly contained in the funding transferred from the Department to the NHS within the 'NHS Bundle'. For 2008-09, the planned resource allocation from the NHS bundle is £19.375 million.

There are 108, or 90.64 whole-time equivalent, staff either with full or fixed term contracts are directly employed on NIMHE work programmes and another 113, or 59 whole-time equivalent, are working on a seconded or temporary basis on specific projects.

Approximately one third of costs go on staff, most of whom work in regional development centres. The majority of expenditure is used to fund policy implementation and capacity development initiatives at national, regional and local levels, for example supporting the delivery of improving access to psychological therapies pilots, delivering race equality community engagement projects, promoting new ways of working among mental health staff.

NHS Cleaning Summit

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 24 January 2008, Official Report, column 2235W, on the NHS cleaning summit, whether the date for the summit has been finalised. [188512]

Ann Keen: The date of the cleaning summit was finalised and took place on 28 February 2008.

NHS: Crimes of Violence

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent (a) discussions he has had and (b) and representations he has received on withholding non-essential treatment from abusive patients by doctors and nurses. [189491]

Ann Keen: The national health service security management service (NHS SMS) meets quarterly with key stakeholders representing NHS managers and staff to discuss work on tackling violence and abuse. When developing the guidance entitled 'Non Physical Assault Explanatory Notes 2004', the NHS SMS consulted with the British Medical Association and the Royal College of Nursing. This guidance recommends that health bodies develop local procedures for withholding treatment from patients who have been abusive or violent towards NHS staff. No specific representations have been received by the NHS SMS on the topic of withholding non-essential treatment from abusive patients.

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many incidents there were of (a) physical, (b) verbal and (c) sexual abuse and assault of nurses, doctors and other hospital staff in each of the last 10 years. [189493]

Ann Keen: In April 2003, the National Health Service Security Management Service (NHS SMS) was created and assumed responsibility for tackling violence against NHS staff. Since 2004-05, the NHS SMS has collected data on the number of physical assaults reported against NHS staff in England for the categories shown in the following table. The information is not available in the categories of nurses, doctors and other hospital staff.

The number of physical assaults against NHS staff reported in the period 2004-05 to 2006-07 are in the following table.

|---|---|---|---|
| Ambulance service | 1,333 | 1,104 | 1,006 |
| Acute/ foundation trusts | 10,758 | 11,100 | 9,685 |
| Primary care | 5,192 | 5,145 | 3,445 |
| Mental health/learning disability | 43,097 | 41,345 | 41,569 |
| Other (Special health authority) | 5 | 1 | 4 |
| Total | 60,385 | 58,695 | 55,709 |

NHS: Learning Disability

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people with learning disabilities were employed by each NHS trust in the latest period for which figures are available. [190009]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: This information is not held centrally.

NHS: Public Participation

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to give local involvement networks (a) a larger budget than patient forums and (b) year-on-year budgetary increases. [190251]

Ann Keen: The Department received an allocation of £84 million over three years from HM Treasury to fund the establishment and costs incurred by local involvement networks and has no plans to bid for any further funds. The allocations to local authorities (LAs) were based on two elements used in many similar cases to take account of key geographical factors such as deprivation, sparsity, area costs, etc. The first was a general baseline payment of £60,000 awarded to each LA. The second was calculated according to the Relative Needs Formula, which is used to allocate funding to LAs in other areas of work.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to require the National Centre for Involvement to provide information, advice and learning opportunities to patients, NHS service users and local involvement network members to improve consultation at national, regional and local level in the NHS. [190254]

Ann Keen: The NHS Centre for Involvement (NCI) is a consortium of organisations comprising the University of Warwick, Centre for Public Scrutiny and Long Term Conditions Alliance. The NCI has been contracted by the Department to promote more effective patient and public involvement and consultation and to provide support, advice and guidance to stakeholders in this respect.

The NCI is delivering a major programme of work to support those involved in local involvement networks, specifically local authorities as well as voluntary and community sector partners. The NCI is also responsible more generally for working with national health service staff and organisations to look at how they involve patients and the public in improving health services.

Nurses: Schools

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many qualified and practising school nurses there were in England in each year since 1997-98. [188152]

Ann Keen: The annual national health service workforce census collected accurate information on the number of school nurses employed by the NHS in England for the first time in 2004. The number of school nurses from 2004 to 2006 is shown in the following table.

The 2006 census showed there were 2,968 qualified nurses in the school nursing area of work, an increase of 559 or 23.2 per cent. since 2004. Of these there were 1,129 school nurses with a post registration school nurse qualification. This is an increase of 273 or 31.89 per cent. since 2004.

School nurse numbers

England

| | 2004 | 2005 | 2006[1] | Increase 2004-06 | Percentage increase since 2004 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|

| of which: | | | | | |
| Nurses with a post registration school nursing qualification | 856 | 943 | 1,129 | 273 | 31.89 |
| FTE | | | | | |
| School nursing service nurses | 1,619 | 1,913 | 2,053 | 433 | 26.76 |

[1] More accurate validation processes in 2006 have resulted in the identification and removal of 9,858 duplicate non-medical staff records out of the total workforce figure of 1.3 million in 2006. Earlier years' figures could not be accurately validated in this way and so will be slightly inflated. The level of inflation in earlier years' figures is estimated to be less than one per cent. of total across all non-medical staff groups for headcount figures (and negligible for full-time equivalents). This should be taken into consideration when analysing trends over time.

Organs: Donors

Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what EU member states he has assessed for benchmarks for the performance of organ donation; and if he will make a statement. [189209]

Ann Keen: The report of the Organ Donation Taskforce, 'Organs for Transplant' includes data from Spain, France, Italy, Holland, Hungary, Germany, Sweden, Poland, Slovakia, Denmark, and Greece. In addition, the Taskforce met the chair of an Australian Organ Donation Taskforce, and considered data from the United States, Latvia, Finland, Croatia, Norway and Switzerland.

Given the experience of other countries and in particular that lessons from the Spanish system have been successfully implemented in Italy and several South America countries, the Taskforce believe that implementation of their recommendations will achieve a 50 per cent. increase in organ donation after death in the United Kingdom within five years.

Palliative Care: Children

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much his Department proposes to allocate to primary care trusts for (a) children's palliative care and (b) disabled children's services under the Comprehensive Spending Review for 2008-09; and what guidance has been issued on the allocation of such funding. [185663]

Mr. Ivan Lewis [holding 18 February 2008]: Allocations to primary care trusts (PCTs) for 2008-09 have already been announced. General allocations are not broken down into funding for individual services, and it is for PCTs to decide how best to resource the priorities set out in the national health service operating framework for 2008-09 and other national strategies.

In section two of the operating framework under 'Priorities' it states

> "disabled children: identifying actions and setting local targets on improving the experience of, and ranges of services for, children with disabilities and complex health needs and their families. This includes significantly increasing the range of short breaks, improving the quality and experience of palliative care services, inuproving access to therapies and supporting effective transition to adult services."

On 19 February 2008, we launched a first ever national strategy for children's palliative care "Better Care: Better Lives". The strategy will assist local commissioners, providers and regulators in devising local strategies to enable every child and young person with a life-limiting or life-threatening condition access to high-quality, family centred, sustainable care and support with services provided in a setting of choice according to the child's and family's wishes. It sets out clear expectations for improving choice, access and continuity of care, and seeks to place palliative care at the centre of local children's service provision.

We also announced an additional £20 million in funding to enable the Children's Hospices and Hospice at Home grant to continue in 2009-10 and 2010-11 with £10 million available in each year.

Palliative Care: Greater London

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what data are used by commissioners of health care to determine the need for specialist palliative and neurological care in Leyton and Wanstead. [190618]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: It is for individual primary care trusts (PCTs), including Redbridge and Waltham Forest PCTs, within the national health service to commission services for their resident population, including end of life care and neurological care, based on an assessment of local needs and priorities. Strategic health authorities are responsible for monitoring PCTs to ensure they are effective and efficient.

The NHS operating framework for 2007-08 asked PCTs, working with local authorities, to undertake a baseline review of their end of life care services. These will allow local commissioners to assess current services, identify gaps and obtain a much clearer view of local need, which will inform local commissioning.

Regarding neurological care, the information strategy published alongside the "National Service Framework for Long-term (Neurological) Conditions" outlines commissioners' information requirements and a series of local and national actions designed to meet those needs.

Paramedical Staff: Crimes of Violence

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many members of ambulance teams were assaulted while on duty in each of the last five years. [188839]

Ann Keen: In April 2003 the National Health Service Security Management Service (NHS SMS) was created and assumed responsibility for tackling violence against NHS staff. The NHS SMS has collected data on the number of physical assaults against NHS ambulance staff in England since 2004-05.

The number of physical assaults against ambulance staff reported in the period 2004-05 to 2006-07 is shown in the following table.

Number of reported physical assaults against ambulance staff

|---|---|
| 2004-05 | 1,333 |
| 2005-06 | 1,104 |
| 2006-07 | 1,006 |

Primary Care Trusts: Agency Nurses

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many agency (a) nurses, (b) medical staff and (c) midwives were employed in each of the last three years, broken down by primary care trust (PCT); and how much each PCT spent (i) in each year and (ii) per agency worker in each category in each such year. [190442]

Ann Keen: We do not collect data on the number of agency staff. However data is collected on the cost of agency staff.

Tables have been placed in the Library which show the spend in each primary care trust (PCT) and national health service trust. The data is taken from the NHS trust and PCT financial returns for 2004-05—2006-07. The tables contain spend on non-NHS medical staff; non-NHS nursing midwifery and health visiting staff and the total non-NHS staff spend.

Due to the PCT reorganisation in 2006, data is presented for the old PCT structure for 2004-05 and 2005-06, and the new PCT structure for 2006-07.

Foundation trusts (FTs) do not submit financial returns and therefore are not included, except when they obtained FT status part way through the financial year, in which case data are submitted for the portion of the year before they obtained FT status.

As we do not have data on the number of agency staff, it is not possible to calculate the cost per head of staff.

Prostate Cancer: Screening

David Tredinnick: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent comparative assessment he has made of levels of prostate cancer screening in (a) England, (b) other parts of the UK and (c) other EU member states; and if he will make a statement. [185548]

Ann Keen [holding answer 7 February 2008]: Currently there is no reliable method for screening for prostate cancer, therefore we have made no assessment of the levels of prostate cancer screening in England, the United Kingdom or other European Union countries.

Psychiatry: North East

Mr. Kemp: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many psychiatric beds there were in each NHS mental health trust in the North East in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement; [184979]

(2) what the rate of occupancy of psychiatric beds in each NHS mental health trust in the North East was in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [184980]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The following table shows the number of psychiatric beds and their occupancy levels in each mental health trust in the North East for the years 2002-07.

The reduction in mental health bed numbers reflects the increasing provision by the national health service in England of treatment for patients with mental health conditions in primary care and community settings, without the need for hospital admissions.

The figures do not include the number of mental illness beds contracted to the national health service by the independent sector as this information is not centrally available.

Social Services

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the number of people currently ineligible for social care who will become eligible as a result of implementation of (a) the measures in the review of access to services and (b) the proposals to be contained in the forthcoming green paper. [190246]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The review of eligibility has been requested because of the varying approaches being taken by local authorities (LAs) to eligibility to services. Some authorities are helping many more people than others even with tighter eligibility criteria, others are developing alternative new preventative services which aim to reduce the numbers of people who need care services. The review will look at the experiences across England and look to how we might better set a framework that will assist all LAs in getting the best outcomes for people who have care or support needs. Until the review is completed, we will not be able to estimate how many people will be helped or the way in which they might be helped.

The Government have not yet published the Green Paper. It is therefore not possible to say what impact any proposals that may be contained in the Green Paper will have on the number of people who are eligible for services'.

Social Services: Manpower

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) improvement plans, (b) warning letters, (c) statutory requirement notices, (d) changes to conditions of registration and (e) cancellations of registration were imposed by the Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI) in each category of care in each year since CSCI was established. [190313]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The information requested is shown in the following tables, which have been provided by the Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI).

We have been informed by the CSCI that it is unable to provide information relating to warning letters or improvement plans, as these are not specifically recorded in its registration and inspection database. Similarly, it is unable to identify imposed changes to conditions of registration, as the database does not make the distinction between changes to registration made by the service provider and changes which have been imposed by CSCI.

CSCI is currently developing a new enforcement database system. This will enable reporting of the number of warning letters and imposed changes to conditions of registration, but will not include historical data.

Tranquillisers

Jim Dobbin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether tranquillisers are used by (a) the National Treatment Agency and (b) drug action teams as treatments for substance misusers for a period of more than two weeks. [190207]

Dawn Primarolo: The National Treatment Agency (NTA) is a special health authority, created by the Government in 2001 to ensure that local drug partnerships improve the availability, capacity and effectiveness of treatment for the drug misusers in their area and does not directly provide treatment.

Drug action teams are local partnerships responsible for the commissioning of local treatment systems in their respective areas and do not directly provide treatment.

Treatment providers may, based on clinical assessment choose to prescribe tranquillisers in the treatment of dependence to illegal drugs. To support them in their decision making the Department published in 2007 the "Drug misuse and dependence: UK guidelines on clinical management".

Jim Dobbin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients who are addicted only to tranquillisers prescribed by their doctors were treated by the National Treatment Agency Service in each year from 1999 to 2006. [190345]

Dawn Primarolo: The National Treatment Agency is a special health authority, created by the Government in 2001 to improve the availability, capacity and effectiveness of treatment for drug misuse in England and does not directly provide drug treatment. Drug treatment which involves prescribing is provided by appropriately qualified clinicians within the national health service.

Transplant Surgery: Finance

Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much was allocated to (a) liver transplant units, (b) pancreas transplant centres and (c) cardiothoracic transplant centres in each year since 1997. [188619]

Wheelchairs

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what information was requested from wheelchair services as part of the Transforming Community Equipment and Wheelchair Services Programme data gathering exercise; and if he will place the results in the Library; [189873]

(2) when he expects to announce a decision on the new model for wheelchair services; and if he will make a statement. [189874]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Consideration is being given to the findings and recommendations of the Transforming Community Equipment and Wheelchair Services programme in relation to wheelchair services with a view to confirming the next steps in due course.

The request for information was submitted using the Review of Central Returns process. The data collection templates have been placed in the Library. The results of the data gathering exercise, some of which is commercially sensitive and is not currently available, will form part of the business case which is currently under consideration by Ministers.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Broadband

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many and what percentage of rural households in Yorkshire and the Humber have access to (a) dial-up, (b) broadband and (c) high speed broadband internet connections; and if he will make a statement. [190806]

Malcolm Wicks: The matter raised is the responsibility of the independent regulator, the Office of Communications (Ofcom), which is accountable to Parliament rather than Ministers. Accordingly, I have asked the chief executive of Ofcom to reply directly to the hon. Member. Copies of the chief executive's letter will be placed in the Libraries of both Houses.

Broadband: Rural Areas

Mr. McLoughlin: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps are being taken to ensure the availability of high speed broadband service to those living in rural and remote areas. [188928]

Malcolm Wicks: This remains an important issue which Government are engaged with and has been working with the Broadband Stakeholder Group (BSG) and Ofcom to look at the future barriers of high speed broadband access to those living in cities, towns, rural and remote areas.

Business and Competitiveness Minister (Baroness Vadera) announced on 22 February, an independent review to look at a set of focused questions around the potential barriers to deployment of high speed broadband.

The review, led by Francesco Caio, will look at whether there are steps the Government might take to facilitate market investment in high speed networks.

More information on the review can be found at:

http://www.berr.gov.uk/sectors/telecoms/telecomsbroadband/page10034.html

Companies: Regulation

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what his policy is on reducing the burden of regulation for small and medium-sized companies; and what regional considerations apply. [190495]

Mr. McFadden: Government undertook an exercise, supported by industry, to measure the administrative burdens that impact businesses of all sizes as a result of complying with regulations. Upon the completion of this exercise, 25 per cent. net targets were set to reduce this burden.

In December 2007, 19 simplification plans were published, showing more than 700 measures to reduce the burdens of complying with regulations. Over 280 of these measures have already been delivered saving businesses £800 million per year.

Examples of, include:

Simpler law for smaller businesses (BERR):

Smaller businesses stand to benefit from substantial rewrite of Company Law. Coupled with better guidance, new provisions are expected to lower third party costs and make compliance easier. Conservative estimate of £2 million annual savings delivered.

Changes to Small Business Rate Relief (Communities):

Small firms eligible for Small Business Rate Relief no longer have to register for relief annually. £3 million annual savings delivered, and expected to rise to £11 million by 2010.

Small Firms audit requirements (Financial Services Authority):

Removed the need for 3,400 small firms to have a statutory audit, saving £12.9 million per year.

Copies of these plans are available online at:

Consultants

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform pursuant to the Answer to the hon. Member for Stroud of 30 January 2008, Official Report, column 418W, on consultants, on what projects consultants were engaged by the East of England Development Agency in each of the last three years; and what the fee paid for each project was. [188826]

Mr. McFadden: The figures supplied in the answer to my hon. Friend the Member for Stroud (Mr. Drew) of 30 January 2008, Official Report, column 418W, were concerned with consultants engaged by EEDA for corporate projects and corporate areas of work and the following information provides a further breakdown of these consultancy costs and project areas for the years 2004-07.

Departmental Equality

Roger Berry: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what conclusions his Department has reached in fulfilment of the duty under section 3.111 of the statutory code of practice of the disability equality duty. [190686]

Mr. McFadden: BERR's disability equality scheme was published in November 2007. This was a revision of the former DTPs scheme, updated to reflect the machinery of Government changes of June 2007. At the same time summaries and conclusions of the steps taken to fulfil the obligations to the disability equality duty were updated in the action plan and covered the period since the DTI scheme was published in December 2006.

BERR's disability equality scheme can be found on the Department's website at http://www.berr.gov.uk/files/file42734.pdf.

BERR has made progress in embedding the scheme across the Department and the 2008 annual report on the scheme will appear within the next BERR departmental annual report. We are also in the process of preparation to complete the Secretary of State report due on 1 December 2008, which will be used as a tool to make further improvements.

Departmental Translation Services

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much was spent on translation services by his Department and its predecessor, associated agencies and non-departmental public bodies in (a) 2003-04, (b) 2004-05, (c) 2005-06, (d) 2006-07 and (e) in 2007-08 to date. [187981]

Mr. Thomas: Expenditure by the Department through its centrally managed arrangements for translations services into and from English, is as follows:

| Financial year | Expenditure (£) |
|---|---|
| 2003-04 | 356,391 |
| 2004-05 | 353,735 |
| 2005-06 | 408,091 |
| 2006-07 | 446,661 |
| 2007-08 (to 22 February) | 229,494 |

Information on expenditure by the Department's Agencies and non-departmental public bodies is held by the bodies themselves. It is not held centrally. I am asking Agency chief executives to write direct to the hon. Member and am arranging for a copy of the list of the non-departmental public bodies to be placed in the Library of the House for the use of the hon. Member.

Discrimination: Tribunals

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many discrimination cases were heard by employment tribunals, broken down by the type of discrimination, in each of the last five years for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [190504]

Bridget Prentice: I have been asked to reply.

The number of hearings by type of case is not held centrally. However, the number of discrimination cases disposed of over the last five years is given in the following table. Information is not available for 2007-08 as details are collated locally and processed and published at the end of the financial year.

The number of discrimination cases disposed of from 2003-04 to 2006-07

Industrial Disputes

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (1) when the Government plan to publish a summary of the views received on the consultation paper, Consultation on Resolving Disputes in the Workplace - Supplementary Review, launched in May 2007; [191766]

(2) when the Government plan to publish a summary of the views received on the consultation paper, Success at Work - Resolving Disputes in the Workplace, launched in March 2007. [191767]

Mr. McFadden: We plan to publish our response to the views expressed by consultees in this consultation in due course. We will also make available all the responses received.

Internet

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will make it his policy to ensure that .co.uk internet domain names are only issued on condition that at a minimum an administrative contact is domiciled in the UK. [188162]

Malcolm Wicks: The responsibility for registration of .co.uk domain names rests with Nominet, a private, not-for-profit company, limited by guarantee. Nominet offer an open system for registration for .co.uk domains and some 92 per cent. of registrants have an address in the UK. The company seek to ensure that contact details for registrants, that might be required in any dispute about the use of a .co.uk domain, are accurate.

Minimum Wage

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what representations he has received on the implications of proposals in the child care reimbursement element of his Department's response to consultation on the national minimum wage and voluntary workers for volunteering and the capacity of voluntary bodies. [190825]

Mr. McFadden: Since the close of the consultation on the national minimum wage and voluntary workers, my department has received written representations, largely from voluntary organisations, about the reimbursement of child care expenses. We are currently considering how best to address the issues raised with us in correspondence.

Political Levy

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether individual trade union members have the right to (a) opt out from the Trades Union Congress (TUC) political fund and (b) opt out from their political levy being apportioned to the TUC's political fund. [191052]

Mr. McFadden: The Trades Union Congress has no political fund.

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the level of awareness of trade union members of their right to opt out of contributing to trade unions' political funds. [191087]

Mr. McFadden: The Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform has taken measures to raise awareness of this right by producing guidance on the relevant law in a publication entitled "Trade Union political funds: a guide for trade unions, their members and others". There has been no research by the Department to measure awareness of this or any other trade union right.

Post Offices: Bexley

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many people responded to the consultation on the relocation of Bexleyheath post office to a WH Smith branch. [189398]

Mr. McFadden: This is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd. (POL). I have therefore asked Alan Cook, managing director of POL, to reply direct to the hon. Member. Copies of the letter will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what representations he has received in (a) opposition and (b) support of the relocation of Bexleyheath post office to WH Smith. [189399]

Mr. McFadden: My right hon. Friend has received one letter and one previous parliamentary question from the hon. Member about the relocation of Bexleyheath post office to WH Smith.

Post Offices: Closures

Sir Paul Beresford: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what method was used to calculate the weekly customer figures published in the branch assessments for each post office branch facing closure. [189182]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 26 February 2008]: This is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd (POL). I have therefore asked Alan Cook, Managing Director of POL, to reply direct to the hon. Member.

Copies of the letter will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what discussions he has had with Post Office Ltd on the options for outreach in the current closure programme; and what flexibility he is encouraging in the use of this method of delivering services. [190902]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 29 February 2008]: I have had discussions with Post Office Ltd on the wider application of the four outreach options which were piloted with Government funding but would also encourage consideration of other viable outreach options in the light of specific local circumstances.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what minimum service is being made available by Post Office Ltd under the heading outreach as part of the current closure campaign. [190903]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The Government consider that decisions about individual branch opening hours and service offerings are a matter for Post Office Ltd and individual sub-postmasters, reflecting the needs and level of demand in local communities.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the maximum financial amount is that a post master/mistress may be paid as compensation for branch closure. [190904]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The payments to subpostmasters whose offices are compulsorily closed under Post Office Ltd.'s network change programme compensate them for not being able to sell their business and are based on up to 28 months remuneration.

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many post offices have closed in Castle Point over the last 10 years; and when a further review of post offices in Castle Point will be undertaken. [190496]

Mr. McFadden: This is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd. (POL). I have therefore asked Alan Cook, Managing Director of POL, to reply direct to the hon. Member.

Copies of the letter will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Regional Development Agencies: Patents

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will list the patents held by each regional development agency; and whether ownership is shared with another entity in each case. [189107]

Mr. McFadden: No RDA itself holds patents. However, patents are held by organisations which RDAs have supported through grants and investments.

Regional Development Agencies: Research

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much each Regional Development Agency spent on research and development (a) in nominal prices and (b) as a proportion of total expenditure in each of the last five years. [189108]

Mr. McFadden: The tables show details of expenditure by RDAs through the 'Grant for Research and Development' programme and as a proportion of grant in aid budgets.

The programme assists start-ups and SMEs to carry out research and development work on technologically innovative products and processes. 'Grant for R and D' allows businesses to undertake projects which would be untenable if grants were not available. Similarly, it helps to attract private investors, to whom the projects would otherwise not be financially viable.

Prior to April 2005, the Small Business Service was responsible for delivering the grant offers made by the RDAs. Information on spend was collated by the SBS only on a national basis. Figures prior to 2005-06 therefore relate to grant offers made by the RDAs.

In April 2005, responsibility for delivering grant for R and D transferred from the Small Business Service to the RDAs in accordance with the Government's policy on transferring responsibility for business support to the RDAs. Figures for 2005-06 and 2006-07 relate to actual spend by RDAs through the Grants for R and D programme.

In addition to the Grant for R and D programme, RDAs also make other investments in Research and Development projects, examples of which are detailed as follows.

Collaborative R and D projects

In conjunction with science-based businesses such as the Premium Automotive Research and Development programme, a collaboration between Advantage West Midlands, Warwick University, and Jaguar Land Rover. It supports technologies that underpin component engineering and manufacturing in the luxury car sector;

Demonstrator activities

Such as pilot schemes of innovative new products;

Knowledge Transfer Partnerships

Which allow businesses to access academic research in order to create and improve commercial products, materials, and services such as the 11 Centres of Industrial Collaboration in Yorkshire set up by Yorkshire Forward, which have worked on more than 1,500 projects, grossed more than £38 million in income, and created or safeguarded over 1,400 jobs.

South East England Development Agency: Expenditure

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the South East England Development Agency's budget has been in each year since its establishment; and what the (a) salary costs and (b) expenses have been of the (i) executive directors and (ii) non-executive directors in each year since inception. [186796]

Mr. McFadden: Total budget in each year since foundation:

|---|---|
| 2006-07 | 195,409 |
| 2005-06 | 181,500 |
| 2004-05 | 164,070 |
| 2003-04 | 125,011 |
| 2002-03 | 92,853 |
| 2001-02 | 96,093 |
| 2000-01 | 83,233 |
| 1999-2000 | 64,277 |
| 1998-99 | 543 |

These figures are based on the total expenditure per year as laid down in SEEDA's annual reports and accounts.

(a) Salary costs

| | Executive directors (£) | Non-executive directors (£) |
|---|---|---|
| 2006-07 | 647,595 | 209,203 |
| 2005-06 | 640,078 | 197,810 |

| 1998-99 | n/a | n/a |

[1] Credit card expenditure is not included for the years 1999-2000 to 2003-04. This information is not available in electronic format and would require retrieving payroll reports from the archive. The cost limit per PQ reply currently stands at £700 actual staff costs, we are unable to retrieve this information because of disproportionate cost.

These figures include expenses paid directly to employees or expenses incurred on their SEEDA credit card.

Wind Power

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform to what wind farm proposals his Department has lodged objection in each of the last three years; and for what reasons in each case. [191121]

Malcolm Wicks: The Secretary of State has not lodged objections to any wind farm proposals in the last three years.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Cemeteries

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when the Health and Safety Executive next plans to publish guidance on health and safety in cemeteries. [191600]

Mrs. McGuire: The Health and Safety Executive is working with representatives from across the burial industry to agree simple, practical guidance on how to manage the risks associated with unstable memorials. This work is being taken forward through a sub-Group of the Ministry of Justice's Burials and Cemeteries Advisory Group. The intention is to agree this guidance by early summer 2008, for publication soon after.

Departmental Buildings

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what fees were paid to private contractors for the operation and maintenance of his Department's buildings in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [187594]

Mrs. McGuire: The Department pays an all-inclusive unitary charge under the PRIME PFI contract to its private sector partner Land Securities Trillium (LST) for the provision of fully serviced accommodation. This fully inclusive unitary charge provides for payments to private contractors for the operation and maintenance of the buildings we occupy and we are unable to separately identify the costs attributable to this element of the PFI contract.

Departmental Civil Agencies

Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the effect on costs to the public purse has been of the operation of agencies within his Department's responsibilities in the last (a) five and (b) 10 years. [185753]

Mrs. McGuire [holding answer 18 February 2008]: It has not been possible to quantify the effect on costs to the public purse of the operation of agencies. However information relating to DWP costs may be found in the Published Resource Account for DWP 2006/07. This is available using the following link.

http://www.official-documents.gov.uk/document/hc0607/hc08/0875/0875.pdf

Departmental Overseas Workers

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many representatives of his Department were located abroad in each of the last 10 years, broken down by location; and at what cost. [185922]

Mrs. McGuire: The Department supports a small number of employees in posts abroad related to DWP business needs. The numbers, costs and locations vary from year to year. However, the details of representatives located abroad are not held centrally and could be provided only by incurring disproportionate costs.

Departmental Telephones

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what (a) 0800, (b) 0845 and (c) 0870 telephone numbers for the public are used by (i) his Department and (ii) agencies which report to his Department. [186180]

Mrs. McGuire: We are constantly working to improve our services to customers and that may include periodic changes to the numbers and number ranges we use. We publicise these changes to appropriate customer groups and key stakeholders. Neither my Department nor its agencies use 0870 numbers for customer contact.

Information on the 0800 and 0845 numbers in use has been placed in the Library.

Departmental Temporary Employment

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what average hourly rate his Department paid to employment agencies for agency staff in each year since 1999, broken down by employment agency. [187918]

Mrs. McGuire: The information requested is available from June 2006 only.

The average hourly rate paid by the Department to employment agencies for agency staff from June to December 2006 was £11 61. From January to December 2007 it was £12.38.

Employability Skills

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how his Department is monitoring the progress of the Employability Skills programme which his Department announced on 1st August 2007. [185830]

Bill Rammell: I have been asked to reply.

Progress in implementing the Employability Skills Programme is currently reported into the Department of Innovation Universities and Skills (DIUS), Skills for Life programme Board. This Board will monitor reports from the Learning and Skills Council on progress against success criteria for the programme. Data will be made available on a quarterly basis via the data book.

Development of the programme has been overseen by a Steering Group comprising representatives from DIUS, DWP, LSC and JCP.

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much it has cost to implement the Employability Skills programme which his Department announced on 1 August 2007. [185831]

Bill Rammell: I have been asked to reply.

The Employability Skills Programme is an LSC funded programme, £23 million is available to support learner's achievements in literacy, language and numeracy qualifications and to get a basic level employability qualification. DWP are further supporting learners with £14 million for Training Allowance.

DIUS has supported development of the programme with £310,000 which has funded:

Develop, set-up and support for 9 Pathfinders trials in each of the Government Office regions.

Develop and delivery of training for JCP advisers and Programme Providers.

Development and dissemination of information and promotional materials for JCP customers, advisers and programme providers.

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people his Department estimates have found employment as a consequence of participating in the Employability Skills programme which his Department announced on 1st August 2007. [185832]

Bill Rammell: I have been asked to reply.

Success in the Employability Skills Programme is measured in a number of ways, including achievement of literacy, language and numeracy qualifications, achievements of an employability certificate in addition to job outcomes.

Provision typically lasts 15 weeks and in that time Training Providers work with local Jobcentre Plus offices to try to identify suitable job opportunities and ideally to find work with training.

We expect the LSC to report on the full range of success criteria including qualifications and job outcomes at quarterly reviews, the first set of data to end of February 2008 will be reported at the quarterly review in April 2008.

Employment: Families

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many families came off jobseeker's allowance and income support to re-enter full-time employment in each of the last five years. [185311]

Mr. Plaskitt: The information requested is not available.

European Social Fund

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what disbursements have been made from the European Social Fund in each of the last three years in each (a) constituency and (b) local authority area. [185833]

Mr. Plaskitt: This information is not available at constituency or local authority level. Most European Social Fund money is allocated at regional level. The following table shows disbursements made from the European Social Fund in England in 2005, 2006 and 2007.

European social fund payments 2005, 2006 and 2007

Housing Benefits: Rented Housing

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what estimates he has made of the percentage of claimants subject to the local housing allowance who will experience a restriction in their rent as a consequence of the application of the allowance, broken down by local authority; [188062]

(2) what estimates he has made of the percentage of claimants subject to the local housing allowance who will experience a restriction in their rent as a consequence of the application of the allowance, broken down by bedroom entitlement. [188063]

Mr. Timms: No such estimates have been made.

The local housing allowance is being applied to new housing benefit claims in the deregulated private rented sector. Current claimants will not be moved to the new scheme unless they break their claim or change address.

We cannot estimate how many people will experience a restriction in their rent as a consequence of the local housing allowance because we do not know in advance what their accommodation choices and hence their contractual rent will be. Consequently, we do not know how their rent will compare with the local housing allowance rate appropriate for them.

The allowance is a more transparent way to calculate housing benefit entitlement. As a result, claimants should find it easier to shop around to find a property which has a rent set at or below the appropriate local housing allowance rate. The extent to which they do this will determine the proportion of claimants who have their rent restricted. In the Pathfinder areas the percentage of claimants with a shortfall fell from 59 per cent. to 40 per cent.

We will be monitoring the number of cases with excesses and shortfalls as part of the two year review of the national roll-out of the local housing allowance.

Incapacity Benefit

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people claimed incapacity benefit in each year since 1997; and how many claimants (a) reached retirement age and (b) died in each year. [187264]

Mrs. McGuire [holding answer 20 February 2008]: Information for the full year to February 1997 is not available. The available information is in the following table.

Number claiming incapacity benefits and leaving incapacity benefits through death or moving to State Pension

| As at February each year | Incapacity benefits commencements | Death | Stops claiming incapacity benefits and starts claiming State Pension |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1998 | 944,400 | 30,800 | 69,000 |
| 1999 | 838,000 | 29,800 | 80,400 |
| 2000 | 807,300 | 30,300 | 91,600 |
| 2001 | 788,900 | 28,200 | 43,500 |
| 2002 | 744,600 | 28,600 | 42,600 |
| 2003 | 726,600 | 27,600 | 49,100 |
| 2004 | 702,200 | 28,600 | 43,300 |
| 2005 | 663,000 | 28,000 | 63,400 |
| 2006 | 614,800 | 27,300 | 58,700 |
| 2007 | 606,800 | 27,900 | 63,300 |

Notes:
1. Terminations figures are produced from 5 per cent sample data.
2. Figures are rounded to the nearest hundred.
3. Totals may not sum due to rounding.
4. Earlier years have been updated to include late notified terminations.

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people in each age category are claiming incapacity benefit in (a) England and (b) each local authority area. [189869]

Mrs. McGuire: The available information has been placed in the Library.

Income Support

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people claiming income support worked for fewer than 16 hours per week in each year since 1997. [186115]

Mr. Plaskitt: One of the conditions for claiming income support is that claimants must not be working for 16 or more hours a week. Therefore all the people claiming income support worked for fewer than 16 hours per week in each year since 1997.

The information on those income support claimants doing some work, but less than 16 hours, is in the following table.

Number of income support (IS) claimants (excluding minimum income guarantee) working less than 16 hours a week

| Period ending | Number | As percentage of total IS claims |
|---|---|---|
| May 1997 | 80,900 | 3.6 |
| May 1998 | 79,700 | 3.6 |
| May 1999 | 80,200 | 3.6 |
| May 2000 | 73,200 | 3.3 |
| May 2001 | 67,000 | 3.0 |
| May 2002 | 66,000 | 3.0 |
| May 2003 | 64,500 | 2.9 |
| May 2004 | 60,200 | 2.7 |
| May 2005 | 55,200 | 2.5 |
| May 2006 | 53,000 | 2.5 |
| May 2007 | 49,300 | 2.3 |

Notes:
1. Data exclude minimum income guarantee (MIG) data to provide a consistent time series for income support claimants. In October 2003, pension credit replaced MIG (income support for people aged 60 or over/with partner aged 60 or over).

Jobcentre Plus: Training

Mr. Rooney: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what training is planned for Jobcentre Plus staff on the implementation of (a) local housing allowance, (b) employment and support allowance, (c) changes in liaison with the Child Support Agency for income support claimants and (d) changes to lone parents' eligibility for income support; and what additional resources have been allocated for such training. [187026]

Mr. Timms: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, Lesley Strathie. I have asked her to provide the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Lesley Strathie, dated 4 March 2008:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question asking what training is planned for Jobcentre Plus staff on the implementation of (a) local Housing Allowance, (b) Employment and Support Allowance, (c) changes in liaison with the Child Support Agency for Income Support claimants and (d) changes to lone parents' eligibility for Income Support; and what additional resources have been allocated for training. This is something that falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

Existing learning products are being amended to reflect the introduction of local housing allowance and the consequent changes to our IT systems. In addition communications have been published to increase awareness among Jobcentre Plus staff.

Learning and Development for people in Jobcentre Plus is central to the successful delivery of Employment and Support Allowance (ESA). We are putting in place a comprehensive package of learning and development products to fully equip Jobcentre Plus staff to deliver ESA. Detailed learning routeways are being developed for each of the roles affected. In addition, communications are being planned to ensure all Jobcentre Plus staff are aware of ESA as a new benefit and new regime to assist customers into work.

All Jobcentre Plus staff will receive information to raise awareness of the changes to the child maintenance arrangements being introduced in July 2008 and October 2008. In addition specific learning products are being developed for staff whose roles are being directly impacted by the changes.

A full learning needs analysis is currently being conducted to assess what learning staff need as a result of the forthcoming changes to lone parents' eligibility for Income Support. All staff are likely to require some communication to raise their awareness. More detailed information will be focused on those whose roles are more directly affected. In particular advisers will be given clear advice on the existing and new flexibilities that are applicable to lone parents claiming Jobseeker's Allowance.

The development and delivery of the training for staff on local Housing Allowance, child maintenance and lone parents' eligibility for Income Support are being contained within core Jobcentre Plus Learning and Development resources which exist to support the implementation of change. Detailed planning for the ESA learning and development is currently underway, which will enable an assessment of what can be absorbed within current capacity and whether any additional resource is required.

I hope this is helpful.

Low Incomes

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how his Department defines a low income household; and whether this definition has changed since 1997; [185938]

(2) how his Department defines a household in poverty; and whether this definition has changed since 1997; [185939]

(3) what measures his Department uses for (a) child poverty, (b) working-age poverty and (c) pensioner poverty; and what criteria were taken into account in determining these measures; [185943]

(4) whether the way his Department measures (a) child poverty, (b) working-age poverty and (c) pension poverty has changed since 1997. [185944]

Mr. Timms: Poverty is a complex and multidimensional issue and, as such, there are many possible measures of poverty.

It is generally accepted that low income is central to any poverty measurement. Definitions of low income households are set out in the annual National Statistics publication Households Below Average Income. This reports numbers of individuals in households below or persistently below 50 per cent., 60 per cent. and 70 per cent. of median household income before and after deducting housing costs.

Statisticians have made a number of methodological improvements since 1997 in line with international best practice, following full consultation with users and National Statistics protocols. Improvements have been explained in the relevant publications. HBAI presents a consistent time series reflecting all changes that have been made.

As no single measure captures all aspects of poverty, the new public service agreement "Tackle poverty and promote greater independence and wellbeing in later life" includes a range of indicators related to low income for pensioners. These are relative low income (below 50 and 60 per cent. contemporary median household income), and absolute low income (below 60 per cent. of 1998-99 median income uprated in line with prices). Further information is given in the Government's PSA Delivery Agreement 17, which is available in the Library.

The public service agreement (PSA) to halve child poverty sets out indicators of child poverty. These are relative low income (below 60 per cent. of contemporary median household income) absolute low income (below 60 per cent. of 1998-99 median income uprated in line with prices), and combined low income and material deprivation (based on below 70 per cent. of contemporary median household income). The three indicators of child poverty reflect that income is a key aspect of child poverty. The combined low income and material deprivation indicator provides a wider measure of families' living standards. Further information is given in the conclusions document of the Department's "Measuring Child Poverty" consultation, which is available in the Library.

National Insurance

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the number of individuals who have been issued with (a) two, (b) three and (c) four or more national insurance numbers. [184799]

Mr. Plaskitt: In 2007, there were 1,517 instances where an individual was found to be using more than one national insurance number (NINO). A further breakdown by number of NINOs used by an individual is not available.

New Deal Schemes: Finance

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much was spent on (a) the new deal and (b) the new deal self-employment option in each year since their establishment; and what the planned budget for each is in each year of the spending review period. [185243]

Mr. Timms: Self-employment support is available to new deal participants through new deal for young people, new deal 25-plus, new deal for lone parents and new deal for partners. Self-employment support offers an initial awareness session for potential entrepreneurs followed by a period of supported business planning with a business expert and a period of 'test trading'. During test trading, participants start their business while continuing to receive their benefit, an allowance or working tax credits, depending on their circumstances, to help them over any initial transitional hurdles. This period can last up to a maximum of 26 weeks.

Information on the planned budget for each year of the Spending Review period is not yet available. The forecast figures for 2008-09 will be included in the departmental report 2008 which will be published in May 2008.

New deal spend

| Financial year | Total new deal spend | Of which, on the self-employment option |
|---|---|---|
| 1997-98 | 43 | 0 |
| 1998-99 | 314 | 0 |
| 1999-2000 | 536 | 1 |

New deal spend

| Financial year | Total new deal spend | £ million Of which, on the self-employment option |
|---|---|---|
| 2000-01 | 596 | 2 |
| 2001-02 | 672 | 1 |
| 2002-03 | 736 | 2 |
| 2003-04 | 655 | 4 |
| 2004-05 | 640 | 5 |
| 2005-06 | 539 | 5 |
| 2006-07 | 531 | 5 |
| 2007-08 | 557 | 7 |

Notes:
1. Figures up to and including 2006-07 are confirmed spend.
2. Figures for 2007-08 are planned expenditure.
3. Figures include all new deal programme costs; start-up costs; staff costs, and allowances paid to participants apart from the 50-plus element of the working tax credit, which is the responsibility of HMRC.
4. Figures are rounded to the nearest million and may not sum to spend figures on each individual new deal published in the departmental report due to rounding.
5. Figures include central estimates of administration costs.

Occupational Health

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how much the review of the health of the working age population has cost to date; [185834]

(2) when he expects the report of the review of the health of the working age population to be published. [185835]

Mr. Plaskitt: In March 2007 Dame Carol Black was commissioned to carry out a review of the health of the working age population. The review, which will contain recommendations for Government and stakeholders, will help us to better understand the impact of ill-health in working age people and how best we can tackle this and support people to stay in work. It will help steer the Government's strategy for the coming years.

To help her in taking forward her review, Dame Carol launched a "Call for Evidence" which ran until 30 November 2007. There has been a significant and very positive response, with over 260 submissions received and a number of very successful stakeholder events held across the country.

Dame Carol and her review team are currently in the latter stages of analysing the evidence gathered and drafting the report. She is currently hoping to submit her report to Ministers in March.

In addition to the salary costs of a small team of civil servants supporting her work, the stakeholder events cost approximately £75,000. The review will also be informed by a number of pieces of external research which Dame Carol has commissioned in partnership with the Government's Health Work and Well-being Strategy. The cost of this research to date is around £250,000 and is ultimately expected to total around £300,000. As well as informing Dame Carol's review, this research will be published separately and support the ongoing development of the Health, Work and Well-being Strategy.

Offices: Pension Service

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what the current office space is of (a) the Pension Service and (b) the Disability and Carers Service; [187708]

(2) where the premises occupied by (a) the Pension Service and (b) the Disability and Carers Service are located. [187711]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The current office space occupied by the Pension Service is 119,900 sq m while the disability and carers service occupancy is 99,550 sq m. This includes the local service outlets.

The Pension Service and the disability and carers service are major occupiers of 44 sites nationwide (the Pension Service: 29 and the disability and carers service: 15). In addition, the Pension Service's current local service outlets and some other disability and carers service functions operate out of approximately a further 200 sites.

A breakdown of these sites by location will be placed in the Library.

Pension, Disability and Carers Service Agency

Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much establishing and developing the new Pension, Disability and Carers Service Agency will cost. [185697]

Mrs. McGuire: This is a matter which falls within the responsibility of the acting chief executive of the Disability and Carers Service, Mrs. Vivien Hopkins. She will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Vivien Hopkins, dated 4 March 2008:

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, how much building and developing the new Pension, Disability and Carers Service Agency will cost.

The Minister for Disabled People, Anne McGuire MP, promised you a substantive reply from the Acting Chief Executive of the Disability and Carers Service.

I can confirm that the operating and investment budgets of the new Pension, Disability and Carers Service Agency will be the sum of the planned, pre-merger budgets of the current Disability and Carers Service and The Pension Service.

I hope this reply is helpful.

Pensions

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many pensioners access their pension through the Post Office; how many and what proportion received their pension (a) on or before 21 December 2007 and (b) on or by 24 December 2007; how many pensioners did not receive or were unable to access their pension on or before 24 December 2007; and if he will make a statement; [185876]

(2) how many and what percentage of pensioners did not (a) receive, (b) pick up and (c) cash their state pension before Christmas 2007. [185875]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The vast majority (around 8.6 million) of pensioners have their pension paid by direct payment into a bank account and those who were due a payment at Christmas were able to access their money from cash machines at any time over the holiday period. It is possible to access money in other bank accounts at the Post Office, as well as the Post Office Card Account and cheque payments, but the Department does not hold data on how many pensioners choose to do so.

The arrangements put in place to make sure that everyone received their money before Christmas worked well and around 5.4 million (60 per cent.) pensioners due to be paid over Christmas were able to access their money on Friday 21 December. The remaining around 3.6 million (40 per cent.) were able to access their money on Monday 24 December.

The information about the number of pensioners who did not subsequently collect their state pension before Christmas is not available.

The Department is reviewing its arrangements for payments due over the Christmas period.

Pensions: Females

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many and what proportion of the cohort of women who did not fully benefit from home responsibilities protection, referred to in the May 2006 Pensions White Paper, will be over pension age on 6 April 2010; and what estimate he has made of the cost of extending the reduction from 39 to 30 in the number of qualifying years required to be eligible for a full basic state pension to these women. [185449]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The information requested is not available. The cohort of women described in the 2006 White Paper, who did not fully benefit from Home Responsibilities Protection (HRP), did not do so because HRP was not introduced until 1978. Prior to 1978 periods spent out of the labour market while caring for children did not count towards State Pension entitlement.

Public Sector. Learning Disability

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, what estimate he has made of the number of people with learning disabilities employed in (a) the public sector and (b) the NHS. [189969]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: I have been asked to reply.

This information is not held centrally.

Secretaries of State

Mr. Mullin: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will list the Secretaries of State in his Department since 2001, with the dates of service in each case. [187756]

Mrs. McGuire: The list of Secretaries of State for Work and Pensions since 2001 with dates of service is in the following table.

| Name | Date of appointment | Last day of service |
|---|---|---|
| Alistair Darling | 27 July 1998 | 29 May 2002 |
| Andrew Smith | 30 May 2002 | 7 September 2004 |
| Alan Johnson | 9 September 2004 | 6 May 2005 |
| David Blunkett | 6 May 2005 | 2 November 2005 |
| John Hutton | 3 November 2005 | 28 June 2007 |
| Peter Hain | 29 June 2007 | 24 January 2008 |
| James Purnell | 24 January 2008 | — |

Sick Leave

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions with reference to his Department's press release of 5 September 2007, on advice to patients on sick leave, how successful the online training tool for GPs has been. [185836]

Mrs. McGuire: The online training tool is an educational programme developed in partnership with Cardiff university. It has been designed to help GPs develop their skills in handling issues around fitness for work during consultations with patients. 263 GPs completed the programme as part of an independent evaluation during the development process. The results from this evaluation showed that of the GPs that took part, there was a significant change in their attitudes towards dealing with their consultations around fitness for work.

The training tool has also been used as part of a national education programme for GPs which we have been piloting in partnership with the Royal College of General Practitioners. The evaluation of the pilot showed that GPs had an increased level of confidence on dealing with consultations on fitness for work.

Social Rented Housing

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what proportion of households in social housing he estimates were in poverty in (a) England, (b) each region and (c) each London local authority area in (i) 1997 and (ii) 2006-07. [185685]

Mr. Timms: Specific information regarding low income for the United Kingdom is available in "Households Below Average Income 1994-95, 2005-06 (Revised)". The threshold of below 60 per cent. contemporary median income is the most commonly used in reporting trends in low income.

The available information is shown in the following tables. The data source does not allow us to provide robust numbers for estimates below the level of Government Office Region. Data for 2006-07 are not yet available so statistics for the most recent years are given instead.

Proportion of households in social housing having an income below 60 per cent. of median in England and by region, three-year averages over 1996-97, 1997-98 and 1998-99

| North West | 31 | 44 |
| Yorkshire and the Humber | 32 | 42 |
| East Midlands | 33 | 45 |
| West Midlands | 32 | 45 |
| East of England | 25 | 41 |
| London | 30 | 52 |
| South East | 23 | 42 |
| South West | 27 | 41 |

Notes:
1. Three survey year averages are given for each of the regions as robust single year estimates cannot be produced because of the sample sizes for individual regions.
2 The income measures used to derive the estimates shown employ the same methodology as the Department for Work and Pensions publication 'Households Below Average Income' series, which uses disposable household income, adjusted/equivalised for household size and composition, as an income measure as a proxy for standard of living.
3. The figures are based on OECD equivalisation factors.
4. Tables show figure in percentages rounded to the nearest percentage point.

Social Security Benefits

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the likely change in the number of postal claims for (a) jobseeker's allowance, (b) incapacity benefit and (c) income support as a result of closures of jobcentres or Jobcentre Plus offices, in each region. [185873]

Mr. Timms: The administration of these benefits is a matter for the chief executive of Jobcentre Plus, Lesley Strathie. She will write to the hon. Member.

Letter from Leslie Strathie, dated 4 March 2008:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question asking what estimate he has made of the increase in postal claims for (a) Jobseeker's Allowance (b) Incapacity Benefit and (c) Income Support as a result of planned closures of Jobcentres or Jobcentre Plus Offices, broken down by region. This is something which falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

We do not have a postal claim scheme for these three benefits. For the vast majority of claimants, the initial claim to these benefits will be made by a telephone call to a Contact Centre. For those vulnerable customers who are unable to make contact by telephone, the claim will be taken at a face-to-face interview.

Matthew Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people claimed each type of benefit in (a) Cornwall, (b) the South West and (c) England in each year since 1979; and what percentage those people were of the population in each area in each year. [186990]

Mr. Plaskitt: Information is not available prior to 2002. The available information has been placed in the Library.

Social Security Benefits: Applications

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many households have made both continuous claims for housing benefit and council tax and repeated claims for jobseeker's allowance since 1997. [186112]

Mr. Plaskitt: The information is not available.

Social Security Benefits: Cost of Living

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether his Department has conducted research into the merits of reflecting varying living costs in different regions in benefit levels. [187454]

Mr. Plaskitt: No such research has been conducted by the Department for Work and Pensions.

Social Security Benefits: Fraud

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what estimate he has made of the risk of fraud in claims for (a) incapacity benefit and (b) income support in cases where (i) the claimant attends the local jobcentre and (ii) the claim is maintained by post; [185872]

(2) what estimate he has made of the risk of fraud in claims for jobseekers allowance (a) where the claimant attends the local jobcentre once a fortnight and (b) where the claim is maintained by post. [185896]

Mr. Plaskitt: No such estimate has been made.

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what research his Department has carried out into the effectiveness of the benefits campaign Targeting benefit thieves. [185918]

Mr. Plaskitt: The Targeting Benefit Thieves campaign was launched in October 2006. The Department has carried out regular quantitative tracking research, supported by qualitative research, to monitor the effectiveness of the campaign.

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will place a copy of the findings of the research into benefit fraud commissioned by his Department and undertaken by GfK NOP in the Library. [185921]

Mr. Plaskitt: Research commissioned by the Department for Work and Pensions to evaluate communications activity is available through the Department's publication scheme. Further information about the publication scheme is available on our website at:

www.dwp.gov.uk

It is not standard practice to place communications research in the Library.

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how old the (a) youngest and (b) oldest person convicted of benefit fraud was in the latest period for which figures are available. [186123]

Mr. Plaskitt: The information is not centrally collated and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Social Security Benefits: Publicity

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps his Department is taking to make families aware of their benefits entitlements. [187311]

Mrs. McGuire: This Department does all it can, through its information providing services, to ensure that people are aware of the benefits to which they are entitled and how to claim them. Leaflets are available at benefits offices, Citizen's Advice Bureaux, and from welfare rights organisations and other advice giving agencies. Information is also available on our website at:

www.dwp.gov.uk

From time to time, the Department for Work and Pensions and its Agencies run targeted take-up campaigns for specific benefits. For example, the Pension Service is currently actively targeting those potential claimants who have been identified as the most likely still to be missing out.

Telephone Services

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what guidance the Department issues to staff in (a) Jobcentre Plus offices, (b) the Pension Service, (c) the Disability and Carer's Service and (d) Benefit Delivery centres on how to respond when clients ask to be called back. [187713]

Mrs. McGuire: Department for Work and Pensions does not issue guidance to its agencies on such operational matters, as these are the responsibility of the agencies' chief executives.

All three agencies require staff to call back customers on the telephone when the customer requests that they do so. If appropriate the call-back will be immediate. However, in many cases arrangements will be made to call the customer back at a mutually convenient time. This allows an appropriate official to provide the best possible service by having the necessary information to hand.

Unemployment Benefits

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people applying for out-of-work benefits were assessed as functionally illiterate in each year since 1997. [185942]

Mr. Plaskitt: The information is not available in the format requested.

The Skills for Life survey, which was conducted in 2002-03, estimated that 38 per cent. of benefit claimants were below Level 1 in literacy.

Winter Fuel Payments

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many and what percentage of pensioners did not receive their winter fuel payment before Christmas 2007. [185874]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Winter Fuel Payment is to help with fuel bills rather than to pay for Christmas but the Pension Service aims to pay 99 per cent. of all Winter Fuel Payments before Christmas. This Winter The Pension Service exceeded this target paying 99.98 per cent. of all cases by Christmas. Of the 12,360,293 customers eligible for an automatic Winter Fuel Payment, which should have been paid prior to Christmas, 2,352 customers (0.019 per cent.) did not receive their payment before Christmas.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Aimhigher Initiative: Finance

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much his Department expects to spend on the Aim Higher Initiative in (a) 2009, (b) 2010 and (c) 2011; and if he will make a statement. [186614]

Bill Rammell: In our January 2008 Grant Letter to the Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE), we confirmed annual funding of £47.9 million for the Aimhigher Programme for each of the 2008-09, 2009-10 and 2010-11 financial years. Traditionally, HEFCE have supplemented this funding. In addition there is a health care strand which at £1.8 million per annum is jointly funded with the Department of Health. This means that, for the 2008/09 academic year, the total funding allocated to Aimhigher will be £78.0 million. Figures for 2009/10 and 2010/11 are still to be finalised.

The Aimhigher programme brings together universities, colleges and schools in partnership to raise the attainment levels of young people and their aspirations towards higher education. The programme provides opportunities and experiences for learners which helps to widen their horizons, develop talents, increase motivation and maximise potential.

HEFCE guidance on targeting disadvantaged learners, published in 2007, defined priority groups for Aimhigher to ensure utmost effectiveness. These groups are people from lower socio-economic groups; people from disadvantaged socio-economic backgrounds who live in areas of relative deprivation where participation in HE is low; 'looked after' children in the care system; and people with a disability or a specific learning difficulty.

In this next phase of the programme, HEFCE is working with Aimhigher partnerships further to develop targeting of those with the talent and ability who might not consider that higher education is for them and provide a sequenced and challenging range of learning opportunities linked to a future in higher education.

Community Relations

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which further education colleges worked with his Department to prepare the consultation document, The Role of Further Education Providers in Promoting Community Cohesion, Fostering Shared Values and Preventing Violent Extremism; and how those colleges were selected. [190145]

Bill Rammell: We worked with a number of colleges during the preparation of the consultation document The Role of Further Education Providers in Promoting Community Cohesion, Fostering Shared Values and Preventing Violent Extremism. These were:

Barking College
Blackburn College
Bradford College
College of North East London
Grimsby Institute of Further and Higher Education
Luton Sixth Form College
Oaklands College
Oldham Sixth Form College.
Stockton Riverside College
Waltham Forest College

These were identified by the Association of Colleges (AOC) as colleges with experience in promoting community cohesion.

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many (a) principals and (b) chief executives of further education colleges have been sent a copy of the consultation document, The Role of Further Education Providers in Promoting Community Cohesion, Fostering Shared Values and Preventing Violent Extremism. [190180]

Bill Rammell: The consultation is primarily web-based. The consultation document is available on the DIUS website and we have also set up an e-consultation facility to enable people to respond on-line via the DCSF website.

Principals and chief executives of colleges were informed of the consultation through communications including:

Association of Colleges, Association of Learning Providers and National Council for Faiths and Beliefs in Further Education all informed their members of this consultation via their regular electronic mailings;

The monthly DIUS Further Education Newsletter that is sent to all principals and other training providers.

Further to this, we are holding a series of consultation workshops around the country to discuss the proposals.

Community Relations: Religion

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how his Department plans to work with key national student/learner organisations in order to raise awareness of risks including violent extremism; and if he will make a statement. [190146]

Bill Rammell: We have provided guidance to further and higher education institutions to raise their awareness of risks and to help them promote good relations and prevent extremism.

Universities and colleges need to promote and reinforce shared values and create the space for free and open debate in which all can join. It is important that institutions break down segregation among different student communities, including by supporting inter-faith and inter-cultural dialogue. They must also ensure student safety and institutions that are free from bullying, harassment and intimidation. They need to provide support and appropriate sources of advice and guidance for students who may be at risk and they need to ensure staff and students are aware of their roles in preventing violent extremism.

In that overall context, we are working with the NUS and student faith groups to explore what further help they need to raise awareness of potential risks and to provide support for students. We will develop our plans for students/learners in the FE sector through dialogue with the National Learner Panel, the NUS and organisations that support student faith societies as part of the consultation.

In addition, we are working with the NUS and other sectoral organisations to take forward the next stage of the debate that the Prime Minister called for in November on "how to protect and maintain academic freedom while ensuring that extremists can never stifle debate or impose their views".

Council of Ministers: Meetings

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills if he will make it his policy to make a statement on the agenda of each Council of Ministers meeting he attends before so doing. [181824]

Bill Rammell: There are already arrangements in place for the provision of information to Parliament on Council of Ministers meetings. A written ministerial statement is made in both Houses before and after each Council meeting. During recesses, ministerial letters are sent to the chairman of the European Scrutiny Committees and copied to the Libraries of both Houses.

Counselling: Finance

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills if he will exempt those training to work as counsellors for Relate from the withdrawal of funding for equivalent or lower qualifications; and if he will make a statement. [178973]

Bill Rammell: No students currently studying equivalent or lower qualifications (ELQs) will be affected by these changes. In future, our policy of redistributing grant will widen participation and mean that more of the million people of working age who do not have a first higher-level qualification, especially those from non-traditional backgrounds, will be able to benefit from participating in higher education. However, in finalising our proposals in the light of consultation we have decided to make a number of adjustments. In particular, there will be a review mechanism each year starting in December 2008 to look at individual subjects of particular economic or social importance. We are sure it would be wrong for us to rush into making special arrangements for any subjects, other than those which had already been identified, before any changes to ELQs, as requiring support in the public interest (such as medicine, initial teacher training teaching, science, technology, engineering and maths subjects, area-based studies, and modern foreign languages). But we are asking the Funding Council each year to look at levels of demand both for exempt or protected subjects and at any other subjects which might in future be regarded as key because of their economic or social significance, and in cases where there is evidence of a fall in demand advise us on the best way forward. That will provide an opportunity to consider the issue raised by the hon. Member.

Departmental Parliamentary Questions

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what the (a) cost and (b) average response time for answering parliamentary questions was for his Department in the last parliamentary session. [172072]

Bill Rammell: Drafting replies to parliamentary questions is an integral part of the jobs of a significant proportion of the Department's staff and therefore to respond to this question would incur disproportionate cost. The Department's PQ Tracking System is currently unable to break down the average response time in answering parliamentary questions. The PQ tracking IT system is being upgraded and is close to implementation. It will produce accurate statistics and a wider range of management information making it possible to manage and monitor PQs more closely.

Departmental Reorganisation

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which departments, agencies and sections of the Department for Education and Skills and the Department of Trade and Industry were incorporated into his Department during the recent departmental reorganisation; how many employees there were in those departments, agencies and sections in (a) 2006 and (b) 2007 to date; in which buildings these employees (i) were based in 2006 and (ii) are based; and how much floor space (A) they occupied in 2006 and (B) they occupy. [166876]

Bill Rammell: The following Departments, agencies and sections of the Department for Education and Skills and the Department of Trade and Industry were incorporated into his Department during the recent departmental reorganisation:

Education: Finance

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what cost-benefit analysis has been made of the decision to reduce funding to equivalent or lower qualification students. [175714]

Bill Rammell: We are not cutting funding to higher education. There is no cost to the Exchequer because we are redistributing funding away from students doing equivalent or lower level qualifications in order to fund more new entrants to higher education than would otherwise be possible. First and foremost, we took this decision as a matter of fairness and social justice, but it also has an economic rationale. The additional lifetime earnings "premium" associated with getting a first degree in this country remains comfortably over £100,000 in today's prices which makes it among the highest in the developed world. Given that, it is clear that enabling 20,000 more new students (or students progressing to a higher level) to enter higher education will bring considerable long-term benefit to both individuals and the economy, through having a larger number of more highly qualified, more productive workers than would otherwise be the case.

EU Budget

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what lines in the European Union budget are available to fund projects initiated by his Department. [184066]

Bill Rammell: The UK's allocation of budget line 15 02 of the European Union budget is made available by the European Commission directly to the UK National Agencies for the Lifelong Learning Programme to provide funding to successful applicants for projects under that programme. Projects are initiated under this funding line by a wide variety of local, regional and national organisations.

Further Education: Crimes of Violence

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how he plans to ensure that further education colleges have in place plans to respond to incidents of violent extremism. [190147]

Bill Rammell: We are consulting on the best way to support colleges in their role in promoting community cohesion, fostering shared values and preventing violent extremism. Given that we believe a differentiated approach is needed so that colleges can develop plans appropriate to their circumstances, we are not proposing to impose an additional monitoring requirement to ensure all have plans for responding to incidents of violent extremism.

We will review the consultation responses and determine what further steps, if any, are needed in this regard.

Our view is that further education colleges' response to this issue will be best managed by colleges identifying and implementing solutions that work in their particular circumstances, supported by the relevant agencies and by good practice from around the network.

Further Education: Islam

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills when the research undertaken by the Learning and Skills Council on issues faced in engaging young Muslims in further education, referred to in the consultation document, The Role of Further Education Providers in Promoting Community Cohesion, Fostering Shared Values and Preventing Violent Extremism, will be published. [190179]

Bill Rammell: A report on the first phase of this research was published by the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) in November 2007 and is available on their website at:

http://readingroom.lsc.gov.uk/lsc/National/nat-engaging-young-muslims-in-learning.pdf

A second phase which is working with student groups to develop resources and more in-depth understanding of the issues faced by Muslim students will be published in summer 2008.

Higher Education: Admissions

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many (a) full-time and (b) part-time (i) students aged 17 to 21 years and (ii) mature students enrolled on higher education courses in each year since 2001. [186610]

Bill Rammell: The latest available outturn information from HESA is shown in the following table.

Comparable outturn figures for 2007/08 will not be available until January 2009, but the latest data from UCAS show record levels of applicants and acceptances for entry to full-time undergraduate courses in 2007 and a further 7 per cent. increase for entry to such courses in 2008 at this stage in the admissions cycle—clear evidence that our policies to increase HE participation are working.

Higher Education: Applications

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what criteria his Department uses to define a university applicant as a home or international student; and what account is taken as to whether they have indefinite leave to remain as opposed to exceptional leave to remain. [189267]

Bill Rammell: For student support purposes, a "home" student is a person who can demonstrate a specified connection with the UK and satisfy the other eligibility criteria. The specified connection consists of a combination of residence, immigration and in some cases nationality requirements.

Categories of student who may be eligible include those who on the first day of the first academic year of the course are:

- settled in the UK within the meaning of the Immigration Act of 1971 (which includes those with indefinite leave to remain) and
- persons awarded leave to enter or remain following a failed asylum application (Exceptional Leave to Enter or Remain, Humanitarian Protection or Discretionary Leave) and their family members.

Both categories are required to have been ordinarily resident in the UK and Islands for the three years prior to the start of their course.

Other categories of students may qualify for tuition fee support or full student support provided they satisfy specific EEA/EC legislation requirements or have been awarded refugee status.

Higher Education: Community Relations

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills when his Department plans to make available the audio-visual material to fight Al-Qa'ida and violent extremism referred to in the consultation document The Role of Further Education Providers in Promoting Community Cohesion, Fostering Shared Values and Preventing Violent Extremism. [190412]

Bill Rammell: Some audio materials are already available. Looking forward, the Department will review the need for further materials following the report of the consultation, working with colleges to make sure support materials in any medium meet their needs.

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills when the Quality and Improvement Agency plans to publish on its Excellence Gateway website the coherent package of support for staff at further education colleges referred to in the consultation document The Role of Further Education Providers in Promoting Community Cohesion, Fostering Shared Values and Preventing Violent Extremism. [190413]

Bill Rammell: The Quality Improvement Agency (QIA) already commissions programmes such as Skills for Life (to improve basic skills levels) and the Post-16 Citizenship Support Programme (to improve quality in the teaching and learning of citizenship that involves national events, networks and teaching materials) to support community cohesion.

QIA is already working to identify appropriate materials from existing support programmes to help providers in work on community cohesion and the final package of materials will reflect the outcomes of the consultation on this, once known.

The consultation closes on 6 May 2008 and once the responses have been analysed, work will begin on pulling together the most appropriate packages of support as defined by sector respondents themselves, for inclusion on the Excellence Gateway.

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what role the Quality and Improvement Agency will play in helping further education colleges to build capacity in developing the risk assessments referred to in the consultation document The Role of Further Education Providers in Promoting Community Cohesion, Fostering Shared Values and Preventing Violent Extremism. [190414]

Bill Rammell: The new FE improvement body to be established following the merger of the Quality Improvement Agency and the Centre of Excellence in Leadership will provide a single point of access for existing and future support materials via the Excellence Gateway to underpin the role that FE providers are being asked to take in promoting community cohesion, fostering shared values and preventing violent extremism.

The new body's remit will bring together the functions of CEL and QIA, with a strong focus on it being a strategic commissioning body to support organisational development and improve standards of teaching and learning for the benefit of learners, employers and the wider community.

QIA is already working to identify appropriate materials from existing support programmes to help providers in work on community cohesion and the final package of materials will reflect the outcomes of the consultation on this, once known.

Higher Education: Student Wastage

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many undergraduates have failed to complete their course in each of the last 10 years. [189382]

Bill Rammell: The latest available non-completion rates are given in the following table:

Table 1: Proportion of full-time first degree starters who are projected to neither obtain an award nor transfer to another institution

|---|---|
| 1997-98 | 15.8 |
| 1998-99 | 15.9 |
| 1999-00 | 15.8 |

Performance Indicators in Higher Education, published by HESA.
Notes:
1. Figures from the 1996-97 academic year have been excluded due to a change in methodology between 1996-97 and 1997-98.
2. Figures for years earlier than 1996-97 are not available.

Figures for the 2005-06 academic year will be available later this year. According to the figures published by the OECD, the overall completion rate for Type A (first degree equivalent) courses in UK universities and colleges of higher education is amongst the highest in the OECD countries (the UK ranks 5th out of 23 countries who report data in this area).

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which 10 graduate courses have the highest non-completion rate from highest to lowest in each of the last 10 years. [189384]

Bill Rammell: Non-completion rates are not broken down by degree subject. However a sector-wide non-continuation rate is provided for each year, which is broken down by subject of study. The non-continuation rate is the proportion of entrants to full-time first degree courses who are no longer in higher education after one year of study. The rates for young entrants are shown in the table.

Performance Indicators In Higher Education, published by the Higher Education Statistics Agency (HESA)

Subject rankings for non-continuation rates change over the years. However, medicine, dentistry and veterinary science consistently have the lowest non-continuation rates over the time series.

According to the figures published by the OECD, the overall completion rate for Type A (first degree equivalent) courses in UK universities and colleges of higher education is among the highest in the OECD countries (the UK ranks 5th out of 23 countries who report data in this area).

Industrial Training: Bureaucracy

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what proportion of public expenditure on training was spent on courses primarily designed to improve regulatory compliance in the latest period for which figures are available. [190175]

Bill Rammell: We do not hold information on courses specifically designed to improve regulatory compliance.

Priorities for Success published in 2005 established the principle that employers should bear the full cost of specific stand alone training for staff to meet their statutory or other obligations. Therefore, from 2006-07 we ceased to fund courses such as stand alone first aid and health and safety as well as stand alone training required by staff to update qualifications in order to comply with health and safety regulations.

The reprioritisation of public funding has enabled the Government to support basic literacy and numeracy, full level two and full level three qualifications for adults providing them with the education and skills they need to fully participate in an economically successful and socially cohesive society.

Music: Internet

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps he plans to take to combat the illegal downloading of music from the internet; what recent representations he has received on this issue; and if he will make a statement. [190855]

Bill Rammell: On 22 February the Government published its strategy—'Creative Britain: New Talents for the New Economy'. This strategy made 26 key commitments for Government and industry across every stage of the creative process. It included a commitment "... to consult on legislation that would require internet service providers (ISPs) and rights holders to co-operate in taking action on illegal file sharing—with a view to implementing legislation by April 2009."

However the document made clear that the Government's preferred solution was the adoption of voluntary or commercial agreements between the ISPs and right holders.

Overseas Students: Loans

Mr. Rob Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what mechanisms are in place to ensure repayment of student loans provided by the Student Loans Company by European Union nationals living outside the UK. [187649]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 3 March 2008]: The Student Loans Company has established payment arrangements for borrowers from other European Union countries who dropped out of their studies and became due to make repayment in April 2007, or who have graduated and become eligible to repay from April 2008. These existing arrangements will continue to apply when the first full cohort of borrowers from EU countries enters into repayment in April 2010.

The SLC has written to all EU borrowers due to start repayment and asked them to confirm the address where they expect to reside after graduation. If they are staying in the UK they will be expected to obtain a national insurance number and make repayments through the UK tax system. If they are going abroad they will be asked to supply an address and complete an overseas assessment form to allow repayments to be scheduled. These borrowers have been made aware of the variety of methods of repayment available to them.

So that all who can pay contribute to the costs of their education we have put in place variable threshold bands which are dependent on where the borrower lives. Effective collection across the EU is underpinned by EC regulation 44/2001, which allows the SLC to obtain judgments in UK courts, which can be enforced by courts in other EU countries.

In support of the EU repayment process the SLC is developing an enforcement strategy for borrowers who move abroad but who do not provide income details. This work is focussing on the collection of penalties, arrears and the movement of borrowers into litigation where this is appropriate. The SLC is piloting work in these areas and expects to have final arrangements in place by April 2009.

Qualifications: Finance

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what qualifications are included in the £3.7 million figure in paragraph D4.9 in the 2007 pre-Budget report/comprehensive spending review. [173160]

Bill Rammell: Paragraph D4.9 refers to the number of adult qualifications the Government are expected to support over the comprehensive spending review (CSR) period. The subsequent joint grant letter to the Learning and Skills Council from my Department and the Department for Children, Schools and Families published on 16 November set out in detail the number and type of achievements this would include specifically those which contribute to our public service' agreement targets.

These qualifications are basic literacy and numeracy, full level 2, full level 3 and apprenticeships all of which provide adults with the education and skills, they need to fully participate in an economically successful and socially cohesive society. In order to support the achievement of these qualifications, my Department will also be investing in programmes below level 2 through the foundation learning tier (FLT). The FLT will provide, a coherent framework of units and qualifications at entry and level 1 level that can be combined to form progression pathways. This will enable adults to engage in learning and progress through to level 2.

Research: Renewable Energy

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what his Department's budget was for research and development for each type of renewable energy technology in each of the last 10 years. [166873]

Ian Pearson: I refer my hon. Member to the reply I gave to the hon. Member for East Devon (Mr. Swire) on 20 November 2007, Official Report, column 664W.

Retirement

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many and what percentage of employees in (a) his Department and (b) each (i) executive agency and (ii) non-departmental public body funded by his Department were above state retirement age at the latest date for which figures are available. [166874]

Bill Rammell: In the Department there were 12 employees over state retirement age as at 31 January 2008. This represents 1.58 per cent. of a total 756 staff.

In UK IPO there are 19 employees over state retirement age as at 25 February 2008. This represents 1.87 per cent. of a total 1,015 staff.

In NWML there are no employees over state retirement age as at 26 February 2008.

Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics Network

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what the cost to his Department is of changing the Science and Engineering Network to the Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics Network; and if he will make a statement. [190262]

Ian Pearson: The total cost, to the Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics Network (STEMNET), of the rebranding exercise was £25,148. The network undertook this exercise as a result of feedback from stakeholders, in particular the mathematics community, who felt the name change was necessary to reflect the activities of the network.

Science: Research

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many investigations into misconduct in science research by (a) universities and higher education establishments, (b) research councils and (c) other Government-funded research institutions have been carried out since 2001; and if he will make a statement. [173860]

Ian Pearson: This information is not held centrally by the Department. All Research Councils are committed to promoting good research conduct, take seriously any allegations of research misconduct and are currently working to develop RCUK policy on good research conduct. Research organisations (as the employers of researchers), rather than Research Councils, would normally be responsible for investigating any alleged misconduct in research by their own employees. However, there have been 10 instances since 2001 in which Research Councils have investigated allegations of misconduct, whether in universities, other HEIs, Research Council Institutes or independent research organisations.

Students: Finance

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) what the (a) course fee per annum paid by and (b) unit of public funding paid for the teaching of a full-time undergraduate student studying for an equal or lower qualification was in 2007-08; [175785]

(2) pursuant to his request to the Higher Education Funding Council for England of 7 September on funding for equivalent and lower qualifications (ELQs) as additional degrees, what forecasts he has made of fees to be charged to non-exempt full-time undergraduate ELQ students; [175786]

(3) further to his request to the Higher Education Funding Council for England of 7 September on funding for equivalent and lower qualifications as additional degrees, which professional higher level qualifications will no longer receive funding; [175787]

(4) whether he consulted (a) the Confederation of British Industry and (b) professional bodies before making his request to the Higher Education Funding Council for England on 7 September on funding for equivalent and lower qualifications as additional degrees. [175788]

Bill Rammell: We took this decision first and foremost as a matter of principle on grounds of fairness and social justice. But it will also benefit employers and professional bodies by expanding the supply, to a greater degree than would otherwise be possible, of highly skilled, more productive workers with higher level qualifications. We consulted on the details and no-one has seriously challenged the priority of putting first-time students first. All professional higher level qualifications will continue to attract institutional funding as now when studied by students either entering HE for the first time or progressing to a higher level qualification to ones already obtained.

The level of institutional grant paid by HEFCE in 2007-08 to teach full-time undergraduate students, whether studying for equivalent or lower level qualifications or not, varies according to the cost of teaching different subjects. Funding ranges from over £14,000 for medicine and dentistry, which are exempt subjects under the ELQ policy, to around £2,600 for the least costly subjects to teach. However, there is no necessary connection between these figures and fee levels. Tuition fees for students studying equivalent and lower level qualifications are already and will continue to be unregulated, subject only to the forces of supply and demand. Each HE provider will need to continue to set tuition fees at a level which remains competitive in a system in which there are over 250 HE providers.

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what activities were recently undertaken as part of Student Finance week; and what the cost was of each. [186612]

Bill Rammell: The information is as follows:

Student Finance Week 2007/08 was a week long programme of PR activity.

The aim of the activity was to make the target audience aware of and direct them to view the new Student Finance DVD. The DVD contains detailed information on the package of financial support available for students entering higher education from September 2008.

The activity was aimed at young people aged 16-19 and their parents.

The breakdown of activity for Student Finance Week 2008 is set out in the following table

| | £ |
|---|---|
| Coverage in national and regional press to announce the launch of the campaign | 1,455 |
| Coverage in The Sun newspaper featuring an exclusive giveaway of the DVD | 1,100 |
| Coverage in the regional press featuring exclusive DVD giveaways | 1,340 |
| Radio morning with Bill Rammell | 5,010 |
| Nick Grimshaw vodcast placed on a variety of youth websites | 14,450 |
| Martin Lewis 'Cash Classroom' vodcast placed on a variety of websites | 2,220 |
| Coverage in personal finance pages of national titles | 4,205 |
| Coverage of celebrity graduate champions | 2,940 |
| Coverage featuring Ed Byrnes (one of the stars of the DVD) on various websites | 1,205 |
| The total cost of activity | 33,925 |

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what proportion of undergraduates enrolling on a higher education course received a bursary in (a) 2006-07 and (b) 2007-08; and if he will make a statement. [188036]

Bill Rammell: It is not possible to say what proportion of students overall received a bursary. However, we know that the Student Loans made 81,000 payments in 2006-07 via the Higher Education Bursary Scholarship System (HEBSS) that they manage. HEBSS allows students to apply for a bursary via the Local Authority at the same time as they apply for financial support. It is also important to note that 38 out of 125 institutions do not use this system, so we do not hold data on the number of payments they made. Nevertheless, OFFA report that no student who was eligible and applied for bursaries failed to receive one.

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much the average bursary awarded to an undergraduate student was in (a) 2006-07 and (b) 2007-08; and if he will make a statement. [188037]

Bill Rammell: The data held indicates that a typical bursary for a student on full state support for 2006-07 and 2007-08 is around £1,000, although the exact sum each student receives will vary according to the institution's access agreement. It is not possible to create a meaningful overall average bursary because of the variance in institution's threshold above the full state support threshold.

Students: Public Participation

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what estimate he has made of the cost of his Department's student juries. [190234]

Bill Rammell: Costs for the five student juries, held between November 2007 and February 2008, totalled just over £30,600. The student juries were an important preliminary to the work of the National Student Forum, which will have its first meeting on 28 February 2008.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what the budget for the National Student Forum is for 2008-09; and if he will make a statement. [190261]

Bill Rammell: A budget of £51,700 has been allocated for the core activity of the National Student Forum this academic year. Up to £70,000 for additional activity, such as the development of a website, is also available as necessary. The forum's chair will be paid an honorarium of £5,000 per annum. In addition, we will pay reasonable travel, access and subsistence expenses for the forum members and chair.

The Department will consider requests from the forum, to be agreed through the chair, for independent research up to the sum of £50,000 annually. The funding will be held by the Department and can only be used in compliance with the Department's procurement procedures and Government Accounting rules.

The National Student Forum will have its first meeting on Thursday 28 February. The forum is a demonstration of our commitment to amplifying the student voice in government.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Academies: Expenditure

Mr. Purchase: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the total capital spend was on the school academy programme in England in each year since 2003-04; and what percentage that total represented of all new secondary school building capital expenditure in England in each year. [189199]

Jim Knight: The following table details the capital provision for academies as a proportion of the corresponding figure for all schools.

The Department does not keep a record of the capital funding split between primary and secondary schools. This is because local authorities' formulaic funding is not ring-fenced, and the split of expenditure between primary and secondary schools is decided at local authority level.

The figures for academies, similarly, will include any contributions that the Department has made towards the primary element of academy school buildings.

| | All schools (£ million) | Academies (£ million) | Academies as a proportion of all schools (percentage) |

Assessments: Standards

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many schools have requested a re-mark of a whole year group's (a) key stage 2 and (b) key stage 3 examination papers in (i) English, (ii) mathematics and (iii) science in each year since 2001; and if he will make a statement; [188982]

(2) how many (a) Key Stage 2 and (b) Key Stage 3 examination papers in (i) English, (ii) mathematics and (iii) science were re-marked following a request from schools in each year since 2001; and if he will make a statement. [188983]

Jim Knight: The following Tables 1 and 2 show how many schools, since 2004, requested a group re-mark in the Key Stage 2 and Key Stage 3 English, mathematics and science tests, and how many scripts were re-marked following a request from schools.

Data for the period 2001 to 2003 is not available in the format requested.

The figures in the tables were provided by the National Assessment Agency (NAA), which is responsible for the administration of National Curriculum tests including the external marking and group reviews service to schools.

Children: Obesity

John Cummings: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children in the age groups (a) 5 to 8, (b) 9 to 11, (c) 12 to 13 and (d) 14 to 16 years were classed as obese in each school in Easington constituency in the latest period for which figures are available. [186210]

Dawn Primarolo: I have been asked to reply.

The best available data on prevalence of child obesity in the North East region are available through the "Health Survey for England (HSE) and the National Child Measurement Programme" (NCMP).

The HSE 2006, published in January 2008, showed that in the North East for children aged 2-15 years, 20 per cent. of boys and 15 per cent. of girls were obese.

The NCMP weighs and measures children aged 4-5 years and 10-11 years. The Report published on February 21, 2008 showed that for the North East Strategic Health Authority, 10.9 per cent. of children aged 4-5 years, and 19.9 per cent. of children aged 10-11 years, were obese.

Obesity prevalence is available by primary care trust and local authority in the NCMP report, which is available on the Department of Health website at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/Publichealth/Healthimprovement/Healthyliving/DH_083093.

School-level results are not available from the HSE, because a sampling method is used and, due to the small numbers involved, results are not reliable below regional level.

School-level results have not been published at a national level for the NCMP. However, the dataset has now been shared with Public Health Observatories to allow them to undertake their own analysis, including analysis at school level, according to regional and local needs.

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children aged (a) five to eight, (b) nine to 11, (c) 12 to 13 and (d) 14 to 16 years were classed as obese in each school in Tamworth constituency in the latest period for which figures are available. [187723]

Dawn Primarolo: I have been asked to reply.

The best available data on prevalence of child obesity in the West Midlands region are available through the "Health Survey for England" (HSE) and the "National Child Measurement Programme" (NCMP).

The HSE 2006, published in January 2008, showed that in the West Midlands for children aged 2-15 years, 19 per cent. of boys and 18 per cent. of girls were obese.

The NCMP weighs and measures children aged 4-5 years and 10-11 years. The report published on February 21, 2008 showed that for the East Midlands Strategic Health Authority, 9.8 per cent. of children aged 4-5 years, and 16.6 per cent. of children aged 10-11 years, were obese.

Obesity prevalence is available by primary care trust and local authority in the NCMP report, which is available on the Department's website at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/Publichealth/Healthimprovement/Healthyliving/DH_083093.

School-level results are not available from the HSE, because a sampling method is used and, due to the small numbers involved, results are not reliable below regional level.

School-level results have not been published at a national level for the NCMP. However, the dataset has now been shared with Public Health Observatories to allow them to undertake their own analysis, including analysis at school level, according to regional and local needs.

Children: Protection

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will make a statement on the final outcome of his Department's review of the 210 cases identified on List 99 who were subject to only a partial bar on working with children. [189067]

Kevin Brennan: In the written parliamentary statement of 28 February 2007 the then Secretary of State for Education and Skills reported on progress on the review of those cases where individuals were placed on List 99, but subject to a partial bar. The Secretary of State intends to make a further statement to the House in due course.

Classroom Assistants: Enfield

Joan Ryan: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many teaching assistants were employed in (a) primary and (b) secondary schools in Enfield North in each of the last 10 years. [190257]

Jim Knight: The following table shows the number of full-time equivalent teaching assistants employed in local authority maintained primary and secondary schools in Enfield North constituency, in each January from 1998 to 2007.

Full-time equivalent teaching assistants[1] employed in local authority maintained primary and secondary schools in Enfield North constituency, in each January from 1998 to 2007

Departmental Data Protection

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many meetings his Department's chief information officer had with officials in other Government Departments and agencies as part of Government-wide initiatives on data security in the last 12 months. [190744]

Kevin Brennan: In the last 12 months, the Department for Children, Schools and Families' chief information officer has had seven meetings with officials in other Government Departments and agencies as part of Government-wide initiatives on data security.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many of his Department's civil servants were (a) suspended and (b) dismissed for accessing (i) obscene and (ii) other prohibited material on work computers in each of the last five years. [188791]

Kevin Brennan: No civil servants in the Department have been suspended or dismissed over the last five years for accessing obscene or other prohibited websites on their work computers.

Departmental Official Hospitality

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much was spent by his Department and its agencies on (a) alcohol and (b) entertaining in the last 12 months. [187785]

Kevin Brennan: Details of expenditure on personal entertainment recorded by the Department over the last 12 months are as follows:

January 2007 to January 2008, £11,555.59.

The figure excludes costs incurred as part of official events or formal meetings held to further departmental business. DCSF is unable to separately identify the costs of alcohol from those of general entertainment; as such expenditure is claimed and recorded under the general heading of Personal Entertainment.

The basic rules governing hospitality are set by HM Treasury.

There is a general principle that alcohol should not be provided at public expense and never when only civil servants are present.

Moderate amounts of alcohol can be provided at public expense when entertaining non-civil servants if not providing alcohol might be regarded as unusual or cause embarrassment. Examples of such events are hospitality from Ministers, at publicity events such as launches or the rare occasions when senior staff judge that official business can best be transacted by hosting a meeting over lunch or dinner.

(b) Hospitality expenditure is limited to occasions when official business can best be transacted in that way. Personal entertainment is usually restricted to where senior managers (Deputy Director or above) are acting as a host and expenditure must be approved in advance by a Director or Executive Board member.

The Department for Children, Schools and Families was created on 28 June 2007 as a result of a machinery of Government change and the expenditure recorded above includes that of its predecessor department, the Department for Education and Skills. The expenditure will also include any costs incurred by the newly created Department for Universities, Innovation and Skills, where these costs relate to areas formerly the responsibility of the Department for Education and Skills.

The Department does not have any executive agencies.

Departmental Official Residences

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many ministerial residences were available to his Department's Ministers and those of its predecessors in each of the last 10 years. [183187]

Kevin Brennan: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my hon. Friend, the Parliamentary Secretary for the Cabinet Office (Mr. Watson) on 19 February 2008, Official Report, column 688W.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of his Department's staff are employed within each salary band; what the title and role of each position within each salary band is; and for each salary band what the (a) bonus structure, (b) retirement provision, (c) expenses provision, (d) total expenses incurred in each of the last 10 years, (e) average age of employee, (f) number of (i) women and (ii) men and (g) ethnic composition is. [171412]

Kevin Brennan: The Department employs 2,875 staff in a wide variety of roles. It was formed as part of the 28 June 2007 machinery of government changes, taking in staff from the former Department for Education and Skills and the Home Office. The following table sets out the number and proportion of men and women employed in each of the general salary bands.

|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Administrative Assistant | 39 | 1.4 | 20 | 0.7 | 59 |
| Administrative Officer | 99 | 3.4 | 289 | 10.1 | 388 |
| Executive Officer (EO) and equivalents | 209 | 7.3 | 400 | 13.9 | 609 |
| Higher Executive Officer (HEO) and equivalents | 286 | 9.9 | 358 | 12.5 | 644 |
| Senior Executive Officer (SEO) and equivalents | 202 | 7 | 242 | 8.4 | 444 |

Staff undertake a wide variety of duties in support of my Department's objectives, including some specialist roles. Titles and roles of each position and other individual information requested could be provided only at disproportionate cost, but I can add the following further information on the work force: the average age of employees across the Department is 43. 442 employees (15.4 per cent.) have identified themselves as Black and Minority Ethnic (BME) staff. Additionally, 585 (20.3 per cent.) have said that they prefer not to say or have not yet declared an ethnicity.

For staff at grade 6 and below, there is a non-consolidated bonus structure that varies according to pay agreements but is negotiated annually with the trade unions and follows Cabinet Office central guidance. For all SCS staff, the bonus arrangements are determined centrally by Cabinet Office. Staff in the Department for Children,

Schools and Families participate in the general Principal Civil Service Pension Scheme (PCSPS) determined by Cabinet Office. The PCSPS is an unfunded multi-employer defined benefit scheme. Expenses are claimed according to central and departmental guidance available to all staff. Information on individual expenses claimed in each of the last 10 years could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mr. Letwin: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the Winter Supplementary Estimates (HC 29), if he will break down his Department's (a) main estimate and (b) winter supplementary estimate provision by subhead in (i) near cash and (ii) non-cash terms. [174995]

Kevin Brennan: Near-cash and non-cash are essentially used as departmental expenditure limit (DEL) budgetary control concepts and are not specifically identified with voted resources in estimates. However, we have been able to break down net total resources for each section in the "Part II: Subhead" detail table of our main and winter supplementary estimate as follows. The significant change between the main and winter supplementary figures is the result of the machinery of government changes announced on 28 June 2007. The resources voted for Department for Education and Skills in the main estimate were divided between the Department for Children Schools and Families and the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills.

Departmental Written Questions

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of parliamentary questions from hon. Members for answer on a named day to his Department and its predecessor received a (a) holding and (b) substantive answer on the named day in each year since 2001. [190291]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Domestic Violence

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what (a) guidance and (b) support his Department gives to children's centres, nurseries and other forms of early years providers in respect of (i) domestic violence and (ii) forced marriage. [189910]

Beverley Hughes: 'Working Together to Safeguard Children', the main interagency guide to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children, contains information for practitioners about domestic violence and forced marriage. It makes clear that those who work with children should know how to recognise and respond to the possible abuse or neglect of a child. This will include childminders and everyone working in early years provision. 'Working Together' advises that if anyone has concerns that a child is in danger of a forced marriage, they should contact the Forced Marriage Unit. The guidance also asks Local Safeguarding Children Boards to involve children's centres in their work to safeguard and promote the welfare of children in their local areas. The Government have also published a shorter guidance document, 'What To Do If You're Worried A Child Is Being Abused', which is used widely by those who work with children and which provides an accessible guide to the steps to take when someone has concerns about a child.

The Sure Start Children's Centres Practice Guidance highlights families experiencing domestic violence among those groups of families that find it hardest to access the services they need. It encourages children's centres to ensure that parents or other family members have access to appropriate support. The statutory framework for the Early Years Foundation Stage, which will be statutory from September 2008, makes clear that all practitioners should have an up-to-date understanding of safeguarding children issues and be able to implement the safeguarding children policy and procedure appropriately. Policies should be in line with LSCB local guidance and procedures.

Faith Schools: Liverpool

Mrs. Ellman: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families when he expects work to begin on the new faith primary school in Liverpool; and if he will make a statement. [184460]

Jim Knight [holding answer 4 February 2008]: This Department has fully supported the plans for the proposed new faith school in Liverpool, and have worked closely with the local authority and the Archdiocese of Liverpool to move the project forward. The delays are due to issues surrounding local organisation. The local authority has just confirmed that it will now carry out a rationalisation review in the area and will be able to advise us, by September 2008, whether they wish to proceed with plans to build the new faith school.

Family Intervention Projects

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what funds have been allocated to family intervention projects for each of the next three financial years. [191386]

Beverley Hughes: The Secretary of State announced on 5 October 2007 that the Department for Children, Schools and Families would provide on-going funding of up to £18 million over the next three years to sustain the recently established network of 53 Family Intervention Projects. Projects will get ongoing tapered funding over 2008-11 based on current allocations. Evaluation evidence from the 53 projects shows that families who in the past may have been written off by agencies are now being offered the right help and incentives to become decent members of their community and provide their children with life chances.

Nursery Schools: East of England

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many free early years education places have been available in (a) Suffolk, (b) Norfolk, (c) Essex and (d) Cambridgeshire in each year since 1997. [169962]

Beverley Hughes: The available information on the number of part-time funded places filled by three and four-year-olds in Suffolk, Norfolk, Essex and Cambridgeshire local authority areas is shown in the tables.

Since April 2004 all three and four-year-olds have been entitled to a free part-time early education place for 12.5 hours per week for 38 weeks of the year. From 2010, this offer will be extended from 12.5 to 15 hours per week for 38 weeks of the year.

Physical Education: Teachers

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many hours of physical education training the Youth Sport Trust recommends during initial teacher training to meet the Government's school sport public service agreement target. [189591]

Jim Knight [holding answer 26 February 2008]: I am not aware of any recommendation the Youth Sport Trust has made about primary initial teacher training. In any event, neither this Department nor the Training and Development Agency for Schools prescribe the content for courses of initial teacher training or the time that should be spent on particular components of it. Training providers have discretion over this, but the outcome of their course must be that trainees are, on completion, able to demonstrate the various standards the Secretary of State has set out for awarding of Qualified Teacher Status.

Pupils: Per Capita Costs

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how much has been allocated per pupil for the 2008-09 school year, broken down by county; [189455]

(2) what the average funding per pupil is in England for the 2008-09 school year. [189458]

Jim Knight: The Dedicated Schools Grant guaranteed per pupil units of funding for 2008-09 are provided in the following tables for local authorities grouped by type: London, metropolitan, unitary and upper tier. Guaranteed units of funding are not calculated at a county level. The average figure for England is £4,066 per pupil. This covers all funded pupils aged three to 15. Figures are in cash terms. In addition to the Dedicated Schools Grant there are other grants that support the schools budget whose allocations have not yet been finalised.

Schools

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what studies his Department has (a) conducted and (b) reviewed on the ideal size of state schools in urban and rural areas; and if he will make a statement. [190657]

Jim Knight [holding answer 3 March 2008]: The Department commissioned an international research review in 2004 on the impact of secondary school size on student, teacher and school outcomes. The research was conducted by the Evidence for Policy and Practice Information and Co-ordinating (EPPI) Centre at the Institute of Education, University of London on behalf of the Department. The research found no consistent relationship between the size of the school and pupil outcomes and was based mainly on studies from the US. The Department has not commissioned research to investigate the question of ideal school size in urban or rural areas, or on ideal primary school size.

The Secretary of State will not be making a statement on this issue.

Schools: Health Education

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of schools in each local authority have achieved healthy school status; and if he will make a statement. [188984]

Kevin Brennan: The numbers and proportions of schools who have achieved National Healthy School Status for each local authority as at 21 February 2008, are shown on the following table.

The National Healthy Schools Programme (NHSP) promotes a whole school approach to health. Nationally, over 57 per cent. (12,484) of schools are now Healthy Schools which means the programme is on track to meet its published target of 75 per cent. of schools achieving National Healthy School Status by the end of December 2009.

Schools: Public Private Partnerships

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what plans he has to approve further public-private partnership projects to fund the building and refurbishing of schools in England. [190045]

Jim Knight: DCSF has been allocated £1.320 billion PFI credits in each financial year of the comprehensive spending period 2008 to 2011. Public Private Partnership projects, including PFI continue to form a significant part of the Department's capital programme.

PFI is used in capital procurement where it demonstratively provides the public sector with better value for money in procuring modern, high quality services from the private sector. Typically, PFI offers better value for money than conventional design and build procurement methods for schools which are almost wholly new build.

Schools: Sports

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) females and (b) males play competitive sport in schools in (i) Staffordshire and (ii) England. [173256]

Kevin Brennan: These data have not been collected centrally. The annual School Sport Survey collects data relating to PE and School Sport at a school, rather than pupil level.

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the implications of the recent data published by the NHS Information Centre on childhood obesity for the assessment of performance against the Government's relevant targets; and what impact these data have had on the strategy for school sport. [190434]

Kevin Brennan [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The NHS Information Centre recently published the results of the National Child Measurement Programme for the 2006-07 school year. The main purpose of the programme is to inform trend analysis and the effective development, planning and delivery of children's services at national and local levels. The NCMP data also underpin the local indicators in both the national indicator set for local authorities and the vital signs indicators for primary care trusts. Guidance has been issued to local areas on how they can use NCMP data to inform goal setting for these child obesity indicators. The national PSA target will be monitored through the Health Survey for England.

The NCMP is one of the largest collections of child height and weight data in the world and we are keen to ensure effective use of the data gathered, while ensuring the confidentiality of individual children who participated, including to inform the strategy for school sport. Within this constraint, the national anonymised dataset has already been made available to public health observatories to enable more detailed regional and local data analysis, including at school level.

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many children meeting the Government's two hours of high quality sport and physical education targets are (a) overweight and (b) obese; [190435]

(2) how the Government (a) monitors and (b) measures performance against the two hours of high quality sport and physical education public service agreement target; and who is responsible for (i) collecting and (ii) interpreting data; [190436]

(3) if he will place in the Library a copy of each document relating to the (a) monitoring and (b) measurement of performance against the two hours of high quality sport or PE public service agreement target. [190438]

Kevin Brennan [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The annual school sport survey collects data relating to the percentage of 5 to16-year-olds who take part in at least two hours high quality PE and sport in a typical week. The survey is carried out on behalf of the Department by TNS, an independent research company who were awarded the contract to run the survey after a competitive procurement exercise.

The survey does not collect data on take up of two hours PE and sport by overweight or obese children.

Copies of the results of the latest survey have been placed in the Libraries of both Houses.

Secondary Education

Joan Walley: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which secondary schools in England achieved above average key stage 2 to 4 results in 2007. [169335]

Jim Knight: The performance of each school is published in the achievement and attainment tables. These can be found in the House of Commons Library. The median Key Stage 2 to Key Stage 4 CVA score for maintained mainstream schools (including CTCs and academies) is 1000.7.

Teachers: Early Retirement

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many teachers took early retirement in (a) Suffolk, (b) Norfolk, (c) Essex, (d) Cambridgeshire, (e) Bedfordshire, (f) Hertfordshire and (g) England in each year since 1997, broken down by type of institution. [187609]

Jim Knight: The following table provides the number of teachers awarded early retirement benefits whose last recorded service was in Suffolk, Norfolk, Essex, Cambridgeshire, Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire local authorities and for England by phase of education, in each year from 1997/98 to 2006/07.

[1] Premature retirements include actuarially reduced benefit awards from 2000/01.
[2] Cambridgeshire and Essex local authorities were re-organised on 1 April 1998 and therefore the figures for 1997/98 are for the former local authority areas including Peterborough (Cambridgeshire) and Southend and Thurrock (Essex).
[3] The effect of the change in the Teachers' Pension Scheme as from 31 August 1997 was that many more teachers took early retirement in 1997/98 than in other years.
[4] Provisional estimates. All years may be subject to slight revision due to the addition of retrospective awards and suspension of pension benefits where teachers return to service.

Teachers: Labour Turnover

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many teachers in Yorkshire and the Humber have left the profession within (a) one year, (b) five years and (c) 10 years of completing their qualified teacher status induction period since its inception; and if he will make a statement. [190805]

Jim Knight: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Teaching Methods: Finance

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the timetable is for the national implementation of funding for local authorities to pay for one-to-one tuition for children in English and mathematics following the Making Good Progress pilot project; what other provisions of the project are to be implemented nationally; and if he will make a statement. [189943]

Jim Knight: The Government have committed to the delivery of national one-to-one tuition for 300,000 pupils in English and 300,000 pupils in mathematics by 2010-11. However, we expect that some tuition will also take place on a national basis in the financial year 2009-10.

School progression targets to improve the proportions of pupils making two levels of progress within a key stage are being introduced in pilot schools in the academic year 2008/09, with national progression targets coming on stream for all schools from the academic year 2009/10.

All other elements of the pilot, including the financial premium and single level tests, will be subject to further evaluation before any decision is made about whether to implement them on a national basis.

Truancy

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children are recorded as missing from education, broken down by age; how many have been so recorded in each year since 2001; and if he will make a statement. [190061]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested by the hon. Member is not available on a national basis. A new statutory duty commenced in February 2007 for local authorities to put robust systems in place to identify children missing from education. Local authorities have been busy implementing these systems over the past year and they should now be able to provide local level data on how many children are missing in their area. However, reliable information on how many children are missing from education cannot be produced nationally using current methods of collection. This information has never been collected. The Department is considering how to collect appropriate information on children missing from education in the future.

Young People: Public Participation

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the Statement by the Prime Minister of 14 November 2007, Official Report, columns 667-72, on national security, when he expects the youth panel announced by the Prime Minister to be set up; who he expects its members to be; what he expects its costs to be; and if he will make a statement. [168415]

Beverley Hughes: I have been asked to reply.

We are working jointly with Communities and Local Government to plan for and convene the youth panel later this year.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Buildings: Energy

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether (a) under-floor insulation and (b) under-floor heating is taken into account when assessing the energy efficiency of a property for an energy performance certificate. [189548]

Caroline Flint: The energy efficiency of a new build domestic property is assessed using SAP (Standard Assessment Procedure), the Government's calculation methodology for assessing the energy efficiency of dwellings. It includes provision for accounting for (a) under-floor insulation and (b) under-floor heating.

Existing dwellings are assessed by Reduced Data SAP (RdSAP) which makes assumptions about floor insulation based on the age of the property.

The energy efficiency of the vast majority of commercial buildings is assessed using SBEM (Simplified Building Energy Model) which takes account of both under-floor insulation and under-floor heating.

Bus Services

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) what estimate her Department has made of the effect on local authorities' expenditure of free or subsidised bus shelters provided by advertising companies; [190007]

(2) what estimate her Department has made of the effect on its expenditure if free or subsidised bus shelters were no longer provided by advertising companies. [190006]

John Healey: The Department has made no estimate of the effect on either its own expenditure or of expenditure by local authorities as a result of the continuation or cessation of free or subsidised bus shelters provided by advertising companies.

Business: Non-Domestic Rates

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the Answer to the hon. Member for Welwyn Hatfield of 29 January 2008, Official Report, columns 226-27W, on business: non-domestic rates, what records her Department holds of the rates of levy applicable in each business improvement district. [191636]

John Healey: The information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Casinos: Greater Manchester

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what meetings the regional Minister for the North West has had with (a) Councillor Richard Leese, (b) the hon. Member for Manchester Central and (c) the Prime Minister on the super-casino proposal for Manchester. [191623]

Hazel Blears: The regional Minister for the North West has not had any meetings with those suggested on the super-casino proposal for Manchester.

Community Relations: Finance

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much her Department plans to spend on (a) the development of the new web-based one stop shop on cohesion, (b) the deployment of teams to support areas undergoing particularly rapid change, (c) the programme of work to realise increased inter-faith dialogue and social interaction within communities and (d) placing work with key partners on a more strategic footing in (i) 2007-08, (ii) 2008-09, (iii) 2009-10 and (iv) 2010-11, as referred to in the Government's response to the Commission on Integration and Cohesion. [190113]

Mr. Dhanda: The Government have made a substantial increase in funding for cohesion in the Spending Review and we are currently developing plans for a wide range of activity, as set out in the Government's response to the final report of the Commission on Integration and Cohesion.

With respect to increasing inter faith dialogue and interaction, in 2007-08, £4.982 million was spent on the faith communities capacity building fund, one of whose objectives was increased inter faith activity; £175,000 was granted to the inter faith network; and a contract for research in support of the current consultation on inter faith dialogue and activity has been let to the faith based regeneration network for £32,700. Plans for work to promote inter faith dialogue and action for 2008-09 to 2010-11 have not yet been finalised. However, we are developing an inter faith strategy (which is currently out for consultation) and this will set the framework for future resourcing decisions. Plans for the one stop shop on cohesion, teams to support areas facing rapid change and placing work with key partners on a more strategic footing are currently being developed. No expenditure has yet been committed for 2007-08 to 2010-11.

Council Tax

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government on what measure of inflation local authorities will base council tax changes in 2008-09. [191666]

John Healey: The level of council tax is a matter for local authorities, not central Government.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the salary range is for each pay band of civil servants in her Department. [188805]

Mr. Dhanda: For the senior civil service (SCS), for whom reward arrangements are managed centrally by the Cabinet Office, the 2007-08 pay ranges are:

| | Minimum | £ Ceiling |
|---|---|---|
| SCS Pay Band 1 | 56,100 | 116,000 |
| SCS Pay Band 1A | 65,280 | 127,000 |
| SCS Pay Band 2 | 81,500 | 160,000 |
| SCS Pay Band 3 | 99,960 | 205,000 |

For staff below the SCS the 2007-08 the pay ranges in DCLG are:

| | Minimum | £ Maximum |
|---|---|---|
| Typists (National) | 15,876 | 17,899 |
| Typist (London) | 19,317 | 21,779 |
| Administrative Assistant (National) | 14,959 | 16,350 |
| Administrative Assistant (London) | 18,402 | 20,114 |
| Administrative Officer (National) | 18,973 | 21,123 |
| Administrative Officer (London) | 22,098 | 24,601 |
| Executive Officer (National) | 21,842 | 26,866 |
| Executive Officer (London) | 24,461 | 30,086 |
| Higher Executive Officer (National) | 25,547 | 31,423 |
| Higher Executive Officer (London) | 28,105 | 34,508 |
| Senior Executive Officer (National) | 31,525 | 38,775 |
| Senior Executive Officer (London) | 33,922 | 41,723 |
| Grade 7 (National) | 38,962 | 31,916 |
| Grade 7 (London) | 42,435 | 56,544 |
| Grade 6 (National) | 47,880 | 63,800 |

Departmental Private Finance Initiative

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what private finance initiative projects were approved within her Department in each of the last three financial years; and what the (a) value and (b) start date was of each. [190863]

Mr. Dhanda: The capital value and start date for every signed PFI project are recorded centrally on the Treasury's website at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/documents/public_private_partnerships/ppp_pfi_stats.cfm.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Ms Keeble: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what proportion of her Department's expenditure was allocated to Government growth areas in the last year for which figures are available. [190955]

Caroline Flint: In 2007-08 Communities and Local Government has allocated:

£122.1 million through the Growth Areas Fund to support delivery in the three newer Growth Areas of Ashford, London-Stansted-Cambridge-Peterborough and Milton Keynes/South Midlands;

£182 million through the Thames Gateway Fund; and £41.8 million through the Growth Points Fund to support delivery in the 29 existing Growth Points.

This equates to around 3.3 per cent. of the total DEL budget.

Information on the total amount of departmental funding which is directed at the growth areas through other programmes is not available other than at disproportionate cost.

Dorset Fire and Rescue Service

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many fire engines were operating in Dorset Fire and Rescue Service in (a) 1997 and (b) 2007-08. [191234]

Mr. Dhanda [holding answer 3 March 2008]: In 1997 Dorset had 44 operational fire engines, while in 2006 there were 41. Figures for 2007-08 are not yet available.

Dorset Fire and Rescue Service: Emergency Calls

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the average response time of Dorset Fire and Rescue Service to emergency call-outs was in each of the last 24 months. [191236]

Mr. Dhanda [holding answer March 2008]: The most recent fire statistics available are for 2006 and only cover response times for primary fires. Response times on incidents, other than primary fires are not available. The following table shows Dorset Fire and Rescue Service's average response time, in minutes, to primary fires, by month, for 2005 and 2006.

Table 1: Average response times in minutes, by month, to primary fires[1] by Dorset FRS area, 2005 and 2006[2] (time of call and time of mobilisation to time of arrival)

| Month | 2005 | | 2006 | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | First call to attendance | Mobilisation to attendance | First call to attendance | Mobilisation to attendance |
| January | 6.78 | 440 | 8.08 | 4.68 |
| February | 7.29 | 4.92 | 8.09 | 4.70 |
| March | 8.15 | 4.70 | 7.82 | 4.39 |
| April | 7.98 | 448 | 8.04 | 4.33 |
| May | 7.48 | 4.26 | 8.46 | 4.75 |
| June | 8.44 | 4.97 | 8.47 | 5.01 |
| July | 8.20 | 4.65 | 9.24 | 5.37 |
| August | 8.37 | 4.98 | 8.89 | 5.09 |
| September | 7.98 | 4.66 | 8.08 | 4.72 |
| October | 8.54 | 5.23 | 7.70 | 4.44 |
| November | 7.92 | 4.54 | 7.42 | 4.50 |
| December | 7.52 | 3.94 | 7.90 | 4.56 |

[1] Incidents with a response time greater than 59 minutes are excluded as response time data maybe incorrect and will therefore skew the averages.
[2] Data for 2006 is provisional and subject to change.

Eco-Towns

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what her Department's definition of an eco-town is. [190514]

Caroline Flint: The definition of an eco-town is set out in the Eco-towns Prospectus, which was published alongside the Housing Green paper last July, and is available in the House Library.

Eco-Towns: Planning

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what consultation the Government have had with local planning authorities before potential sites for eco-towns are announced by developers; what planning procedures apply to eco-towns; what criteria she will use to ensure the sites chosen do not adversely affect the environment; and whether there will be a presumption against building eco-towns on (a) functional floodplains and (b) the green belt. [190512]

Caroline Flint: We are contacting local authorities in areas where schemes look to have good potential as part of an initial assessment of bids and expect to publish proposals shortly. We are aware that some developers have already publicised their bids and that is a decision for them.

In terms of the planning process I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Banbury (Tony Baldry) on 16 January 2008, Official Report, column 1262W.

In relation to ensuring the environment is not adversely affected I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Cotswold (Mr. Clifton-Brown) on 29 February 2006, Official Report, column 1991W. This will ensure that development on floodplains and the green belt are considered in the usual way as part of the planning process.

Female Genital Mutilation

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many local authority social services departments have reported evidence of female circumcision among their ethnic minority communities; and what steps she has taken to tackle the practice of female circumcision in ethnic minority communities. [184580]

Mr. Coaker: I have been asked to reply.

Data on Female Genital Mutilation (FGM) are not collected or held centrally by the Department of Health (DH), the Department responsible for adult services, or the department of Children, Schools and Families (DCSF), the Department responsible for children's services.

We are taking the following steps to tackle the practice of FGM:

DH has provided grant aid to the Foundation for Women's Health Research and Development (FORWARD) for work on the prevalence of FGM, which will help local authorities plan services for the communities affected by FGM.

DCSF's publication 'Working Together to Safeguard Children' has been issued to local agencies including local authorities. This document includes guidance on the need to identify children at risk of FGM and take action to safeguard them.

To raise awareness of the risks of FGM, and to discourage its practice, DCSF is currently providing a specialist voluntary organisation (Agency for Culture Change Management) with more than £130,000 over three years in order to: raise the profile of the dangers of FGM to girls across black and minority ethnic communities; and provide training for professionals on protection from FGM and treating those already harmed.

'Safeguarding Children and Safer Recruitment in Education', which came into force in January 2007, also contains guidance about FGM and signposts further sources of information available on the DCSF's teachernet website.

FGM is recognised as a form of domestic abuse highlighted in 'Responding to domestic abuse: A handbook for health professionals', published by DH in January 2006.

There are at least 10 specialist clinics in the NHS which treat women and girls who have been mutilated. These clinics all have trained and culturally sensitive staff who offer a range of health care services for women and girls including reversal surgery.

Fire Services: Finance

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the cost to the public purse of leasing regional FireControl Project centres prior to them becoming fully operational; and if she will make a statement. [190920]

Mr. Dhanda: The rent and other accommodation costs (excluding business rates which have yet to be set) that will be met by Communities and Local Government before the Regional Control Centre network is fully operational is estimated to be £20,019,391. During this period EADS, the technology supplier, will install the new FireControl technology in the buildings. The buildings will also be occupied by the regional project teams overseeing the work required to prepare for cut-over to the new system.

Fire Services: Mergers

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether her Department plans to fund research into the potential for efficiencies from mergers of fire and rescue authorities; and if she will make a statement on her plans for further restructuring of fire authorities. [191643]

Mr. Dhanda: The Fire and Resilience research programme for 2008-09 is currently being considered and prioritised.

The Government have no plans for compulsory restructuring of Fire and Rescue Authorities (FRAs). The Government have long recognised that there are some challenges both organisational and operational for which FRAs working in isolation do not have the capacity to provide the most efficient, effective and economical response. Their approach has therefore been to encourage better joint working and co-operation between FRAs on a voluntary basis including, where there are clear efficiency and effectiveness benefits to be gained, the combination of two or more FRAs.

Fire Services: Recruitment

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the (a) target and (b) actual number of fire brigade officers recruited in England and Wales was in each of the last five years. [187855]

Mr. Dhanda: The number of successful firefighter applicants (whole-time and retained) are shown as follows:

Successful firefighter applicants: England and Wales 2001-02 to 2005-06

|---|---|
| 2001-02 | 3,175 |
| 2002-03 | 2,977 |
| 2003-04 | 2,874 |
| 2004-05 | 2,239 |
| 2005-06 | 2,606 |

There is currently no national recruitment target for firefighters in England. Fire and Rescue Authorities may have their own local recruitment targets.

Government Offices for the Regions: Finance

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the capital budget for each of the Government Offices for the Regions is for (a) 2007-08, (b) 2008-09, (c) 2009-10 and (d) 2010-11. [190710]

Mr. Dhanda: The capital budgets in 2007-08 are as set out in the following table:

| GO | Capital budget (£) |
|---|---|
| North East | 0 |
| Yorks and Humber | 1,548,000 |
| East Midlands | 120,000 |
| South East | 70,000 |
| London | 0 |
| North West | 110,000 |
| West Midlands | 105,000 |
| East | 0 |
| Total | 1,953,000 |

In addition the Regional Co-ordination Unit holds the balance of the total budget of £2,860,000 for any ICT or central infrastructure capital requirements.

The specific capital budgets for each region for 2008-09, 2009-10 and 2010-11 have yet to be set though the annual budget is £2,860,000.

Home Information Packs

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many voluntary home condition reports have been logged on the Home Condition Report Register to date. [176181]

Caroline Flint: The number of voluntary home condition reports which have been lodged on the home condition report register up to 27 February 2008 is 1,743.

Home Information Packs: Pilot Schemes

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the total cost of the home information pack area trials has been to date, broken down by main budget heading. [183258]

Caroline Flint: My Department has spent approximately £3.6 million to date on the area trials.

Homes and Communities Agency: Greater London

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how London boroughs will be represented on the London sub-committee of the Homes and Communities Agency. [189518]

Caroline Flint: I have agreed with the chief executive designate of the Homes and Communities Agency (HCA) and the Mayor of London that we expect London boroughs to be actively involved through participation on the sub-committee of the HCA Board and involvement in the delivery of individual schemes on the ground, reflecting their key role in delivering housing in London.

Housing: Low Incomes

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 31 January 2008, Official Report, column 583W, on housing: low incomes, what the overall APRs would be in scenarios (b) and (c) of the answer, given the effect of interest being charged at three per cent. a year after the first five years on part two of the equity loan. [189242]

Caroline Flint: The information requested is not held centrally and could only be provided at disproportionate cost.

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will make it her policy to deliver affordable housing equally in urban and rural areas. [191559]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Government expect to see increased delivery of housing supply, particularly in terms of affordable housing, to meet needs in all parts of the country. Delivery should be based on regional and local priorities with an assessment of the need for affordable housing after taking into account household growth projections and other socio-economic factors. In the next three years, for the purpose of setting targets, we have focussed on those smaller rural settlements where delivery is the most challenging. Our new national target commits the Housing Corporation to deliver 10,300 completed affordable housing units in settlements of less than 3,000 inhabitants over the period 2008-11.

Immigrants: Information Services

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many local authorities she expects to have produced information packs for newcomers to the UK by the end of (a) 2008 and (b) 2009; what guidance her Department plans to provide to local authorities on the information to be included in such packs; and what steps her Department plans to take to encourage production of such packs. [187404]

Mr. Dhanda: Communities and Local Government has worked with the Improvement and Development Agency (IDeA) to produce a Migrant Information Pack template which was published on the IDeA website on 4 February. Local authorities have been encouraged to use this new resource however are not obliged to do so. At the same time we published on the Communities website, a note which explains the purpose of the template and encourages local authorities to produce information packs.

Local Authorities: Reorganisation

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar of 7 February 2008, Official Report, column 1297W, on local authorities: reorganisation, whether her Department will direct the Boundary Committee to take account of (a) the views of local residents and (b) local identities when deciding whether to restructure local authority areas across (i) traditional and (ii) existing shire and county boundaries. [189409]

John Healey: The Secretary of State has no such power of direction. I announced on 6 February 2008, Official Report, column 67WS that we have requested the Boundary Committee to advise on whether there are any alternative unitary proposals for Exeter, Ipswich and Norwich and surrounding areas that would deliver the outcomes specified by the five criteria specified in our request. The Boundary Committee is required to consult on any alternative proposals that it identifies.

Multiple Occupation: Foreign Workers

Mr. Moss: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps the Government has taken to improve fire safety in multi-occupancy housing areas with large migrant worker populations. [187318]

Caroline Flint: As part of the "Fire Kills campaign" we have run a series of fire safety advertisements in some of the main Polish newspapers in England to promote smoke alarm ownership and maintenance messages. The Government have also implemented management regulations that apply to all houses in multiple occupation (HMOs). The management regulations impose a variety of duties on landlords of such properties, including requirements to keep means of escape from fire free from obstruction and in repair and to maintain fire fighting equipment and alarms. Under the Regulatory Reform (Fire Safety) Order 2005, 'responsible persons' are required to carry out and implement a fire risk assessment for the commons and shared parts of an HMO. The Government have also introduced mandatory HMO licensing of properties of three or more storeys, housing five or more persons who form two or more households. Landlords of licensable HMOs are required to install smoke alarms and to keep them in proper working order. Landlords who fail to comply with either the management regulations or licence conditions are subject to a fine of £5,000.

Mr. Moss: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps the Government has taken to improve waste disposal services in multi-occupancy housing areas with large migrant worker populations. [187319]

Caroline Flint: The Government have implemented management regulations that apply to all houses in multiple occupation (HMOs). The management regulations impose a variety of duties on the managers of such properties, including the duty to provide waste disposal facilities and ensure arrangements are in place for the disposal of refuse and litter from the property using the waste disposal services provided by the local authority. A breach of a management regulation is subject to a fine of £5,000.

Multiple Occupation: Licensing

Dr. Iddon: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she plans to begin the review of the licensing scheme for houses in multiple occupation. [171398]

Caroline Flint: The Department is committed to an ongoing review of the operation and effectiveness of the Houses in Multiple Occupation (HMO) licensing regime. As part of this process the Department has recently introduced flexibility for local authorities in respect of the prescribed standards for the numbers of toilets, bathrooms and wash hand basins in all HMOs. The Department is committed to the Building

Research Establishment (BRE) conducting a study in 2008-09 on the practical implication, effectiveness and impact of the HMO licensing regime since implementation.

Dr. Iddon: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the answer of 7 December 2006, Official Report, column 703W, on houses in multiple occupation, how many applications for houses in multiple occupation licences have been (a) received and (b) approved in each local authority since April 2006. [171399]

Caroline Flint: Up to 4 February 2008, 265 local authorities had provided information on the number of applications received for licences for houses in multiple occupation and these totalled 24,926. 239 local authorities had also provided information on the number of licenses issued or refused and these totalled 14,193 and 93 respectively. This left 10,640 for which an outcome had yet to be notified in a usable form to the Department. It is the local authorities with substantial numbers of applications where the usable data is outstanding. The Department is working with these authorities to resolve this issue.

51 local authorities had confirmed that they had received no applications and 38 local authorities had provided no information. The full list of local authority returns has been placed in the Library of the House.

Dr. Iddon: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what sanctions are available to her Department to take action against local authorities who do not implement the licensing scheme for houses in multiple occupation. [171400]

Caroline Flint: A local authority that does not implement the mandatory licensing scheme for Houses in Multiple Occupation (HMO) under the Housing Act 2004 is failing in its statutory duty, and could therefore be challenged through the courts.

Natural Gas: Safety Measures

Mr. Kemp: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many prosecutions there were of landlords for breach of gas safety regulations in residential properties in each of the last 10 years for which figures are available. [184899]

Mrs. McGuire: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested is in the following table:

Proceedings instituted by HSE under the Gas Safety (Installation and Use) Regulations 1994 and 1998

| | Total offences prosecuted | Offences prosecuted against s35[1] then s36[1] (landlords duties) |
|---|---|---|
| 1997-98 | 192 | 46 |
| 1998-99 | 237 | 62 |
| 1999-2000 | 208 | 49 |
| 2000-01 | 185 | 94 |
| 2001-02 | 191 | 88 |
| 2002-03 | 111 | 21 |
| 2003-04 | 97 | 28 |
| 2004-05 | 74 | 9 |
| 2005-06 | 89 | 31 |
| 2006-07 | 104 | 9 |

[1] Landlords' duties under the Gas Safety (Installation and Use) Regulations 1994 regulation 35 paragraphs (b), (c) and (d) were revoked by Gas Safety (Installation and use) Regulations 1998 regulation 36.

Note:

Offences prosecuted refer to an individual breach of health and safety legislation; a prosecution case may include more than one offence.

NHS: Public Participation

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what plans she has to broaden the membership of local involvement networks compared to patients' forums; and what assessment she has made of the impact of the Comprehensive Spending Review funding settlement for local involvement networks on that broadening. [190252]

Ann Keen: I have been asked to reply.

Local involvement networks (LINks) will enable genuine involvement of a far greater number of people than is currently available under patients' forums, ensuring local communities have a stronger voice in the process of commissioning health and social care and enabling them to influence key decisions about the services they both use and pay for.

LINks offer several key benefits over patients' forums:

- they will cover health and social care services (rather than just health);
- they will give more people the opportunity to become involved;
- they will build on the work of voluntary and community sector groups; and,
- they will be flexible to local circumstances (rather than being centrally prescribed).

These changes are aimed at promoting open and transparent communication between communities and the health service, and will develop trust and confidence, increasing accountability to local people.

We know from the experience of patients forums that the statutory nature of membership has limited their diversity. We are clear that LINks must be able to be flexible and reflect the nature of local communities. We therefore do not wish to centrally prescribe details on membership. However, we do think it is important to provide models of good practice in terms of recruitment, support and conduct of those involved in LINk activity and these will be set out in LINks guidance.

The Department received an allocation of £84 million over three years from HM Treasury to fund the establishment and costs incurred by LINks and has no plans to bid for any further funds.

Although the remit of LINks and levels of involvement will be greater than those of forums, we believe that they will be able to make better use of existing levels of funding by drawing on the resources and activities, which are already present in local communities.

Queen Elizabeth II Conference Centre: Government Departments

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what bookings the QEII Conference Centre has arranged, at commercial rates, for Whitehall-based Government departments in the last six months. [191092]

Mr. Dhanda: All room-hire bookings made by the Queen Elizabeth II Conference Centre are arranged at commercial rates for whichever sector is making the booking. Details of bookings made by or for Government Departments and their arm's length bodies from September 2007 to February 2008 are as follows:

| Organisation | Event Description |
|---|---|
| Department for Communities and Local Government (00030077) | Preventing Extremism : Strengthening Communities Learning from the Pathfinder Year |
| The Office of Government Commerce (00032923) | OGC—ASSET MANAGEMENT 2008 |
| Home Office (00044159) | Leadership and Learning Directorate Away Day |
| Department for Communities and Local Government (00030077) | DCLG Conference |
| Central Office of Information (00029689) | COI Roadshow |
| UK Trade and Investment (00042288) | Emerging Markets Forum |
| Department for Children, Schools and Families (00044010) | DCSF Conference |

Regional Ministers

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which stakeholders regional Ministers consulted on the Government draft legislative programme in September and October of 2007; what response regional Ministers made to each of these stakeholders; and what steps were taken as a result of this consultation. [190891]

Mr. Dhanda: As stated in the answer given to the right hon. Member for Maidenhead (Mrs. May), on 17 December 2007, Official Report, column 1157W, all Regional Ministers consulted with stakeholders on the Government draft legislative programme in September and October. In addition a number wrote to interested parties inviting their views. Among those consulted were representatives from local authorities, business, public institutions, voluntary and community sectors, hon. Members and Noble Lords, and environmental groups.

Regional Ministers were asked to lead a discussion with regional stakeholders on the Government draft legislative programme and all comments received by Regional Ministers were forwarded to the Cabinet Office. To provide further information on responses to stakeholders and further steps taken, would incur disproportionate costs.

Regional Ministers: Community Development

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many meetings have taken place between regional Ministers and Treasury officials to discuss regeneration in each Minister's region since the regional Ministers were appointed. [190685]

Mr. Dhanda: Information relating to internal discussion and advice is not disclosed.

Social Rented Housing

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether she has plans to replace the MoveUK scheme with different arrangements. [189540]

Caroline Flint: The Government recognise the importance of promoting mobility within the social housing sector. In July we re-launched two of the former moveUK schemes, the Seaside and Country Homes and LAWN, and these are on target to deliver 500 to 600 mobility (home moves) per year.

We have also announced additional funding of £3.8 million to support sub-regional choice based lettings schemes to widen the scope for mobility.

We are also considering how best to support and facilitate other wider national mobility options.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the cause of the recent performance of the MoveUK scheme; and if she will make a statement. [189554]

Caroline Flint: I refer the hon. Member to the written ministerial statement of 18 September 2006, Official Report, column 133WS, on Housing Employment Mobility Services (moveUK). The then Minister for Housing and Planning outlined that the Department 'decided to terminate this agreement in the interests of the public and the taxpayer because of serious concerns about the performance and fitness for purpose of the software developed by SSPL [the Contractor] to provide those services'.

Social Rented Housing: Sales

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what percentage of total revenue of registered social landlords in England and Wales was generated from sales of property in the latest period for which figures are available. [188870]

Mr. Iain Wright: The global accounts 2006 published by the Housing Corporation (the regulator for housing associations in England) show that turnover for the social landlord sector was £9,061 million of which the surplus on sales of assets amounted to £536 million, 6 per cent. of the total revenue.

Due to the way various sales are disclosed within the accounts, it is not possible to arrive at the complete figure for sales of properties. Significantly, the surplus on sales figure stated above is the net result of revenue less cost and does not therefore reflect the full revenue from sales. In addition, housing associations derive revenue from the sale of shared ownership homes, a significant element of which is not included in the figure above.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Data Protection

Mr. Wallace: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (1) whether the Sub-Committee on Information Security has a member of HM Treasury on it; [169741]

(2) whether the Sub-Committee on Information Security issued any instructions to (a) HM Treasury, (b) HM Revenue and Customs and (c) the Department for Work and Pensions on information security in the last 12 months; [169742]

(3) whether the Sub-Committee on Information Security has received any reports of security breaches at (a) HM Treasury, (b) HM Revenue and Customs and (c) the Department for Work and Pensions in the last two years; [169743]

(4) when the Sub-Committee on Information Security last discussed information security at HM Revenue and Customs; [169744]

(5) whether the Sub-Committee on Information Security found any weaknesses in the integrity system at (a) HM Treasury and (b) HM Revenue and Customs in the last two years; [169745]

(6) when the IT security officers forum met in the last three years; and whether a representative of (a) HM Treasury and (b) HM Revenue and Customs attended; [169746]

(7) whether minutes of the IT security officers forum will be made available to investigators looking at the recent HM Revenue and Customs data loss; [169747]

(8) whether the IT security officers forum has discussed security at (a) HM Revenue and Customs and (b) the Department for Work and Pensions in the last two years; [169748]

(9) when the last reassessment of risk was reported to his Office by (a) each Government Department and (b) his Office in accordance with section 0 (24) of the Manual of Protective Security; [169749]

(10) whether the Interdepartmental Committee on Protective Security has a member of HM Treasury on it; [169750]

(11) whether the Interdepartmental Committee on Protective Security has issued any instructions to (a) HM Treasury, (b) HM Revenue and Customs and (c) the Department for Work and Pensions on information security in the last 12 months; [169751]

(12) whether the Interdepartmental Committee on Protective Security received any reports of security breaches at (a) HM Treasury, (b) HM Revenue and Customs and (c) the Department for Work and Pensions in the last two years; [169752]

(13) when the Interdepartmental Committee on Protective Security last discussed information security at HM Revenue and Customs; [169753]

(14) whether the Interdepartmental Committee on Protective Security found any weakness in the integrity system at (a) HM Treasury and (b) HM Revenue and Customs during the last two years. [169754]

Edward Miliband: The Sub-Committee on Information Security and the Interdepartmental Committee on Protective Security were replaced in 2004 with sub-committees of the Official Committee on Security. It is established practice not to disclose the details of attendees and activities of official committees.

Departmental Responsibilities: Electronic Government

Margaret Moran: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster which projects relating to (a) e-democracy, (b) digital inclusion and (c) transformational government are the responsibility of his Department. [189906]

Mr. Watson: As set out in the comprehensive spending review the Minister for the Cabinet Office, who chairs the new Cabinet Committee on Public Engagement and the Delivery of Services, and the Chief Secretary to the Treasury hold operational departments to account for the delivery of the Transformational Government commitments within the Service Transformation Agreement. Each Secretary of State is responsible for the delivery of service transformation projects within his or her department.

The Cabinet Office is not responsible for any projects on e-democracy or digital inclusion.

Drinking Water

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how much his Department spent on bottled water in the latest year for which figures are available. [189797]

Mr. Watson: This information is not separately identified in the Cabinet Office accounts and can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Non-Profit-Making Associations

Margaret Moran: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (1) what his Department's (a) procurement and (b) tendering policy is in respect of social enterprises; [186653]

(2) how many contracts his Department has with social enterprises; and what the value of each of those contracts is. [186654]

Phil Hope: Businesses that are awarded contracts by the Cabinet Office are not currently required to state whether they are social enterprises and no detailed central record of contracts awarded is held. Therefore the information for the department as a whole is available only at disproportionate cost.

Since 1 April 2007, the Office of the Third Sector within the Cabinet Office has contracted with a number of social enterprises and social enterprise representative bodies either as strategic partners and/or for other services including:

CAN Cats Pyjamas
Co-operatives UK
Development Trusts Association
The Innovation Exchange
Pack-It
Plunkett Foundation
Prowess
School for Social Entrepreneurs
Social Enterprise Coalition
Social Enterprise London
Social Firms UK
Society Media
Striding Out

The total value of the contracts and grants awarded to the social enterprises since 1 April 2007 is £3,583,300.

Office of the Third Sector: Manpower

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many full-time equivalent staff work within his Department's Office of the Third Sector. [191027]

Phil Hope: There are 54 full-time equivalent staff working in the Office of the Third Sector as at 28 February 2008.

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many staff who work in the Office of the Third Sector were previously (a) Government special advisers, (b) Labour party employees and (c) trades union employees. [191093]

Phil Hope: All civil servants are required to conduct themselves in accordance with the "Civil Service Code" and the "Civil Service Management Code". Information relating to an individual's employment history is confidential between an employer and an employee.

Public Appointments

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster pursuant to the answer of 19 February 2008 to Question 184563, which public appointments, other than those for which his Department is directly responsible, Sir Alistair Graham has held; and what salary he has received in respect of those appointments, in each of the last five years. [188986]

Mr. Watson: For information on Sir Alistair Graham's public appointments prior to June 2006, I refer my right hon. Friend to the reply given to him by my right hon. Friend the Member for North-West Durham (Hilary Armstrong) on 15 June 2006, Official Report, columns 1378-9W.

In addition to the public appointments for which the Cabinet Office are responsible, outlined in my earlier reply to him on 19 February 2008, Official Report, columns 689-90W, other public appointments held by Sir Alistair since 2006 are set out in the following table with remuneration details:

| Sponsor Department | Body | Position | Dates in post | Remuneration |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Department for Transport | British Transport Police Authority | Chair | From 1 July 2004 for 4 years | 60 days a year at £25,800 with inflationary rises. |
| Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills | Appeals Committee | Registered as a potential Appeals Committee Chair | Not used since 2006 | 0 |
| Ministry of Justice | Employment Appeals Tribunal | Member | 1 April 2003 to date | £4,852 since April 2006 (7 days during 2006-07 at £276 per day and 10 days during 2007-08 at £292 per day) |

Television

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many plasma television screens have been purchased by (a) the Cabinet Office and its agencies and (b) other offices for which he has responsibility in such matters, and at what cost in the last 24 months. [191025]

Mr. Watson: The information requested can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Voluntary Organisations

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what estimate he has made of the proportion of contracts awarded to third sector organisations that provide public services in Chorley constituency that are three-year contracts; and what progress has been made on increasing the proportion of such contracts which are of a three-year duration. [191200]

Phil Hope: This information is currently not held centrally.

I will be reporting on government progress in meeting the three year funding commitment to HM Treasury on an annual basis. The first report will be made in the autumn 2008 and will be laid before Parliament. It is expected that local authorities will be making reports on three year funding from 2009 onwards.

Voluntary Work: Shipley

Philip Davies: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (1) what progress has been made towards ensuring third sector organisations providing services in Shipley constituency are awarded three year contracts; [191585]

(2) what estimate he has made of the proportion of contracts awarded to third sector organisations that provide services in Shipley constituency that are three year contracts. [191586]

Phil Hope: This information is currently not held centrally.

I will be reporting on Government progress in meeting the three year funding commitment to HM Treasury on an annual basis. The first report will be made in the autumn 2008 and will be laid before Parliament. It is expected that local authorities will be making reports on three year funding from 2009 onwards.

HOUSE OF COMMONS COMMISSION

Big Ben: Visits

Bob Spink: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission how many public tours were made of the Clock Tower in each of the last five years. [191296]

Nick Harvey: 1,674 groups comprising 7,460 individuals visited the Clock Tower in 2007. Records were not kept for previous years.

Freedom of Information

Mr. Winnick: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission by what means hon. Members are consulted before cases involving the House are brought before the Freedom of Information Tribunal; what the total cost to the House has been of such cases to date; and if he will make a statement. [190771]

Nick Harvey: The House has appealed to the Information Tribunal on three separate occasions: twice in respect of hon. Members' travel expenses and once in respect of information about the Additional Costs Allowance. In each case before lodging an appeal, the Members Estimate Committee—the body responsible for giving advice on matters connected with the allowances—was consulted. In each case the Committee took the view that as hon. Members held divergent views on the extent to which such information should be made available to the public it was appropriate that the level of disclosure should be considered by the Tribunal. In addition, where the appeals related to the allowances of named individuals, the Members concerned have been kept informed at each stage of the process.

The total external legal costs of the two previous appeals and the cost to date for the most recent appeal is £51,947. Other legal and staff costs including those relating to advice from the House's Legal Services Office and those associated with staff time are not separately available.

Parliamentary Archives: Visits

Bob Spink: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission how many members of the public visited the Parliamentary Archives in Victoria Tower in each of the last five years. [191280]

Nick Harvey: The number of visits by members of the public in organised groups to the Parliamentary Archives' repository in the Victoria Tower was 225 (20 groups) in 2003-04, 360 (26 groups) in 2004-05, 495 (40 groups) in 2005-06, 442 (39 groups) in 2006-07, and 412 (41 groups) in 2007-08.

Press

Mr. Kilfoyle: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission how much was spent in each of the last two years on the refurbishment of the Press restaurant. [190304]

Nick Harvey: The final cost to the House of the recently completed refurbishment of the Press Gallery was £8.2 million. This is higher than the figure of £7.7 million given on 16 October 2007, Official Report, column 947, because there were additional costs for removing asbestos and contractors final claims. As well as modern office accommodation, the improved facilities include a new kitchen and a multi-purpose restaurant and café/bar.

Mr. Kilfoyle: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission, what the costs to the Commission were of the provision of facilities to the Parliamentary Press Gallery in each of the last five years. [190305]

Nick Harvey: The direct resource cost of the provision of facilities to the Parliamentary Press Gallery over the past four years—as long as records are retained—has been as follows:

| | Support staff | Catering | Total |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2004-05 | 93,000 | 179,300 | 272,300 |
| 2005-06 | 103,000 | 226,800 | 329,800 |
| 2006-07 | 104,000 | 201,100 | 305,100 |
| 2007-08 forecast | 112,000 | 147,700 | 259,700 |

WALES

Departmental Cost Effectiveness

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what progress his Department has made in its zero-based budget review under the comprehensive spending review. [191477]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The Wales Office comprehensive spending review settlement was agreed, with HM Treasury, as a three year settlement, fully taking account of efficiency savings.

Further information on the budget of the Wales Office will be contained in the Wales Office annual report, due to be published later this year.

Mineral Waters

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how many litres of bottled water were purchased by his Department in each of the last three years; and if he will make a statement. [191244]

Mr. Paul Murphy: My Department has used the following amounts of bottled water, in the last three years.

| | Litres |
|---|---|
| 2005 | 1,665 |
| 2006 | 2,072 |
| 2007 | 2,090 |

My Office, in line with Government initiatives on sustainable development, is exploring possibilities of installing filter taps to provide a drinking water tap in the kitchen at my London office. The water is used for water coolers. No additional bottled water is purchased.

My Cardiff office is fitted with a filter tap for drinking water.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Assets Recovery Agency: Serious Organised Crime Agency

Sammy Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what discussions he has had with the Police Service of Northern Ireland Chief Constable on the transfer of the Assets Recovery Agency to the Serious Organised Crime Agency. [189381]

Paul Goggins: I have discussed issues relating to asset recovery with the Chief Constable in the course of my regular meetings, including the merger of the Assets Recovery Agency with the Serious Organised Crime Agency.

All law enforcement agencies in the Organised Crime Task Force—the Police Service of Northern Ireland, HM Revenue and Customs, Assets Recovery Agency and Serious Organised Crime Agency—are currently working together to draw up the Northern Ireland assets recovery action plan for 2008 to 2010, which I intend to publish by the spring.

Crime: Drugs

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much (a) cocaine, (b) heroine, (c) ecstasy, (d) amphetamine and (e) cannabis was seized in Northern Ireland in each of the last 12 months. [186984]

Paul Goggins: The latest figures available for the seizures requested cover the period from 1 April 2006 to 31 March 2007. These are shown in the following table.

Cocaine, Heroin, Ecstasy, Amphetamine and Cannabis Seizures, 1 April 2006 to 31 March 2007

Departmental Official Hospitality

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much was spent by his Department and its agencies on (a) alcohol and (b) entertaining in the last 12 months. [187958]

Mr. Woodward: Expenditure on alcohol is not recorded separately by the Northern Ireland Office and to identify it could only be done so at disproportionate cost. Entertainment is included within the overall spend on hospitality.

The total hospitality spend for the Department and its agencies within the last 12 months is £307,000. This figure is net of any receipts relating to the recovery of costs, for hospitality provided to bodies outside of the Department.

Expenditure on hospitality is set out in accordance with the principles of Managing Public Money and the Treasury handbook on "Regularity and Propriety".

Departmental Pay

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much was claimed in reimbursable expenses by senior civil service staff in his Department and its agencies in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [187544]

Mr. Woodward: Reimbursable expenses for senior civil service staff in the Northern Ireland Office and its agencies for the last 12 months covering February 2007 to January 2008 totalled £85,000.

Under the Civil Service Management Code Departments and agencies must:

reimburse staff only for expenses which they actually and necessarily incur in the course of official business; comply with the additional conditions and rules on travel, relocation expenses, compensation for loss or damage to property, and overseas expenses set out in sections 8.2 to 8.6 of the Code; and ensure that their rules provide for claiming recompense, including verification and authorisation.

Police Service of Northern Ireland: Labour Turnover

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many police officers (a) left and (b) joined the Police Service of Northern Ireland in each of the last three years. [191218]

Paul Goggins: The following table shows the numbers who have joined and left the Police Service of Northern Ireland in the last three completed financial years and current year to date.

| | Recruitment (includes transfers from other forces) | Leavers[1] |
|---|---|---|
| 2007-08 (to 29 February 2008) | 336 | 470 |
| 2006-07 | 459 | 440 |
| 2005-06 | 443 | 404 |
| 2004-05 | 538 | 454 |

[1] Leavers includes officers leaving under severance, medical and injury on duty retirements.

Terrorism

Sammy Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will consider prohibiting the Irish Republican Liberation Army under the Terrorism Act 2000. [185725]

Mr. McNulty: I have been asked to reply.

The following Irish organisations are proscribed under the Terrorism Act 2000:

Continuity Army Council;

Cumann na mBan;

Fianna na hEireann;

Irish National Liberation Army;

Irish People's Liberation Organisation;

Irish Republican Army;

Loyalist Volunteer Force;

Orange Volunteers;

Red Hand Commando;

Red Hand Defenders;

Saor Eire;

Ulster Defence Association;

Ulster Freedom Fighters; and Ulster Volunteer Force.

As a matter of normal policy and practice we do not comment on organisations not on the proscribed list.

Wind Power

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland to which wind farm proposals his Department lodged objection in each of the last three years; and for what reasons in each case. [191111]

Mr. Woodward: The Northern Ireland Office has no responsibility for these matters, however the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland had responsibility for the Northern Ireland Departments until 8 May 2007 when devolution was restored.

I am advised by the Office of the First Minister and Deputy First Minister that no objections to wind farm proposals were made by the Northern Ireland Departments in 2006 and in the period 1 January 2007 to 7 May 2007.

Young Offender Institutions

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many young people on average were detained in each young offender institution in Northern Ireland in (a) 2005, (b) 2006 and (c) 2007. [191219]

Paul Goggins: The information is provided in the following table.

| | 2005 | 2006 | 2007 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Woodlands Juvenile Justice Centre | 26 | 25 | 31 |
| HM Young Offenders Centre Hydebank Wood | 200 | 206 | 199 |

Woodlands Juvenile Justice Centre provides accommodation for young people aged 10 to 17.

HM Young Offenders Centre Hydebank Wood holds young people aged 16 to 21. Those males aged over 21 who are allowed exceptionally to complete their sentences at Hydebank Wood are also classed as young offenders.

SCOTLAND

Postal Services

7. Mr. Alan Reid: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what recent discussions he has had with ministerial colleagues on postal services in Scotland. [190399]

David Cairns: My right hon. Friend and I have regular discussions with ministerial colleagues on a range of issues.

Universities: Research

8. Nigel Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what recent discussions he has had with the First Minister on UK Government funding for research in Scottish universities. [190400]

Des Browne: I have regular discussions with the First Minister on a range of issues. Scotland's share of public funding for research is 12.5 per cent. as compared to a population share of 9 per cent.

Public Spending

9. Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how much per capita was spent from the public purse in Scotland in the most recent period for which figures are available. [190401]

David Cairns: The latest Treasury public expenditure statistical analyses figures show that the planned spend in Scotland for 2006-07 was £8,623 per head. Public spending per head has increased at a faster rate for England than it has for Scotland in every year since 2001-02.

Armed Forces: Health Care

10. Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what discussions he has had with the First Minister on the provision of health care for armed forces personnel based in Scotland. [190402]

Des Browne: I have had various discussions with the First Minister on a range of subjects including armed forces personnel. The Scottish Executive has the duty to ensure NHS boards in Scotland implement their responsibilities to the armed forces, service families, and veterans. The Ministry of Defence has numerous, regular discussions at various levels to assist the Executive and NHS Scotland in this respect.

14. Mr. Hollobone: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what discussions he has had with the First Minister on the recent Defence Committee report on medical care for the armed forces, HC327 of session 2007-08. [190406]

Des Browne: I have not discussed the recent Defence Committee report on medical care for the armed forces with the First Minister. The Scottish Executive has the duty to ensure NHS boards in Scotland implement their responsibilities to the armed forces, service families, and veterans. The Ministry of Defence has numerous, regular discussions at various levels to assist the Executive and NHS Scotland in this respect.

Financial Services

11. Mr. Sarwar: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what recent discussions he has had on the financial services sector in Scotland. [190403]

David Cairns: My right hon. Friend, the Secretary of State, and I have regular engagement with the industry's significant employers in Scotland who continue to benefit from the UK's economic, monetary and fiscal framework that has underpinned the stability of our economy for so long. My right hon. Friend, the Secretary of State, is also a member of the Chancellor's High Level Group on Financial Services.

Comprehensive Spending Review

12. Jim Sheridan: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what assessment he has made of the comprehensive spending review settlement provided to the Scottish Executive. [190404]

Des Browne: The results of the comprehensive spending review delivered an unequivocally good settlement for Scotland. By the end of the period, the money available to the Scottish Executive will reach £30 billion—more than double the 1999 figure of £14 billion which Donald Dewar had.

Broadcasting

13. Rosemary McKenna: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what recent discussions he has had with Scottish broadcasters on the future of broadcasting in Scotland. [190405]

David Cairns: I recently addressed the Salford "Television from the Nations and Regions" conference, where I had discussions with a number of independent broadcasters from across the UK. I have also recently met with the Controller of BBC Scotland and the Chief Executive of Scottish Media Group.

Devolution

15. Albert Owen: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what recent meetings he has had with the Secretary of State for Wales on the progress of devolution. [190407]

Des Browne: I meet regularly with Cabinet colleagues to discuss a wide range of issues. Both the Secretary of State for Wales and I are members of the Cabinet's Constitution committee which is chaired by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Justice. The committee considers a wide range of constitutional matters.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Departmental Public Relations

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what campaigns were undertaken by agencies of his Department in conjunction with external public relations companies in each of the last five years, broken down by lead agency; what the cost of each campaign was; and what public relations companies were involved in each campaign. [187579]

Margaret Hodge: The Department has only one executive agency—The Royal Parks Agency. They have used external companies for the following campaigns:

| | Campaign | £ |
|---|---|---|
| 2004 | Diana Princess of Wales Fountain—Media Strategy | 8,813 |
| 2005 | Diana Princess of Wales Fountain—Media strategy | 4,700 |
| 2006 | Solar Shuttle—Brunswick | 1,500 |
| 2006 | Regent's Park Sport—Brunswick | 4,500 |
| 2007 | Regent's Park Sport—Brunswick | 8,000 |

Government Departments: Flags

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much was spent on his Department's consultation on flying the Union flag from Government buildings. [189728]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 28 February 2008]: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave to the hon. Member for Fareham (Mr. Hoban) on 18 December 2007, Official Report, column 1413W.

Overseas Visitors

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (1) what forecast he has made of the number of inbound visitors to the UK in (a) 2008, (b) 2010, (c) 2012 and (d) 2020; [187688]

(2) how many inbound tourist visitors to England he estimates there will be in (a) 2008, (b) 2010, (c) 2012 and (d) 2020. [187494]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 21 February 2008]: Information on inbound tourist forecasts to England is not available.

VisitBritain only projects the volume of inbound tourism to the UK for the year ahead due to the large number of factors that can influence the volume and value of inbound tourism over the longer term.

The most recent forecasts estimate growth by around 2 per cent. during 2008, with 32.3 million visitors expected. This is an aggregate forecast regardless of purpose of visit.

http://www.tourismtrade.org.uk/MarketIntelligenceResearch/TrendsForecasts.asp

Preliminary projections of visitor numbers to the games in 2012 were included in "The Value of the Olympic and Paralympics Games to UK Tourism", a study carried out from VisitBritain and VisitLondon, published in September 2007. This study projected an additional 321,000 inbound visitors to London in 2012, contributing to an additional 1.7 per cent. in total tourism industry revenue.

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many inbound tourist visits were made to England in 2007; and what the visitor spend was. [187493]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 21 February 2008]: Information on inbound tourism visits to England in 2007 is not available. However, the latest provisional monthly figures for inbound tourism to the UK are shown in the following table. These figures are subject to quarterly revisions in light of more accurate data on passenger figures the coming available at the end of each quarter. Therefore data should be treated with caution.

Overseas residents visits and spend in the UK—October to December 2007[1]

| | 2007 | Percentage change on previous year |
|---|---|---|
| Visits (millions) | 7.7 | 2 |
| Expenditure (£ billion) | 4.0 | 2 |

[1] Please note that all estimates are based on a sample survey and are therefore subject to sampling and other sources of error.

Source:
International Passenger Survey 'First Release' (ONS)

The latest full year data on inbound visits and spend to England relate to 2006, where overseas residents made an estimated 27.6 million visits spending £13.8 billion.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Council Housing: Sales

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what central government receipts were from council house sales in (a) St. Albans and (b) Hertfordshire in each of the last 10 years; and what percentage of total revenues from council house sales this represented in each area in each year. [189480]

Mr. Iain Wright: The information requested is tabled as follows.

|---|---|---|
| St. Albans | | |
| 1997-98 | [2]— | 3,643 |
| 1998-99 | [2]— | 3,299 |
| 1999-2000 | [3]659 | 5,318 |
| 2000-01 | 7,586 | 5,642 |
| 2001-02 | 3,426 | 2,522 |
| 2002-03 | — | — |
| 2003-04[4] | 9,615 | — |
| 2004-05 | 6,000 | 1,080 |
| 2005-06 | 3,343 | 1,185 |

| | Right to buy receipts | £000 Set aside/pooling[1] |
|---|---|---|
| 2006-07 | 3,738 | 2,019 |
| Hertfordshire[5] | | |
| 1997-98 | [2]— | 40,100 |
| 1998-99 | 17,268 | 34,305 |
| 1999-2000 | 43,871 | 60,362 |
| 2000-01 | 60,317 | 30,682 |
| 2001-02 | 50,621 | 54,704 |
| 2002-03 | 63,481 | 36,568 |
| 2003-04[4] | 70,048 | — |
| 2004-05 | 39,669 | 8,180 |
| 2005-06 | 26,835 | 10,794 |
| 2006-07 | 23,467 | 14,309 |

'—'No data

[1] The table does not provide the percentage of right to buy receipts set aside or pooled, because only the total amount of housing receipts set-aside/pooled is collected.

[2] Information available only at disproportionate cost.

[3] Data only available for one quarter.

[4] No data on set-aside were collected for 2003-04 as a result of the transition to the pooling regime which was introduced in 2004-05.

[5] For some years, the figures for Hertfordshire may actually be higher, because data may be missing from some of the authorities.

The table shows the total capital receipts from right to buy (RTB) sales of local authority dwellings in St. Albans and Hertfordshire. The figures for Hertfordshire are the aggregate of figures for the following 10 authorities that lie within that county: St. Albans city council, Broxbourne borough council, Dacorum borough council, East Hertfordshire district council, Hertsmere district council, North Hertfordshire district council, Stevenage borough council, Three Rivers district council, Watford borough council, and Welwyn Hatfield district council. The figures are net of discount and are as reported by local authorities.

The table also shows the value of capital receipts set-aside from 1997-98 to 2003-04 (the last year in which the set-aside regime existed). Under the set-aside regime, with-debt local authorities (that is, authorities with outstanding major long-term loans) were required to set-aside a proportion of the capital receipt generated by the disposal of a housing revenue account (HRA) asset, for the repayment of housing debt. Debt-free authorities (that is, authorities with no outstanding major long-term loans), on the other hand, were free to use the whole of their housing receipts for any capital purpose. When set-aside exceeds RTB receipts, it is because set-aside includes a proportion of receipts from not only RTB, but also whole-stock transfers, non-RTB dwelling sales, and sales of other HRA assets such as housing land.

From 1 April 2004 set-aside no longer applied to most housing receipts. All local authorities, both with-debt and debt-free, paid over or "pooled" the same amounts to the Secretary of State which would have formerly been set aside by with-debt authorities. Until the introduction of the pooling regime, set-aside was the mechanism that allowed a proportion of housing capital receipts to be redistributed for investment elsewhere. When an authority set aside an amount, the need for central government revenue support for that amount of borrowing through HRA subsidy disappeared, thereby enabling central to provide support for borrowing elsewhere.

The process of pooling is currently being reviewed as part of the wider review of housing finance.

Council Tax: Parking

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the Answer of 5 February 2008, Official Report, column 1019W, on council tax: parking, how many domestic dwellings in England have been assigned the dwellinghouse coding for parking of (a) G1, (b) G2, (c) G3, (d) G4, (e) G5, (f) G6, (g) G7, (h) G8 and (i) G9, according to records held by the Valuation Office Agency. [191657]

John Healey: As at 4 February 2008 the number of domestic dwellings in England for which the Valuation Office Agency has assigned these dwelling house codes are:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| G1 | 6,835,670 |
| G2 | 1,084,727 |
| G3 | 34,439 |
| G4 | 8,872 |
| G5 | 1,184 |
| G6 | 770 |
| G7 | 170 |
| G8 | 163 |
| G9 | 278 |

Council Tax: Tax Yields

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will publish figures for the cash revenue from council tax in (a) 1997-98, (b) 2006-07 and (c) 2007-08, broken down by billing authority. [191638]

John Healey: A table giving details of the council tax collected in each billing authority in England in 1997-98 and 2006-07 has been deposited in the Library of the House. Data for 2007-08 are not yet available.

The figures in the table are shown in thousands and are the amount collected within the year, irrespective of the year to which the money relates. The figures therefore include both arrears received for previous years and prepayment of council tax for subsequent years, but exclude amounts funded by council tax benefit.

Comparisons across years may not be valid owing to changing local authority responsibilities including to the creation of unitary authorities.

Domestic Violence: Refuges

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) how many domestic violence refuge places there are per head of the population in each local authority area; [188276]

(2) what plans she has to review the provision of domestic violence refuge bedspace numbers. [188275]

Mr. Iain Wright: This Government take extremely seriously the issue of protection for people at risk of domestic violence. We do not currently hold the information requested centrally. However we plan to commission new research that will look at the provision of refuge bed spaces and the effectiveness of other housing interventions across the country.

As my hon. Friend will be aware, I agreed during the committee stage of the Housing and Regeneration Bill to consider her amendment which would allow people who are homeless because of domestic violence to have priority need and be owed a homelessness duty. I will report back to my hon. Friend and the House in due course.

Domestic Wastes: Waste Disposal

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the average percentage rate was for satisfaction with household waste collection facilities measured under best value performance indicators in each year in which the information has been collected. [191574]

John Healey: Best value user satisfaction survey results show that 79 per cent. 84 per cent. and 86 per cent. of residents were satisfied with waste collection in 2006-07, 2003-04 and 2000-01 respectively. A report containing these results, published by the Audit Commission, has been deposited in the Library.

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the percentage rate was of satisfaction with household waste collection facilities for each local waste collection authority in each year that best value performance indicators statistics have been compiled. [191650]

John Healey: These data are published by the Audit Commission and a copy of the relevant reports has been deposited in the Library.

Ecobuild 2008

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what involvement her Department had in the Ecobuild 2008 Exhibition and Conference. [191459]

Caroline Flint: The Department had a stand at Ecobuild that provided up to date information on a range of departmental policies, and Communities and Local Government officials spoke at a number of workshops. Also, I gave a speech at Ecobuild on the 27 February—a copy of which can be found on the Department's website at:

www.communities.gov.uk/speeches/corporate/ecobuild2008.

Eco-Towns

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government to what minimum energy efficiency standard domestic dwellings in eco-town developments will need to be built. [191640]

Caroline Flint: As set out in the Eco-towns Prospectus, homes and the whole eco-town development should be built in a way to incorporate energy systems that can reach zero carbon standards.

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many individual dwellings will be built, on average, in each eco-town; and over what period. [191641]

Caroline Flint: The average number of dwellings expected to be built in each eco-town ranges between 5-20,000. We expect there to be up to five eco-towns by 2016 and 10 by 2020.

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government against what technical criteria eco-town bids will be assessed. [191642]

Caroline Flint: Eco-towns will be assessed against the criteria set out in the Eco-towns Prospectus, and in relation to technical aspects these are covered in the environment and carbon criteria. Assessments will also be informed by the Code for Sustainable Homes, which as the Prospectus sets out will be used as a guide on sustainability issues.

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many eco-town bids she expects to be approved. [191769]

Caroline Flint: We expect that there will be 10 eco-towns developed through the eco-towns programme.

Empty Property

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the number of empty homes in England; and if she will make a statement. [187020]

Mr. Iain Wright: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to my hon. Friend the Member for Hayes and Harlington (John McDonnell) on 9 January 2008, Official Report, columns 547-48W.

Foot and Mouth Disease: Egham

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what meetings the regional Minister for the South East has had with (a) the chief veterinary officer and (b) the Prime Minister on the foot and mouth outbreak in Egham in 2007. [191624]

Hazel Blears: The regional Minister for the South East is also the DEFRA Minister for Marine, Landscape and Rural Affairs. He was therefore in constant contact with the chief veterinary officer throughout the foot and mouth disease outbreak in 2007. He also attended COBRA briefing sessions, visited some areas of the South East affected by the outbreak and briefed relevant local Members of Parliament on the situation as it developed.

Home Information Packs

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many home condition reports are on the Home Condition Report electronic register. [191649]

Caroline Flint: The number of voluntary home condition reports which have been lodged on the Home Condition Report Register up to 27 February 2008 is 1,743.

Housing Act 2004

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which provisions of the Housing Act 2004 have yet to be implemented or commenced. [191668]

Mr. Iain Wright: All of the provisions of the Housing Act 2004 that relate to England have been commenced.

Housing Improvement: Disabled

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether Part M of the Building Regulations applies to house extensions and improvements; and if she will make a statement. [190455]

Mr. Iain Wright [holding answer 29 March 2008]: Part M does not apply to an extension of, or a material alteration of, a dwelling.

Housing Improvement: Planning Permission

Mrs. Lait: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government for what reason a full design and access statement is required in relation to minor household extensions (a) in conservation areas and (b) for listed buildings; and if she will make a statement. [191299]

Mr. Iain Wright: A design and access statement is a report supporting a planning application to explain and justify a development proposal. A design and access statement is required for all planning applications, with a few limited exceptions such as existing dwelling houses outside designated areas. A design and access statement is also required for listed building consent. A major part of a design and access statement is the explanation of how local context has influenced the design. Local context is particularly important for conservation areas and listed buildings. A design and access statement can nevertheless be very concise so long as it effectively covers all of the design and access issues for a proposed development.

Housing: Databases

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether the Valuation Office Agency stores the unique property reference number of a domestic property that is provided to it through the Valuebill interface. [191677]

John Healey: Yes.

Housing: Licensing

Dr. Whitehead: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many local authorities have (a) applied for designation of an area as subject to additional licensing and (b) obtained designation under the terms of section 58 of the Housing Act 2004. [189249]

Mr. Iain Wright: There have been no formal applications to the Department from local authorities seeking approval for additional HMO licensing schemes, therefore no designations have been granted under the terms of section 58 of the Housing Act 2004.

Housing: Low Incomes

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which (a) local authorities and (b) arm's length management organisations are in (i) positive and (ii) negative subsidy with reference to the housing revenue account. [188338]

Mr. Iain Wright: The following table lists those local housing authorities that are in positive housing revenue account (HRA) and negative HRA subsidy. Local authorities that have delegated housing management functions to an arm's length management organisation are marked with a superscript[1].

2006-07 is the latest financial year for which audited data are available. Although local housing authorities in surplus and so making HRA subsidy payments to the Department outnumber local housing authorities receiving positive HRA subsidy, the Exchequer made a net contribution of £148 million to HRA subsidy nationally.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the Answer of 31 January 2008, Official Report, column 583W, and 1 February 2008, Official Report, column 690-91W, on housing: low incomes, what the early repayment charges are on (a) Part 1 and (b) Part 2 of the loans offered by Yorkshire Building Society if the mortgage is redeemed or the property is sold within the first five years of the mortgage. [189241]

Mr. Iain Wright: The question does not relate to our low cost home ownership policy. It is in relation to loans offered by a mortgage lender.

The Yorkshire Building Society should be contacted for details of early repayment charges on parts 1 and 2.

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when the Housing Corporation plans to produce an assessment methodology for determining the impact of affordable housing investment decisions on community cohesion; and if she will make a statement. [190154]

Mr. Iain Wright: As set out in the response to the Commission on Integration and Cohesion, published on 4 February, the Housing Corporation within their Affordable Housing Programme requires all Investment Partners to provide a 'Method Statement' that details how they intend to meet the needs of diverse communities.

The Corporation will be doing further work later this year on an assessment methodology for determining the impact of affordable housing investment decisions on community cohesion.

Housing: Repairs and Maintenance

Andrew Stunell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the (a) percentage increase and (b) cash change in (i) housing management allowance, (ii) housing maintenance allowance and (iii) major works allowance subsidies for local authorities in England was in each year since 1997. [164189]

Mr. Iain Wright: The percentage and cash changes to the management allowance, maintenance allowance and major repairs allowance are shown in the following table.

| | Management cash change (£) | Maintenance cash change (£) | MR cash change (£) | Management change | Maintenance change (%) | MRA change (%) |

[1] Major repairs allowance introduced in 2001-2002

Note:
Data pre-2000-2001 are only available at disproportionate cost.

Figures in the table are based on stock weighted average allowances for England. Certain factors used in the calculation of allowances are updated every year. For instance, the costs of building labour varies regionally and this variation can fluctuate from year to year. This means that the allowances for management, maintenance and the MRA can have regional variations in them from year to year. These variations redistribute the management, maintenance and MRA pot within the allowances, rather than adding extra allowance.

Housing: Standards

Ms Keeble: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answers of 18 December 2007, Official Report, columns 1328-9W, on housing standards, which councils have delivery dates to meet the decent home standard; and what those dates are in each case. [177187]

Mr. Iain Wright: The information requested has been deposited in the Library of the House.

Ms Keeble: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which local authorities have given her Department notice that they will not be able to achieve the decent homes standard by 2010. [180080]

Mr. Iain Wright: The information requested has been deposited in the Library of the House.

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will list the (a) 2026 new housing targets and (b) annual new housing targets proposed by each of the advisory panels of all the respective regional assemblies in England. [189172]

Mr. Iain Wright [holding answer 26 February 2008]: The Government sets the overall strategy for housing supply in England. The Housing Green Paper, "Homes for the Future: more affordable, more sustainable" (July 2007), sets out a target to increase housing supply to 240,000 additional homes per annum by 2016.

Four out of eight RSSs have a plan life period, which extend to 2026:

Yorkshire and Humber
West Midlands
South East
South West

The remaining four RSSs have a plan life period, which extends to 2021:

North East
North West
East Midlands
East of England

Detailed housing targets are not set by Government, but are set out in regional and local plans which are developed through regional and local planning processes.

Detailed housing targets proposed in each RSS can be examined by accessing the websites cited as follows:

Housing: Thermal Insulation

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps she has taken to promote innovation in the development of thermal insulation materials to be fitted to existing housing stock. [191464]

Mr. Iain Wright: My Department has been working with DEFRA, BERR and the Technology Strategy Board (TSB) to consider how we might promote innovation in this area, in particular with respect to the more difficult to treat solid-walled properties. As a result, the TSB included the issue of thermal insulation of existing buildings in its recent £12 million call for collaborative research and development proposals in the area of materials for energy. A number of research proposals have been received and are currently being evaluated.

These three Departments in conjunction with Communities and Local Government have also collaborated with the TSB in developing their Low Impact Buildings Innovation Platform which will be launched this spring. This focuses on what is needed to enable UK industry to successfully meet the requirements of level 6 of the Code for Sustainable Homes, to meet similar high levels of performance for new non- domestic buildings, and to develop materials for retrofitting the existing building stock. This will include fostering innovative improvements to the energy efficiency of new and existing buildings.

Infrastructure Planning Commission

Mr. David Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what scrutiny activity the Infrastructure Planning Commission will undertake other than of National Policy Statements. [191935]

John Healey: The Infrastructure Planning Commission's main function will be to examine and determine applications for development consent for nationally significant infrastructure projects. National Policy Statements will be scrutinised by Parliament.

Local Government: Pay

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government on what measure of inflation local authorities will base staff pay changes in 2008-09. [191656]

John Healey: Pay uplifts for local authority employees, other than teachers, are negotiated by the Local Government Employers and the trade unions in the National Joint Council.

The Government's policy is that public sector pay settlements should reflect the individual labour market position of work forces, be consistent with achievement of the Government's CPI inflation target of 2 per cent., be affordable and represent value for money for taxpayers.

Non-Domestic Rates: Educational Institutions

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether account is taken by the Valuation Office Agency of the presence of sprinklers when calculating the rental value of educational premises for business rates. [189517]

John Healey: Fire suppression sprinklers are designated as rateable. Therefore, they will be taken into account by the Valuation Office Agency when they assess the rateable value of all rateable properties including educational premises.

Planning Permission: Appeals

Mr. Blunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government in what proportion of cases where a local authority lost a planning appeal, the local authority was obliged to meet all the costs of the appeal in financial year 2006-07. [190426]

Mr. Iain Wright: Information to provide an answer to the precise question is not available. In 2006-07, 362 awards of appeal costs were made against local planning authorities. This figure comprises both full awards, where authorities lost the appeal, and partial awards where authorities did not lose the appeal but were made liable to pay partial costs for one or more aspects of the appeal. No record is available of the proportional breakdown between full and partial awards.

The actual amount to be paid is not determined by a costs award. This is for the parties to settle by negotiation initially in accordance with longstanding Government guidance contained in DOE Circular 8/93.

Planning Permission: Renewable Energy

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 7 February 2008, Official Report, column 1318W, on planning permission: renewable energy, if she will provide a list of the no overall control council authorities referred to in the table. [190894]

Mr. Iain Wright: The councils with no overall political control who refused planning permission for renewable energy projects in 2007 are as follows:

Allerdale Borough Council (two cases)
Bedford Borough Council
Berwick-upon-Tweed Borough Council
Eden District Council

The councils with no overall political control who had undetermined planning applications for renewable energy projects at the end of 2007 are as follows:

Allerdale Borough Council (four cases)
Bedford Borough Council
Berwick-upon-Tweed Borough Council (three cases)
Bradford Metropolitan District Council
Calderdale Metropolitan Borough Council (two cases)
Castle Morpeth Borough Council
Derby City Council
East Lindsey District Council
Eden District Council (two cases)
Kerrier District Council (two cases)
Leeds City Council
Mid Devon District Council (two cases)
Milton Keynes Council (two cases)
North Cornwall District Council
Redcar and Cleveland Borough Council
Scarborough Borough Council
Tendring District Council
Weymouth and Portland Borough Council

Planning: Floods

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what representations she has received on flood risks to existing householders from nearby large scale developments in flood plains; and if she will seek to arrange discussions with insurance companies on these concerns. [183837]

Caroline Flint [holding answer 1 February 2008]: The Government are well aware of the potential impacts large scale developments might have on the risk of flooding to existing householders. To manage these risks and avoid inappropriate development in flood risk areas we published planning guidance on development and flood risk in 2001, and strengthened this with the new Planning Policy Statement (PPS)25 in December 2006. PPS25 requires that the flood risk to and from all new development in flood risk areas, and from development over 1 ha outside these areas is assessed as part of the application for planning permission.

We also made the Environment Agency a statutory consultee on planning applications and introduced a flooding direction so that planning authorities cannot approve major developments against an objection from the Agency without first referring them to Ministers.

We are committed to working with the insurance industry to maximise the availability of flood insurance for homes and small businesses, and maintain regular contact with the Association of British Insurers to discuss insurance cover for existing properties, and other issues of mutual interest.

Planning: Greenbelt

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether regional planning authorities have powers to (a) review and (b) remove green belt designation. [191646]

Mr. Iain Wright: No. Regional spatial strategies prepared by regional planning bodies set the framework for green belt policy and settlement policy for the region, forming the context for local plan-making by local planning authorities. Planning Policy Guidance Note 2, "Green Belts", states that local planning authorities can alter green belt boundaries through their local plans only in exceptional circumstances. Any such proposal will be subject to full consultation and independent examination.

Public Buildings: Fire Prevention

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what standards are used to test the combustibility of composite cladding panels used in the walls and roofs of new public buildings, with particular reference to schools and hospitals; and if she will make a statement. [191443]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Building Regulations 2000 (as amended) apply to building work, typically the erection, extension or material alteration of a building. Part B sets out requirements for fire safety and is supported by guidance in Approved Document B which sets out appropriate levels of fire performance for materials, products and structures when tested to relevant British or European standards.

Fire performance is tested using either the relevant parts of British Standard, BS 476 or using the tests specified in the relevant part of European Standard, EN 13501. The necessary level of performance that should be obtained will depend upon the type of building, the nature of the construction product and where it is located.

Specific guidance on meeting the fire safety requirements of the Building Regulations in the design and construction of schools is given in Building Bulletin 100 which is published by the Department for Children, Schools and Families and on hospitals in Health Technical Memorandum 02-05 which is published by the Department of Health.

Regeneration: Blackpool

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much has been allocated to the regeneration of (a) the Talbot Gateway and (b) other regeneration in central Blackpool for (i) 2008-09, (ii) 2009-10 and (iii) 2010-11; and if she will make a statement. [191321]

John Healey: Investment by the Northwest Regional Development Agency (NWDA) and English Partnerships forms an important part of the overall package of regeneration measures for Blackpool announced in Parliament on 26 February 2008 in response to the report of the Blackpool Task Force. Central Government does not itself make decisions on, or directly fund, such investment, which quite properly must be informed by regional and local funding priorities and be funded according to the criteria and resources of the relevant organisations.

The NWDA have worked closely with ReBlackpool on the Talbot Gateway development, have provided initial financial support and now await costed proposals for the next stages. Talbot Gateway is expected to lever significant private sector investment.

Regional Planning and Development: Thames Gateway

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she expects to publish the Thames Gateway Pan Gateway Inward Investment Plan; and if she will make a statement. [191594]

Caroline Flint: The three Regional Development Agencies involved in the Thames Gateway are currently developing a joint Pan-Gateway inward investment service which will come into place in April 2008, details of which will be published alongside their Economic Development Investment Plan. They are also preparing a joint inward investment marketing strategy which will be ready for execution in the summer.

Rightmove: Finance

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much the Valuation Office Agency has budgeted for payments to Rightmove.co.uk plc in 2008-09. [191632]

John Healey: The Valuation Office Agency has made no specific provision for payments to Rightmove.co.uk plc.

Sustainable Development: Expenditure

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government further to the publication by her Department of Sustainable Communities Act 2007: A Guide, whether cross-regional expenditure by (a) Government Offices for the Regions and (b) regional development agencies will be classed as public expenditure that cannot be mapped to local authority areas. [191651]

John Healey: Section 6 of the Sustainable Communities Act 2007 requires the Secretary of State to make arrangements for the production of local spending reports. A local spending report produces information about public expenditure in relation to a particular geographical area. While the basis behind local spending reports is to identify where public money is spent, it will not be possible or cost effective to map all public expenditure. For example, some public funding supports services which are not geographically specific or are used by people from a number of local authority areas.

Work on implementation is currently at an early stage and we aim to consult on proposals in the summer.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Birds: Imports

Ms Angela C. Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how the regulation of wild bird imports of the non-EU species proposed by the Joint Nature Conservation Committee for inclusion in Schedule 4 of the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 has changed since the EU banned bird imports because of concerns over avian influenza. [190441]

Joan Ruddock: The EU ban on the import of wild birds has meant that, other than birds imported for conservation programmes, only captive-bred birds from approved breeding establishments have been permitted for import into the EU. These, and those birds imported for conservation programmes, must undergo a period of quarantine.

Birds of prey, such as those proposed by the Joint Nature Conservation Committee for inclusion in Schedule 4, that are imported under exemptions from the ban continue to be subject to the controls under the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species (CITES).

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether birds imported into the UK from other EU member states with Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species sales certificates may be traced for DNA testing if required. [191014]

Joan Ruddock: There are no import controls between EU member states. CITES listed birds moved within Europe for commercial purposes will require a certificate issued under Article 10 of Regulation EC No 338/97 by the member state of its origin.

If the bird in question is noted as being captive bred, and provided the parent birds are available for examination, it would be possible for the bird's ancestry to be established through DNA analysis of blood or tissue. This would of course require the co-operation of the CITES management authority of the member state in question.

Boilers: Standards

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) if the Government will consider the merits of using industry expertise to work with the European Commission to produce a separate standard for heating controls rather than including them with boilers as outlined in the Energy-using Products Directive; [189852]

(2) what assessment the Government has made of the effects of Lot 1 of the Energy-using Products Directive on the UK heating controls industry. [189904]

Joan Ruddock: Heating controls play an important role in reducing the energy used by heating systems and the Government published a consultation paper on 17 January setting out indicative standards for better use of existing controls and advanced controls for domestic heating. A copy of the consultation document is available on the DEFRA website.

Following receipt on 31 January of the Commission's proposed implementing measure on boilers and water heaters under the Framework Directive on the Eco Design of Energy Using Products (EuP), the Market Transformation Programme sent a copy of the proposals to a distribution list of several hundred stakeholders, including any business or trade association that had previously expressed an interest in receiving information on developments on heating, asking for comments within three weeks to prepare a position for the Consultation Forum meeting on 29 February.

DEFRA officials held a large stakeholder meeting on 4 February to discuss both the proposals in the consultation paper on domestic heating and to receive feedback from industry on the Commission's proposals on boilers and water heaters. In addition, officials have held a number of ad hoc meetings with key stakeholders from the boiler and water heater industry, including a site visit to better understand the boiler supply chain, in order to discuss the implications of the proposals on boilers and water heaters for the UK.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions his Department has had with the European Commission on the implications of the proposed implementation of the Energy-using Products Directive of boilers outside the scope of the Directive. [189902]

Joan Ruddock: My officials regularly meet and discuss issues on an EU level and have held a number of meetings, informal and formal, with the Commission on the Energy Using Products Directive and its impact on the water heater and boiler heating industry.

The Commission is currently analysing responses from the boiler and water heater industry on its proposals for the Energy-using Products Directive. My officials also attended a Consultation Forum (comprising the Commission, European Trade associations and other member state representatives) on the Directive on 29 February where this issue was discussed.

Energy-using Products Directive

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what (a) research and (b) assessments he has evaluated on the impact of the Energy-using Products Directive on the boiler-making industry; and if he will make a statement; [191056]

(2) what assessment the Government have made of the impact of Lot 1 of the Energy-using Products Directive on the UK heating controls industry; [191057]

(3) what account was taken of electrical equipment waste arising from the requirement of the Energy-using Products Directive to supply system bundles after 2013. [191058]

Joan Ruddock: The Government's market transformation programme is currently assessing the full range of possible impacts of the implementation of the Energy Using Products Directive based on the Commission's current proposals.

Heating controls play an important role in reducing the energy used by heating systems. DEFRA officials held a large stakeholder meeting on 4 February to discuss the proposals in the public consultation launched on 17 January, which set out indicative standards for better use of existing controls and advanced controls for domestic heating, and to receive feedback from industry on the Commission's proposals on boilers and water heaters.

Officials have also held a number of ad hoc meetings with key stakeholders from the boiler and water heater industry in order to discuss the implications of the proposals on boilers and water heaters for the UK.

Heating: Energy Conservation

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps the Government is taking to ensure the Energy-using Products Directive does not negatively impact on the proposed UK strategy to develop the market for advanced heating controls in new and existing homes. [189256]

Joan Ruddock: The Government are committed to raising product efficiency. We are working with key stakeholders from the boiler and water heater industry and the European Commission to develop proposals which will maximise the standards and efficiency of products covered by the Energy Using Products Directive and ensure these do not negatively impact on the market for advanced heating controls in new and existing homes.

Heating controls play an important role in improving the efficiency of heating systems and the Government have recently published a consultation paper setting out indicative standards for better use of existing controls and advanced controls for domestic heating. A copy of the consultation document is available on DEFRA's website.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will meet representatives of the controls industry to discuss the creation of a separate standard for controls. [189903]

Joan Ruddock: Heating controls play an important role in reducing the energy used by heating systems. DEFRA officials held a large stakeholder meeting on 4 February to discuss the proposals in the public consultation launched on 17 January, which set out indicative standards for better use of existing controls and advanced controls for domestic heating, and to receive feedback from industry on the Commission's proposals on boilers and water heaters.

I have no current plans to meet representatives of the controls industry.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps the Government is taking to ensure the Energy-using Products Directive complements the proposed UK strategy to develop the market for advanced heating controls in new and existing homes. [189905]

Joan Ruddock: The Government are committed to raising product efficiency and we are working with key stakeholders from the boiler and water heater industry and the European Commission to develop proposals which will maximise the standards and efficiency of products covered by the Energy Using Products Directive and ensure these do not negatively impact on the market for advanced heating controls in new and existing homes.

Heating controls play an important role in improving the efficiency of heating systems and the Government have recently published a consultation paper setting out indicative standards for better use of existing controls and advanced controls for domestic heating. A copy of the consultation is available on the DEFRA website.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what consideration his Department has given to the establishment of progressive minimum standards for heating controls under the energy-using products framework directive; [190105]

(2) what steps the Government are taking to ensure the energy-using products directive complements the proposed UK strategy to develop the market for advanced heating controls; [190123]

(3) what steps the Government are taking to ensure that the energy-using products directive maximises carbon savings of heating controls. [190167]

Joan Ruddock: The Government are committed to raising product efficiency and we are working with key stakeholders from the boiler and water heater industry and the European Commission to develop proposals which will maximise the standards and efficiency of products covered by the energy using products directive, without negatively impacting on the market for heating controls.

Heating controls play an important role in improving the efficiency of heating systems and the Government have recently published a consultation paper setting out indicative standards for better use of existing controls and advanced controls for domestic heating. A copy of the consultation document is available on the DEFRA website.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions he has had with the European Commission about application of provisions matching those in the proposed energy-using products directive to boilers beyond the scope of the proposed directive. [190125]

Joan Ruddock: DEFRA officials regularly meet and discuss issues on an EU level and have held formal and informal meetings with the Commission on how its proposals for implementing the energy using products directive may impact on the boiler and water heater industry.

The Commission is currently analysing responses from the boiler and water heater industry on the Commission's proposals and DEFRA officials attended a consultation forum (comprising the Commission, European Trade Associations and other member state representatives) on the directive on 29 February where concerns raised by this industry were discussed.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) which bodies his Department has consulted on the development of the energy-using products framework directive; [190109]

(2) if he will meet heating controls industry representatives to discuss the creation of a standard for heating controls; [190124]

(3) what meetings with stakeholders during the three week consultation on the energy-using framework directive period his Department has planned other than the consultation forum on 29 February; [190162]

(3) what consideration the Government have given to involving industry expertise in the development of a standard for heating controls distinct from that contained in the energy-using products directive. [190166]

Joan Ruddock: Heating controls play an important role in reducing the energy used by heating systems and the Government published a consultation paper on 17 January setting out indicative standards for better use of existing controls and advanced controls for domestic heating. A copy of the consultation document is available on the DEFRA website.

In addition, officials have held a number of ad hoc meetings with key stakeholders from the boiler and water heater industry, (including a site visit to better understand the boiler supply chain) to discuss the implications of the proposals on boilers and water heaters for the UK.

I have no current proposals to meet with the heating controls industry.

Nature Conservation

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what methods his Department uses to assess the validity of captive breeding claims of species in Annex A of the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species before issuing sales certificates. [191015]

Joan Ruddock: Captive breeding claims are assessed by the UK CITES management authority in consultation with our scientific authority, the Joint Nature Conservation Committee. The evidence provided by the applicant is assessed against the criteria set out in Article 54 of EU Regulation 865/2006, that is:

that the specimen is, or is derived from, the offspring born or otherwise produced in a controlled environment;

the breeding stock was established in accordance with the legislative provisions applicable at their time of their acquisition and in a manner not detrimental to the survival of the species in the wild;

the breeding stock has not been supplemented by specimens taken from the wild (except in certain restricted circumstances); the breeding stock has itself produced second or subsequent generation offspring in a controlled environment, or is managed in a manner that has been demonstrated to be capable of producing second generation offspring in a controlled environment.

A specimen is assessed as captive bred if both the Management and scientific authorities are satisfied that all of these criteria are met. If there are any doubts about the evidence supplied by the applicant, an inspection may be carried out to verify these claims. This inspection may include DMA testing of parents and their claimed offspring.

If the authorities are not able to satisfy themselves that a specimen meets the criteria above, they may still decide to issue a certificate, but with conditions attached to it to restrict how the specimen can be used commercially. Certificates issued under CITE are issued by Animal health.

Nature Conservation: Canvey Island

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what representations he has received from (a) English Nature, (b) Buglife and (c) the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds on the impact of the development of wetlands and sites of special scientific interest on the west of Canvey Island; and if he will make a statement. [190499]

Joan Ruddock: No representations have been received from Natural England (English Nature's successor), Buglife, or the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds on the impact of the development of wetlands and Sites of Special Scientific Interest on the west of Canvey Island.

Nature Conservation: Thames Estuary

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what representations he has received from environmental non-governmental organisations on the impact on wildlife on and around (a) Two Tree Island, (b) Canvey Island wetlands and (c) mainland wetlands in Castle Point constituency of dredging the Thames estuary for the (i) Thames gate port shipping channel and (ii) the Thames gateway port development; and if he will make a statement. [190501]

Joan Ruddock: No representations have been received from environmental non-governmental organisations on the impact on wildlife on and around the inter-tidal wetlands within Castle Point district

PRIME MINISTER

Constitutional Reform

Mr. Allen: To ask the Prime Minister with reference to his statement of 3 July 2007, Official Report, columns 815-6, on constitutional reform, what steps he plans to take to raise the level of public interest and engagement in the issues to which he referred; and if he will make a statement. [191550]

The Prime Minister: Empowering the citizens of this country so they have a more direct say over the decisions that affect their lives, and greater influence over the work of the Government between elections, is central to the work of each Department in Whitehall.

My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (Hazel Blears) has announced she will publish a White Paper focused on empowering citizens and involving people in improving local services and promoting active citizenship.

LEADER OF THE HOUSE

Departmental Visits Abroad

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Leader of the House pursuant to the answer of 28 January 2008, Official Report, column 11W, on departmental visits abroad, how many visits overseas by officials in her Office there were in the financial year 2006-07. [191396]

Helen Goodman: Details of overseas ministerial visits by the Leader of the House of Commons in the financial year 2006-07 are included in the annual table published by the Cabinet Office which can be found at:

http://www.cabinetoffice.gov.uk/propriety_and_ethics/ministers/

Officials accompanied the Leader or Deputy Leader of the House on the following visits;

| Dates | Destination |
|---|---|
| 18-19 April 2006 | Vienna, Austria |
| 31 August 2006 | The Hague, Netherlands |
| 28 October to 6 November 2006 | Vietnam, Hanoi and Ho Chi Minh City (HCMC) |

All travel is undertaken in accordance with the "Civil Service Management Code" and the "Ministerial Code".

HEALTH

Aphasia: Health Services

Mark Hunter: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which primary care trusts commission aphasia support services. [191828]

Ann Keen: This information is not held centrally.

Bone Diseases: Medical Treatments

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make it his policy to issue guidance on the administering of enbrel and humira to people diagnosed with ankylosing spondylitis. [191179]

Ann Keen: The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) has received two appeals against its final appraisal determination on adalimumab (brand name Humira), etanercept (brand name Enbrel) and infliximab for the treatment of ankylosing spondylitis. Final guidance will not be published until the appeals have been heard.

Funding for licensed treatments should not be withheld because guidance from NICE is unavailable. In December 2006, we issued refreshed good practice guidance which asks national health service bodies to continue with local arrangements for the managed introduction of new technologies where guidance from NICE is not available at the time the treatment or technology first becomes available.

Departmental Homeworking

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people in his Department have been able to work from home in the last 12 months. [189782]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department operates a homeworking scheme under which a person's home is formally designated as their regular place of work for some or all of the working week. At the end of December 2007, the Department had seven homeworkers.

Homeworking is one of a number of arrangements that the Department provides to promote flexible working, including part time working, flexitime schemes, job sharing, part year appointments, unpaid leave, and compressing the working week into less than five days. The use of information technology also allows many staff to work from home on an occasional basis.

Departmental Internet

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much was spent on the redesign and implementation of his new departmental website. [190256]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department relaunched its corporate website (www.dh.gov.uk) on 10 February 2008 following a project to redesign the site and restructure the content. The total cost of the redesign and implementation project was £513,000. This includes user research, visual and template design, content review and restructure, technical build, test and deployment, and testing.

The relaunch of the Department's website was far more than a simple 'redesign'. As well as incorporating a new graphic design, the entire website structure was completely changed to reflect better the work of the Department and its priorities. The Department's website was last redesigned four years ago. User research and customer feedback demonstrated that it had become outdated and content was increasingly difficult to find. Feedback suggests that this redesign has significantly improved the ease with which users find information on the site.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the salary range is for each pay band of civil servants in his Department. [188799]

Mr. Bradshaw: Salary range minima and maxima for grades below senior civil service (SCS) in each of the three geographical locations are presented in the following three tables. The Department is responsible for setting these ranges.

Table 1: National pay rates

| Grade | Minimum (£) | Maximum (£) |
|---|---|---|
| Administrative Officer (AO) | 14,826 | 19,449 |
| Executive Officer (EO) | 18,519 | 28,112 |
| Higher Executive Officer (HEO) | 23,721 | 32,627 |
| Senior Executive Officer (SEO) | 29,298 | 41,991 |
| Grade 7 | 39,695 | 56,543 |
| Grade 6 | 50,014 | 68,410 |

Table 2: Outer London pay rates

| Grade | Minimum (£) | Maximum (£) |
|---|---|---|
| AO | 16,356 | 20,673 |
| EO | 20,049 | 28,112 |
| HEO | 25,251 | 34,157 |
| SEO | 30,827 | 42,314 |
| Grade 7 | 41,225 | 57,452 |
| Grade 6 | 51,544 | 69,940 |

Table 3: Inner London pay rates

| Grade | Minimum (£) | Maximum (£) |
|---|---|---|
| AO | 17,886 | 22,203 |
| EO | 21,579 | 28,290 |
| HEO | 26,781 | 35,687 |
| SEO | 32,357 | 43,844 |
| Grade 7 | 42,755 | 58,982 |
| Grade 6 | 53,074 | 71,470 |

Salary ranges for SCS grades do not differ by location. These ranges are set centrally and apply across all Government Departments.

| Grade | Minimum (£) | Maximum (£) |
|---|---|---|
| SCS Pay Band 1 | 56,100 | 116,000 |
| SCS Pay Band 2 | 81,600 | 160,000 |
| SCS Pay Band 3 | 99,960 | 205,000 |

Departmental Private Finance Initiative

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what private finance initiative projects have been approved by his Department in each of the last three financial years, broken down by (a) value and (b) start date. [190886]

Mr. Bradshaw: The capital value and start date for every signed private finance initiative project are recorded centrally on HM Treasury's website at:

www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/documents/public_private_partnerships/ppp_pfi_stats.cfm

Departmental Property

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what property has been lost or stolen from his Department since 1997; and at what cost to the public purse for replacements. [187472]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information is in the following table.

Departmental losses/thefts for the years from 1997-98 to 2006-07

| Financial year | Laptops | Replacement cost (£) | Mobile telephones | Replacement cost (£) | Other information technology (IT) equipment/peripherals | Replacement cost (£) |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1997-98 | 23 | 43,098.68 | 19 | 768.88 | 38 | 4,621.42 |
| 1998-99 | 19 | 40,068.70 | 19 | 691.25 | 37 | 14,388.27 |
| 1999-2000 | 18 | 36,260.35 | 26 | 556.95 | 30 | 8,276.51 |
| 2000-01 | 23 | 46,917.62 | 43 | 1,331.64 | 36 | 8,583.73 |
| 2001-02 | 35 | 62,275.69 | 36 | 994.77 | 18 | 7,230.30 |
| 2002-03 | 30 | 49,672.07 | 37 | 2,692.53 | 27 | 13,639.56 |
| 2003-04 | 34 | 51,459.53 | 29 | 1,953.67 | 16 | 3,503.71 |
| 2004-05 | 23 | 32,783.94 | 15 | 1,398.97 | 14 | 5,694.20 |
| 2005-06 | 18 | 20,599.97 | 11 | 436.52 | 10 | 3,393.87 |
| 2006-07 | 11 | 11,509.71 | 18 | 652.50 | 12 | 2,972.65 |
| Total | 234 | 394,646.26 | 253 | 11,477.68 | 238 | 72,304.22 |

Note:
Other IT equipment and peripherals includes items such as digital cameras, ansaphones, personal digital assistants, pagers, printers, charger units, etc.

Departmental Publications

Mr. Mark Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much his Department spent on the (a) printing and (b) design costs of producing publications in the latest year for which information is available. [187169]

Mr. Bradshaw: The total expenditure on printing of publications, including brochures, leaflets, forms, reports, posters, handbooks, newsletters, folders, guidelines and disability versions was £3,701,321.01 in the financial year 2006-07.

The Department does not record design costs separately from other aspects of information and publicity production. An examination of orders placed with the companies on the Department's design roster or with the Central Office of Information suggests that the total expenditure on design in 2006-07 was approximately £750,000.

Fair Trade Initiative

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will take steps to promote Fair Trade Fortnight 2008 amongst staff within his Department; and if he will make a statement. [189508]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department has promoted fair trade fortnight 2008 to departmental staff on the Department's intranet home page as 'site of the week'.

The Department also promoted fair trade fortnight as 'site of the week' on the homepage of the Department's intranet in 2006 and 2007.

Head Lice

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what assessment he has made of trends in the incidence of head lice over the last five years; [188749]

(2) what advice is given to (a) GPs, (b) pharmacies and (c) schools on head lice infestation; [188750]

(3) whether he plans to reintroduce regular inspections for head lice in schools. [188751]

Ann Keen: Information on the incidence of head louse infestation is not collected centrally. Our policy, which is shared by the Department for Children, Schools and Families, is to encourage a 'whole school approach'. This entails encouraging parents to check their children and other family members for head lice as need arises and arranging treatment where necessary, with advice and support from the local primary health care team. We have no plans to reintroduce regular inspections in schools.

The Department has produced a leaflet containing guidance on the prevention and treatment of head lice. The leaflet is widely available from locations that include schools and general practitioner surgeries and on the Department's website at:

www.dh.gov.uk/assetRoot/04/11/63/47/04116347.pdf

Health Services: Expenditure

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much money was allocated to each central budget held at (a) his Department and (b) strategic health authorities in 2007-08; and what his Department's latest estimate of the outturn for each budget is. [191453]

Mr. Bradshaw: Full year 2007-08 information on central budgets is not yet available but the 2007-08 departmental report which has a provisional publication date of May 2008, will provide a breakdown of the main budget lines.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much money has been allocated to each central budget held at (a) his Department and (b) strategic health authorities in 2008-09. [191454]

Mr. Bradshaw: Information on 2008-09 allocations to each central budget held at the Department and at strategic health authorities is not yet available.

Health Services: Voluntary Organisations

Mrs. Riordan: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will take steps to encourage GPs to work more closely with voluntary organisations to provide patients with peer support and information. [189561]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department is encouraging general practitioners (GPs) to work more closely with voluntary organisations to provide patients with peer support and information. The main way of delivering this is through support to GP practices as commissioners.

World class commissioning (WCC) is designed to encourage primary care trusts (PCTs) to make decisions based on detailed, local needs assessments, using the views of front line primary care clinicians and with close collaboration with patients, the public, community partners and a range of service providers. Practice based commissioning is at the core of WCC and is the main medium for practices to feed in their views and ideas on how to improve services for their patients into PCTs commissioning strategies. This allows practices, using the needs assessment produced by the PCT and the local authority, to address the specific needs of their patients using a wide range of service providers, including voluntary organisations.

The Department has also commissioned a number of primary care service frameworks to support PCTs in commissioning primary medical care services. For example the long term conditions framework includes a requirement for the provider to demonstrate multi-professional and integrated teams working across the whole care pathway, including voluntary and community organisations.

London Strategic Health Authority: Expenditure

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how the London Strategic Health Authority has spent its strategic capital in (a) the current year to date and (b) each of the previous three years; and whether any such capital has been spent in (i) Redbridge and (ii) Waltham Forest; [186323]

(2) how the London Strategic Health Authority has spent its operational capital in (a) the current year to date and (b) each of the previous three years; and whether any such capital has been utilised in (i) Redbridge and (ii) Waltham Forest; [186324]

(3) how the London Strategic Health Authority has spent the central budget capital for which it has taken a role in allocating in (a) the current year to date and (b) each of the previous three years; and whether any such capital has been utilised in (i) Redbridge and (ii) Waltham Forest. [186325]

Mr. Bradshaw: The requested information is provided in the following tables.

Capital expenditure in Redbridge and Waltham Forest is available for national health service organisations, rather than for the area. Information is therefore provided for relevant NHS organisations in the Redbridge and Waltham area, which are--Redbridge primary care trust (PCT), Waltham Forest PCT, Barking, Havering and Redbridge hospitals, NHS Trust, North East London Mental Health NHS Trust and Whipps Cross University hospital NHS Trust.

NHS: Expenditure

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 17 January 2008, Official Report, columns 1259-60W, on NHS expenditure, what the figures are for the area covered by the primary care trusts in (a) Wiltshire, (b) Hampshire, (c) Northumberland, (d) London, (e) Gloucestershire and (f) Oxfordshire. [189059]

Mr. Bradshaw: The following table shows expenditure per head by primary care trusts (PCTs) within the areas specified. There is also an element of expenditure accounted for by strategic health authorities (SHAs) but this cannot be determined for these areas, and is therefore not included.

| | 2002-03 | 2003-04 | 2004-05 | 2005-06 | 2006-07 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Wiltshire | 848.47 | 952.89 | 1,033.25 | 1,132.49 | 1,155.34 |
| Hampshire | 839.87 | 954.52 | 1,072.39 | 1,151.81 | 1,181.98 |
| Northumberland | 939.64 | 1,045.38 | 1,177.37 | 1,284.61 | 1,424.92 |
| London | 1,070.14 | 1,174.57 | 1,320.37 | 1,406.14 | 1,415.80 |
| Gloucestershire | 834.44 | 924.26 | 1,045.54 | 1,144.09 | 1,184.70 |
| Oxfordshire | 859.64 | 957.08 | 1,054.70 | 1,088.94 | 1,134.23 |

Notes:
1. Expenditure shown is the total expenditure of PCTs within the areas stated.
2. Expenditure shown does not include all national health service expenditure within the area. SHA expenditure cannot be included because it is not possible to identify it by geographical area. Expenditure on general dental services and pharmaceutical services accounted for by the Dental Practice Board and Prescription Pricing Authority, respectively, are excluded from the figures. This expenditure cannot be included within the figures for the individual health bodies as they are not included in commissioner accounts.
3. 2006-07 is the latest year for which information is available.

NHS: Plastic Surgery

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the cost to the NHS of rectifying problems arising from private cosmetic treatments and surgeries in the most recent period for which figures are available. [189469]

Mr. Bradshaw: This information is not collected centrally.

NHS: Surgery

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of how many people have undergone an inappropriate surgical procedure in the national health service in each of the last 10-years. [190584]

Ann Keen: Information on people who have undergone an inappropriate surgical procedure in the national health service is not collected centrally.

NHS: Transport

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to require the Healthcare Commission to include the monitoring of private patient transport services provided for NHS patients in the annual health check. [190253]

Mr. Bradshaw: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Castle Point (Bob Spink) on 5 February 2008, Official Report, column 1084W.

Patients: Nutrition

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the total cost was to the NHS of treating patients with a (a) primary and (b) secondary diagnosis of (i) malnutrition, (ii) nutritional anaemias and (iii) other nutritional deficiencies in each year since 1997-98. [189477]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information is not available in the format requested.

Psychiatry

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps the Government have taken to increase the availability of psychological therapies in the NHS. [191473]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: In 2006 the Department launched its improving access to psychological therapies (IAPT) demonstration site programme. Following the success of these sites, the Secretary of State announced investment in October 2007 for the provision of psychological therapies, for people suffering from depression and anxiety disorders, rising to £173 million by 2011. This is in addition to the £146 million invested in 2006-07 by the national health service on psychological therapies for people with a range of mental health conditions, including those with more severe and enduring mental health problems who are usually provided with services by specialist mental health teams. On 26 February 2008, I launched a national implementation plan to help the strategic health authorities to deliver the IAPT programme over the next three years.

Seroxat

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 25 February 2008, Official Report, column 1215W, on Seroxat, if he will issue new guidance on prescribing Seroxat. [191809]

Dawn Primarolo: Guidance on how to use paroxetine (brand name Seroxat) safely and effectively along with information on potential adverse effects is provided in the product information for prescribers (the summary of product characteristics) and in the patient information leaflet (PIL) which accompanies the medicine. These documents are authorised by the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) at the time of licensing and updated through the life of the product as new information on potential adverse effects and benefits emerges.

The Committee on Safety of Medicines Expert Working Group on the safety of selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors (SSRIs) has undertaken a comprehensive review of the safety of this entire class of drugs, including paroxetine. This review examined all available evidence. In December 2004 the Expert Working Group published its conclusions including that the balance of risks and benefits of all SSRIs in adults remained positive in their licensed indications. This is consistent with the view of the regulatory authorities in Europe and the United States that benefits of SSRIs outweigh the risk of adverse drug reactions and that they are effective treatment for depressive illness and anxiety disorders.

The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) published a clinical guideline on the management of depression in primary and secondary care in December 2004. NICE is in the process of updating this clinical guideline with updated guidance expected in June 2009. NICE also published a clinical guideline on the identification and management of depression in children and young people in September 2005.

Since the completion of the review by the Government's Expert Working Group on the safety of SSRIs and publication of its findings, updated prescribing advice has been issued in relation to Seroxat as new information has become available.

Streptococcus: Screening

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will ask the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence to assess the enriched culture method test for Group B Streptococcal infections. [191810]

Dawn Primarolo: The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence's (NICE) guideline on antenatal care states that

"pregnant women should not be offered routine antenatal screening for group B streptococcus (GBS) because evidence of its clinical effectiveness and cost effectiveness remains uncertain".

This is consistent with advice from the UK National Screening Committee (UK NSC) and the Royal college of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists (RCOG).

A proposal for NICE to appraise the use of an enriched culture medium for the detection of GBS carriage in a subset of pregnant women with clinical risk factors has been submitted on behalf of the UK NSC GBS coordinating group. NICE are currently considering this topic as part of a wider assessment of the approach they should adopt in assessing proposals for appraisals of diagnostics.

Strokes: East of England

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to reduce the time taken for stroke patients to receive a diagnostic brain scan in the East of England region. [191354]

Ann Keen: The new National Stroke Strategy, announced in December 2007, will modernise services and deliver the newest treatments for stroke across England. The Strategy emphasises the need to improve access to scans and stipulates that brain imaging should be performed in the next scan slot, or within 60 minutes of request during the out of hours period. We are asking all local stroke networks to ensure that any patient who could benefit from urgent care is transferred to an acute stroke centre that provides 24-hour access to scans and other specialist stroke care.

We have fully costed the proposals in the strategy, and this will be reflected in the allocation that goes to primary care trusts for next year. In addition, we have committed new funds totalling £105 million over the next three years. Some of that new funding will be used to develop demonstration sites for acute services that will enable us not only to show a step change in service provision in those areas, but also to provide lessons that can be shared. The £105 million is central funding—on top of money going into the NHS to support this change.

Strokes: Health Services

Mark Hunter: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to improve the management of communication impairments in hospital stroke units; and if he will make a statement. [191820]

Ann Keen: The new National Stroke Strategy, announced in December, will modernise services and deliver the best treatment for stroke across England. The strategy emphasises the need for prompt access to specialist acute stroke units, with a multidisciplinary team on hand to provide for all an individual's needs.

Rehabilitation after stroke is effective. The strategy highlights the need for high quality specialist rehabilitation, including speech and language therapy, available as soon as possible after a stroke, following discharge, and for as long as it is needed. This includes access to speech and language therapy.

We have fully costed the proposals in the strategy, and this will be reflected in the allocation that goes out to primary care trusts for next year. In addition, we have committed central funds totalling £105 million over the next three years. Some of that new funding will be used to train stroke specialist professionals, including allied health professionals. The £105 million is central funding—on top of money going into the national health service to support implementation of the strategy.

Strokes: Voluntary Organisations

Mark Hunter: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what support his Department provides to voluntary sector organisations working with people with communication difficulties following stroke. [191821]

Ann Keen: The Department is currently funding two Section 64 three-year projects that started in 2007-08.

Connect—the Communication Disability Network is the organisation leading on The Enabling New Connections project (now renamed Connect-ed). The project's overall aim is to explore and demonstrate how to forge a diverse, sustainable, self care community for people living with aphasia.

Thrive is the charity that is leading on the Just 20! project (now renamed Just 30! project) The objectives of the project are to provide a simple pocket guide with information on the benefits of gardening and other step-by-step activities, which would support improvements in health for those recovering from a stroke or from heart conditions.

Translation Services

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of his Department's translation and interpreting work is outsourced through framework agreements with commercial providers; and if he will make a statement. [189149]

Mr. Bradshaw: Total expenditure on translation services for the calendar year 2007 was £141,352.03 and of this figure £54,036.53 (38.2 per cent.) was commissioned from companies on the Department's translation services roster. The remaining expenditure was purchased through the Central Office of Information who may provide the service in-house or from the commercial sector.

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Health with reference to the answer of 28 February 2007, Official Report, column 1450W, on translation services, what assessment he has made of the reasons for the change in cost between 2005 and 2006. [188081]

Mr. Bradshaw: Levels of requests for translation vary from year to year with expenditure for 2006 being higher than that in either 2005 or 2007 (£141,352.03). A possible explanation for the rise in 2006 is that the major consultation document 'Your Health, Your Care, Your Say' was translated in that year at a cost of approximately £25,000.

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Health with reference to the answer of 28 February 2007, Official Report, column 1450W, on translation services, what the cost of such services was between 1st January and 31 December 2007. [188085]

Mr. Bradshaw: The total cost of translation for the Department in the 2007 calendar year was £141,352.03.

TRANSPORT

A130: Accidents

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many serious road traffic accidents there were on the A130 between Sadlers Farm, Benfleet and Waterside Farm, Canvey Island in each of the last 10 years; how many such accidents resulted in (a) injuries and (b) fatalities in each such year; and how many of these accidents were caused by vehicles travelling (i) on to and (ii) off Canvey Island. [191796]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The numbers of reported personal injury road accidents which resulted in (a) injuries (serious or slight) and (b) fatalities on the A130 between the roundabout at Sadlers Farm, Benfleet and the roundabout at Waterside Farm, Canvey Island in 1997 to 2006 are shown in the following table.

Number of accidents

| | (a) Accidents resulting in injuries | | (b) Accidents resulting in fatalities | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Serious | Slight | | Total |
| 1997 | 1 | 3 | 0 | 4 |
| 1998 | 1 | 4 | 0 | 5 |
| 1999 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 3 |
| 2000 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 2 |
| 2001 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 2 |
| 2002 | 1 | 4 | 0 | 5 |
| 2003 | 0 | 13 | 0 | 13 |

Note:
Accidents are classified according to the severity of the most severely injured casualty involved in the accident.

The numbers of these accidents by direction of the vehicles are shown in the following table.

Number of accidents

| | N/NW from Waterside Farm | S/SE from Sadlers Farm | Both directions | Direction not known |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1997 | 2 | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| 1999 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 |

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the average age was of people killed in road traffic accidents on the A130 between Sadlers Farm, Benfleet and Waterside Farm, Canvey Island in the last 10 years; and if she will make a statement. [191798]

Jim Fitzpatrick: There was only one fatality resulting from a reported personal injury road accident on the A130 between the roundabout at Sadlers Farm, Benfleet and the roundabout at Waterside Farm, Canvey Island in the last 10 years (occurring in 1999). Age information is not disclosed for single fatalities.

Aircraft: Air Conditioning

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what research her Department has (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated on air contamination levels in commercial aircraft. [190765]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The Government do not want anyone to be at risk to their health when flying and is leading the world in research on this issue.

To date the UK has (i) commissioned a major review of the evidence by the independent Committee on Toxicity, which reported on 20 September 2007; (ii) commissioned first functionality tests to identify equipment capable of capturing real time fume events from Cranfield university, which was published on 21 February 2008; (iii) commissioned a data analysis study of fume events and operational parameters; and (iv) is commissioning a second and more substantive phase of real time functionality tests with a number of participating airlines to assemble real time data on substances which may be in cabin air during fume events. This will take place later this year.

The first functionality tests were evaluated though independent peer-review by scientists in UK, Europe and the USA. Future work in this area will be similarly peer-reviewed before publication, and a steering committee has been set up to oversee the next phase of our research in this area.

Biofuels

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what research her Department has recently commissioned on the impacts of biofuels. [190936]

Jim Fitzpatrick: In recent years, the Department for Transport (DfT) has commissioned various pieces of biofuel-related research. The principal projects are listed in the following table, and the results are for the most part available via the DfT's website.

| | Title of research |
|---|---|
| 2002 | Ethanol emissions testing |
| 2003 | International resource costs of biodiesel and bioethanol |
| 2003 | Emissions performance of vegetable oil fuel |
| 2003 | Liquid Biofuels and Renewable Hydrogen to 2050: an assessment of the implications of achieving ultra-low carbon road transport |
| 2005 | RTFO feasibility study (including a study of how best to manage the sustainability impacts of biofuels) |
| 2006-07 | Preparation of detailed carbon and sustainability reporting guidance for transport fuel suppliers (including development of reporting methodology and carbon calculation tool) |
| 2008 | The economic and environmental impacts of Government support for biodiesel produced from tallow |

The Department has also part-funded and participated in a number of other biofuel-related research projects, over the same period, including for example a number of projects led by the Low Carbon Vehicle Partnership. Other Government Departments including the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (DEFRA) and the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform have also commissioned various pieces of research into the impacts of biofuels. Most recently, for example, DEFRA has commissioned a review of work on the environmental sustainability of international biofuels production and use, which is due to report shortly.

The Department for Transport has recently invited the Renewable Fuels Agency to lead a review of the evidence around the impacts of biofuel production, particularly the indirect effects. Initial analysis is due to be available by early summer.

Dartford River Crossing: Concessions

Mr. Newmark: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will make all Essex and Kent residents eligible to register for the new Dartford River Crossing discount which is to be offered to residents of Dartford and Thurrock. [189342]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Our proposal which was set out to the House in a written statement on 7 February 2008, Official Report, columns 87-90WS, is that residents of the Dartford and Thurrock local authority areas should be eligible for discounts. We are now consulting on our proposals, and we will make public our conclusions after the consultation exercise has closed.

Departmental Equality

Roger Berry: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what conclusions her Department has reached in fulfilment of the duty under section 3.111 of the statutory code of practice of the disability equality duty. [190762]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department for Transport is currently reviewing its progress against the commitments given in its Disability Equality Scheme, as it is required to do under section 3.11 of the statutory code of practice of the Disability Equality Duty. Key progress to date has included consulting on major reform of the Blue Badge scheme and the introduction of concessionary fares on buses from 1 April 2008.

Departmental ICT

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many (a) mobile telephones, (b) personal digital assistants and (c) laptop computers issued to departmental staff were reported (i) lost, (ii) missing and (iii) stolen in each year since 2001. [184341]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport was formed in 2002 and includes seven agencies, a shared service centre and the central Department, with a total staff of over 19,000. The figures provided here for lost, missing and stolen devices are for the entire Department including its agencies and shared service centre. The figures provided do not include losses or thefts where records are not available, where equipment has not been procured centrally, or where such losses or thefts were not reported. There is no distinction in the records between lost and missing devices. The number of those and of stolen mobile devices for each year since the Department's formation in 2002 is as follows.

15 mobile telephones were lost or missing and 5 were stolen,
5 personal data assistants were lost or missing and 2 were stolen,
6 laptop computers were lost or missing and 24 were stolen.

13 mobile telephones were lost or missing and 15 were stolen,
1 personal data assistant was lost or missing and 5 were stolen,
4 laptop computers were lost or missing and 9 were stolen.

2005

6 mobile telephones were lost or missing and 22 were stolen,
no personal data assistants were lost or missing and 1 was stolen,
4 laptop computers were lost or missing and 14 were stolen.

2004

13 mobile telephones were lost or missing and 24 were stolen,
no personal data assistants were lost or missing and 1 was stolen,
1 laptop computer was lost or missing and 23 were stolen.

2003

9 mobile telephones were lost or missing and 20 were stolen,
no personal data assistants were lost or missing and 1 was stolen, no laptop computers were lost or missing and 13 were stolen.

2002

1 mobile telephone was lost or missing and 2 were stolen, no personal data assistants were lost or missing and 4 were stolen,
no laptop computers were lost or missing and 7 were stolen.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many of her Department's personal digital assistants have been (a) lost and (b) stolen in each of the last five years; and what the value of those items was. [185269]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport includes seven agencies, a shared service centre and the central Department, with a total staff of over 19,000. The figures provided here for lost, missing and stolen devices are for the entire Department including its agencies and shared service centre. The figures provided do not include losses or thefts where records are not available, where equipment has not been procured centrally, or where such losses or thefts were not reported. All hand held devices including BlackBerries and other palm or pocket PC type devices have been included, with unit values typically from £100 to £350. The number of lost and stolen personal data assistants in each of the last five years is as follows.

5 personal data assistants were lost or missing and 2 were stolen.
The value of these items was £1,644.

2006

1 personal data assistant was lost or missing and 5 were stolen.
The value of these items was £1,724.

2005

no personal data assistants were lost or missing and 1 was stolen.
The value of this item was £300.

Departmental Paternity Leave

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether her Department's rules on paternity leave refer to the rights of (a) adoptive parents and (b) parents whose child was stillborn after 24 weeks gestation to take such leave. [190929]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department's paternity rules apply to both adoptive parents and to parents whose child was stillborn after 24 weeks gestation.

Departmental Private Finance Initiative

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the (a) value and (b) start date was of each private finance initiative project approved by her Department in each of the last three financial years. [190808]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The capital value and start date for every signed PFI project are recorded centrally on the Treasury website at:

http://www.hmstreasury.gov.uk/documents/public_private_partnerships/ppp_pfi_stats.cfm

Treasury's information was last updated in October 2007. Norfolk county council's street lighting project subsequently reached financial close in November 2007. The following table summarises the relevant information from Treasury's website with the addition of the Norfolk street lighting project:

| Financial year (1 April to 31 March each year) | Commissioning body | Project name | Date of financial close (mm/yyyy) | Total capital value (£ million) |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2005-06 | Transport for London | DLR Woolwich Extension | May 2005 | 177.00 |
| | London Borough of Ealing | Street Lighting | July 2005 | 31.92 |
| | Highways Agency | NRTS | September 2005 | 287.40 |
| | London Borough of Lambeth | Lambeth Street Lighting | November 2005 | 17.22 |
| | South Tyneside MBC | Street Lighting | December 2005 | 31.50 |
| | Highways Agency | A1 (M) Alconbury to Peterborough | February 2006 | 128.00 |
| | London Borough of Enfield | Street Lighting | March 2006 | 23.70 |
| | London Borough of Barnet | Barnet Lighting Services | March 2006 | 27.77 |
| 2006-07 | Leeds City Council | Street Lighting | April 2006 | 94.60 |
| | Dorset County Council | Dorset Street Lighting | October 2006 | 43.07 |
| 2007-08 | Derby City Council | Derby Street Lighting PFI | April 2007 | 38.43 |
| | Norfolk | Street Lighting PFI | November 2007 | 41.58 |
| | Redcar and Cleveland Borough Council | Street Lighting PFI | August 2007 | 20.89 |

Departmental Property

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what property has been lost or stolen from her Department since 1997; and what the cost of replacement was. [187467]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport was formed in 2002 and includes seven agencies, a shared service centre and the central Department, with a total staff of over 19,000.

The information requested is not held centrally. It has been estimated that, due to the broad scope of this question and the decentralised and devolved structure of the Department, to obtain it would incur disproportionate costs.

I would also refer the hon. Member to the answer given today to the hon. Member for Brent, East (Sarah Teather) (UIN 184341).

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether her Department has created a Property Asset Register (PAR); and whether a PAR Board has been established. [190931]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport Property Assets Board (PAB) was established on 21 March 2006.

Work is under way on developing a single property asset register. This follows a PAB recommendation to review property recording arrangements across the Department with the intention being to identify a pan-DfT solution that will link DfT data held on the Office of Government Commerce electronic Property Mapping Service (e-PIMS) to a geographical information system mapping base. This will enable viewing and interrogation of landed estate on electronic Ordnance Survey maps simultaneously with records on e-PIMS. The findings from this project will be published in due course.

Departmental Retirement

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what correspondence has been received from the trade unions representing staff in her Department on partial retirement; when her Department replied to this letter; and when her Department's management will meet the unions to discuss partial retirement. [190930]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Trade unions initially wrote to the Human Resources Department in the centre Department about partial retirement on 3 December 2007. The centre Department responded to trade unions by e-mail on 12 February 2008 and wrote again on 28 February, following finalisation of the partial retirement policy and guidance by civil service pensions in mid-February. At present, there have been no meetings between trade unions and management in the centre Department. In the Department's agencies, the Highways Agency met with trade unions on 12 February and a meeting is planned for mid-March with the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency. Discussions in other agencies will happen as partial retirement processes are developed.

Departmental Translation Services

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what documents her Department, associated agencies and non-departmental public bodies translate for people in the UK who do not speak English. [187984]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The DFT and its Executive Agencies have translated the following documents:

| DFT (Central) or Executive Agency | Title | Language/s |

In addition to the above forms available to people who do not speak English, the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency makes available in Welsh, all forms and documents for persons residing in Wales.

The Highways Agency also offers a translation service on request for all its published documents. Details of the service are provided in each publication. During 2007-08 there were no foreign language requests.

The Driving Standards Agency publishes the Welsh version of The Highway Code on behalf on the Department for Transport Information on translations by the Department's non-departmental public bodies is held by the bodies themselves. This information is not held centrally.

Driving Tests

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many multi-purpose driving test centres (a) have been established, (b) are in the process of construction and (c) are awaiting the identification of a suitable site in each Government office region. [191533]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 4 March 2008]: The figures for England by Government office region are as follows:

London

Two multi-purpose driving test centres have been established (Erith and Enfield), one site has been acquired subject to planning consent (Basildon), one site is in negotiation (Uxbridge) and a site for one centre has not yet been identified (Croydon).

South East

Four centres are under construction (Herne Bay, Burgess Hill, Farnborough and Fareham), two are in negotiation (Maidstone and Newbury), one site is in planning appeal (Poole) and suitable sites have not yet been identified for two centres (Aylesbury and Eastbourne).

South West

Two centres have been established (Exeter and Gloucester), two are under construction (Swindon and Bristol), two sites are still in negotiation (Redruth and Taunton) and one site has been acquired subject to planning consent (Plymouth).

East of England

Three sites have been established (Bedford, Ipswich and King's Lynn) and four are under construction (Cambridge, Kettering, Norwich and Peterborough).

West Midlands

Two centres have been established (Shrewsbury and Birmingham), one site is in negotiation (Wolverhampton).

East Midlands

Two centres have been established (Leicester and Rotherham), three are under construction (Nottingham, Burton and Lincoln).

Yorkshire and the Humber

Two centres have been established (Hull and Scunthorpe); negotiations are in progress for a further three sites (Leeds, York and Keighley).

North West

One centre has been established (St. Helens), two are under construction (Chester and Carlisle) and four sites are in negotiation (Atherton, Blackburn, Stoke and Stockport).

North East

Two centres have been established (Gateshead and Darlington).

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport which planned multi-purpose driving test centres will not be opened before October 2008. [191534]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 4 March 2008]: There will be 23 multi-purpose test centres that are planned but will not be opened before October 2008. The centres concerned are:

Blackburn
Stockport
Aylesbury
Wolverhampton
Newbury
Eastbourne
Aberdeen
Stoke
Croydon
Haverfordwest
Maidstone
Uxbridge
Taunton
Keighley
Leeds
York
Bathgate
Bournemouth
Fort William
Bristol
Dundee
Lerwick
Redruth

Galileo

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent discussions she has had with her EU counterparts on their levels of support for the Galileo project. [191065]

Ms Rosie Winterton: I held discussions on Galileo with European counterparts at last November's Transport Council. The subsequent Council conclusions confirmed member states' unanimous support for the programme.

On 28 February my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Transport held a meeting with the French Transport Minister that included a discussion on the programme. Both countries reaffirmed their support for Galileo at this meeting.

Great Western Trains: Rolling Stock

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what discussions took place with the rolling stock company responsible for the Thames Valley commuter trains run by First Great Western prior to her written ministerial statement of 26 February 2008, Official Report, columns 73-4WS, on First Great Western franchise on the intention to refurbish these trains. [190606]

Mr. Tom Harris [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The Secretary of State has held no discussions with the rolling stock company responsible for the Thames Valley commuter trains run by First Great Western.

Higher Civil Servants: Resignations

Kelvin Hopkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many members of the Senior Civil Service in her Department resigned and received a payment on leaving the Civil Service in (a) 2003, (b) 2004, (c) 2005, (d) 2006 and (e) 2007. [190242]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The number of resignations from the Senior Civil service in the Department for Transport was as follows:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 2003 | 2 |
| 2004 | 2 |
| 2005 | 1 |
| 2006 | 8 |
| 2007 | 10 |

No one who resigned received a payment on leaving the Civil Service.

Maritime and Coastguard Agency: Pay

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent assessment she has made of the (a) grading levels and (b) pay of staff of the Maritime and Coastguard Agency; and if she will make a statement. [188741]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Maritime and Coastguard Agency regularly reviews grading and reward structures and systems in accordance with public sector pay policy and best HR practice for the management of people and reward structures.

Motor Vehicles: ICT

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when she expects to publish the results of the consultation on in-vehicle information systems. [189870]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department intends to publish a summary of the results of the initial consultation on in-vehicle information systems this spring. It will be available on the departmental website and copies will be sent to the Libraries of both Houses.

Public Transport: Sight Impaired

Jessica Morden: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment she has made of the effectiveness of enforcement procedures under Part 5 of the Disability Discrimination Act 2005 relating to the rights of blind or partially sighted people to travel with their guide dogs. [190331]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Part 5 of the Disability Discrimination Act 1995 enables regulations to be made requiring all new land-based public transport vehicles to be accessible to disabled people. Regulations have been made for trains, buses and coaches (used on local and scheduled services), though there are no specific regulations which make provision for guide dogs. However, Part 5 of the Act also places a duty on licensed taxi drivers, operators and drivers of licensed private hire vehicles in England and Wales to carry guide, hearing and other prescribed assistance dogs in their taxis and to do so without charge. We have made no specific assessment of the effectiveness of enforcement procedures.

Railways: Pensions

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment she has made of the findings of the Railway Pensions Commission's final report. [190172]

Mr. Tom Harris: I welcome the Railway Pensions Commission's final report and appreciate the work they have done. This report raises some important and complex issues. It is initially for the rail employers and unions to take these forward, and they will be entering into detailed discussions shortly. The Department for Transport is also considering the Commission's findings, but it is too early for me to comment on them.

Roads: Repairs and Maintenance

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps the Government plans to take to reduce levels of disruption caused by road works. [190937]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Government have taken a number of steps to reduce the disruption caused by works in the highway. These include a duty on local highway authorities to manage the expeditious movement of traffic on their network and to consider the impact on neighbouring networks. Three sets of Regulations come into force this spring to strengthen the powers of authorities to control works in the highway by statutory undertakers, mainly utility companies.

The Highways Agency (HA) puts considerable effort into reducing the disruption caused by planned works. The HA uses the latest techniques to reduce the time works takes and provides information to the public of possible delays, which allows them to choose a different route.

Trains: Carbon Emissions

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment she has made of the potential advantages in carbon reduction terms from the use of hybrid diesel and battery trains. [188473]

Mr. Tom Harris: The Department for Transport has commissioned a study, to be published in March, which identifies potential carbon savings through the use of hybrid diesel high speed trains. Further work is being commissioned to identify the benefits of hybrid technology for trains operating urban and rural services.

Transport for London: Finance

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what Transport for London's debt is; and if she will make a statement. [189305]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Transport for London's financial status, including levels of debt at any given point of time, is the responsibility of the London Mayor.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Carbon Emissions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what tonnage of carbon dioxide was offset by the Government Carbon Offsetting Fund in respect of (a) his Department's and (b) the Prime Minister's Office's air travel in 2006-07. [191115]

Mr. Watson: The Prime Minister's Office forms an integral part of the Cabinet Office.

The tonnage of carbon dioxide offset by the Government Carbon Offsetting Fund in respect of the Cabinet Office's air travel in 2006-07 was 1,631 tonnes.

Departmental Expenditure Limits

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster pursuant to the Written Ministerial Statement of 19 February 2008, Official Report, columns 34-37WS, on the departmental expenditure limit (2007-08) for what reasons there was a drawdown on the reserve for V matched funding. [191148]

Phil Hope: As set out in the written ministerial statement made by my right hon. Friend the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster on 19 February 2008, Official Report, columns 35-37WS, there was a draw down on the reserve of £4,729,000 for v matched funding.

The youth volunteering organisation v is able to draw down on Government match funding on a pound for pound basis, when they secure funding from the private sector, as set out in Budget 2005. This match fund is held in the HM Treasury Reserve to be drawn down by the Office of the Third Sector on behalf of v.

Government Departments: Data Protection

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what (a) (i) procedures and (ii) guidance his Department has provided and (b) recommendations his Department has made across Government on the secure disposal of electronic and hard copy media by Government departments and agencies; and if he will make a statement. [190730]

Mr. Watson: The Manual of Protective Security (MPS) sets out the policies that Departments should apply across all areas of security including the secure disposal of data.

On 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179, the Prime Minister announced that he had asked the Cabinet Secretary, with the advice of security experts, to work with Departments to ensure that all Departments and all agencies check their procedures for the storage and use of data. The publication of an interim report was announced on 17 December 2007, Official Report, column 98WS. A final report is expected in spring 2008 which will outline steps taken during the course of the work.

Office of the Third Sector: Finance

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what estimate he has made of the Office of the Third Sector's expenditure in 2007-08; and what budget has been set for the Office for 2009-10. [191095]

Phil Hope: The outturn for the Office of the Third Sector for 2007-08 will be available only when the Department's resource accounts are fully audited and laid before Parliament. This is expected to be before the 2008 summer recess. The budget for the Office of the Third Sector can be found in the Spring Supplementary Estimate 2007-08 published on the HM Treasury website:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/media/D/A/springsupps0708_cabinet_office.pdf.

The 2009-10 programme budget is as set out in the answer I gave to the hon. Member for Fareham (Mr. Hoban) on 17 December 2007, Official Report, column 1084W.

DEFENCE

Afghanistan

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the statement by the Prime Minister of 12 December 2007, Official Report, columns 303-4, on Afghanistan, how many civilian helicopters leased by NATO are in use in Afghanistan; and whether any are operating in (a) Helmand, (b) Kandahar, (c) Zabul, (d) Uruzgan, (e) Ghanzi, (f) Pakitka, (g) Khost and (h) Paktia provinces. [190836]

Des Browne: NATO has a contract for a civilian contractor to transport by air up to 13,000 kg per day of cargo in the four largest regional command areas of Afghanistan. The contract is for a service, rather than for a number of capital assets, and therefore the number of helicopters or fixed wing aircraft used to deliver this service can and does vary on a day-to-day basis.

The contract requires a capability to operate from the four main regional hubs outside Kabul to forward operating bases and other locations throughout Afghanistan. The regional hubs are: Kandahar in the south; Herat in the west; Mazar e Sharif in the north; and Bagram in the east. The southern hub covers as required the provinces of Helmand, Kandahar, Zabul, and Uruzgan. The eastern hub covers the provinces of Ghanzi, Pakitka, Khost and Paktia.

Afghanistan: Peacekeeping Operations

Patrick Mercer: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) how many (a) ambush and (b) improvised explosive device attacks have been carried out against international security assistance force troops in Helmand Province in each month in 2007; [172154]

(2) how many (a) ambush and (b) improvised explosive device attacks were carried out against international security assistance force troops in Helmand Province in each month in 2007. [162790]

Des Browne: The following table records the number of attacks (direct and explosive devices) instigated by enemy forces on ISAF forces in Helmand Province, Afghanistan for each month requested. I am withholding details of these attacks as the information would be likely to prejudice the capability, effectiveness and security of the armed forces.

| 2007 | Number of attacks |
|---|---|
| January | 65 |
| February | 92 |
| March | 149 |
| April | 82 |
| May | 132 |
| June | 120 |
| July | 125 |
| August | 131 |
| September | 125 |
| October | 108 |
| November | 132 |
| December | 151 |

This data is based on information derived from a number of sources and can only be an estimate, not least because of the difficulties in ensuring a consistent interpretation of the basis for collating statistics in a complex fast-moving multinational operation environment.

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) how many attacks were made on British forces in Southern Afghanistan in (a) May 2006, (b) June 2006, (c) July 2006, (d) August 2006 and (e) September 2006, with reference to the answer of 8 October 2007, Official Report, column 62W, on Afghanistan peacekeeping operations; [161882]

(2) how many attacks have been made on British forces in Afghanistan in each month since October 2006. [162657]

Des Browne: The following tables shows the number of attacks (direct or using mines/improvised explosive devices) instigated by enemy forces on ISAF forces in Helmand Province, Afghanistan in each of the months requested. It is not possible, except at disproportionate cost, separately to identify attacks directed exclusively at British forces given the multinational nature of forces operating in Helmand Province.

| | Number of attacks |
|---|---|
| 2006 | |
| May | 3 |
| June | 18 |
| July | 133 |
| August | 141 |

| September | 125 |
| October | 108 |
| November | 132 |
| December | 151 |
| 2008 | |

These data are based on information derived from a number of sources and can only be an estimate, not least because of the difficulties in ensuring a consistent interpretation of the basis for collating statistics in a complex fast-moving multinational operation environment.

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many contacts were recorded between British forces and insurgents in Southern Afghanistan in each month since May 2006, with reference to the answer of 8 October 2007, Official Report, column 61-2W, on Afghanistan peacekeeping operations. [161883]

Des Browne: The number of direct engagements (regardless of the instigator or the means of instigating the incident) between ISAF forces and insurgents in Helmand Province per month since May 2006 are shown in the following table.

| | Number of contacts |
|---|---|
| 2006 | |
| May | 4 |
| June | 18 |
| July | 140 |
| August | 180 |
| September | 177 |
| October | 77 |
| November | 48 |

| August | 170 |
| September | 197 |
| October | 149 |
| November | 161 |
| December | 202 |
| 2008 | |

It is not possible, except at disproportionate cost, separately to identify attacks exclusively involving British forces given the multinational nature of forces operating in Helmand Province.

These data are based on information derived from a number of sources and can only be an estimate, not least because of the difficulties in ensuring a consistent interpretation of the basis for collating statistics in a complex fast-moving multinational operation environment.

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) suicide bombings and (b) improvised explosive device attacks were recorded against (i) (A) NATO and (B) British forces and (ii) Afghan civilians in each month since May 2006 in Afghanistan. [161935]

Des Browne: It is not possible further to break down these statistics in the way requested as in some instances it is not possible to determine against whom a particular attack was targeted.

The numbers of suicide attacks recorded in Afghanistan are shown in the following table.

| | Number of suicide attacks |
|---|---|
| 2006 | |
| May | 6 |
| June | 3 |
| July | 8 |
| August | 13 |
| September | 19 |
| October | 13 |
| November | 13 |

| June | 12 |
| July | 22 |
| August | 11 |
| September | 12 |
| October | 11 |
| November | 4 |
| December | 8 |

I am withholding details of the number of improvised explosive attacks as the information would or would be likely, to prejudice the capability, effectiveness and capability of the armed forces.

These data are based on information derived from a number of sources and can only be an estimate, not least because of the difficulties in ensuring a consistent interpretation of the basis for collating statistics in a complex fast-moving multinational operation environment.

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the current status is of Taliban leader Naim Atallah who was captured in Helmand province in August 2007. [190892]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: I have nothing further to add to the answer I gave on 17 September 2007, Official Report, column 2169W.

Air Force: Military Bases

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans he has to review the provision of military airfields in the UK. [191327]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: I refer the hon. Member to the previous answer I gave on 28 January 2008, Official Report, column 30W.

Armed Forces: Dismissal

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many soldiers have been subject to manning control since April 2006; and how many of those had (a) 12 years and (b) 15 years service. [191554]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: None.

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many soldiers were subject to manning control after 12 years service in the last 12 months. [191555]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: None.

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many soldiers in the (a) 2nd Battalion the Parachute Regiment and (b) Royal Logistics Corps were (i) subject to and (ii) discharged under manning control in the last 12 months. [191556]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: None.

Armed Forces: Housing

Dr. Murrison: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many single living accommodation units for service personnel are of standard (a) 1, (b) 2, (c) 3 and (d) 4 in each country in which UK forces are deployed. [184382]

Derek Twigg [holding answer 4 February 2008]: The standard of single living accommodation (SLA) is assessed by grade for charge (GfC)—a measure of the physical condition of the accommodation and other relevant environmental and scaling factors. SLA bed-spaces in each country in which UK forces are deployed are at the following GfC:

| | Grade 1 | Grade 2 | Grade 3 | Grade 4 |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Germany | 2,356 | 1,494 | 4,186 | 8,989 |
| Cyprus | 67 | 14 | 534 | 882 |
| Falklands/ Ascension Islands | 14 | — | — | 6,105 |
| Gibraltar | 325 | 24 | 41 | — |
| Rest of World | 34 | 62 | 87 | 2,014 |

The low grade given to SLA in the South Atlantic Islands for example, reflects the remote location and environmental factors rather than the actual condition of the accommodation which is considered reasonable.

It should be noted that a large proportion of overseas SLA is only used during operational deployments. Although much of this accommodation is G4fC, residents are not charged for it.

In Cyprus, some 650 bed-spaces will be upgraded by 2012 for use on a permanent basis. In addition, there are ongoing programmes of improvement work in all the above locations including the Hired Accommodation Revitalisation Programme project, which aims to replace or upgrade the entire hired estate in Germany over the next five years.

Over the next decade the MOD will spend over £8 billion on accommodation, including some £3.1 billion on bringing accommodation up to the top condition. This will include the delivery of some further 30,000 new or improved SLA bed-spaces by 2013.

Armed Forces: Labour Turnover

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many personnel left the armed forces to join private military companies in each year since 2003. [190648]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Information on the number of personnel who have left the armed forces to join private military companies is not held centrally. Total outflow and voluntary exit rates from the trained strength, broken down by Officers and Other Ranks, can be found in Tri-Service Publication (TSP) 5—'Trained Outflow to Civil Life'. Monthly figures show the number of personnel who have outflowed in the previous 12 month period. TSP 5 is published monthly and all publications can be found at:

http://www.dasa.mod.uk/natstats/tsp5/tsp5tab5.html

Copies of TSP 5 are available in the Library of the House and also at:

www.dasa.mod.uk

Armed Forces: Pay

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many servicemen and women's pay was paid late in each of the last five financial years. [173709]

Derek Twigg [holding answer 13 December 2008]: The number of service personnel who were paid late in each of the last five financial years were as follows:

| Financial year | Number |
|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 29 |
| 2003-04 | 26 |
| 2004-05 | 0 |
| 2005-06 | 474 |
| 2006-07 | 773 |

Armed Forces: Suicide

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many suicides there were among British armed services personnel in each of the last 10 years for which records are available, broken down by (a) sex, (b) age, (c) regiment and (d) service in each year since 2003; and if he will make a statement. [190880]

Derek Twigg: A total of 213 coroner-confirmed suicides or open verdict deaths among regular service personnel occurred during the 10-year period 1997 to 2006 (excluding any violent or unnatural deaths that have not yet been fully investigated by the coroner). Details which can be released without incurring potential disclosure of individual identities include:

Of the 213 coroner-confirmed suicide and open verdicts, eight were female service personnel;

A breakdown of suicide and open verdicts during this period, by age and by year is provided in the following table:

Table 1: Suicide and open verdict deaths: UK regular armed forces, by age and by calendar year, 1997 to 2006

Number

| | All | <20 years | 20-24 | 25-29 | 30-34 | 35-39 | 40+ |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| All | 213 | 31 | 53 | 46 | 35 | 30 | 18 |
| 1997 | 26 | 4 | 6 | 4 | 5 | 4 | 3 |
| 1998 | 19 | 2 | 2 | 8 | 1 | 3 | 3 |
| 1999 | 27 | 4 | 6 | 4 | 7 | 4 | 2 |
| 2000 | 36 | 2 | 12 | 12 | 3 | 5 | 2 |
| 2001 | 15 | 5 | 3 | 1 | 4 | 2 | 0 |
| 2002 | 15 | 3 | 4 | 2 | 2 | 3 | 1 |
| 2003 | 26 | 4 | 8 | 8 | 5 | 0 | 1 |
| 2004 | 19 | 2 | 4 | 2 | 6 | 4 | 1 |
| 2005 | 20 | 3 | 5 | 4 | 0 | 4 | 4 |
| 2006 | 10 | 2 | 3 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 1 |

Information on suicide and open verdicts by regiment (or other service equivalent) could be disclosive of individual identities. For this reason, the information cannot be provided.

A breakdown of suicide and open verdicts during this period by service and by year is provided in the following table:

Table 2: Suicide and open verdict deaths: UK regular armed forces, by service and by calendar year, 1997 to 2006

Number

| | All | Naval service[1] | Army | RAF |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| All | 213 | 34 | 141 | 38 |
| 1997 | 26 | 4 | 17 | 5 |
| 1998 | 19 | 2 | 13 | 4 |
| 1999 | 27 | 6 | 17 | 4 |
| 2000 | 36 | 6 | 22 | 8 |
| 2001 | 15 | 2 | 11 | 2 |
| 2002 | 15 | 4 | 11 | 0 |
| 2003 | 26 | 3 | 16 | 7 |
| 2004 | 19 | 2 | 15 | 2 |
| 2005 | 20 | 5 | 11 | 4 |
| 2006 | 10 | 0 | 8 | 2 |

[1] Includes Royal Navy and Royal Marines.

Information for 2007 will be released in DASA's National Statistics Notice "Suicide and open verdict deaths among UK regular armed forces personnel" on 31 March.

Armoured Fighting Vehicles

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many instances of breakdown and maintenance damage have been recorded in the (a) Vector and (b) Bulldog vehicle since it first entered service. [190725]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Based on records from the Equipment Failure Reporting System (EFRS), since the Vector vehicle entered service, approximately 119 Equipment Failure Reports (EFRs) have been raised. For the Bulldog vehicle there have been approximately 228 EFRs.

The EFRS is the mandated system for the user to report equipment failures, such as accidental damage, maintenance related failures and breakdowns, as well as equipment failure of any item fitted to the vehicle. It does not incorporate the results of subsequent investigations and therefore does not differentiate between what might later prove to have been operator error or damage sustained as a result of operations. Nor does this data record the severity of a failure which might have no discernible impact on operational capability or safety.

These figures do not include any instances of equipment failure that have not been formally reported by the user.

Bulldog and Vector fleets are currently making a significant contribution to current operations.

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when his Department's order for Ridgeback vehicles will be placed. [190409]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The preferred Ridgeback vehicle has been identified. Commercial negotiations are continuing and we will make further announcements in due course.

AWE Burghfield: Floods

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the Answer of 24 January 2008, Official Report, column 2138W, on AWE Burghfield: floods, and page 22 of the Health and Safety Executive Nuclear Newsletter, November 2007 issue, on what date (a) the Health and Safety Executive nuclear installation inspectorate was satisfied that emergency arrangements were in place and (b) operational activities resumed. [187040]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Following the flooding at AWE Burghfield in July 2007, contingency emergency arrangements put in place were considered by the Nuclear Installations Inspectorate (NII) to be adequate at all times for the activities being undertaken. NII inspected the interim facilities and witnessed an emergency exercise on 24 October, and agreed that nuclear operations could recommence on 5 November 2007.

Ballistic Missile Defence

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of the implications of missile defence systems for the UK's defence industry. [191055]

Des Browne: UK defence industry has the opportunity to participate in the work to develop missile defence systems. The MOD supports this effort through the work of the UK Missile Defence Centre, which provides assistance and advice to UK industry.

Bosnia and Herzegovina: Peacekeeping Operations

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the reasons are for the change in size of the EUFOR military force in Bosnia-Herzegovina from November 2007 to February 2008. [190722]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The size of the EU military force in Bosnia and Herzegovina (EUFOR ALTHEA) has reduced from 2,566 at the end of November 2007 to 2,232 at the end of February 2008. The reductions resulted from the progressive transfer of responsibilities from EUFOR ALTHEA to Bosnia and Herzegovina authorities and the attendant closure of former camps at Mostar used by French forces and Rajlovac used by German and Italian forces.

BOWMAN Combat Radio System

Willie Rennie: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what anti-jamming capability the (a) Bowman and (b) Clansman communications system has. [191595]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: I am withholding the information requested as its release would, or would be likely to, prejudice the capability, effectiveness or security of the armed forces.

Challenger Tanks: Repairs and Maintenance

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many tracks needed replacement on Challenger 2 main battle tanks in each of the last six months; how many spare tracks there were available in theatre in each such month; and how many spare tracks there are available. [191344]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The number of tracks issued across the entire fleet in each of the last six months and the number of full vehicle sets of spare track available in Iraq in the last six months are:

| | Number of tracks issued across the entire fleet | Spare tracks available in Iraq |
|---|---|---|
| 2007 | | |
| September | 8.75 | 3 |
| October | 6.5 | 3 |
| November | 10.25 | 3 |
| December | 1 | 3 |
| 2008 | | |
| January | 6.75 | 3 |
| February | 9.75 | 3 |

The number of tracks which needed replacement is not held centrally. A Unit does not stipulate why it is demanding track or part of a track, which might be requested to be either fitted to a vehicle or for stock. A full set of Challenger 2 track is made up of 160 links and is accounted for/stored in sections of five links joined together, called a wrap. A Unit can demand a full vehicle set or a single wrap if it requires only spare links.

There are currently 95 spare tracks available in storage.

Cyprus: Military Bases

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 1 February 2008, Official Report, column 1490W, on Cyprus: military bases, how many individuals were (a) charged with and (b) convicted of poaching under the Protection and Management of Game and Wild Birds Ordinance 2004 in each of the last three years. [190933]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: I will write to my right hon. Friend.

Defence Equipment and Support: Recruitment

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what level of commercial experience is required of candidates for each grade of post at the Defence, Equipment and Support headquarters at Abbeywood. [191532]

Derek Twigg [holding answer 4 March 2008]: The level of commercial experience required by candidates will depend on the specific requirements of the job.

Departmental Cost Effectiveness

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the savings target is for each top level budget holder in his Department in 2007-08. [190716]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Under the spending review 2004 efficiency programme, the MOD is required to achieve £2.83 billion of cumulative input and output efficiency savings by the end of 2007-08. We are on course to overachieve against this target.

These savings are delivered by departmental change programmes and by implementing the force capability changes set out in 'Delivering Securities in a Changing World: Future Capabilities', published in July 2004, rather than by targets on Top Level Budget (TLB) holders. Further details can be found in the MOD Efficiency Technical Note which is available online at:

http://www.mod.uk/NR/rdonlyres/3F55E01546B54E14B086C399208B9575/0/mod_etn_051205.pdf

As part of the 2007 Financial Planning Round, further efficiency savings targets for 2007-08 were agreed with individual TLB holders as follows:

| TLB | Saving (£000) |
|---|---|
| Fleet | 10,639 |
| Land Forces | 31,541 |
| Air Command | 12,765 |
| Central TLB | 4,272 |
| Defence Estates | 3,032 |
| CJO | 2,031 |
| Total | 64,280 |

Efficiency savings across the Department are reinvested to fund high priority areas of expenditure, such as support to operations and our personnel, including through sustained investment in accommodation.

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what progress his Department has made in its zero-based budget review under the Comprehensive Spending Review. [191491]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The MOD completed its zero-based budget review as part of the comprehensive spending review 2007, the outcome of which was announced in July 2007.

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what steps he is taking to protect the security of personal data held by his Department, with particular reference to interference by militant extremists; and if he will make a statement. [190450]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Ministry of Defence regulations require that personal data are protected in accordance with legal statute and the Government's own internal security guidance. The Ministry of Defence is fully engaged in the Cabinet Office led Data Handling Review and we have confirmed to Robert Hannigan's team our committed to meeting the implementation dates he has set. In addition, I have also invited Sir Edmund Burton, Chairman of the Information Assurance Advisory Council, to examine the adequacy of the measures taken to protect personal data held by the MOD. Depending on his findings, I will consider what further measures may be required.

Departmental Databases

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what databases are (a) owned and (b) maintained by (i) his Department and (ii) its agencies. [185418]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Empty Property

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what estimate he has made of the (a) cost to the public purse and (b) total value of the empty properties owned by (i) his Department and (ii) its agencies and other public bodies for which he has responsibility in the last 12 months. [190638]

Derek Twigg: Details of all properties that have been empty for all or part of the last 12 months and their associated costs are not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

The MOD only assesses the sale value of properties when they come forward for disposal.

Departmental Freedom of Information

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to his answer to the hon. Member for Newark (Patrick Mercer) of 5 February 2008, Official Report, column 964, on departmental Freedom of Information (FOI), if he will give a breakdown of all identifiable sources of the FOI requests received by his Department. [190949]

Derek Twigg: Freedom of Information (FOI) requests received by the Ministry of Defence are broken down by source as follows:

Academics
Businesses
Media and Journalists
MPs/Peers
Private Individuals
Not Specified
Non-profit organisations
Other

However, it is not necessary for a person making a request under the Freedom of Information Act to declare their occupation or background.

Departmental Homeworking

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many people in his Department have been authorised to work from home in the last 12 months. [189785]

Derek Twigg: 169 civilian staff are recorded on the Department's central system (HRMS) as home workers. It is possible that under historic reporting arrangements there may be significantly more whose home working is not recorded centrally. 44 new formal home working arrangements were approved in the year from February 2007 to January 2008. Staff may also work from home on an occasional basis, but such arrangements are not recorded centrally.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the salary range is for each pay band of civil servants in his Department. [188802]

Derek Twigg: The salary range for each pay band of civil servants in the Ministry of Defence is shown in the following table:

| Pay Band | Minimum | £ Maximum |
|---|---|---|
| SCS1 | 56,100 | 116,000 |
| SCS2 | 81,600 | 160,000 |
| SCS3 | 99,960 | 205,000 |
| B1 | 50,598 | 68,048 |
| B2 | 41,528 | 54,488 |
| C1 | 31,650 | 40,515 |
| C2 | 24,725 | 33,253 |
| D | 19,315 | 26,626 |
| E1 | 14,721 | 23,534 |
| E2 | 12,694 | 19,315 |
| Skill Zone 1 | 12,694 | 16,249 |
| Skill Zone 2 | 14,012 | 17,936 |
| Skill Zone 3 | 15,089 | 21,853 |
| Skill Zone 4 | 18,844 | 24,725 |

With the exception of the Senior Civil Service, the figures in the table are for the main body of civilian staff covered by the MOD annual pay award. The figures exclude staff in Trading Funds, those whose pay is determined by analogue to outside counterparts (e.g. MOD police), locally engaged civilians overseas and many highly specialist grades linked to the MOD main pay award.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the Spring Supplementary Estimates 2007-08, if he will break down, by sub-head, his Department's revised provision in (i) near cash and (ii) non-cash terms. [191681]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: I will write to the hon. Member and place a copy of my letter in the Library of the House.

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the anticipated operating and non-operating appropriations in aid are for each year of the comprehensive spending review; and whether they were included in the near cash resource and capital departmental expenditure limits given in his answer of 10 September 2007, Official Report, column 1893W, on Departments: public expenditure. [191685]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Anticipated operating and non-operating appropriations in aid are published in Departmental Estimates. Operating and non-operating appropriations in aid were included in the 2006-07 outturn figures quoted in my answer of 10 September 2007, Official Report, column 1893W.

Departmental Repairs and Maintenance

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will break down by sub-heading the payment of £55 million per year to the main contractor for his Department's main building. [187603]

Derek Twigg: I am unable to break down the annual payment for the provision of fully serviced office accommodation for Main Building and Old War Office under the PFI Contract as the contract is not constructed in this manner. The contract payments include a service element and the repayment of the bank debt under the terms of the PFI credit agreements.

The £55 million annual payment figure is derived from the £1.65 billion annual project approval figure (based on a constant price estimate i.e. excluding inflation) spread equally over 30 years.

Gurkhas: Dismissal

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many soldiers from the Gurkha Regiment were discharged under manning control in the last 12 months. [191445]

Derek Twigg: None.

HMS Southampton

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the current status is of HMS (a) Southampton and (b) Exeter; and when a decision will be taken on their out of service dates. [190643]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: HMS Exeter and Southampton are currently in operational service with the Royal Navy. On present plans, they are due to be withdrawn from service during 2009.

Iraq: Helicopters

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what enhancements to helicopter capabilities his Department is making in response to experience in Iraq and Afghanistan. [191609]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 4 March 2008]: As a result of experience on operations, we are taking steps to increase the robustness of our existing helicopter fleets, such as the purchase of the six Danish Merlin helicopters and the conversion of the eight Chinook Mk3 helicopters to a support helicopter role. We have carried out extensive modifications to improve the operational capability of our helicopters in response to Urgent Operational Requirements, including fitting new rotor blades to some of our Sea Kings to improve their performance in hot and high conditions, enabling their deployment to Afghanistan. We are also uplifting the number of flying hours we will deliver each month to commanders on the ground in Afghanistan from our Chinook and Apache fleets.

Iraq: Peacekeeping Operations

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he plans to provide free Wi-Fi for front-line troops in Iraq and Afghanistan. [191448]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: It is not possible at this time to provide a date of when free Wi-Fi will be provided to personnel serving in Iraq and Afghanistan. However, it is my intention to inform the House on progress soon.

Iraq: Resettlement

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether the Government has provided air transport for Iraqi citizens formerly employed by the Ministry of Defence granted leave to enter the UK from the Middle East; and whether there are plans to provide such transport in the future from (a) Iraq and (b) third countries. [190410]

Mr. Byrne: I have been asked to reply.

No Iraqi citizens formerly employed by the Ministry of Defence have yet been granted indefinite leave to enter the UK from the Middle East under the criteria for the Locally Engaged Iraqi staff assistance scheme. Therefore the Government have not provided air transport to assist their movement to the UK.

All formerly employed staff who are accepted for resettlement under the Gateway Protection Programme, will be provided with travel to the UK on commercial airlines from third countries in the Middle East.

A small number of current staff have been made redundant since 7 August 2007 and have opted to seek indefinite leave to enter the UK. Assistance with transport and flights from Iraq to the UK will be provided for these staff and their dependants.

Joint Rapid Reaction Force

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which brigade forms the Joint Rapid Reaction Force (JRRF); whether it is fully equipped; whether the JRRF is deployed; and when the future JRRF will take over. [190670]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Army commitment to the Joint Rapid Reaction Force (JRRF) is normally centred on the Spearhead Land Element (SLE), the Lead Airborne Task Force (ABTF) and the High Readiness Mechanised or Armoured Brigade. Due to 16 Air Assault Brigade's impending deployment to Afghanistan the ABTF was replaced by the Small Scale Focused Intervention Battlegroup (SSFIBG) on 15 February 2008 and will not be re-established until January 2009.

The Army elements of the JRRF that are currently held at high readiness are the SLE and SSFI BG. The SSFI BG is based on a Light Infantry Role Battlegroup, provided by The Black Watch, 3rd Battalion, The Royal Regiment of Scotland until 19 May 2008. The SLE is based on 2nd Battalion The Royal Gurkha Rifles until 30 March 2008.

For non-discretionary JRRF tasks, equipment holdings exist to ensure mission success. However, some equipment might need to be re-apportioned from supporting training for operations or from operations in Iraq and Afghanistan, depending on the task, to ensure that appropriate quantities are available.

Military Aircraft: Expenditure

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the total expenditure was on transport aircraft (a) procurement and (b) maintenance by his Department in each year since 1997. [190640]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The RAF air transport fleet is comprised of C-17, Hercules C-130J/K, Tristar, VC10, BAE 125 and BAE 146 aircraft.

Between 1996 and 2000, the MOD introduced 25 Hercules C-130J aircraft into service with the RAF. The total procurement cost for these aircraft was US$ 1.4 billion; however, the costing profile is not readily available and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Two additional C-17 aircraft are due to be delivered to the RAF later this year. I am withholding information on procurement costs as its disclosure would prejudice commercial interests.

A number of areas within the Department incur maintenance expenditure on the RAF's air transport fleet. The financial information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost. The figures provided in the following table are the logistic support costs that can be directly attributed to the fixed wing aircraft fleets in the financial years for which costs are readily available.

The table does not include contract lease costs for three commercially owned military registered Agusta A109E helicopters which are used in the VIP transport role, as disclosure would prejudice commercial interests.

| Financial year | £ million |
|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 218 |
| 2003-04 | 229 |
| 2004-05 | 207 |
| 2005-06 | 210 |
| 2006-07 | 249 |

Notes:
1. Costings for financial years prior to 2002-03 are incomplete and are not included.
2. These figures include the lease cost of four C-17 aircraft. Disclosure of the value of the lease would prejudice commercial interests.
3. Defence Equipment and Support staff costs are not included.
4. Costs have been rounded to the nearest million.

Military Aircraft: Helicopters

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many times helicopters of the (a) Army Air Corps, (b) Fleet Air Arm and (c) Royal Air Force were cannibalised for spare parts in each year since 2001, broken down by helicopter type. [190647]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The numbers of cannibalisations for helicopters operated by the Army Air Corps, Fleet Air Arm and Royal Air Force are shown in the following table. The figures shown are for the Forward Fleet—i.e. aircraft with the front-line commands and utilised for operational deployments or other tasks.

| Airframe | 2001-02 | 2002-03 | 2003-04 | 2004-05 | 2005-06 | 2006-07 | 2007-08[1] |

| Sea King 2/7 | 45 | 72 | 33 | 75 | 78 | 88 | 37 |
| Merlin 1 | 253 | 370 | 466 | 338 | 389 | 455 | 407 |
| Lynx 3 | 181 | 176 | 120 | 119 | 110 | 93 | 64 |
| Lynx 8 | 197 | 97 | 83 | 54 | 71 | 105 | 48 |
| RAF | | | | | | | |
| Sea King 3/3A | 262 | 278 | 193 | 205 | 242 | 185 | 89 |
| Chinook 2/2A | — | — | 496 | 1021 | 571 | 276 | 165 |
| Merlin 3 | — | — | 416 | 240 | 246 | 396 | 265 |
| Puma | — | — | 647 | 676 | 222 | 168 | 81 |

[1] Figures shown are as at January 2008

Figures for Joint Helicopter Command (JHC) operated airframes prior to financial year 2003-04 are not available because the system used to capture and store this data was not introduced until 2003.

Cannibalisation is an accepted short-term measure employed by the armed forces around the world to ensure maximum numbers of equipment are available. It is often the only course of action where replacement items cannot be sourced in the required timeframe.

The figures shown in the table refer to individual instances of cannibalisation and not the number of aircraft involved. All instances of cannibalisation are authorised and undertaken in accordance with clearly defined regulations. The term 'cannibalisation' can refer to the removal of single or small numbers of components, of any size. It does not necessarily refer to the wholesale utilisation of capital components or airframes.

Military Bases: Devonport

Mr. Streeter: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his plans for Devonport Naval Base are over the next 10 years. [190164]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 28 February 2008]: The Naval Base Review considered the future of all three Naval Bases, including Devonport, and concluded that the most effective means of supporting the Royal Navy is to retain and optimise the three Bases.

A number of maritime change programmes are currently in progress that will have an impact on all three Bases. These include work resulting from the Naval Base Review decision, changes to equipment and platform support arrangements and our evolving strategic partnership with industry. Each is designed to ensure that waterfront activity is delivered in an efficient and sustainable manner.

Peacekeeping Operations

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many contacts there were between British forces and anti-coalition militia in each month since October 2006. [190717]

Des Browne: For Operation Herrick, Afghanistan, I have nothing to add to my answer of today.

For Operation Telic, Iraq the number of recorded attacks on coalition forces in Multi-National Division (South East) per month since October 2006 is as follows:

| | Number of contacts |
|---|---|
| 2006 | |
| October | 179 |
| November | 181 |
| December | 259 |
| 2007 | |
| January | 226 |
| February | 337 |
| March | 245 |
| April | 224 |
| May | 336 |
| June | 376 |
| July | 401 |
| August | 191 |
| September | 22 |
| October | 29 |
| November | 30 |
| December | 28 |
| 2008 | |
| January | 37 |
| February | 32 |

It is not possible, except at disproportionate cost, separately to identify attacks exclusively involving British Forces.

These figures are an estimate, not least because of the difficulties in ensuring a consistent interpretation of the basis for collating statistics in a complex fast-moving multinational operation environment.

QinetiQ: Land

Dr. Pugh: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the value of land disposals by Qinetiq has been in each of the last three years. [190421]

Des Browne: When QinetiQ was vested as a company in 2001, it was required to purchase its assets from the Government. Consequently, the receipts from the sale of land go directly to the company and, therefore, the details of disposals are a matter for them.

However, claw-back arrangements are in place to ensure that the taxpayer benefits directly from any substantial subsequent increase in value of the land once sold. I also refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave to the hon. Member for Portsmouth, South (Mr. Hancock) on 27 February 2008, Official Report, column 1577W.

Royal Naval Hospital Haslar: Operating Costs

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the operating costs of Royal hospital Haslar were in each of the last five years. [190635]

Derek Twigg: The Royal hospital Haslar has been administered since 2001 under a partnering arrangement with Portsmouth Hospitals NHS Trust (PHT). It currently provides a limited range of clinical facilities, predominantly for NHS civilian patients. It also continues to provide training and experience for well over 100 military doctors and nurses. Operating costs falling to the MOD include certain staff costs, utilities, estate maintenance and works, equipment, services provided under contract, and medical supplies. MOD gross costs were as follows:

| Financial year | £ million |
|---|---|
| 2003-04 | 18.8 |
| 2004-05 | 16.1 |
| 2005-06 | 17.7 |
| 2006-07 | 17.1 |
| 2007-08 | 12.9 |

Notes:
1. The costs of PHT civilian staff employed on the site and other costs incurred directly by PHT are not included.
2. Military personnel costs are not included. Many military personnel employed at Haslar also have duties elsewhere and their costs are not readily disaggregated.
3. PHT makes a financial contribution towards meeting the MOD's costs, in acknowledgement of the support provided towards meeting its own outputs.
4. Costs are final outturn figures, except for 2007-08, which is a forecast. During the current year many MOD civilian staff are being progressively transferred to PHT, with a corresponding transfer of responsibility for costs.

Surface Ship Support Alliance

Linda Gilroy: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the role of the Surface Ship Support Alliance. [190837]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The Surface Ship Support (SSS) Project is part of the wider Maritime Change Programme (MCP) that aims to deliver an affordable and sustainable maritime enterprise, and is an important element of the Defence Industrial Strategy.

The SSS Project is currently exploring a wide range of support options to deliver sustainable, efficient and affordable support to legacy complex warships. One of these is the formation of an alliance between the MOD and the two major surface ship support contractors (Babcock Marine and Fleet Support Limited). While this approach is currently the leading option, no final decisions have yet been taken.

Under the alliance approach, several batches of upkeep packages have already been successfully agreed by MOD and industry. By giving industry visibility of future plans, it is able to plan ahead and adapt their capabilities to meet future requirements.

Taliban

Mr. Blunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what recent assessment he has made of who and what the Taliban are. [191410]

Des Browne: The Taliban remains a collection of predominantly Pushtun groups and individuals, motivated by a number of different factors, including extreme ideologies, tribal sympathies and personal ambitions.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Admiralty House

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 6 February 2008, Official Report, columns 1158-9W, on Admiralty House, (1) what minor works were undertaken; [189572]

(2) what the cost was to the public purse of the minor works. [189588]

Meg Munn: In line with normal procedure a one-off deep clean of the property was undertaken at change over of tenants. This included cleaning of lights, curtains, nets and windows, at a cost of £3,319.67, including value added tax (VAT).

A pelmet, tracking and curtains for one window was supplied and installed at a cost of £1,030.16, including VAT.

Two bedrooms, an adjacent corridor and one bathroom were repainted and a washer dryer, a tumble dryer, fridge freezer and mixer taps were supplied and installed. The cost of these works and equipment was £9,322.92, including VAT.

Bombs

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps the Government plans to take to encourage the international community to support the ban of cluster munitions. [191469]

Dr. Howells: In his Guildhall speech on 12 November 2007, my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister stated the Government were working "internationally for a ban on the use, production, transfer and stockpiling of those cluster munitions which cause unacceptable harm to civilians."

We will continue our efforts both in the Oslo Process and in the UN Convention on Certain Conventional Weapons (CCW), which includes users and producers of cluster munitions who have remained outside the Oslo Process, to ensure that the humanitarian objective we and many others share is fulfilled. The next CCW meeting will take place in Geneva from 7-11 April and the next Oslo Process meeting will take place in Dublin from 19-30 May.

British Overseas Territories: Administration of Justice

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what competence the Government has in respect of (a) the appointment, (b) the suspension and (c) the dismissal of any chief justice in an overseas territory; and if he will make a statement. [186460]

Meg Munn [holding answer 27 February 2008]: All British Overseas Territories except Anguilla, Montserrat, the Virgin Islands, South Georgia and the South Sandwich Islands, the British Antarctic Territory and the Sovereign Base Areas (SBAs) have their own Chief Justice. Anguilla, Montserrat and the Virgin Islands are under the jurisdiction of the Eastern Caribbean Supreme Court, which has a Chief Justice. Cases from South Georgia and the South Sandwich Islands and the British Antarctic Territory are heard by the Chief Justice of the Falkland Islands, and in the SBAs Senior Judges are appointed when required.

In most Territories which have their own Chief Justice, the appointment is the responsibility of the Governor, acting on behalf of Her Majesty The Queen in right of the Territory. In a few Territories, e.g. St. Helena and the Falkland Islands, the Chief Justice is appointed by the Governor acting on instructions given by Her Majesty The Queen in right of the Territory through a Secretary of State. This, in practice, means the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs.

In general, suspension and dismissal of the Chief Justice in those Territories which have one is the responsibility of the Governor of the Territory, acting as Her Majesty The Queen's representative in right of the Territory.

British Virgin Islands

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State plans to visit the British Virgin Islands. [191817]

Meg Munn: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave to him on 28 February 2008, Official Report, column 1812W.

Canada: Diplomatic Service

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many (a) diplomatic and (b) commercial staff were employed in the British High Commission in Ottawa in each of the last five years. [190532]

Dr. Howells: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office Management Information system only goes back to 2005. Figures prior to this date are not available without incurring disproportionate cost. It is not possible to breakdown the numbers by category of employment. Staff numbers fluctuate due to officers leaving and arriving at post. There are no UK-based commercial staff in Ottawa.

Staff numbers are shown as follows.

1 April 2005—17

1 April 2006—17

1 April 2007—15

1 January 2008—17

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the cost of maintaining the British High Commission in Ottawa was in the most recent year for which figures are available. [190533]

Dr. Howells: The cost of maintaining our High Commission in Ottawa in the financial year 2006-07 was as follows:

Locally Engaged Staff pay budget: £1.8 million for 75 staff and some seasonal relief staff

Administration Budget: £950,000

The cost of maintaining our High Commission in Ottawa in the financial year 2007-08 is as follows:

Locally Engaged Staff pay budget: £1.9 million for 80 staff and some seasonal relief staff

Administration Budget: £1.1 million

All utility costs stand at approximately £123,000 for the office building, High Commissioner's Residence and staff properties.

Caribbean: Royal Visits

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether his Department negotiated the hire of the Leander for use by HRH Prince of Wales during his visit in March 2008 to the Caribbean; and if he will make a statement. [190629]

Meg Munn: The Department for Transport has overall responsibility for the funding of official travel for members of The Royal Family. This is administered by The Royal Travel Office in Her Majesty The Queen's Household.

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what official gifts HRH Prince of Wales will be presenting during his official visit to Caribbean countries in March 2008; and whether the cost of such gifts is to be met from public funds. [190733]

Meg Munn: His Royal Highness The Prince of Wales will present official gifts to the hosts and those who are playing a significant part in the organisation of the visit. The nature of these gifts will follow long-standing precedents, but it would be inappropriate to specify them before their presentation to recipients. The cost of official gifts will be met from official funds.

China: Family Planning

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he discussed (a) the Chinese One Child Policy and (b) forced abortion with the authorities during his visit to China; and if he will make a statement. [190868]

Meg Munn: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary did not discuss the One Child Policy or forced abortions with Chinese authorities during his visit. He did, however, discuss the overall human rights situation with Foreign Minister Yang.

The One Child Policy was discussed during the recent round of the UK-China Human Rights Dialogue in Beijing in January. We do not dispute China's right or need to implement family planning policies, but we do believe they should be based on the principles of consent and not coercion. We will continue to encourage the Chinese to meet international human rights standards at every appropriate opportunity, both bilaterally and through the EU.

Committee for Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs which countries are represented on the Committee for the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women; what the terms of reference for the Committee are; and if he will make a statement. [190866]

Meg Munn: Countries are not represented on the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW). Committee Members are nationals of States Parties to the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women and serve on the basis of their personal expertise. They do not represent governments. However, consideration is given to equitable geographical distribution, the representation of different cultures and principal legal systems. A list of the current members of the Committee can be found at:

http://www2.ohchr.org/english/bodies/cedaw/membership.htm

The Committee's functions are set out in the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women. Essentially they are to monitor States Parties' implementation of the Convention and make recommendations on how this can be improved. Monitoring is done primarily through a public reporting and examination process. States Parties to the Optional Protocol to the Convention have also given the Committee competence to receive complaints from individuals alleging that their rights under the Convention have been violated. The UK is party to the Protocol as well as the Convention.

CEDAW monitors implementation of the whole Convention. The Convention concerns the elimination of discrimination against women in a wide range of areas, including in respect of health care. While the Convention itself does not explicitly mention abortion or reproductive rights, Articles 12 and 14 refer to access to health care services, including those related to family planning. It is possible that a Committee might address issues relating to abortion and/or reproductive rights when examining a State Party's implementation of the Convention. But this is for the Committee to decide.

In addition to making recommendations to individual States Parties on implementing the Convention, the Committee is also able to issue general guidance to all States Parties focussing on specific aspects of the Convention. These are produced periodically in the form of non-binding "General Recommendations". A number of these General Recommendations relate to health matters. In particular, General Recommendation 24 from 1999, relates to "Women and Health". This does address, among other things, issues relating to sexual and reproductive rights.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs who the British representative is on the Committee for the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women; what relevant specialist qualifications he or she holds; what his or her career has been to date; when he or she was selected and by whom; what process was followed in his or her selection; where the post was advertised; how many persons applied for the position; how many were short-listed for interview; how candidates were appraised; what criteria were adopted for the appointment; whether candidates' views on (a) abortion, (b) reproductive rights and (c) contraception were sought; and if he will make a statement. [190867]

Meg Munn: There is no UK representative on the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW).

CEDAW's 23 members are elected by the States Parties to the Convention for the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women. States Parties nominate candidates from among their own nationals, but members serve in a personal capacity and do not represent governments. The Convention states that CEDAW should consist of experts of "high moral standing and competence in the field covered by the Convention".

Departmental Private Finance Initiative

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs which private finance initiative projects have been approved by his Department in each of the last three financial years, broken down by (a) value and (b) start date [190885]

Meg Munn: The capital value and start date for every signed Private Finance Initiative project are recorded centrally on HM Treasury's website at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/documents/public_private_partnerships/ppp_pfi_stats.cfm.

Fairtrade Initiative

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will take steps to promote Fairtrade Fortnight 2008 among staff within his Department; and if he will make a statement. [189504]

Meg Munn: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) is promoting Fairtrade Fortnight 2008 among staff within the Department by featuring the Fairtrade website as the FCO intranet's "website of the week" and drawing attention to Fairtrade Fortnight.

France: National Security

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions his Department has had with the French Commission currently undertaking a review of French defence and national security, and if he will make a statement. [186720]

David Miliband: UK and French officials meet regularly to discuss defence and security issues, both bilaterally and in the context of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the EU. In addition, senior officials in the Ministry of Defence, the Cabinet Office and the Foreign and Commonwealth Office held discussions with M. Mallet, the Head of the French Commission, during his visit to the UK in October 2007.

Homosexuality

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps the Government has taken with its international counterparts to end the criminalisation of homosexuality in other countries. [191470]

Meg Munn: The Government have adopted an international policy of prioritising work on lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender rights where there is complete illegality, or there are moves to introduce criminalisation, and seek ways to lobby for decriminalisation.

The then Minister for Trade, Investment and Foreign Affairs, my right hon. Friend the Member for Makerfield (Mr. McCartney) and I, as the then Deputy Minister for Women and Equality, issued a joint statement pledging our support for worldwide protests against homophobia planned to mark the International Day against Homophobia on 17 May 2007.

The UK has long been at the forefront of encouraging the EU to speak out in favour of promoting and protecting the rights of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgendered people. At the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe Human Dimension Implementation Meeting in September 2007, the EU delivered a speech that condemned the fact that relationships between adults of the same sex are criminal in two participating states, namely Uzbekistan and Tajikistan.

In the past year we have also lobbied in support of the UN-Economic and Social Council continuing to grant consultative status to lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender non-governmental organisations. We also lobbied to persuade Rwanda not to criminalise same sex acts in the revised penal code, and Nigeria not to outlaw advocacy in favour of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender rights.

My noble Friend the Minister for Africa, Asia and the UN, the right hon. Lord Malloch-Brown, intends to raise this issue when he visits the Human Rights Council in Geneva.

We also raise this issue bilaterally. For example, our high commissioner in Singapore went to see Singapore's Attorney General on 26 October 2007 about various human rights issues, including the decriminalisation of homosexuality.

Drinking Water

David T.C. Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much his Department spent on mineral water in each of the last three years. [187672]

Meg Munn: The information requested is not held centrally and could be obtained only by examining individual invoices. This could only be done at disproportionate cost.

Sri Lanka: Press Freedom

Mr. Crabb: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with the Government of Sri Lanka on the freedom and security of journalists working in that country. [190553]

Dr. Howells: In April 2007, our then High Commissioner in Colombo discussed the issue with Foreign Minister Rohitha Bogollogama. During that meeting, the High Commissioner made clear that the UK would continue to defend fundamental rights and values such as media freedom.

Our High Commission in Colombo meets journalists on a regular basis and responds to any requests for assistance. We are aware of the recent report by "Reporters Without Borders" which catalogues serious violations of press freedom in Sri Lanka. The UK will continue to work with national and international partners to support media freedom.

Sudan: Capital Punishment

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received on the number of people executed in Sudan in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [189994]

Meg Munn: Our Embassy in Khartoum receives occasional reports about executions in Sudan from non-governmental organisations such as the Sudanese Organisation Against Torture (SOAT). SOAT reported that five individuals were executed on 24 February as punishment for murder. We do not, however, have figures relating to the past five years.

Through the EU-Sudan Human Rights Dialogue the UK lobbies the Government of Sudan to suspend the death penalty with a view to abolishing it. The Sudanese Government has told us that it had suspended the use of the death penalty for pregnant or lactating women. We understand that the sentence would be carried out once the child reached the age of two.

Sudan: China

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has had with representatives of the Chinese government on the situation in Darfur. [190755]

Meg Munn: During his visit to China on 25-29 February, my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary reinforced the messages agreed between Ministers and the Chinese Special Envoy for Africa during his visit to the UK on 21-22 February.

My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary agreed with the Chinese Foreign Minister and Premier Wen on the need to press the Government of Sudan and rebels to end the violence in West Darfur; to facilitate the rapid and effective deployment of UN-African Union Mission in Darfur; and on the need for progress on the implementation of the Comprehensive Peace Agreement.

My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary, in his speech at Peking University on 29 February, called on the Governments of Sudan and Chad to stop supporting rebels in each other's countries, and underlined the need for the Government and all parties in Sudan to respect their responsibilities under international law; and to engage constructively in peace talks.

Western European Union

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the role and mission is of the Western European Union; what assessment he has made of its impact in European security; and if he will make a statement. [190691]

Mr. Jim Murphy: All the operational aspects of the Western European Union (WEU), including its capacity to plan and conduct crisis management operations, were transferred to the EU following the establishment of the European Security and Defence Policy in 1999. The only remaining active component is the WEU Parliamentary Assembly which provides collective inter-parliamentary oversight of European defence issues.

World War II: Genocide

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps he (a) has taken and (b) plans to take at the United Nations on the statements made by the President of Iran on denial of the Holocaust; and if he will make a statement. [190870]

Dr. Howells: The Government have consistently condemned President Ahmadinejad's statements questioning the Holocaust, and has made clear that these statements are wholly unacceptable, abhorrent, and have no place in civilised political debate. In December 2006, under the guise of an academic exercise, the Iranian Government hosted a conference to which they invited a number of well-known Holocaust deniers. The aim of the conference was to cast doubt on whether the Holocaust took place in an attempt to undermine Israel's existence. Former Prime Minister, the right hon. Tony Blair, publicly condemned the conference in the strongest terms and I summoned the Iranian Ambassador to express the Government's anger at the event. In January 2007 the UN General Assembly adopted a resolution condemning without reservation any denial of the Holocaust. The UK strongly supported this resolution. Iran was the only country that chose to disassociate itself from the consensus shared by all other UN members on this issue.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Apprentices

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what recent steps the Government has taken to encourage businesses to offer apprenticeship places. [190935]

Mr. Lammy: The Government report "Apprenticeships: Unlocking Talent, Building Skills for All" available at http://www.dius.gov.uk/publications/world_class_apprenticeships.pdf

sets out a range of measures to encourage many more employers to expand their apprenticeship numbers and to join the programme. These include new financial incentives; a national matching service; and new flexibilities so that employers can bring their own qualifications into apprenticeship frameworks.

Over the past decade, we have more than doubled the number of young people and adults starting apprenticeships in England. Over the period to 2020 we project that apprenticeship starts will increase to over 250,000 per year.

Central Government: Copyright

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many copyrights held by the Government have been surrendered for the benefit of humanity in the last 10 years; and what his policy is on surrendering Government-held copyrights in the field of genetics for the public good. [180438]

Ian Pearson: The Government keep no central records of Crown copyright works it generates. Government policy on the use of Crown copyright is the responsibility of the Office of Public Sector Information (OPSI), whose general policy is to permit most Crown copyright to be re-used under a click-use licence at nil cost, in order to encourage re-use.

Educational Institutions: Copyright

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what estimate he has made of (a) the number of copyrights held by teaching establishments within his responsibilities and (b) the revenues which accrue annually from such copyrights. [180418]

Ian Pearson: Copyright is an unregistered right which arises automatically. As a signatory to the Berne Convention, the UK is precluded from keeping mandatory registers of copyright works. Consequently no central records are kept. UK teaching establishments are responsible for managing any copyright protected works they generate and for tracking any revenue generated by commercial exploitation. Collecting information centrally on revenues generated in this way would entail disproportionate cost.

Research: Finance

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills, what factors he takes into account in planning future allocations of research funding. [167529]

Ian Pearson: The Treasury has not yet announced a future spending round. If any such announcement is made, I will then consider the priorities for the allocations of research funding.

Teachers: Qualifications

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many teachers of (a) mathematics and (b) physics in schools currently hold a degree in the subject in which they teach. [189232]

Jim Knight: Information is available for England from the Secondary Schools Curriculum survey (SSCSS) which is an occasional sample survey last conducted in 2002 and 2007. 2007 figures will be published in spring 2008.

The following table provides the number of full-time teachers employed in maintained secondary schools by the highest post A level qualification held in the subjects they teach in 2002 from SSCSS.

[1] Where a teacher has more than one post A level qualification in the same subject, the qualification level is determined by the highest level reading from left (Degree) to right (Other Qual.). For example, teachers shown under PGCE have a PGCE but not a degree or BEd in the subject, while those with a PGCE and a degree are shown only under Degree.

[2] Teachers are counted once against each subject which they are teaching.

[3] Includes higher degrees but excludes BEds.

[4] Teachers qualified in combined/general science are treated as qualified to teach biology, chemistry, or physics. Teachers qualified in biology, chemistry or physics are treated as qualified to teach combined/general science.

[5] Teachers qualified in other/combined technology are treated as qualified to teach design and technology or information and communication technology. Teachers qualified in design and technology or information and communication technology are treated as qualified to teach other/combined technology.

[6] Information and Communication Technology is abbreviated as ICT and Personal Social and Health Education is abbreviated as PSHE.

Teachers: Recruitment

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which five teaching disciplines faced the most shortages in recruitment in each of the last 10 academic years. [189459]

Jim Knight: I have been asked to reply.

The information is not available in the format requested.

The following table provides the full-time classroom teacher vacancy rates in local authority maintained secondary schools by subject in England 1997 to 2007.

Teachers: Training

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many mathematics and physics teachers graduated in each of the last 10 years. [189396]

Jim Knight: I have been asked to reply.

The information is not collected centrally.

Teaching Methods

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what guidance his Department provides to (a) teacher-training institutions and (b) schools on the use of Brain Gym with pupils. [190817]

Jim Knight: I have been asked to reply.

We do not prescribe the design of Initial Teacher Training programmes or give guidance on any specific training aids that may be used to deliver those programmes. Programme design is at the provider's discretion, as long as it complies with the requirements for Initial Teacher Training, set out in guidance from the Training and Development Agency for Schools.

We do not provide guidance or advice to schools on the use of Brain Gym.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Departmental Homeworking

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many people in his Department have been able to work from home in the last 12 months. [189779]

Gillian Merron: Central records of the number of home workers are not collated and are available only at a disproportionate cost. Arrangements are agreed between line managers and individuals.

Departmental Older Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many people over the age of 55 years have been recruited by his Department in each of the last three years. [191512]

Gillian Merron: The Department for International Development (DFID) has recruited a total of 12 staff over the age of 55 during the last three years. The number of such staff recruited, for each year since 2005, is shown in the following table.

| | Number of staff recruited over the age of 55 |
|---|---|
| 2005 | 5 |
| 2006 | 5 |
| 2007 | 2 |
| Total | 12 |

Developing Countries: Sanitation

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what support the Government have provided to developing countries for water and sanitation improvements since 1997. [191472]

Mr. Thomas: DFID statistics on water and sanitation disbursement cover the period from 2000 onward and were £165 million in 2000-01; £152 million in 2001-02; £146 million in 2002-03; £225 million in 2003-04; £240 million in 2004-05; and £242 million in 2005-06. A detailed breakdown of DFID support for the water sector over the last five years can be found in the two reports titled 'Financial Support to the Water Sector 2002 to 2004' and 'Financial Support to the Water Sector 2004 to 2006', prepared for DFID by WS Atkins Plc. Both have been placed in the House of Commons Library.

Fairtrade Initiative

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what steps the Government have taken to encourage the supply of fair trade products to the UK market. [191471]

Mr. Thomas: The UK Government are a strong supporter of the growing fair and ethical trade sector. The Department for International Development has provided almost £12 million to promote fair and ethical trade initiatives since 1997. We recently announced a new £1.2 million grant to the Fairtrade Labelling Organisation to scale up Fairtrade labelling, particularly in the poorest countries.

We are also keen to encourage the private sector to do more to proactively source goods from developing countries. To support this DFID has launched a £2 million Food Retail Industry Challenge Fund (FRICH). This will support innovative business models that will help bring millions of farmers into profitable fair trading relationships with UK shoppers.

Stabilisation Unit

Patrick Mercer: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many people have been deployed by the Stabilisation Unit in (a) Nepal, (b) Iraq, (c) Afghanistan, (d) Lebanon and (e) Sudan. [191437]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The Stabilisation Unit has, since its establishment, deployed a mix of its own staff, individual experts from its database and individuals from consultancy firms. The total number of personnel who have been deployed to each country as at 29 February 2008 are:

| Country | Number |
|---|---|
| (a) Nepal | 4 |
| (b) Iraq | 14 |
| (c) Afghanistan | 36 |
| (d) Lebanon | 5 |
| (e) Sudan | 16 |

Each person deployed to a country has been counted only once even if they were deployed to the same country on a number of occasions.

Stabilisation Unit: Finance

Patrick Mercer: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much of the £269 million stabilisation aid fund will be allocated for use by the Stabilisation Unit. [191438]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The Stabilisation Unit is performing a number of roles in respect of the stabilisation aid fund (SAF):

Helping to design the criteria and allocation mechanisms for the SAF;

Advising on priorities for SAF funding in Afghanistan and Iraq;

Helping to design some specific SAF programmes, and;

Providing civilian experts to deliver some SAF programmes.

The exact allocation of responsibility for managing SAF funds has yet to be determined and will depend on the final design of the programmes. Stabilisation Unit core funding will not be a charge to the SAF.

Television

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many plasma television screens have been purchased by his Department, and at what cost, in the last 24 months. [191078]

Mr. Malik: DFID has purchased 78 plasma screens in the past 24 months, at a cost of £117,018. All are in use in DFID's worldwide video-conferencing network, and none have television tuners.

TREASURY

Defence: Expenditure

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the comprehensive spending review 2007, if he will place in the Library a copy of the methodology and calculations that provide the basis for his statement that defence expenditure will rise by 1.5 per cent. in real terms between 2008-09 and 2010-11. [191686]

Yvette Cooper: Details of the Ministry of Defence settlement are given Table D14 in Annex D8 of the 2007 pre-budget report and comprehensive spending review document, which can be found at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/media/C/B/pbr_csr07_annexd8_143.pdf

The relevant deflators can be found at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/media/6/8/GDP_Deflators_20071220_NA_update_circ.xls

Delivery Unit

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many staff work in the Prime Minister's Delivery Unit; and what the budget for the unit was for 2007-08. [191088]

Yvette Cooper: The Prime Minister's Delivery Unit has an agreed headcount for 2007-08 of 33, and a budget of £3.639 million.

Departmental ICT

Sarah Teather: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many (a) mobile telephones, (b) personal digital assistants and (c) laptop computers issued to departmental staff were reported (i) lost, (ii) missing and (iii) stolen in each year since 2001. [184344]

Angela Eagle: The records do not distinguish between lost and missing items. The remainder of the information is presented in the following table:

| | Item | Lost and missing | Stolen |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2001 | Mobile Telephones | - | - |
| | PDAs | - | 1 |
| | Laptop Computers | - | 2 |

Departmental Internet

Mr. Swire: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if his Department will (a) follow the Internet Content Rating Association (ICRA) guidelines and (b) display ICRA's label on the websites for which it is responsible. [191776]

Angela Eagle: The departmental website is compliant with Internet Content Rating Association (ICRA) guidelines and displays ICRA's label on the home page.

Departmental Older Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people over the age of 55 have been recruited by his Department in each of the last three years. [191521]

Angela Eagle: In the last three calendar years HM Treasury recruited the following number of people over the age of 55:

| | Number of employees |
|---|---|
| 2007 | 10 |
| 2006 | 7 |
| 2005 | 3 |

Departmental Property

Mr. Weir: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what property has been lost or stolen from his Department since 1997; and what the cost of replacement was. [187464]

Angela Eagle: Records show the following items have been lost or stolen from the Department since 1997:

| | Item | Number | Estimated replacement cost (£) |
|---|---|---|---|

Departmental Recruitment

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether the policy of British jobs for British workers will affect his Department's recruitment policy. [179875]

Angela Eagle: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer given on 3 March 2008, Official Report, column 2207W, by the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for the Cabinet Office (Mr. Watson).

Economic Growth

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the rate of (a) economic growth and (b) inward investment was in each of the English regions in each year for which figures are available. [191355]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 March 2008:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent question about the rate of economic growth and inward investment for each of the English regions in each year for which figures are available. (191355)

ONS currently publish regional Gross Value Added (GVA). These data are published in Nomenclature of Units for Territorial Statistics (NUTS) regions and data for the Government Office regions of England (NUTS1 data) run from 1989 to 2006 on a consistent basis. These data are at current prices, therefore the effects of inflation are not taken into account.

ONS do not publish regional inward investment data.

The year on year percentage growth rate of the level of GVA for the time period 1990-2006 are presented in tables A and B.

Foreign Workers: Bexley

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his most recent estimate is of the number of migrant workers there were in (a) Bexleyheath and Crayford and (b) the London Borough of Bexley in each of the last three years. [191002]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 March 2008:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question on what the most recent estimate is of the number of migrant workers in (a) Bexleyheath and Crayford, (b) the London Borough of Bexley in each of the last three years. (191002)

The Office for National Statistics compiles statistics on migrant workers for local areas from the Annual Population Survey (APS). The National Statistics method for estimating the number of migrant workers employed in the UK is routinely based on the number of people at a given time who were born abroad, are of working age (16-64 for men, 16-59 for women), and in employment. This question has been answered on this basis. It means, for example, that some people who are UK nationals will be included in the total of "foreign born" and that people who are working but are above state pension age are not included.

APS estimates at this detailed level are only available consistent with population estimates published in February and March 2003 and are not comparable with the estimates published in the Labour Market Statistics First Release on 13 February 2008, which are based on latest population estimates.

The table attached, shows the numbers of working age in employment who were not born in the UK and were resident in Bexleyheath and Crayford Parliamentary constituency and the London Borough of Bexley, for the twelve month periods ending in June for 2005, 2006, and 2007 from the APS. The July to June 2007 APS dataset is the most recent which is currently available.

When interpreting these figures, it is important to bear in mind that the APS is not designed to cover everyone who is present in the UK. The survey may undercount the numbers of people who were born overseas. The reasons are set out in the table footnote.

As these estimates are for a subset of the population in small geographical areas they are based on small sample sizes, and are therefore subject to large margins of uncertainty.

Number of non-UK born persons in employment in Bexleyheath and Crayford and the London borough of Bexley in the last three year

| | Migrant workers (thousand)[1] | |
|---|---|---|
| 12 months ending: | Bexleyheath and Crayford | London borough of Bexley |
| June 2005 | 4 | 13 |
| June 2006 | 5 | 13 |
| June 2007 | 5 | 13 |

[1] Includes males aged 16 to 64 and females aged 16 to 59. Does not include respondents who did not answer the question on country of birth. Estimates are subject to sampling variability.

Note:

It should also be noted that the country of birth question in the APS gives an undercount because:

it excludes certain people who have been resident in the UK for less than six months.

it excludes students in halls who do not have a UK resident parent.

it excludes people in most other types of communal establishments (e.g. hotels, boarding houses, hostels, mobile home sites, etc.).

it is grossed to population estimates which exclude migrants staying for less than 12 months.

microdata are grossed to population estimates consistent with those published in spring 2003 which are significantly lower than the latest population estimates.

Households

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many couple households (a) with and (b) without dependent children there were in each year since 1992; how many and what proportion of these in each category were couples of working age where (i) one and (ii) both were (A) in and (B) out of work. [191324]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 March 2008:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question on how many couple households (a) with and (b) without dependent children there were in each year since 1992; how many and what proportion of these were couples of working age where (i) one and (ii) both were (A) in and (B) out of work in each category. (191324)

This question has been answered on a family basis rather than household basis because more than one couple can live in a household. In addition figures provided are for working age couples in the United Kingdom, that is where both partners are of working-age (men aged 16-64 and women aged 16-59).

'Out of work' has been interpreted to include those unemployed or economically inactive.

Dependent children are defined as children under 16 years of age and those aged 16-18 who have never-married and are in full time education.

The information is given in the table attached. The figures in the table are estimates from the Labour Force Survey (LFS) for the three month period ending in June of each year for 1997, 1999 and 2001 to 2007. Comparable estimates for 1992-1996, 1998 and 2000 are not currently available.

The LFS is a sample survey covering over 52,000 households in the United Kingdom in each three month period. As with any sample survey, estimates from the Labour Force Survey are subject to a margin of uncertainty.

Mortgages

Robert Neill: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the proportion of first time buyers who took out mortgages with a loan to value ratio of 90 per cent. or more in the most recent period for which figures are available. [191676]

Angela Eagle: The Government does not hold these figures. The Council of Mortgage Lenders publishes a range of statistics on UK housing and mortgage markets, including the number of mortgages taken out by first time buyers and the median loan to value ratio of these loans, available at:

http://www.cml.org.uk/cml/statistics

National Income

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his estimate of the gross domestic product deflator at market prices, where 2006-07 equals 100, is for financial years 2007-08 to 2010-11. [191684]

Angela Eagle: Projections for changes in the GDP deflator by financial year were published, as usual, in the 2007 pre-Budget report and comprehensive spending review (Cm 7227) Table B3: Economic assumptions for the public finance projections. This includes an estimate for 2007-08 and projections for 2008-09 through 2010-11. Updated projections will be published in the "Financial Statement and Budget Report" on 12 March 2008, in the normal way.

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will place in the Library a copy of the seasonally adjusted Gross Domestic Product (Expenditure) deflator (YBGB), rebased to 2000, for each quarter of financial years 1990-2000 to 2007-08. [191687]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 March 2008:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question requesting a copy of the seasonally adjusted Gross Domestic Product (Expenditure) deflator (YBGB), rebased to 2000, for each quarter of financial years 1990-2000 to 2007-08. (191687)

The attached table displays this information, with the deflator re-referenced to the 2000-01 financial year. A figure for the last quarter of the latest financial year is not yet available.

Northern Rock

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the annual value of new mortgages that Northern Rock will need to originate in order to prevent a non-asset covenant breach occurring of the Granite securitisation vehicles. [188944]

Angela Eagle [holding answer 25 February 2008]: The sale of mortgages from Northern Rock into Granite is a commercial decision for Northern Rock.

The estimated value of mortgages that Northern Rock would need to sell into Granite in order to avoid a non-asset trigger is a commercially sensitive matter.

Public Expenditure

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to lay the main estimates for 2008-09 before the House. [191680]

Yvette Cooper: No decision has yet been taken on the date of publication and laying in the House of the main supply estimates for 2008-09. As agreed with Parliament, this will normally take place within five weeks of the Budget, subject to the House sitting.

Taxation: Bingo

Bob Russell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what representations he has received on the level of value added tax payable by bingo clubs; and if he will make a statement. [191566]

Angela Eagle: Treasury Ministers and officials receive representations from a wide range of organisations and individuals in the public and private sectors as part of the process of policy development and delivery. As was the case with previous Administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such representations.

Bob Russell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much (a) value added tax and (b) other tax was paid by bingo clubs in the latest 12 month period for which figures are available; what estimate he has made of loss of tax revenue from the closure of clubs in (i) the current financial year and (ii) the next financial year; and if he will make a statement. [191567]

Angela Eagle: HM Revenue and Customs does not collect data on the amount of VAT paid on individual goods and services.

Revenues from gambling taxes are published in the HM Revenue and Customs Betting, Gaming and Lottery Duties Bulletin, available at http://www.uktradeinfo.com/index.cfm?task=bullbett. Bingo clubs are also subject to the usual taxes imposed on business.

The state of the bingo industry is incorporated into the forecast of total betting and gaming duties, which includes bingo duty receipts, and will be published in the Financial Statement and Budget Report.

Taxation: Gambling

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much remote gaming duty (a) was collected in each year since the duty was imposed and (b) he estimates will be collected in (i) 2008-09, (ii) 2009-10 and (iii) 2010-11. [191793]

Angela Eagle: Remote gaming duty was introduced in September 2007 and duty returns are completed quarterly. Receipts will be included in the Betting and Gaming Bulletin which can be accessed at: http//www.uktradeinfo.com. An updated forecast of total betting and gaming duties, which includes remote gaming, will be published in the Financial Statement and Budget Report.

Trade Competitiveness: City of London

Philip Davies: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the likely impact of the EU Capital Requirements Directive on the competitiveness of the City of London. [191584]

Angela Eagle: HM Treasury produced a regulatory impact analysis for the areas of the Capital Requirements Directive (CRD) that the Treasury were responsible for transposing into UK law. This analysis considered the implications of the various transposition options for the competitiveness of the City of London, amongst other factors. Further information can be found on the Treasury's website at:

www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/consultations_and_legislation/capital_requirements_directive/consult_capitalrequirements_index.cfm

The Financial Services Authority was responsible for analysing the implications of the areas of the CRD which it was responsible for transposing. Further information can be found on the FSA's website at:

www.fsa.gov.uk/pages/Library/Policy/CP/2006/06_03.shtml

UK Women's Budget Group

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how often he has met the UK Women's Budget Group; and when he next expects to meet them. [190921]

Angela Eagle: Treasury Ministers and officials have meetings with a wide variety of organisations in the public and private sectors as part of the process of policy development and delivery. As was the case with previous administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such meetings.

VAT: Registration

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the reasons are for the time taken for Office Green Group (UK) Ltd, based in Brentwood and Ongar constituency, to receive VAT registration. [191607]

Jane Kennedy: HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) has a statutory duty of confidentiality which restricts the use and disclosure of the information it holds relating to the tax affairs of individuals, companies and other bodies.

However, HMRC acknowledges that there have been difficulties with registering new businesses for VAT. An action plan for tackling delays was implemented in June 2007 and HMRC has put additional staff in post, invested in IT improvements, and continues to refine the risk criteria so they stay targeted on the right risks. These measures have significantly improved VAT Registration performance.

During December 2007 and January 2008 HMRC delivered their target performance level with over 70 per cent. of applications being processed within 14-days.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Attendance Allowance: Bexley

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people in Bexleyheath and Crayford were in receipt of the (a) higher rate and (b) lower rate of attendance allowance in the latest period for which figures are available. [189386]

Mrs. McGuire: At May 2007, 860 people were in receipt of the higher rate of attendance allowance and 960 people were in receipt of the lower rate in the parliamentary constituency of Bexleyheath and Crayford.

Children: Maintenance

Mr. Rooney: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what discussions his Department has had with EDS on the costs of extending use of the child support computer system beyond 1 April 2008; and who will meet those costs. [191783]

Mr. Plaskitt: The use of the child support computer system is covered by an existing contract with EDS. This contract runs, initially, until 2010 and under the terms of the contract EDS retain obligations to provide the relevant services at agreed contracted prices until expiry. The Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission will assume responsibility for child support computer systems during 2008, however the Department for Work and Pensions will remain responsible for agreeing the Commission's funding.

Departmental ICT

Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the (a) start date, (b) original planned completion date, (c) current expected completion date, (d) planned cost and (e) current estimated cost is for each information technology project being undertaken by his Department and its agencies; and if he will make a statement. [180577]

Mrs. McGuire: Although the department does not have any discrete IT projects, it has a number of projects and programmes that include changes to IT to a greater or lesser extent. We have included in the following table:

those current projects and programmes undertaken by the Department where the IT element of the project or programme results in the development and/or implementation of services that underpin the delivery of departmental business, and where non-delivery of the IT element would significantly damage the project's or programme's ability to deliver its intended results.

For all programmes or projects with the exception of Child Support Agency (CSA) Operational Improvement Plan the costs and dates reported relate to the total project or programme and not only the IT element. In the case of CSA OIP which is an operational improvement programme only the IT element costs and delivery timelines are recorded in the table.

The table shows information on the programme/project purpose, start date, original planned completion date, expected completion date, originally planned costs and estimated costs.

It should be noted that the scope of projects can change as they pass through the project lifecycle and as plans and costs become more robust. At each stage of this process they are checked to ensure that they continue to fit with Departmental strategy and continue to deliver value for money.

Notes:

1. Original planned completion date and originally planned completion costs are the date and costs agreed to by the relevant Departmental management committee at the time the project or programme passed through Gate zero (or an equivalent process) of the Department's governance procedures. We expect these to be refined as costs and timelines become clearer through the lifetime of the project. We regularly review costs and benefits at the appropriate governance points to ensure that they continue to deliver value for money.
2. The costs above represent the costs of implementing the particular project and programme. Costs of running the solutions implemented by the projects and programmes are not included above as in the vast majority of cases they are more than compensated for by the financial benefits they generate. These savings are demonstrated in the recent NAO report "The Efficiency programme: A Second Review of Progress".
3. Initiatives that are associated with ongoing system improvements or enhancements as part of business as usual have not been included
4. When first conceived the Pensions Transformation Programme was to be funded by way of a Private Finance Initiative (PFI) arrangement. During the early stages of development, best practice for financing the programme indicated that PFI was no longer the appropriate financing method and thus it was decided to use departmental funds. Financing the development using departmental funds has the effect of increasing the development costs of the programme while reducing the operating cost of the programme by a similar amount. Thus the actual amount of money committed to the programme is broadly the same.
5. The Child Support Agency Operational Improvement Plan is a business recovery programme and is not a business change project in the normal sense. The focus of the programme is the organisational and operational restructuring of the Agency to deliver significant performance improvements, getting more money to parents. It specifically aims to tackle the key area of debt, compliance and enforcement. Over a three year period the programme will design, develop and implement, process and organisational change underpinned by continuing remediation of existing computer systems and the introduction of further IT enhancements in preparation for the new Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission organisation.
6. At this stage, with the Child Maintenance and Enforcement Commission yet to be established, these costs are best viewed as planning assumptions. They will depend ultimately on how C-MEC will configure its services; the details and timing of the transitional arrangements to the new scheme; and the choices that parents will make. All of these factors are subject to significant uncertainties. It should also be noted that estimated IT costs account for less than 20 per cent. of the overall costs.

Departmental Telephone Services

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions which agencies under his Department's responsibilities use the (a) 0845 and (b) 0870 telephone codes for customer enquiries; how many 0845 and 0870 telephone codes each agency uses; and how much revenue was generated for each of these codes by each agency in each of the last five years. [183887]

Mrs. McGuire: None of my Department's agencies use 0870 numbers for customer inquiries. Information on the use of 0845 numbers is in the table:

| Agency | 0845 numbers in use |
|---|---|
| Child Support Agency | 11,500 |
| Jobcentre Plus | 198 |
| The Pension Service | 26 |
| Disability and Carers Service | 6 |

In addition, although not formally an agency, the Department's debt management service uses nineteen 0845 numbers.

The high number of lines in the CSA reflects a one-time business model which gave each agent a direct dial number that clients could use to contact a specific person. The facility still exists but its use is minimal since the agency adopted an advanced telephony model with an area based single number for clients, which routes calls to the person best equipped to answer the query.

The Department received a rebate of £1,463,738.45 for the period covering 1 October 2005 to 30 November 2007 and this was used to pay for other telecommunication services. No information is available for any earlier period and no breakdown of this figure is available. The Department ceased this arrangement on 14 December 2007 and no longer receives any rebate. This change in arrangement does not affect the charge a customer pays for contacting the Department.

Departmental Translation Services

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what proportion of his Department's translation and interpreting work is outsourced through framework agreements with commercial providers; and if he will make a statement. [189160]

Mrs. McGuire: Under the Race Relations Amendment Act (2000) and the Disability Discrimination Act (1995), the Department has a responsibility to make appropriate provision to communicate with customers who do not speak English or Welsh, or who are deaf or hard-of-hearing, or who provide the Department, at our request, with legal or official documents written in a foreign language.

The Department for Work and Pensions provides a national range of translation and interpreting services across all of its agencies that include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Use of multi-lingual staff, who are willing and able to interpret or to undertake an interview in a foreign language
- Face-to-face individual interpreters and signers for local office customers
- English to Welsh translation for documentation which is partly done by the small in-house Welsh Language Unit and the remainder by external providers
- Ethnic Translation Services of a large number of written documents in a wide range of languages
- Written English and Welsh to Braille translation and Braille to English and Welsh translation
- Formatting of printed documents into easy-read format
- Telephone interpreting service (multi-lingual)

In order to deliver these services on a national basis the Department for Work and Pensions has established a number of framework agreements via full open tender processes with a number of external providers.

All of the above services are outsourced except for a small number of multi-lingual staff who offer their services on an as required basis within their local office.

Disability Living Allowance: Elderly

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions for what reasons disability living allowance is not available for the first time to people over the age of 65. [189875]

Mrs. McGuire: The aim of disability living allowance is to focus additional help with the extra costs of disability on people who are severely disabled early, or relatively early, in life.

Attendance allowance provides help with the disability-related extra costs of people who experience the onset of disability after age 65.

Housing Benefit: Administration

Jim Cousins: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether he proposes to introduce a linking rule for customers on housing benefit with short breaks in claims before transferring them to local housing allowance. [189538]

Mr. Plaskitt: We will not be introducing linking rules in the local housing allowance (LHA) regulations.

Any linking rules would introduce complexity into the LHA scheme, undermining one of our key objectives, which is to reduce complexity within benefits.

Incapacity Benefit

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the proportion of incapacity benefit claimants who have had a full, independent medical assessment. [181646]

Mrs. McGuire: All new claimants of incapacity benefits have always been subject to medical assessment in order to establish their eligibility to the benefit.

Since 3 April 2000, the Personal Capability Assessment has generally been applied from the outset of a claim although there are some exceptions.

It is not possible to calculate the proportion of incapacity benefit claimants who have had a full medical assessment.

Incapacity Benefits: Industrial Diseases

Mr. Clapham: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many disablement benefit awards have been paid to those with (a) asbestoses, (b) mesothelioma and (c) other asbestos-related diseases, broken down by (i) region and (ii) sex; how much has been paid in such compensation in each year; and what the total annual value of the payments made has been. [178608]

Mr. Timms [holding answer 31 January 2008]: The available information has been placed in the Library.

Industrial Accidents

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the rate of accidents among (a) temporary, (b) short-term, (c) low-qualified and (d) permanent workers were in each year since 1997. [188388]

Mrs. McGuire: Figures from the labour force survey (LFS) for the three-year period 2003-04 to 2005-06 indicate that the average rate of reportable accidents for all workers (which includes temporary, short-term and permanent workers) is 1,090 per 100,000 workers. The figure for workers in occupations requiring few or no qualifications is 2,070 per 100,000 workers. The structure of questions in the LFS does not allow reliable comparison of separate accident rates for temporary, short-term and permanent workers. The aforementioned rates quoted are not available for each year requested without incurring disproportionate cost.

Industrial Health and Safety

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what recent representations he has received on funding for worker safety advisers. [188362]

Mrs. McGuire: Recent representations on funding for worker safety advisers in the construction industry have been received from the Strategic Forum for Construction's Health and Safety Group.

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps he has taken to reduce the health and safety risks of (a) migrant, (b) temporary agency, (c) women, (d) young and (e) older workers. [188387]

Mrs. McGuire: The Health and Safety Executive (HSE) works to ensure dutyholders properly control risks to all workers regardless of employment or migration status, age or gender. Its recent focus on migrant and temporary workers has included targeted inspection, investigation and enforcement; preparation of advice and guidance; collaborative work with Government Departments and other stakeholders; and research. On women, young and older workers, HSE's work has included provision of web-based advice and guidance on reducing risks to young workers and to new and expectant mothers; collaboration with other agencies in health and safety awareness raising events; and sponsorship of research on the implications of an ageing work force.

Industrial Health and Safety: Black Economy

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what recent assessment he has made of health and safety standards in the informal economy. [188363]

Mrs. McGuire: The Health and Safety Executive (HSE) enforces the requirements of health and safety legislation wherever it finds failings, regardless of the status of the workers affected. However, formal assessment of health and safety standards overall in the informal economy is by definition extremely difficult. HSE works in partnership with other Government Departments to identify and tackle failings in compliance wherever they occur. A recent example is our involvement in a programme of work to detect illegal employment of migrants in the West Midlands, and the use of information and intelligence arising from this to target inspection at workplaces, some of which were previously unknown to HSE.

Industrial Health and Safety: Stress

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assessment his Department has made of the health and safety implications of stress at work; and if he will make a statement. [188386]

Mrs. McGuire: Work-related stress is a major cause of occupational ill health, poor productivity and human error. That means increased sickness absence, high staff turnover and poor performance and a possible increase in accidents due to human error. My Department and the Health and Safety Executive recognise the impact that work-related stress can have on the British work force. HSE has therefore developed Management Standards for Work-related Stress, designed to address the key causes of stress at work and help employers, employees and their representatives manage the issue sensibly and minimise the impact of work-related stress on their businesses.

Industrial Health and Safety: Temporary Employment

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps he has taken to ensure all temporary and agency workers are incorporated into the legal framework of health and safety. [188364]

Mrs. McGuire: Temporary and agency workers have been protected by the Health and Safety at Work etc. Act 1974 since it came into force, and by relevant statutory provisions made under the Act since then, including in particular sections of the Management of Health and Safety at Work Regulations 1999 applying specifically to workers in these categories. The Health and Safety Executive enforces the legislation in respect of this group in the same way as to any other group, as set out in its enforcement policy statement.

Kelda: Employment

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assessment he has made of the likely employment effects of the takeover of Kelda by a private equity group. [189611]

Mr. McFadden: I have been asked to reply.

The acquisition of Kelda Group by Saltaire Water is a commercial matter for the enterprises concerned and their shareholders.

Low Incomes: Children

Mark Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what his Department's estimate is of the number of children in (a) the UK, (b) Wales, (c) Scotland and (d) England living in families with incomes at or below 60 per cent. of median incomes; and what estimate he has made of the numbers living in such families in each of the last 10 years; and if he will make a statement. [189727]

Mr. Timms [holding answer 28 February 2008]: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Cardiff, Central (Jenny Willott) on 29 October 2007, Official Report, column 745W.

National Insurance Contributions: Females

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the number of women reaching the age of 68 in 2010 who will have (a) one, (b) two, (c) three, (d) four, (e) five, (f) six, (g) seven, (h) eight and (i) nine years too few of national insurance contributions to claim a full basic state pension. [178293]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Information in the format requested is not available. Estimates of women reaching 61 in 2003-04 (and due to reach age 68 in 2010-11) is provided in the following table. Figures refer to own contribution records only. Some of these women may be receiving higher amounts of basic state pension based on their husbands' or former husbands' contribution records.

| | Number of additional qualifying years needed to reach full basic state pension based on their own contribution record | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 |
| Number of women reaching 61 in 2003-04 | 5,000 | 6,000 | 6,000 | 7,000 | 7,000 | 9,000 | 9,000 | 11,000 | 12,000 |

Notes:
1. Figures are taken from a 1 per cent. sample of the Lifetime Labour Market Database and so are subject to variation. Figures are rounded to the nearest thousand.
2. The figures in the table relate to cases where the women were deemed to be resident in the UK in 2003-04.
3. Dates refer to financial years i.e. 2003-04 covers the period from 6 April 2003 to 5 April 2004.

Pathways to Work: Dorset

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when the successful contractor for the Pathways scheme in Dorset will be announced; and when the contract will commence. [190613]

Mr. Timms [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The Pathways to Work service became available in Dorset in December 2006, and was introduced as part of the phase which completed the planned roll-out of Jobcentre Plus-led Pathways to Work in 18 districts across England, Scotland and Wales. Dorset does not receive the Pathways service through the provider-led model, therefore, there will be no overall delivery contract. As in all Jobcentre Plus-led Pathways districts, however, the service is delivered in partnership with local partner organisations.

Details about the availability of Jobcentre Plus-led Pathways services were made available through the use of marketing posters, leaflets and customer letters. Details of the offices delivering the service were posted on the Department's website in December 2006.

Pensions: Females

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what his estimate is of the number of women with (a) 30, (b) 31, (c) 32, (d) 33, (e) 34, (f) 35, (g) 36, (h) 37, (i) 38 and (j) 39 contributory years towards the basic state pension; and how many in each case will be aged (i) 50, (ii) 51, (iii) 52, (iv) 53, (v) 54, (vi) 55, (vii) 56, (viii) 57, (ix) 58, (x) 59, (xi) 60, (xii) 61, (xiii) 62, (xiv) 63 and (xv) 64 and over on 6 April 2010. [177943]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Currently around 35 per cent. of women reaching state pension age are entitled to a full basic state pension. Due to the 2007 Pensions Act, it is estimated that in 2010, this proportion will rise to around 75 per cent. The modelling used to produce these estimates is based on examining how the overall average entitlement to basic state pension changes and does not provide detailed projections of each individual's entitlement. Therefore the information requested is not available.

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the number of women reaching the age of 60 years in 2010 who will have (a) one, (b) two, (c) three, (d) four, (e) five, (f) six, (g) seven, (h) eight and (i) nine years too few national insurance contributions to be eligible for a full basic state pension. [179401]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Currently around 35 per cent. of women reaching state pension age are entitled to a full basic state pension. Due to the 2007 Pensions Act, it is estimated that in 2010, this proportion will rise to around 75 per cent. The modelling used to produce these estimates is based on examining how the overall average entitlement to basic state pension changes and does not provide detailed projections of each individual's entitlement. Therefore the information requested is not available.

Pensions: Luton

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what assessment he has made of trends in pensioner poverty in Luton since 1997; [188243]

(2) how many pensioners in Luton are living in poverty. [188244]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Specific information regarding low income for the United Kingdom is available in "Households Below Average Income 1994-95—2005-06".

The data source does not allow us to provide robust numbers for estimates below the level of Government office region. Information on the number and percentage of pensioners in the East of England living in households with less than 60 per cent. of contemporary median income after housing costs is set out in the following table.

Pensioners living in households with less than 60 per cent. of contemporary median household income after housing costs in East of England: 1995-96 to 2005-06

| Three-year averages | Number of pensioners (million) | Percentage of pensioners |
|---|---|---|
| 1995-96—1997-98 | 0.26 | 28 |
| 1996-97—1998-99 | 0.27 | 29 |
| 1997-98—1999-2000 | 0.27 | 28 |
| 1998-99—2000-01 | 0.27 | 28 |
| 1999-2000—2001-02 | 0.25 | 26 |
| 2000-01—2002-03 | 0.25 | 25 |
| 2001-02—2003-04 | 0.24 | 24 |
| 2002-03—2004-05 | 0.22 | 21 |
| 2003-04—2005-06 | 0.18 | 18 |

Notes:
1. Three survey year averages are given for each of the regions as robust single year estimates cannot be produced because of the sample sizes for individual regions.
2. The income measures used to derive the estimates shown employ the same methodology as the Department for Work and Pensions publication 'Households Below Average Income' (HBAI) series, which uses disposable household income, adjusted (or "equivalised") for household size and composition, as an income measure as a proxy for standard of living. Income is assessed after deducting housing costs.
3. The figures are based on OECD equivalisation factors.
4. Figures are based on survey data and as such are subject to a degree of sampling and non-sampling error.
5. As part of PSA17 Delivery Agreement, three indicators of low income poverty will be monitored: the percentage of pensioners below 60 per cent. contemporary median income, 50 per cent. median income and 60 per cent. of 1998-99 median income uprated in line with prices, all measured after housing costs.

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many applications for pension credit have been (a) successful and (b) refused in Luton since its introduction. [188240]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: In Luton, South there have been 5,910 successful claims to pension credit since its introduction through to May 2007. Information on the number of claims that have been refused is not available.

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many pensioners have received pension credit in Luton South constituency since its introduction; [188241]

(2) what the average value of pension credit paid in Luton South constituency has been since introduction. [188242]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The information is in the following table.

Household recipients and average weekly amounts of pension credit for Luton' South parliamentary constituency

| | Household recipients | Average weekly amounts of pension credit (£) |
|---|---|---|
| November 2003 | 3,390 | 56.32 |
| May 2004 | 4,030 | 52.91 |
| May 2005 | 4,260 | 54.12 |
| May 2006 | 4,330 | 56.29 |
| May 2007 | 4,330 | 59.73 |

Notes:
1. The number of households in receipt are rounded to the nearest 10.
2. Average amounts are rounded to the nearest penny.
3. Pension credit was introduced in October 2003 so data for 2003 are as at November.
4. Household recipients are those people who claim pension credit either for themselves only or on behalf of a household.

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Such information as is readily available is in the following table:

Notes:
1. 1999-2001 numbers are based on a five per cent sample and are therefore subject to a degree of sampling variation.
2. The change in average has not been calculated between 2001 and 2002 as sample data are not available at May.
3. Parliamentary constituency breakdowns are not readily available before September 1999.
4. Figures are rounded to the nearest penny.
5. State pension includes basic state pension, additional pension and graduated retirement benefit.

Pensions: Recipients

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners were receiving pensions in the United Kingdom in the latest period for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [189435]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: As at May 2007, there were 10,780,310 recipients of state pension in Great Britain.

Note:

Figures are rounded to the nearest 10.

State Retirement Pension

Paul Flynn: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the increases in the basic state pension payable in each year from 2009-10 to 2012-13 if surpluses in the National Insurance Fund were reallocated to state pensions. [190768]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 29 February 2008]: National insurance contributions (NICs) and associated social security benefits operate within the Government's fiscal rules designed to ensure sound public finances and when there is a surplus it is invested in public services. Any surplus of NICs over social security benefits in any one year (the NIF surplus) is not therefore an extra resource available to spend.

State Retirement Pensions: Overseas Residence

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what percentage of pensioners received their pensions while living abroad in the latest period for which figures are available; [189433]

(2) how many British pensioners were living outside the United Kingdom in the latest period for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [189434]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: As at May 2007, there were 1,066,120 people in receipt of UK state pension living outside the United Kingdom. This is around 9 per cent. of state pension recipients.

Note:

Figures are rounded to the nearest 10.

[1] Debt Centre Salford became Debt Centre Trafford from April 2007. Debt Management Trafford took responsibility for recovery of social fund loans from those no longer in receipt of benefit (Off Benefit SF).
[2] System failure impacted wait times.
[3] Deals exclusively with all of the Agency's old scheme (prior to March 2003) related calls.
[4] Figures are for average speed to answer a call. This measure is the same as average call waiting time as both represents the average amount of time callers had to wait before the call was answered.

Unemployment

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the Answer of 22 February 2008, Official Report, column 1124W, on unemployment, what the equivalent figures were for 1997. [190913]

Mr. Timms [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The available information is in the following table.

Number of working age workless households by type. Great Britain: Quarter 2 (April, May, June) 1997

| | Number (thousand) |
|---|---|
| Two parent household with dependent children | 371 |
| Lone/single parent household with dependent children | 756 |
| Other household with dependent children | 18 |
| Total number of workless households with dependent children | 1,145 |

Notes:
1. Figures are rounded to the nearest thousand. Totals may not sum due to rounding.
2. The figures show the number of working-age households with dependent children where no adult works.
3. A working-age household is a household that includes at least one person of working age (a woman aged between 16 and 59 or a man aged between 16 and 64).
4. Workless individuals are those who are either International Labour Organisation unemployed or economically inactive (that is, not in employment).
5. A dependent child is defined as a child aged under 16 or aged under 19 and in full-time education.

Winter Fuel Payments

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions for what reasons residents of care homes are considered ineligible for the winter fuel allowance. [183642]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Residents of care homes who are not in receipt of pension credit are entitled to a shared winter fuel payment of either £100 if they are aged 60-79 or £150 if they are aged 80 or over. This is because they share the accommodation with other people who are also entitled to the payment and are responsible for a share of the heating costs.

Residents of care homes who are in receipt of pension credit are not entitled to a winter fuel payment. This is because historically people living in a care home and in receipt of an income-related benefit have received public funding for their care and accommodation costs including heating. Originally this was through the income-related benefit itself but for many years now has been through funding from the local authority. This is still the case for the vast majority of residents of care homes receiving pension credit and therefore the winter fuel payment is not payable in these cases.

Winter Fuel Payments: Bexley

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people received a winter fuel payment in (a) Bexleyheath and Crayford and (b) the London Borough of Bexley in the most recent period for which figures are available. [189350]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: In winter 2006-07, 17,500 people in Bexleyheath and Crayford constituency and 44,800 people in the London borough of Bexley received a winter fuel payment. We expect the numbers to be similar for this winter.

Notes:
1. Figures rounded to the nearest 10.
2. Parliamentary constituencies and local authorities are assigned by matching postcodes against the relevant ONS postcode directory.
Source:
Information directorate 100 per cent. data.

Winter Fuel Payments: Inflation

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will link the winter fuel payment to the rate of inflation. [189021]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The winter fuel payment provides a significant contribution to an older person's winter fuel bill. The payment has increased significantly since its introduction, rising from £20 to £200 for households with someone aged 60 to 79 and £300 for households with someone aged 80 or over. We currently have no plans to link the payment to the rate of inflation although we keep these issues under consideration.

Winter Fuel Payments: Stockton-on-Tees

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners received the £200 winter fuel payment in Stockton South constituency in the most recent period for which figures are available. [189330]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: A £200 winter fuel payment is paid to a person aged 60 or over living at home (£100 if they share a home with someone else eligible for a winter fuel payment—this may be a spouse, partner, sibling or friend). £300 is payable to a person aged 80 or over (£150 if they share a home with another eligible person).

In winter 2006-07, a total of 17,790 people in the Stockton, South constituency received a winter fuel payment. We expect the number to be similar for this winter.

Notes:
1. Figures rounded to the nearest 10.
2. Parliamentary constituencies are assigned by matching postcodes against the relevant ONS postcode directory.

JUSTICE

Broadmoor Prison: Day Release

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will review the effectiveness of the operation of the day release system at Broadmoor Prison in light of the reconviction of Shaun Jarvis for crimes committed while on day release. [189062]

Mr. Hanson: The hon. Member is referring to Dartmoor prison.

The Release on Temporary Licence system (Maintain Family Ties—ROTL), at Dartmoor operates under Prison Service Order 6300. This provides release on temporary licence to certain prisoners. It gives guidance and describes the mandatory actions required to progress a prisoner's resettlement/rehabilitation needs, whilst at the same time minimising any risk to the public. The PSO is a national document which provides the only means by which a prisoner can be released while in custody.

A prisoner is only released on ROTL following a thorough risk assessment undertaken by a specially convened Board which examines the risks posed as was the case at Dartmoor.

The Governor and Area Manager are satisfied that the arrangements in place for day release are robust. As evidence of this there was only one Temporary Licence Failure out of over 4800 licences issued by HMP Dartmoor in 2007.

Community Legal Service: Contracts

Mr. Llwyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many firms of solicitors held community legal services contracts for the supply of criminal law advice and representation in the most recent financial year for which figures are available. [191337]

Maria Eagle: Contracts for the supply of criminal law advice and representation are held with the Criminal Defence Service (CDS). The CDS contracts with solicitors' offices rather than firms, and a firm may have more than one office. 2,223 took up new contracts to supply such services with effect from 14 January 2008, after the latest round of tendering.

Mr. Llwyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many firms of solicitors held community legal services contracts to supply criminal law advice and representation in 2005. [191338]

Maria Eagle: Contracts for the supply of criminal law advice and representation are held with the Criminal Defence Service (CDS). The CDS contracts with solicitors' offices rather than firms, and a firm may have more than one office. 2,643 held such contracts to supply criminal law advice and representation as at 31 March 2005.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many of his Department's civil servants have been (a) suspended and (b) dismissed for accessing (i) obscene and (ii) other prohibited material on work computers in each of the last five years. [188788]

Maria Eagle: The ex-DCA does not hold the information centrally in the format requested. This could be obtained at only disproportionate cost. A system has recently been put in place to record such information. It is in the process of being updated, but from October 2007 to date, there have been no dismissals for IT mis-use.

For NOMS and OCJR, there have no suspensions or dismissals on either ground in the period January 2005 to date. Prior to this the information was not held centrally in the format requested, and could be obtained at only disproportionate cost.

For the Prison Service, the information on suspensions is not held centrally and could be provided at only disproportionate cost.

According to centrally held records, 13 staff were dismissed for inappropriate use of Prison Service IT between 1 April 2002 and 31 March 2007. A breakdown of these dismissals, for each of the last five financial years, is provided in the following table:

| | Number of dismissals |
|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 2 |
| 2003-04 | 1 |
| 2004-05 | 1 |
| 2005-06 | 7 |
| 2006-07 | 3 |

Departmental Impact Assessments

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many regulatory impact assessments his Department has conducted in the last 12 months. [191265]

Maria Eagle: Information on the final regulatory impact assessments published between 1 January and 30 June 2007 can be found in Command Paper 7297 available at:

http://www.official-documents.gov.uk/document/cm72/7297/7297.pdf

For the period covered by the Command Paper, the department published seventeen impact assessments. The hon. Member will find these under the entry for the former Department for Constitutional Affairs. Departments are in the process of identifying the final impact assessments published between 1 July and 31 December 2007. From April 2008, all final impact assessment will be published on a central website.

I have included in my answer a table of the final impact assessments published in the Command Paper, and for completeness the partial impact assessments published by this Department since its creation on 9 May 2007. This does include both regulatory impact assessments and impact assessments developed initially by the Department for Constitutional Affairs but which the Ministry of Justice has carried forward.

Departmental Travel

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer of 6 February 2008, Official Report, column 1186W, on departmental travel, what his Department's expenditure on travel and subsistence was in financial year 2006-07. [191351]

Maria Eagle: The spend on travel and subsistence in 2006-07 was as follows:

| | £ |
|---|---|
| Former DCA - staff | 4,028,810 |
| Former DCA - judicial | 381,443 |
| HMCS - staff | 8,765,601 |
| HMCS - judicial | 3,449,142 |
| Tribunals - staff | 3,420,951 |
| Tribunals - judicial | 7,325,767 |
| OPG | 26,918 |
| OCJR | 682,500 |
| NOMS - staff | 3,221,798 |
| NOMS - programme | 2,444,486 |
| Custodial Property - staff | 177,925 |
| HMPS | 19,048,191 |
| Total | 52,973,532 |

The Department has published rules for official travel in its staff handbook, and all travel is undertaken in accordance with the guidelines set out in the "Civil Service Management Code".

All ministerial travel is undertaken in accordance with the rules set out in the "Ministerial Code" and "Travel by Ministers", copies of which are available in the Libraries of the House.

Electoral Systems

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice when he expects to publish the Government Review of Electoral Systems. [191590]

Mr. Wills: The Government published the Review of the experience of the new voting systems introduced in the United Kingdom since 1997 on 24 January this year. I refer the hon. Member to the written ministerial statement I made upon publication, Official Report, column 61WS.

Freedom of Information

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many freedom of information (FOI) requests the Open Government Unit received in each year since 2005; how many requests the unit took longer than (a) six months and (b) 12 months to respond to; and how many FOI requests the unit has failed to respond to. [190799]

Mr. Straw: Requests for information made to the National Offender Management Service under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 are processed centrally by the Open Government Unit (OGU). OGU received 508 requests in 2005, 1,130 in 2006, and 870 between January and September 2007. These are extracted from the latest certified Ministry of Justice returns which are published at quarterly intervals. The next figures covering the period up to the end of 2007 will be issued at the end of March / early April 2008. Of these 2,508 requests, 84 took longer than six months and nine longer than 12 months to respond to, the remaining requests were responded to in under six months.

Internet: Pornography

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many (a) prosecutions there were and (b) successful convictions were obtained for the publication or distribution of obscene matter or offensive material on the internet in each of the last three years. [191390]

Maria Eagle: The number of defendants proceeded against at magistrates courts and found guilty at all courts for offences relating to the publication or distribution of obscene or offensive material in England and Wales for the years 2004 to 2006 can be viewed in the table.

Court proceedings data are unable to separately identify those offences which relate specifically to the internet as the offences used are not internet specific.

Court proceedings data for 2007 will be available in the autumn of 2008.

The number of defendants proceeded against at magistrates courts[1] and found guilty at all courts for offences relating to the publications or distribution of obscene or offensive material in England and Wales for the years 2004 to 2006[1,2,3]

| | Proceeded against | Found guilty |
|---|---|---|
| 2004 | 343 | 232 |
| 2005 | 512 | 368 |
| 2006 | 761 | 516 |

[1] These data are on the principal offence basis.
[2] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete.
However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the courts and police forces.
As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.
[3] The offences used are not internet specific, the court proceedings database is unable to separately identify those offences which relate to internet based offences.
[4] Includes the following statutes and offence description:
Obscene Publications Act 1959 S.2(1)—Publishing obscene material. Having obscene article for publication for gain.
Obscene Publications Act 1959 S.2—Having negative for publication of obscene article for gain.
Communications Act 2003 S.127(1)(a)—Send by means of electronic communications network a message/matter which was grossly offensive or of an indecent/obscene/menacing character.
Communications Act 2003 S.127(1)(b)—Cause to be sent by means of an electronic communications network a message/matter which was grossly offensive or of an indecent/obscene/menacing character.
Malicious Communications Act 1988 S.1(1)(b)—Sending article which is in whole or in part indecent or grossly offensive.

Legal Profession

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many solicitors have ceased providing legal services to clients who require legal aid in (a) total, (b) England and (c) Wales in each of the last three years. [189558]

Maria Eagle: Figures cannot be given for individual solicitors but only solicitor offices. They reflect the aggregate of decisions made by many individuals and hence are subject to frequent amendment as and when new information becomes available.

The reductions in the number of solicitor offices, for both civil and criminal legal aid in the last three years is as set out in the following table. The figures reflect the trend of the last several years for offices doing small amounts of legally aided work to drop out of the market or merge with other offices, so that work is done in larger volumes at fewer offices.

This trend has not affected significantly the ability of the public to obtain legal aid conveniently when they require it. 95 per cent. of the population of England and Wales live within five miles of a legal aid provider and the total number of acts of assistance given by providers has increased.

A solicitor office may hold both a civil and a criminal contract and the aggregate of civil and criminal offices does not reflect the total number of them. Neither is the location of a solicitor office necessarily an indication of where providers carry work out. A provider in England could carry out work in Wales and vice versa.

Legal Services Commission: Contracts

Mr. Llwyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many firms of solicitors held contracts with the Legal Services Commission for the supply of legal advice in family law matters in 2006. [191060]

Maria Eagle: Contracts for the supply of legal advice in family law matters are held with the Community Legal Service (CLS). The CLS contracts with solicitors' offices rather than firms and they may have more than one. 2,881 solicitors' offices held contracts with the Legal Services Commission for the supply of legal advice in family law matters as at 31 March 2006.

Mineral Waters

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many litres of bottled water were purchased by his Department and its predecessor in each of the last three years; and if he will make a statement. [191251]

Maria Eagle: My Department does not hold central records of the number of litres of bottled water purchased over the past three years. Such information could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

In response to the Act on $CO_2$ Campaign the Ministry of Justice took steps in August 2007 to reduce its use of bottled water in meetings, and continues to look at further reductions in the use of bottled water where it is practicable to do so.

Ministerial Champion for Women and Criminal Justice

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what meetings the hon. Member for Liverpool, Garston has attended since 1 December 2007 in her role as Ministerial Champion for Women and Criminal Justice. [182740]

Maria Eagle: I have had meetings with the following stakeholders in my role as Ministerial Champion for Women in the Criminal Justice System.

The Minster for Women and Equality
The Attorney General and the Solicitor General
Right Hon Baroness Corston
Juliet Lyon, Director of the Prison Reform Trust
Frances Crook, Director of the Howard League for Penal Reform
The Royal College of Nursing (in prisons)
The Bishop for Prisons
Regional Offender Managers
The Right hon. Lord Bradley
The Parliamentary Under Secretary of State for Health
The Inter Ministerial Group on Reducing Reoffending
The Director General of the Prison Service
The Chief Executive of the National Offender Management Service
The Chief Inspector of Prisons
The Director of Probation
The Prisons and Probation Ombudsman
First inter-ministerial subgroup for overseeing implementation of the Corston recommendations
Ministerial Roundtable on Suicide

I have also established an Inter-Ministerial Sub-Group on Women Offenders and the implementation of the Corston Review.

Prisoners: Ex-servicemen

Mr. Llwyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what estimate he has made of the number and proportion of current inmates of prisons in England and Wales who served in the UK armed forces in either of the conflicts in the Gulf. [191336]

Mr. Hanson: This information is not collected centrally. Data from nationally representative surveys of some 2,000 sentenced prisoners near release conducted in 2001, 2003 and 2004 show the proportion of prisoners who had previously served in the armed forces as 6 per cent., 4 per cent. and 5 per cent. respectively. However, there are no estimates available for the proportion of veterans in custody who have served in specific conflicts.

Prisoners: Self-mutilation

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many recorded self-harm incidents there were in each prison in each of the last five years. [191782]

[1] The Prison Service/NOMS defines self-harm as any incident where a prisoner deliberately harms themselves irrespective of method, intent or severity of any injury. The numbers of self-harm incidents reported here are based on information supplied by prisons through the Prison Service incident reporting system. Many self-harm incidents often involve the same individuals, and changing numbers of incidents at different prisons can reflect the movement of such prisoners. Also, some prisons have re-rolled during the time period and therefore caution needs to be taken when interpreting rises and falls. Apparent dramatic declines in numbers may illustrate the impact of re-rolling from female to male prisons. Self-harm is a high volume incident that can be subject to technical and recording problems. While the system provides a sensible indication of the scale of self-harm the numbers of incidents should not be treated as absolute.

Prisons: Equality

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much was spent on implementing equality and diversity policies in each prison in each of the last three years. [188292]

Maria Eagle: It is not possible to disaggregate the sums spent on implementing equality and diversity policies in each prison. HM Prison Service takes very seriously its legal duty to promote equality and tackle unlawful discrimination, and this forms an integral part of the work of all managers and members of staff in prisons.

In terms of the resources dedicated to equality and diversity, figures are not collected centrally, and to do so would be at disproportionate cost.

Each prison has as a sub-group of its senior management team, a Race equality action team, led by the governor or deputy governor, which meets regularly to oversee work on race equality. Each prison also has a race equality officer, which is a full-time or equivalent post in 74 prisons, and a part-time role in the others. Many establishments also have parallel structures for the management of other diversity strands, with diversity action teams meeting regularly, and diversity managers, disability officers and/or equal opportunities officers, some of which are full-time posts and others part-time roles.

Prisons: Food

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the average spend by his Department per prisoner per day on food was in each prison in each of the last five years. [191792]

Maria Eagle: The following table shows the average daily cost of food for prisoners whose meals are directly provided by the public Prison Service for the last five years for which data is available. Figures for contracted out prisons were provided by the Minister of State for Justice, my right hon. Friend the Member for Delyn (Mr. Hanson), on 26 February 2008, Official Report, column 1504W.

Prisons: Nutrition

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what requirements there are on (a) prisons and (b) young offender institutions to act upon nutritional guidance offered by the Food Standards Agency in respect of food provision for (i) older people and (ii) adults in institutions. [191358]

Maria Eagle: HM Prison Service has recently completed a routine review of its catering policy and a revised Prison Service Order (PSO 5000 the Catering Manual) will be published shortly. The revised PSO includes additional guidance from the Food Standards Agency to further help prison caterers in England and Wales provide food that meets the nutritional needs of all prisoners.

Shoplifting

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many people (a) were cautioned, (b) received a penalty notice for disorder and (c) were convicted for shoplifting in each of the last three years. [191391]

Maria Eagle: The information requested covering cautions, convictions and penalty notices for disorder (PNDS) for the years 2004-06 is provided in the following table.

Number of offenders cautioned, defendants found guilty and penalty notices for disorder (PNDs) issued for shoplifting, England and Wales 2004-06[1,2]

| | Cautioned | Found guilty | PNDs issued |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2004 | 41,165 | 69,542 | [3]2,072 |
| 2005 | 44,012 | 64,076 | 21,997 |
| 2006 | 45,054 | 58,536 | 38,772 |

[1] The cautions and found guilty data are provided on the principal offence basis. PND data is a count of all penalty notices for disorder issued during the year.

[2] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the police forces and courts. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

[3] The offence of retail theft (goods of value under 20); was added to the PND scheme on 1 November 2004.

Solicitors: Negligence

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will bring forward proposals to remove the 15 year rule for negligence of solicitors under the Limitation Act 1980. [191791]

Bridget Prentice: The Limitation Act 1980 sets out time limits for bringing certain types of civil claim. These include claims arising from negligence including negligence on the part of professionals such as solicitors. In certain specific circumstances, the Act imposes a 15 year 'long stop' limitation period which operates to bar claims where the claimant has not discovered the damage complained of until after the 'primary' limitation period has expired.

The Law Commission has made recommendations to reform the law of limitation. These include reducing the 15 year period described above to 10 years. The Government have accepted these recommendations in principle and is currently preparing a consultation paper which will seek views on a draft Bill to implement them. Any changes to the law will be made after full consultation.

Television

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many plasma television screens have been purchased by his Department, its predecessor and its agencies, and at what cost in the last 24 months. [191024]

Maria Eagle: The MOJ has purchased 397 plasma television screens in the last 24 months at a total cost of £516,478. This excludes HM Prisons and NOMS, who are unable to answer without attracting disproportionate costs. HM Courts Service bought the majority of the screens as part of the Videolinks Project, which allows vulnerable witnesses to take part in trials without actually being present. Videolinks also connects to a number of prisons, which saves money by allowing certain meetings and proceedings to occur which would otherwise require prisoner transport and accommodation.

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice whether civil servants who are trades union officers in his Department are permitted to use (a) paid and (b) unpaid leave to engage in political activities. [191036]

Mr. Straw: Civil Servants in my Department who are trades union officers are provided with time off to undertake trade union duties through a facility agreement. The facility agreement does not provide for paid or unpaid leave to engage in political activities.

The extent to which a member of staff is permitted to use either paid or unpaid leave to engage in political activities is determined by whether their role is categorised as 'politically free' (broadly comprising all prison officer grades, industrial staff and operational support grades), 'politically restricted' (broadly comprising senior management grades) or 'intermediate' (broadly non-operational administrative staff and junior managers).

Subject to these conditions, Civil Servants in my Department may apply for either paid or unpaid time off to engage in political activities. Regulations regarding political activities are contained in the staff handbook and apply to all staff, including those engaged in trade union activities.

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Chichester, of 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 205W, on trades unions, whether those recognition agreements permit employees of his Department to take (a) paid and (b) unpaid leave to undertake political officer duties for those unions. [191049]

Mr. Straw: Trade Union recognition agreements in my Department do not include regulation of political activities, which are covered by the staff handbook.

Video Games: Prosecutions

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prosecutions were brought against retailers who sold video games and DVDs to underage customers in each year since 1997; and what proportion of those cases were successful. [189422]

Maria Eagle: Data on the number of prosecutions and convictions under the Video Recording Act 1984, as amended by the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994, in England and Wales 1997 to 2006 can be found in the table.

Information available to the Ministry of Justice relating to the Video Recording Act 1984 and amendments do not give the age of the customer, only the defendant. It is also not possible from the information held to distinguish prosecutions from other offences under the Act for the sale of video games or DVD's.

Court proceedings data for 2007 will be available in the autumn of 2008.

The number of defendants proceeded against at magistrates courts and found guilty at all courts for offences under the Video Recording Act 1984, as amended by the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994, in England and Wales 1997-2006[1,2,3,4]

[1] These data are on the principal offence basis.
[2] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the courts and police forces. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.
[3] Some of the statistics relate to illegal sales but it is not possible to tell whether these were necessarily sales to children.
[4] Includes the following statutes and offence description:
Video Recording Act 1984, Sec 11 as amended by Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994, Sec 88(4).
Supplying video recording of classified work in breach of classification.
Video Recording Act 1984, Sec 9 as amended by Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994, Sec 88.
Supplying video recording of unclassified work.
Video Recording Act 1984, Sec 10 as amended by Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994, Sec 88.
Persons video recording of unclassified work for the purpose of supply.
Video Recording Act 1984, Sec 12 as amended by Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994, Sec 88(5).
Certain video recordings only to be supplied in licensed sex shops.
Video Recording Act 1984 Sec 13.
Supply of video recording not complying with requirements as to labels etc.
Video Recording Act 1984, Sec 14 as amended by Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994, Sec 88(6).
Supply of video recordings containing false indication as to classification.
[5] Staffordshire police force were only able to submit sample data for persons proceeded against and convicted in the magistrates courts for the year 2000. Although sufficient to estimate higher orders of data, these data are not robust enough at a detailed level and have been excluded from the table.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Capita

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much has been paid to Capita for its education services in each year since 1997. [188368]

Kevin Brennan: Our finance system can only produce information from April 1999 onwards.

The amounts paid to Capita listed in the following table show the total amount paid to Capita Group plc and its subsidiaries in each financial year since 1999. The amounts may include payments for services other than educational services as we are unable to differentiate between payments for educational services and those for other types of service.

| | £ |
|---|---|
| 1999-2000 | 13,628,872 |
| 2000-01 | 26,365,741 |
| 2001-02 | 42,377,830 |
| 2002-03 | 27,050,920 |
| 2003-04 | 35,895,108 |
| 2004-05 | 211,887,690 |
| 2005-06 | 198,944,409 |
| 2006-07 | 114,262,373 |
| 2007-08 | 96,520,046 |

The expenditure relates to payments recorded in the Department's integrated financial information system and credited against Capita Group plc or its subsidiaries. The figure for 2007-08 is for amounts credited up to December 2007.

Children in Care: Jersey

John Hemming: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many local authorities in England with responsibility for children's services have placed children in the care of the States of Jersey since 1980; and what steps are being taken to ascertain the whereabouts of those people placed in care. [190958]

Kevin Brennan: No provisions exist in law for the responsibility for children in care to be transferred from English local authorities to the States of Jersey.

Any English local authority proposing to make arrangements for a child in care to be placed outside the jurisdiction of England and Wales (which includes placing a child in Crown Dependencies such as Jersey) requires the permission of a court, the child's consent, and the permission of all those with parental responsibility for the child, before doing so. The placing local authority retains parental responsibility for the child in such cases, which includes the responsibility for safeguarding them and promoting their welfare, as well as (since 2001) keeping in touch with care leavers until at least the age of 21. Data on the numbers of children placed in Jersey by English local authorities are not collected centrally.

Children: Databases

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) when the first additional risk assessment recommended by Deloitte in its security review of ContactPoint will be completed; and whether the full report will be made public; [190734]

(2) how frequently ongoing security risk assessments of ContactPoint, as recommended by Deloitte, will be conducted; and whether each report will be made public in full; [190735]

(3) on what date the decision was made not to publish a summary of Deloitte's review of the security of ContactPoint; [190736]

(4) whether the summary of Deloitte's review of the security of ContactPoint placed in the Library on 21 February 2008 includes reference to each recommendation made by Deloitte in the full report; [190737]

(5) when he expects the ContactPoint database to become fully operational; [190738]

(6) what assessment has been made of the (a) time, (b) manpower and (c) expenditure that will be required to implement in full the recommendations made by Deloitte in its security review of ContactPoint; [190739]

(7) whether (a) Deloitte and (b) another organisation will be commissioned to undertake a further security review of ContactPoint; [190740]

(8) what plans there are to upgrade the security of ContactPoint following Deloitte's security review. [190750]

Kevin Brennan: In response to question 190734, the risk assessment, recommended by Deloitte, which will look in detail at the contractor's design, will be completed by May 2008. The report will not be made public, as it will contain details of specific security arrangements. However, the ContactPoint security statement, which is publicly available, will be updated to reflect any changes made to security arrangements.

In response to question 190735, our plans for future risk assessment are based on key project milestones. These are:

at the end of detailed technical design;

before the system goes live;

at the end of the 'Early Adopter'phase; and when there is any significant change in the external threat level or any significant project change.

These plans will be kept under review. Decisions about making the reports public will be taken on a case-by-case basis.

In response to question 190736, the decision to publish only the executive summary of the Deloitte report was taken on 13 February 2008.

In response to question 190737, the executive summary includes all the recommendations. The Government have accepted them all.

In response to question 190738, ContactPoint is expected to be deployed to 'Early Adopter' local authorities and two of our seven national partners by the end of October 2008 and to all other local authorities and national partners in 2009.

In response to question 190739, an interim assessment has been conducted which indicates that the recommendations can be implemented within the current planned budget and timescale. The full assessment can only be made once the updated risk assessment is completed.

In response to question 190740, ContactPoint will continue to be reviewed by independent security experts during system build and before it is implemented. Security will, of course, be audited during operation. It has not yet been decided who will conduct further independent reviews.

In response to question 190750, the Deloitte review did not identify any significant security issues, but made a number of minister recommendations for controls to be in place when the system goes live in addition to those already planned. The report observed that the importance of security appears to be ingrained within key areas of the ContactPoint Project. The first task, which is already under way, is to undertake an impact assessment of the detailed recommendations contained in the report.

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) when the ContactPoint user acceptance test referred to in the written statement of 21 February 2008, Official Report, columns 55-8WS, on ContactPoint, will be undertaken; and what use will be made of the results; [190741]

(2) on what occasions ContactPoint will require (a) hard and (b) electronic data; [190742]

(3) what arrangements he has made for (a) independent accreditation and (b) ongoing monitoring of security procedures within organisations which have access to ContactPoint; [190743]

(4) what procedures will be put in place to ensure that all organisations accessing the ContactPoint database are aware of their responsibilities on security; what auditing will take place to ensure compliance; and if he will make a statement; [190745]

(5) what work has been undertaken to establish the level of risk of security breaches occurring in the ContactPoint database; and if he will make a statement; [190746]

(6) what level of security risk his Department has determined as acceptable for ContactPoint; [190747]

(7) what plans there are to review the role of self-certification as referred to in the written statement of 21 February 2008, Official Report, columns 55-58WS, on ContactPoint; and if he will make a statement; [190748]

(8) what plans he has to monitor compliance with self-certification procedures among organisations connecting to ContactPoint; and how this will be funded; [190749]

(9) what (a) security, (b) auditing and (c) other procedures will be followed when a ContactPoint user wants to gain access to a common assessment framework assessment for a particular child. [190751]

Kevin Brennan: In response to question 190741, ContactPoint User Acceptance Testing is scheduled to take place between July and September 2008.

We plan to engage a representative set of future ContactPoint users to:

Verify that CP meets the stated business requirements, and its practical readiness,

Ensure the end to end system and processes meet the defined acceptance criteria.

User Acceptance Testing will form an important part of assessing ContactPoint is in readiness for deployment.

In response to question 190742, all data inputs to ContactPoint will be delivered over secure electronic channels. The frequency of updates of this data will vary depending on what is practicable and desirable for each source.

In response to question 190743, (a) All partner organisations will be supported through their accreditation process by the local authority acting as an independent sponsor. Those performing the sponsor roles will be trained and appropriately qualified, (b) Ongoing monitoring will be performed at multiple levels across the ContactPoint delivery structure.

The following will be in place:

monitoring of user access by line management;

compliance checks—that line management is monitoring user access by each organisation's internal audit or compliance team;

monitoring—that line management are monitoring their users by the local ContactPoint management team;

compliance checks— that the local authority ContactPoint team is performing its monitoring role by each local authority's internal audit or compliance team;

monitoring - that line management are monitoring their users by the local ContactPoint management team;

compliance checks - that the local authority ContactPoint team is performing its monitoring role by each local authority's internal audit or compliance team;

local authorities will log and monitor complaints and data subject access requests, identifying where follow up checking needs to take place;

discussions will be held between local authority internal audit and the internal audit of those organisations using ContactPoint to ensure congruence of risk assessments and sharing of lessons learned;

regular reviews of local authority ContactPoint team activities;

spot checks by organisation, local authority and nationally;

national reviews of management information based on a range of security parameters;

Any areas of concern flagged by monitoring will be linked to mandatory follow-up procedures, including internal disciplinary action which could lead to dismissal and/or criminal prosecution.

All monitoring is linked to a process of continual improvement, with the objective of strengthening the effectiveness of monitoring, detection and follow-up activity.

In response to question 190745, accreditation will ensure a range of organisational policies and procedures are in place in each accredited organisation. These include a requirement to appoint responsible and accountable officers, to train staff, to set out accountabilities, to plan and implement a programme of inspections and audits, and to report issues to the sponsoring local authority.

Auditing is a multi-level series of cross checks, executing monitoring activities, and checking that monitoring is taking place.

Responsibilities will be set out clearly and will be covered in training and supporting materials (such as guidance and user manuals). Regular meetings will be used (between local authorities and partner organisations, and between the national team and local authorities) to ensure messages on responsibilities continue to be understood, to promote best practice, to raise and resolve issues around compliance, and to discuss other operational issues or difficulties.

In response to questions 190746 and 190747, in determining the security policy for ContactPoint, the Government guidance on risk assessment and security controls set out in the Cabinet Office's Manual of Protective Security was followed. A risk assessment was carried out, in 2005, at the start of the ContactPoint project before any solution design or requirements were specified. It was updated in June 2006. Deloitte concluded that the approach followed was valid.

ContactPoint has been designed to be highly secure and has controls at different levels to protect against security breaches. This will be kept under continuous review.

Security is, and always has been, of paramount importance to the ContactPoint project and this was recognised in the Deloitte report.

ContactPoint will not be deployed until it has been subject to rigorous penetration testing by people who are experts in the IT security field and approved by the Communications and Electronics Security Group.

The Department's aim is to ensure that any potential risks from ContactPoint will be less than the risks from not having it.

In response to questions 190748 and 190749, the accreditation plans were under development at time of the Deloitte review and indicated that self-certification would be used where appropriate in order to minimise burdens.

Self-certification will be reviewed as part of the risk assessment scheduled to be completed by May 2008. Unacceptable risks to security will not be introduced by the use of self-certification.

Self-certification of local partner organisations will be subject to verification by a local authority sponsor who will assure compliance with procedures. Funds have been allocated to local authorities to support these roles.

In response to question 190751, there will be no access to the CAP itself, nor any of the details within it, from ContactPoint. If the ContactPoint user believes that they should contribute to, or see, the CAP assessment they would contact the practitioner whose details have been provided to ContactPoint as the person 'holding' the CAP.

Practitioners will only become involved in CAP assessment with the informed, explicit consent of the child or young person (or their parent/carer where appropriate).

Departmental Accountancy

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what items of his Department's (a) revenue and (b) expenditure are uprated using (i) the consumer prices index, (ii) the retail prices index and (iii) other measures of inflation. [179944]

Kevin Brennan: The Department uses a range of indices in order to uprate the grant payments it makes to its wide range of delivery partners. Decisions on the appropriate indices to apply to the different types of grant expenditure are devolved to the individual business units within the Department and this information can be gathered only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Data Protection

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what procedures are in place in his Department to ensure that personal information relating to members of the public is (a) stored and (b) transported securely. [168482]

Kevin Brennan: I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 21 November 2007, Official Report, column 1179. The review by the Cabinet Secretary and security experts is looking at procedures within departments and agencies for the storage and use of data. A statement on Departments' procedures will be made on completion of the review.

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether personal data for which his Department is responsible is (a) stored and (b) processed overseas; and if he will make a statement. [176025]

Kevin Brennan: The Department collects and holds personal data. This data is used for a variety of purposes, including funding and for school accountability. Some of this data is stored overseas.

Departmental Email

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will take steps to reduce the number of hard copies of emails being printed unnecessarily by officials in his Department. [179471]

Kevin Brennan: The Department has already taken steps to reduce the number of hard copies of emails being printed. We provide:

Flexible and robustly maintained systems for electronic reading, production, transfer and filing of all documents to reduce the volume and need for hardcopy prints; and

Information and best practice techniques on how staff can help the Department reduce waste through careful use of scarce resources and new ways of working.

To ensure sound environmental management systems are maintained we require policy leads to:

Keep reviewing the Department's waste management policy to ensure it aligns with Government intent and adopt any new initiatives relating to waste, where appropriate;

Encourage the generation of new ideas by staff to improve our waste handling;

Learn from our peers in the public sector and benchmark our progress against public and private sector organisations; and

Work with our recycling suppliers to develop more sustainable methods and reward innovation.

Departmental Equality

Roger Berry: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what conclusions his Department has reached in fulfilment of the duty under section 3.111 of the statutory code of practice of the disability equality duty. [190761]

Kevin Brennan: The Department's most recent conclusions can be found in our Single Equality Scheme which was published online in December 2007. The scheme can be found at www.dcsf.gov.uk/publications/des with the disability update available at www.dcsf.gov.uk/publications/des/disability.shtml

Departmental Finance

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many agencies, organisations and non-departmental bodies receive funding from his Department; and how much was spent on such bodies in each of the last three years. [191294]

Kevin Brennan: The Department for Children, Schools and Families was created in the machinery of government change in June 2007. The following table sets out the grant in aid received by each of the Department's non-departmental public bodies for the last three years taken from the resource accounts together with the funding provided to local authorities and other expenditure for the predecessor body the Department for Education and Skills. The 'other expenditure' may include expenditure not relating to organisations. To provide the detail requested for relating to just DCSF would involve disproportionate cost. The Department has no Agencies.

[1] SFT became operational on 1 April 2006.
[2] The amount paid to local authorities has risen significantly in 2006-07 because from 1 April 2006 the Department became responsible for paying dedicated schools grants. These grants were previously issued by the Department for Communities and Local Government.

Departmental Homeworking

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many people in his Department have been authorised to work from home in the last 12 months. [189787]

Kevin Brennan: The Department was formed on 28 June 2007. Home working is available to all staff as part of my Department's flexible working arrangements and currently 50 per cent. of staff can access the Department's IT infrastructure from home.

Departmental ICT

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many of his Department's personal digital assistants have been (a) lost and (b) stolen in each of the last five years; and what the value of those items was. [185281]

Kevin Brennan: In the last five years four personal digital assistants (PDA) were reported as lost or stolen as follows:

|---|---|---|
| 2006-07 | 1 | 180 |
| 2004-05 | 3 | 116 |

Departmental Impact Assessments

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many regulatory impact assessments his Department has conducted in the last 12 months. [191276]

Kevin Brennan: Regulatory impact assessments were replaced with impact assessments in May 2007. The new requirement was that any new policies would be assessed using the new framework from the beginning of the parliamentary Session in November 2007. Details of the regulatory impact assessments that were published by my Department are available from the House Library.

Departmental Marketing

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what products featuring departmental or Government branding were procured by (a) his Department and its predecessor and (b) its agencies in each of the last five years. [179911]

Kevin Brennan: To provide a comprehensive answer would incur disproportionate costs.

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisers

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether any of his Department's special advisers have declared a conflict of interest. [164509]

Kevin Brennan: Special advisers are appointed under terms and conditions set out in the "Model Contract for Special Advisers". Copies of the "Model Contract" are available in the House Libraries.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the salary range is for each pay band of civil servants in his Department. [188806]

Kevin Brennan: The salary range for each pay band in my Department is set out as follows.

Departmental Public Participation

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the publicity budget was for the Time to Talk consultation. [178938]

Kevin Brennan: The total publicity costs for the Time to Talk consultation were £308,270.24.

Departmental Retirement

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many of his Department's staff retired on the grounds of stress-related illness in each of the last three years. [187885]

Kevin Brennan: The Department was set up as part of the Machinery of Government changes on 28 June 2007, so departmental information on retirements is only available from then. There have been no stress-related medical retirements in my Department in the period since that date.

The Department has policies in place to reduce work related stress including a range of measures to support managers and employees on health and wellbeing issues. These include the provision of professional counselling and support from the Department's Employee Assistance Provider, Right Corecare. My Department has piloted a Health and Safety Executive (HSE) Stress Questionnaire and conducted Individual Stress Risk Assessments for employees who require them. It will shortly be launching a comprehensive Stress Prevention Policy, based on recognised HSE Management Standards.

Departmental Translation Services

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much was spent on translation services by his Department and its predecessor, associated agencies and non-departmental public bodies in (a) 2003-04, (b) 2004-05, (c) 2005-06, (d) 2006-07 and (e) in 2007-08 to date. [187985]

Kevin Brennan: Details of expenditure on translation services incurred by the Department over the last five years are set out as follows;

| | £ |
|---|---|
| 2007-08 | [1]5,309.26 |
| 2006-07 | 3,169.14 |
| 2005-06 | 1,152.11 |
| 2004-05 | 9,878.45 |
| 2003-04 | 15,462.62 |

[1] Up to and including February

The figures relate to actual translation work as recorded on the Department's Integrated Financial Information System. The figures exclude publishing costs, on-line or off-line, associated with the translated material.

The Department for Children, Schools and Families was created on 28 June 2007 as a result of a Machinery of Government change and the expenditure recorded above includes that of its predecessor department, the Department for Education and Skills.

The expenditure will also include any costs incurred by the newly created Department for Universities, Innovation and Skills, where these costs relate to areas formerly the responsibility of the Department for Education and Skills.

The Department does not have any Executive agencies.

The Department currently has eight NDPBs. They are independent organisations and records are not held centrally by the Department about their translation fees. To extract those costs would involve disproportionate cost.

Educational Visits: Negligence

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what estimate he has made of the effect of the provisions of the Compensation Act 2006 on (a) the number of school educational visits and (b) the number of (i) claims and (ii) successful claims of negligence or breach of statutory duty brought against teachers as a result of accidents on educational visits; [191795]

(2) how many (a) claims and (b) successful claims of negligence or breach of statutory duty were brought against teachers as a result of accidents on educational visits in each year since 1997. [191794]

Jim Knight: We have made no formal estimate of the effect of the Compensation Act 2006 on offsite educational visits and have received no representations on this issue. We do not anticipate successful claims under this Act against teachers who act in accordance with their school's health and safety procedures, and we believe that most teachers do so. While the Government do not hold records of awards against school staff, we are unaware of any claims, successful or unsuccessful, against school staff under this Act.

Eurostar

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much his Department, its predecessor and its agencies spent on (a) first and (b) other class travel by Eurostar in the last 12 months for which figures are available. [187652]

Kevin Brennan: The spend for the Department for Children, Schools and Families and its agencies for travel on Eurostar for the period 1 January 2007 to 31 December 2007 on first class travel was £20,567 and for other class travel was £15,944.

Foster Care: Separation

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many foster family arrangements (a) remained as a stable family unit for longer than 12 months and (b) broke down with the children returning to care facilities within 12 months in the most recent period for which figures are available. [183549]

Kevin Brennan: The number of children looked after at 31 March 2007 who had been in the same foster placement for longer than 12 months was 23,900. In the 12 months up to that date, 1,400 children were in a foster placement for less than 12 months and then moved to a care placement which was not based in a family[1].

[1] The following placements have been counted: Secure units, homes and hostels, residential care homes, NHS trust providing medical/nursing care, family centre or mother and baby unit, young offenders' institution or prison, residential schools.

Mineral Waters

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many litres of bottled water were purchased by his Department and its predecessor in each of the last three years; and if he will make a statement. [191246]

Kevin Brennan: The number of litres of bottled water for the Department for Children, Schools and Families is:

| | Number of litres |
|---|---|
| December 2005 to November 2006 | 128,704 |
| December 2006 to November 2007 | 110,075 |

Plastic Bags

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many branded plastic bags his Department and its predecessor purchased in the last 24 months for which figures are available; and at what cost. [184657]

Kevin Brennan: Neither this Department, nor the former Department for Education and Skills, has purchased branded plastic bags in the last 24 months.

Schools: Entertainments

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether his Department issues guidance to schools on the (a) holding and (b) funding of staff parties. [189106]

Jim Knight: The Department does not issue such guidance. Funding is delegated for the 'purpose of the school'. The definition does not go into detail further than this, however we would expect local authorities as part of their financial management policies to provide guidance on the use of funds for these types of purposes.

Schools: Sports

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps his Department has taken to improve sports programmes within secondary schools in 2006-07; and what funding has been allocated for that purpose for 2007-08. [168418]

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps his Department has taken to improve sports programmes within secondary schools in 2006-07; and what funding has been allocated for that purpose for 2007-08. [169235]

Kevin Brennan: Through the National School Sport Strategy, a number of programmes are in place to raise the quality and quantity of PE and school sport in secondary schools. These include:

School Sport Partnerships

Sports Colleges

PE and school sport Professional Development programme

Step into Sport volunteering and leadership programme

Establishing School-sport club Links

Support and provision for gifted and talented pupils in PE and sport

Bringing professional coaches into schools

Competition Managers

The Department's support for these programmes totalled £179.2 million in 2007-08.

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much capital funding was allocated to sports facilities in schools in (a) Stockton South constituency, (b) Teesside, (c) the North East and (d) England in each year since 1997. [188933]

Jim Knight: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply given to the hon. Member for Jarrow (Mr. Hepburn) on 26 February 2008, Official Report, column 1549W.

Special Educational Needs: Suffolk

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children with special educational needs, resident in Suffolk, were educated outside the county in each year since 1997; and what the financial cost of this provision was to Suffolk County Council in each year. [187608]

Kevin Brennan: Available figures for the number of children with Special Educational Needs (SEN) resident in Suffolk, who attended schools maintained by other local authorities are given as follows:

Number of pupils with special educational needs

| | 2003 | 2004 | 2005 | 2006 | 2007 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Resident in Suffolk LA | 15,536 | 16,248 | 16,681 | 17,312 | 17,549 |
| Attending schools maintained by Suffolk LA | 15,193 | 16,061 | 16,474 | 17,120 | 17,312 |
| Attending schools maintained by other LAs | 343 | 187 | 207 | 192 | 237 |

Note:
SEN includes: School action; School action plus and statement of SEN
Source:
School Census

We are unable to provide equivalent information on the number of children with Special Educational Needs attending independent or non-maintained special schools.

Details of the planned expenditure by Suffolk local authority for pupils with special educational needs can be found on the following tables. The data are drawn from Suffolk local authority's Section 52 budget statements submitted to the DCSF and the figures relate to all planned out of authority expenditure not just the expenditure on pupils attending schools maintained by other local authorities.

The Education (Budget Statements) (England) Regulations. Budgeted gross[1] expenditure by Suffolk local authority on inter-authority recoupment[2]: 1999-2000 to 2007-08[3]. Cash terms figures[4] as reported by Suffolk local authority as at 28 February 2008

| | Cash terms figures[4] Budgeted gross[1] expenditure on inter-authority recoupment[2] (£) |

| 2005-06 | 103,000 |
| 2006-07 | 108,000 |
| 2007-08 | 110,000 |

[1] As one authority's expenditure on inter-authority recoupment will be another authority's income, in order to show the amount of money budgeted by Suffolk local authority for the education of pupils with special educational needs outside of Suffolk LA the figures for inter-authority recoupment have been shown gross (i.e. any income which Suffolk LA receive from other authorities for educating their pupils with SEN within Suffolk has not been netted off from the expenditure).

[2] Inter authority recoupment includes any estimated expenditure in relation to transactions between authorities in accordance with regulations made under sections 493 or 494 of the 1996 Act or section 207 of the 2002 Act (recoupment between authorities) for the education of pupils with special educational needs.

[3] Figures are not available prior to the inception of Section 52 for the 1999-2000 financial year.

[4] Figures are rounded to the nearest £1,000.

The Education (Budget Statements) (England) Regulations. Budgeted net expenditure by Suffolk local authority on fees for pupils at independent special schools and abroad[1]: 1999-2000 to 2007-08[1,2]. Cash terms figures[3] as reported by Suffolk local authority as at 7 January 2008

| 2006-07 | 6,390,000 |
| 2007-08[3] | 6,551,000 |

[1] Includes estimatec expenditure on the payment of fees in respect of pupils with special educational needs at independent schools or non-maintained special schools. The figures for 2007-08 also include any SEN payments to Academies for pupils with statements.

[2] Figures are not available prior to the inception of Section 52 for the 1999-2000 financial year.

[3] Figures are rounded to the nearest £1,000.

Special Educational Needs: Young Offenders

Mr. Hurd: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what special educational provision is available for adolescents with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder after their release from a penal establishment. [172350]

Kevin Brennan: Schools and local authorities are statutorily required to have regard to the SEN Code of Practice for children and young people whose attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) entails special educational needs (SEN). The Code says that local authorities should have effective arrangements in place to ensure the needs of children and young people with SEN are assessed quickly and matched by appropriate provision, and that schools must do their best to ensure necessary provision is made for pupils with SEN.

For young people in the youth justice system, Youth Offending Teams (YOTs) operate in each local area. Their role includes working with young offenders, including those preparing to leave custody, to develop appropriate resettlement plans to meet their needs—this includes co-ordinating access to education, training and health services.

The Children Act 2004 provides a statutory framework for co-operation between local authorities, partner agencies and other relevant organisations to improve outcomes for all children including those who have been diagnosed with ADHD.

Teachers

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of teachers who qualified within the last two years are not employed as teachers in state maintained schools. [189140]

Jim Knight: The following table shows the number of trainees who gained Qualified Teacher Status (QTS) through mainstream Initial Teacher Training (ITT) courses in 2004/05 and 2005/06 and were not employed in state maintained schools six months after gaining QTS.

A minimum of 71 per cent. of trainees who gained QTS in 2004/05 and 2005/06 entered a teaching post in a maintained school within six months of gaining QTS. These are minimums as there are a proportion of trainees where the sector of the schools they enter is unknown or their destination after gaining QTS is unknown.

| | | Proportion of trainees gaining QTS | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | Known not to be teaching in a maintained school | | Working in a school where the sector is unknown | | With an unknown destination | |
| Year of gaining QTS | Total number of mainstream trainees gaining QTS | Number | Percentage | Number | Percentage | Number | Percentage |
| 2004/05 | 27,150 | 3,300 | 12 | 1,470 | 5 | 3,050 | 11 |
| 2005/06 | 27,040 | 3,790 | 14 | 1,560 | 6 | 2,510 | 9 |

Notes:
1. Mainstream includes universities and other higher education institutions, SCITT and OU, but excludes employment based routes.
2. Performance profiles data are collected at the end of a trainees first year, therefore 2006/07 data are collected in autumn 2007 and will be published in July 2008.
3. Trainees taking the assessment only for secondary courses are not included in the table above.
4. Those known not to be teaching in a maintained school include those who are working in independent schools, those who are seeking a teaching post and those who are not seeking a teaching post.
5. The destination of trainees through Employment Based ITT (EBITT) is not collected.
6. The destination of trainees gaining QTS is collected through the Destinations of Leavers from Higher Education (DLHE) survey 7. Figures are rounded to the nearest 10.

Teachers: Pensions

Jim Cousins: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether he charges independent schools whose employees are members of the teachers' pension scheme a share of (a) the Capita Business Services management fee and (b) his Department's costs for (i) medical and (ii) actuarial services charged to the scheme. [191606]

Jim Knight: No employers, including independent schools, meet any of the direct pension administration costs of the teachers' pension scheme. These costs, which include medical and actuarial services, are not charged to the scheme but met separately from the Department's programme budgets.

Young People: Contact Centres

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will place in the Library the findings of the mystery shopping and user survey research to monitor the performance of contact centres. [173128]

Beverley Hughes: A mystery shopping exercise was undertaken in April 2006 to monitor the performance of the Teenage Pregnancy Helpline, Sexwise. At the time, the Sexwise line had been in operation since 1995, offering information and advice to young people about sex, relationships and contraception.

In order for the mystery shopping process to be credible, and to provide an understanding from a young person's perspective, it was important to include young people. Therefore 12 young people, 6 girls and 6 boys, between the ages of 14 and 17, were recruited to undertake the mystery calls. Given the highly sensitive nature of the project and the subject matter of the calls, all parents were provided with a detailed background to the project and its objectives, and with detailed examples of the kinds of calls we would be asking their children to make. All provided written consent for their children to participate. MRS approval was gained for the proposed method prior to the project start.

It should be borne in mind that the young people calling the line were provided with a considerable amount of background information, which would probably not ordinarily be available to genuine callers. And while we tried to provide some quantification, the analysis was based on only 60 calls, and is qualitative rather than quantitative in nature. For this reason, the results of the report were not felt to warrant submission to the House of Commons Library but copies are available on request.

Young People: Crime Prevention

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the pathfinder projects to deliver integrated targeted support to parents of children and young people at risk of offending; and if he will make a statement. [173853]

Beverley Hughes: The Department for Children, Schools and Families does not fund any pathfinder projects that solely focus on parents of children and young people at risk of offending. Since 2006, DCSF has been running the Parenting Early Intervention Pathfinder (PEIP) which aims to increase support for the parents of children and young people at risk of negative outcomes and ensure that they receive an earlier, more effective, coordinated package of relevant support. Findings from an independent evaluation will be published in spring 2008.

Targeted programmes to prevent youth offending are the responsibility of Youth Offending Teams and the Youth Justice Board. The Youth Crime Action Plan—to be published in summer 2008—will bring together action across Government, setting an overall strategy for youth crime reduction and concrete ways to tackle it.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

British Airports Authority

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what discussions his Department have had with BAA on the potential disposal by BAA of one of its airports; and if he will make a statement. [190329]

Mr. Thomas: Competition issues are a matter for the independent competition authorities. The Competition Commission is currently investigating the supply of airport services by BAA in the UK following a reference by the Office of Fair Trading (OFT).

Business: Stress

Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what estimate he has made of the average annual (a) days lost per employee and (b) cost to business due to stress and stress related business. [187627]

Mr. Thomas: The average number of working days lost per employee by the Department of Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform, (formerly the Department of Trade and Industry), including UK Trade and Investment (UKTI) and Office of Manpower Economics (OME), attributed to stress-related conditions for the period January 2007 to December 2007 is 0.72.

The Department does not routinely calculate the average annual cost of stress. As this would involve manually investigating employee sickness records and pay details on an individual basis, the cost of doing this would be disproportionate to the benefit to be derived.

Civil Service

Colin Challen: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what guidelines his Department issues to its senior civil servants on the receipt of hospitality during public consultations run by his Department. [190267]

Mr. Thomas [holding answer 28 February 2008]: The Department provides the following guidance to all of its staff on its HR intranet:

Acceptance and registration of hospitality

You must not accept offers of gifts or hospitality without considering whether it would be both legal and proper to do so.

The Principles of Propriety

The guiding principles governing the acceptance of gifts and hospitality are:

Your conduct should not create suspicion of a conflict between your official duty and your private interest;

You should not give the impression that you may have been influenced by a gift or hospitality;

If in doubt about whether you should accept a gift or hospitality, you should refuse it.

These principles are not intended to stop you accepting occasional trivial gifts or working lunches during the course of an official visit. However no offer of a more substantial gift or hospitality should be lightly accepted.

You should consult your line manager when deciding whether or not to accept a gift or hospitality.

Procedures for declaring hospitality received

You must not accept hospitality that might be seen to compromise your personal judgement or integrity.

It is up to you to judge whether an offer of hospitality should be accepted. Before accepting, you should be satisfied that the hospitality is normal and reasonable in the circumstances. If in doubt, you should consult a senior manager.

The following guidelines are intended to help you and them come to a decision:

Is it in the Department's interest? For hospitality to be in the Department's interests there will normally need to be an opportunity to discuss official business. However, it may be that the Department nonetheless needs to be represented at an event. In this case you should check with a senior manager, to make sure that the Department is not over-represented.

The value - Is it great enough to give rise to criticism? You should consider the perceived value rather than the actual cost.

The frequency: Is it more frequent or regular than would be regarded as normal or reasonable, taking into account the nature of the event?

The potential for embarrassment: Is the person or organisation offering the hospitality under investigation or have they been criticised by the Government or anyone acting on its behalf?

The nature of any relationship with the Department: Even if you are not involved in financial, contractual or regulatory matters connected with the person or body concerned, the acceptance of an invitation by a member of BERR would be open to misconstruction or misrepresentation.

You need to bear in mind that the guidelines are not just intended to safeguard the Department's position; they are framed to help you to avoid personal embarrassment and criticism, however misplaced.

Strict rules apply to those responsible for procurement and the placing or management of contracts (see the Procurement Manual for further guidance); and those involved in regulatory activity. These are issued separately to the relevant staff. Nevertheless, they have the same force and authority as though they were included in The Guide.

Records of gifts and hospitality

All material hospitality that you accept while on duty (other than of an incidental kind like tea or coffee) must be registered in the HMU's Register of Gifts and Hospitality.

The only exceptions to this rule are hospitality in relation to diplomatic activity overseas or in the UK (e.g. reception hosted by a foreign government or international institution) and attendance at an event hosted by Her Majesty's Government (e.g. an official dinner to mark a particular occasion).

Any failure to register hospitality is a disciplinary offence. Staff concerned with procurement, including contract management, should note that the CUP Guide NO 16 makes the recording of offers of hospitality and gifts, whether or not accepted, mandatory.

Legal Position in Respect of Corruption

It is an offence under the Prevention of Corruption Act 1906 for any civil servant in his or her official capacity corruptly to accept any gift or consideration as an inducement or reward for doing, or refraining from doing, anything; or showing favour or disfavour to any person.

Moreover, under the Prevention of Corruption Act 1916, any money, gift or consideration received by a member of staff from a person or organisation holding or seeking to obtain a Government contract will be deemed by the courts to have been received corruptly, unless the officer proves the contrary.

Consumer Estate Agents and Redress Act 2007

Mr. Tom Clarke: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the effects on consumer representation of the Consumer Estate Agents and Redress Act 2007; what response he has made to paragraph 5.66 of the House of Lords Regulators Committee's report on economic regulators; and if he will make a statement. [175737]

Mr. Thomas: The Government assessment of the changes to consumer representation made by the Consumer Estate Agents and Redress Act 2007 was set out in the response to the House of Lords Regulators Committee's report on economic regulators, published on Thursday 21 February. Paragraph 1.16 states:

> "The Government believes that the Consumers, Estate Agents and Redress Act will strengthen consumer representation in key sectors. The new National Consumer Council will be established from 1 October 2008. The Government are working with industry, regulators and the existing bodies to ensure that the current consumer representative framework is maintained and wherever possible enhanced during the transition.
> The Government are confident that the overall framework established by the Consumers, Estate Agents and Redress Act will provide full support to Energy and Postal Consumers."

Departmental Contracts

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what IT contracts his Department holds; and what the (a) length and (b) cost of each contract is. [187639]

Mr. Thomas [holding answer 21 February 2008]: The core Department has one main information technology contract which provides desk top services and a variety of additional extended services. This is a private finance initiative (PFI) agreement awarded to Fujitsu Services in 1998 and the agreement commenced in April 1999 and runs for 15 years. The spend up until March 2008 will be £370 million and it is estimated that a further £163 million will be spent up to the end of the agreement.

In 2005 the Department awarded a Competed Services Framework Arrangement to six suppliers to enable an element of competition for IT projects and a small number of IT contracts have been awarded through this arrangement and other framework arrangements available to government. The current contracts are as follows:

| | Years | £ million |
|---|---|---|
| HR Replacement System | 5 | [1]— |
| Export Licensing (Infrastructure) | 3 | 2 |
| Export Licensing (Development) | 2 | 1 |
| Correspondence Handling | 3 | 2.5 |

[1] Amount under review

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many of his Department's civil servants were (a) suspended and (b) dismissed for accessing (i) obscene and (ii) other prohibited material on work computers in each of the last five years. [188794]

Mr. Thomas: Four employees of the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform have been suspended/dismissed in the past five years. To give further details of the cases may contravene the Data Protection Act, as it may facilitate the identification of an individual.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much was claimed in reimbursable expenses by senior civil service staff in his Department and its agencies in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [187532]

Mr. Thomas: Expenses claimed by BERR staff are not recorded separately by grade. To obtain the requested information would entail a disproportionate cost.

Departmental Property

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what property has been lost or stolen from his Department and its predecessor since 1997; and what the cost of replacement was. [187473]

Mr. Thomas: From 1997 to date, the total number of items reported lost or stolen from my Department and its predecessor's HQ Estate amounted to 375. The total value of these items amounted to £145,500.

The figure does not include small, low value, personal items reported lost or stolen by staff.

Departmental Sick Pay

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the cost of sickness pay to staff in his Department was in the most recent year for which figures are available. [187514]

Mr. Thomas: The Department does not routinely calculate the average annual cost of stress. As this would involve manually investigating employee sickness records and pay details on an individual basis, the cost of doing this would be disproportionate to the benefit to be derived.

The Department's sickness, and long term sickness absence rates have consistently been lower than the Whitehall average over the past three years. The average number of working days lost due to sick leave for the period January 2007 to December 2007 is 4.9.

Departmental Translation Services

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what proportion of his Department's translation and interpreting work is outsourced under framework agreements with commercial providers; and if he will make a statement. [189161]

Mr. Thomas: The Department has a service level agreement with the Foreign and Commonwealth Office from whom individual directorates purchase translation services.

Individual directorates make their own arrangements for purchase of interpreting services from external suppliers. Information is not available centrally about such purchases or arrangements with individual suppliers and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Energy: Complaints

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps he is taking on the effective disclosure by gas and electricity suppliers of complaints handling data to the National Consumer Council; and if he will make a statement. [190481]

Mr. Thomas: The Consumers, Estate Agents and Redress Act 2007 confers, on the New National Consumer Council a power to require the disclosure to it by gas and electricity suppliers of such information as it requires for the purpose of exercising its functions.

Precise disclosure arrangements are a matter for the new council, in discussion with suppliers.

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (1) if he will take steps to ensure that the forthcoming complaint handling standards set by Ofgem contain provision for energy companies' complaints data will be subject to regular independent verification; and if he will make a statement; [190482]

(2) what steps he is taking to ensure that the gas and electricity complaint handling standards being formulated by Ofgem set levels of performance that will improve protection for consumers; and if he will make a statement. [190483]

Mr. Thomas: The Consumers, Estate Agents and Redress Act 2007 provides that setting of complaint handling standards for gas and electricity is a matter for the regulator, Ofgem (GEMA).

Ofgem consulted on its proposals for complaint handling standards in November last year and will be publishing its decision at the end of March. Ofgem is working closely with consumer groups on these standards to ensure that consumers remain protected.

Honours

Mr. Pope: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many members of the Senior Civil Service have been awarded an honour while working in his Department. [187134]

Mr. Thomas: There are currently 16 BERR Senior Civil Servants with an honours award. The breakdown is as follows: KCB (1), CMG (2), CB (5), CBE (5), QBE (3).

Industry Regulators: Fines

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what arrangements there are for the allocation to spending areas of revenue from fines imposed by those industry regulators for which his Department is responsible. [190511]

Malcolm Wicks: Fines by regulators would be treated as Consolidated Fund Extra Receipts (CFERs), which go directly to the Treasury, unless specified otherwise in legislation.

INTO University Partnerships Limited

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when the last accounts were (a) due from and (b) filed at Companies House by INTO University Partnerships Limited and its subsidiaries. [190859]

Mr. Thomas: INTO University Partnerships Ltd. was incorporated on 13 July 2005, their first set of accounts were therefore due to be filed at Companies House no later than 13 May 2007. I have been advised by the Registrar of Companies that Companies House has written to the company to advise them that the accounts are overdue and requesting they be filed.

Companies House does not keep a register of subsidiary companies, however a company's subsidiaries are often listed on its accounts. As they have not filed any accounts the Registrar of Companies is unable to provide any information of its subsidiary companies.

Investments: Companies

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assistance his Department provides to businesses from the Isle of Man wishing to (a) invest in the United Kingdom and (b) take part in joint ventures with UK companies; how much was made available for these purposes in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [190788]

Mr. Thomas: In line with its guidelines for eligibility to services, UKTI does not provide services for companies from, or based in Crown Dependencies (Channel Islands and the Isle of Man) and the Overseas Territories (Falkland Islands, Gibraltar, British Virgin Islands, Cayman, Islands, Turks and Caicos etc.). However, where a request is made for assistance in liaising with a foreign government, the case is examined on its merits.

Kelda: Yorkshire

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will take steps to evaluate the effects on the Yorkshire economy of the takeover of Kelda by a private equity group; [189612]

Mr. McFadden: The acquisition of Kelda Group by Saltaire Water is a commercial matter for the enterprises concerned and their shareholders.

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when he will reply to the letters of (a) 9 November 2007 and (b) 14 December 2007 from the hon. Member for the Forest of Dean on firework regulations, reference FD4276. [189868]

Mr. Thomas: I apologise for my delay in responding to the hon. Member. I have been considering the issues raised and am now in a position to respond. A reply will issue from my office shortly.

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when he will reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire, dated 21 December 2007, transferred from the Department for Culture, Media and Sport (CMS 85948), about the withdrawal of CapTel. [191156]

Mr. Thomas: I apologise for the delay in responding to the hon. Member. The letter was originally sent to the wrong Department, a reply will be issued shortly.

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when the Parliamentary Under Secretary of State will reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire, dated 23 January, on mobile telephone dealers. [191224]

Mr. Thomas [holding answer 3 March 2008]: I apologise for the delay in responding to the hon. Member, a reply will be issued shortly.

Origin Marking

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what UK and European legislation governs whether goods may be labelled as made in (a) England, (b) Scotland, (c) Wales, (d) Northern Ireland and (e) the UK. [190249]

Mr. Thomas: Generally speaking, there is no UK or European Union legal requirement for goods to bear marks indicating their origin, nor is there anything to prevent voluntary origin marking where traders wish to do so. Where such marks are applied to goods, the law requires this information to be accurate.

Overseas Investment: Taiwan

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the value of (a) UK investment in Taiwan and (b) Taiwan's investment in the UK was in each year since 1997; what steps he (i) has taken and (ii) plans to take to increase (A) trade and (B) joint ventures between the UK and Taiwan; and if he will make a statement. [190789]

Mr. Thomas: The following table shows the UK's foreign direct investment (FDI) net flows to and from Taiwan for the period 1997-2005, the latest year available.

UK net foreign direct investment flows with Taiwan 1997-2006

£ million

| | UK outward FDI in Taiwan | UK inward FDI from Taiwan |
|---|---|---|
| 1997 | -32 | [1] |
| 1998 | 39 | [1] |
| 1999 | 28 | 2 |
| 2000 | 122 | 24 |
| 2001 | 357 | 14 |
| 2002 | 118 | 12 |
| 2003 | 37 | -7 |
| 2004 | 161 | -8 |
| 2005 | 150 | 10 |
| 2006 | -37 | [1] |

|---|---|---|
| 2001-02 | 4 | 230 |
| 2002-03 | 6 | 302 |
| 2003-04 | 8 | 214 |
| 2004-05 | 7 | 221 |
| 2005-06 | 5 | 120 |
| 2006-07 | 12 | 318 |
| 2007-08 | [1]9 | 928 |

[1] Up to February 2008

UK Trade and Investment offers a range of services to UK companies. For Taiwan, we have identified the following priority areas: Construction (specifically Urban regeneration), Creative Industries, Healthcare, Information Communications Technology (ICT), Infrastructure (specifically Rail), Nanotechnology, Environment and Renewable Energy.

In the coming year UK Trade and Investment will host the Taiwan British Business Council (TBBC) and the UK Taiwan Trade Talks with the aim of further building up the business relationship and addressing barriers to trade.

Overseas Trade: Israel

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when (a) he, (b) Ministers in his Department and (c) his officials last met the Chairman of the Israel Britain Chamber of Commerce to discuss trade between Great Britain and Israel; for what dates the next such meetings are planned; and if he will make a statement. [189036]

Mr. Thomas: I have not yet had the opportunity to meet Len Judes, Chairman of the Israel-British Chamber of Commerce. My right hon. Friend the Member for Makerfield, as Minister for Trade, met Len Judes when he addressed a meeting of the Israel Britain Business Council in London in May 2006.

Contacts in Tel Aviv are regular and ongoing. UKTI officials based in London who are responsible for business with Israel meet representatives of the Israel-British Chamber of Commerce when they travel to Israel. The last two such contacts were in June 2007 and February 2008.

UKTI officials in London will next meet Len Judes, at the time of the Israel-Britain Business Council meeting, in the UK in May 2008.

Private Sector: Redundancy

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform pursuant to the answer of 19 February 2008, Official Report, column 656W, on private sector: redundancy, whether his Department is currently considering provision of funding under the selective finance for investment in England scheme. [191496]

Mr. McFadden: Funding can be provided under the selective finance for investment in England (SFIE) scheme to support new capital investment that will safeguard employment. Under EC state aid law, the allocation of public sector funds to private sector companies simply to prevent redundancies, i.e. in the absence of new capital investment, would be considered as operating aid. SFIE cannot be used to provide operating aid. However, SFIE may be granted to an independent investor to support the acquisition of assets directly linked to an establishment that would have closed had it not been purchased, therefore preventing redundancy.

Seas and Oceans: Legislation

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when he last discussed the Marine Bill with his Cabinet colleagues; and if he will make a statement. [188708]

Mr. Thomas: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State has regular discussions on a range of issues with Cabinet colleagues. However, any discussions concerning the Marine Bill would be led by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for the Environment, Food and Rural Affairs.

Service Industries: Pay

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (1) if he will bring forward measures to ensure that service staff receive income in full from any tips earned in the course of their duties in addition to a contracted rate of pay which is at or above the minimum wage; [187417]

(2) what measures his Department is taking to ensure that earnings received in tips above contracted rates of pay are always passed on to service staff. [187418]

Mr. McFadden: Current legislation already requires that workers should receive the national minimum wage. Under the present minimum wage regulations, cash tips, service charges, gratuities or cover charges that are paid by the employer through the pay roll can count towards the NMW. Many restaurants operate systems known as "troncs" where cash tips are gathered centrally and then allocated out by the head waiter. In some cases the tronc is shared out between the workers without the employer being involved. In these cases the tips would not count towards the minimum wage. However in some cases the tips or tronc money is passed to the restaurant and paid out through the payroll and therefore can count towards the national minimum wage.

Supermarkets: Alcoholic Drinks

Mr. Cox: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether he plans to take steps to prevent supermarkets from engaging in loss-leading alcohol promotions. [189541]

Mr. Thomas: The Competition Commission considered the issue of 'below cost selling' of alcohol in the context of its current inquiry into the groceries market. It concluded that the practice did not raise competition concerns. Separately, the Government have commissioned independent research examining what relationships may exist between the pricing and availability of alcohol and harms associated with excessive alcohol consumption.

Tour Operators: Regulation

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the extent to which tour operators in the activity holiday market comply with the Package Holidays and Package Tours Regulations in terms of financial protection for their customers; and what powers he has to take action against companies which do not comply with the regulations. [188018]

Mr. Thomas: My Department has made no assessment of the extent to which businesses offering activity holidays comply with the requirement in the Package Travel, Package Holidays and Package Tours Regulations 1992 (SI 1992/3288) that they should be able to provide sufficient evidence of security for the refund of money paid over and for the repatriation of the consumer in the event of insolvency. Non-compliance by the activity holidays sector with this element of the Regulations is not the subject of any significant number of complaints to my Department, notwithstanding the hon. Member's recent correspondence on behalf of a business within his constituency.

Local authority trading standards officers have powers to enforce the Regulations and, where necessary, prosecute in the criminal courts.

UK Trade and Investment: Greater London

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many UK Trade and Investment posts there are in (a) London and (b) Glasgow; and how many there are planned to be at each location in January 2009. [180264]

Mr. Thomas: There are approximately 475 trade and investment posts in London and Glasgow. Of these approximately 45 posts are in Glasgow. By January 2009 the trade and investment posts in London will have increased by approximately 170 posts which are being transferred from MOD to BERR under the machinery of government change announced on 11 December 2007.

Unemployment

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the rate of unemployment was in each of the English regions in each year for which figures are available. [191356]

Angela Eagle: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 March 2008:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question on the rate of unemployment in each English region in each year for which figures are available. (191356)

The attached table gives estimates of those aged 16+ who are unemployed as a percentage of all economically active people in the three months ending June from 1992 to 2007, from the Labour Force Survey (LFS).

Seasonally adjusted estimates of national and regional unemployment levels and rates are published each month in the Labour Market Statistics First Release. Please visit the following link for further information:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/downloads/theme_labour/LMS_FR_HS7WebTable18SA.xls

As with any sample survey, estimates from the LFS are subject to a margin of uncertainty.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Air Passengers

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what specifications have been set for information requirements to be entered into the system for monitoring air passengers that her Department is putting out to tender. [190889]

Mr. Byrne: The e-Borders contract was awarded to the Trusted Borders consortium led by Raytheon Systems Ltd. on 14 November 2007.

There are two types of information which need to be collected for the e-Borders system. These are travel document information and other passenger information. e-Borders will require commercial carriers and owner/operators of all vessels scheduled to arrive in or depart the UK to submit detailed passenger, service and crew data to the e-Borders system prior to their departure to and from the UK.

Travel document information (TDI) refers to specified biographical information (name, date of birth, nationality, gender, travel document type, state of issue number and expiry date) relating to a passenger.

Other passenger information (OPI) relates to any other data relating to a passenger held by a carrier in its reservations system and may include, for example, the date on which a reservation was made and payment method. Passenger name records (PNR) are an industry term used by scheduled air carriers to describe the reservation details held by them.

Animal Experiments

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department further to the ministerial letter of 31 January 2006 responding to the recommendations within the Animal Procedures Committee's (APC) 2005 report on the Statistics of Scientific Procedures on Living Animals, if she will make a statement on her Department's response to the APC's recommendation 4. [190050]

Meg Hillier: We will shortly be reviewing our response to all of the recommendations in this Animal Procedures Committee report, including recommendation 4, and will aim to publish our further conclusions when we publish the Statistics of Scientific Procedures on Living Animals 2007.

Association of University Chief Security Officers

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many meetings Ministers from her Department and officials from the Home Office Counter Terrorism Department have had with the Association of University Chief Security Officers; what the purposes were of such meetings; and if she will make a statement. [188010]

Mr. McNulty [holding answer 21 February 2008]: The Association of University Chief Security Officers (AUCSO) falls within the area of responsibility for the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills (DIUS). Neither my right. hon. Friend the Home Secretary nor I or officials at the Home Office have met directly with AUCSO representatives. Government interaction with AUCSO is carried forward by DIUS who engage with them on counter-terrorism issues as well as other matters.

British Crime Survey

Mrs. James: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment she has made of the results of the British Crime Survey, in relation to the perception of antisocial behaviour in the South Wales police force area in 2006-07. [187100]

Mr. Coaker: The British Crime Survey (BCS) is a nationally representative survey of adults aged 16 and over living in private households in England and Wales. The survey includes questions on perceived problems with antisocial behaviour. In the 2006-07 BCS, 20 per cent. of people in South Wales perceived there to be high levels of antisocial behaviour in their local area. Figures for South Wales are similar to the average for England and Wales.

Annual assessments of Police Forces in England and Wales are published jointly by the Home Office and HMIC. As part of the 'Police Performance Assessments 2006-07', South Wales police were assessed as 'poor' and 'stable' for perceptions of antisocial behaviour. Details of the assessments are available on the Home Office website:

http://www.police.homeoffice.gov.uk/performance-and-measurement/performance-assessment

Citizens' Juries

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will place in the Library copies of each document prepared for each of her Department's citizens' juries. [164859]

Mr. McNulty: The Home Office held a Citizens' Jury on Crime which took place on 12 September 2007. The Home Office will place a copy of the final report in the Library when it is published.

Control Orders

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many individuals are subject to control orders; for how long each has been subject to the order; and on what date the prospect of prosecution was most recently considered in each case. [187253]

Jacqui Smith: There are currently 11 individuals subject to control orders. The following dates reflect when these individuals were first served with a control order (since that point their original control order may have been renewed, quashed and/or revoked and replaced with a new one).

Two individuals were served with control orders in March 2005.

One individual was served with a control order in September 2005.

One individual was served with a control order in November 2005.

One individual was served with a control order in December 2005.

One individual was served with a control order in July 2006.

One individual was served with a control order in August 2006.

One individual was served with control order in September 2006.

One individual was served with a control order in June 2007.

One individual was served with a control order in July 2007.

One individual was served with a control order in January 2008.

A decision on whether to prosecute a particular individual is an operational matter for the police and the Crown Prosecution Service. The police are under a duty to keep under review the possibility of prosecution of individuals subject to a control order for offences relating to terrorism, and to consult with the Crown Prosecution Service as appropriate. The possibility of prosecution is considered on an ongoing basis and this is formally captured on a quarterly basis via the Control Order Review Group (CORG). The last round of CORGs was held on 3 to 6 December 2007.

Dr. Evan Harris: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when her office received the annual report on control orders from the independent reviewer in (a) 2008 and (b) 2007. [187407]

Mr. McNulty: The information is as follows:

(a) The Home Office received a draft of the third annual report on control orders on Sunday 10 February 2008. The report was finalised by Lord Carlile on 14 February 2008 and published on 18 February 2008.

(b) The Home Office received a draft of the second annual report on control orders on 25 January 2007. The report was finalised by Lord Carlile on 2 February 2007 and published on 19 February 2007.

Crimes of Violence: Ports

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many attacks have been made on UK lorry drivers returning through the Channel ports by potential illegal immigrants since 1 January 2008. [191190]

Mr. Byrne: The information requested is not collected centrally. It is not possible to identify such offences from the recorded crime statistics collected by the Home Office.

Crimes of Violence: Young People

Joan Ryan: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent steps she has taken to tackle knife crime amongst young people. [187000]

Mr. Coaker: The Government published their Tackling Violence Action Plan 'Saving Lives. Reducing Harm. Protecting the Public.' on 18 February 2008. This addresses a broad range of serious violence offences, and has a particular focus on knife crime.

The Action Plan recognises the public concern and addresses the dangers of youngsters who carry knives and are at risk of committing serious violence. It sets out a range of actions to tackle serious violence including knife crime over the next three years.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the salary range is for each pay band of civil servants in her Department. [188808]

Mr. Byrne: The salary ranges for each pay band of civil servants are as follows:

Departmental Retirement

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many staff in her Department retired on grounds of stress-related illness in each of the last three years. [187503]

Mr. Byrne: The Home Office is unable to provide information on how many staff have retired on grounds of stress-related illness. Our database records any retirement that is as a result of sickness as a 'medical retirement'. The Home Office is committed to reducing work related stress and ensuring, so far as is reasonably practicable, the health, safety and welfare of all employees. The Home Office policy is concerned with managing the risk factors of stress in the workplace for the reduction or elimination (so far as is reasonably practicable) of the causes of work-related stress, together with the provision of support for staff who may experience stress from any cause.

Deportation

Kerry McCarthy: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what account her Department takes of Foreign and Commonwealth Office travel advice in decisions on deportation. [191405]

Mr. Byrne [holding answer 3 March 2008]: Foreign and Commonwealth Office travel advice is for British nationals. There is often a difference between the risks a British citizen would face when travelling to a foreign country and those for someone returning to what is their home country. Travel advice aimed at British travellers cannot therefore be assumed to apply in the same way to nationals of the country concerned. Instead, decisions about whether it would be safe to return an individual to their country of origin are taken in the light of all the available information about conditions as they relate to nationals of that country.

Deportation: Cameroon

Kerry McCarthy: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what account she has taken of recent events in Cameroon in plans to review her policy on deportations to that country; and what recent discussions she has had with the Foreign and Commonwealth Office on this matter. [191560]

Mr. Byrne [holding answer 4 March 2008]: Officials from the Border and Immigration Agency continue to closely monitor the situation in Cameroon and are in regular contact with the Foreign and Commonwealth Office in order to obtain accurate and up-to-date information on recent events there. Asylum and human rights applications made from Cameroonian nationals continue to be considered on their individual merits in accordance with our international obligations and taking full account of the latest available information about the conditions in Cameroon as they impact on the individual applicant. The Border and Immigration Agency only enforces the removal of Cameroonian nationals who we are satisfied are not in need of protection.

Dogs

Mr. Prisk: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps her Department is taking to deal with attacks by dogs on (a) adults and (b) children. [191009]

Mr. Coaker: The Government take all violent crime extremely seriously. A person who uses a dog to attack another person, provided they have the requisite intent, could be committing one of a range of offences of violence against the person such as grievous bodily harm. Any such offence will be investigated and prosecuted in the same way as any other violent crime.

The Dangerous Dogs Act 1991 (as amended in 1997) makes it an offence to breed, or breed from, four types of dog identified as bred specifically for fighting: the pit bull terrier; the Japanese Tosa; the Dogo Argentino; and the Fila Braziliero. It is also an offence to sell or exchange, or advertise or offer for sale or exchange, any of these dogs.

The legislation also provides protection to the public from a dog of any type or breed which is dangerously out of control in a public place, or in a private place where it has no right to be.

Following the tragic dog attacks on children last year and earlier this year, we are currently undertaking a review of the dangerous dogs legislation.

Drugs: Misuse

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many illegal (a) cannabis and (b) methamphetamine factories were detected in each of the last three years, broken down by police force area. [191379]

Mr. Coaker: The information requested is not collected centrally by the Home Office.

Emergency Calls

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what the cost was of each of the four pilot schemes piloting the non-emergency 101 number; what assessment has been made of the pilot schemes; and if she will place a copy of the final report in the Library; [188366]

(2) what the cost was of each of the four pilot schemes for the non-emergency 101 number; what assessment has been made of the pilot schemes; and if she place a copy of the final report on the schemes in the Library. [188869]

Mr. McNulty: I refer the hon. Member to the answers given on 7 January 2008, Official Report, column 254W and on 19 February 2008, Official Report, column 580W.

Entry Clearances

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 28 January 2008, Official Report, column 98W, on entry clearances, what estimate her Department has made of the number of foreign nationals resident in the UK who the Government are permitted to require to possess a biometric information document under the UK Borders Act 2007; what estimate her Department has made of the percentage such individuals constitute of the total number of foreign nationals resident in the United Kingdom; and what estimate her Department has made of the number of biometric information documents the Government plans to issue to such nationals by (a) January 2009, (b) January 2010 and (c) January 2011; and if she will make a statement. [184425]

Mr. Byrne: The roll out strategy for biometric immigration documents will be published shortly.

Foreign Workers: Iraq

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether the Government plan to provide accommodation in the UK to Iraqi citizens formerly employed by the Ministry of Defence and their families who are granted indefinite leave to enter. [190411]

Mr. Byrne: The Border and Immigration Agency is currently in the process of putting in place a reception, orientation and integration package for Iraqi citizens who enter the UK as part of the direct entry scheme. This package will include the provision of accommodation.

Frontiers: Personal Records

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the cost has been of Project Semaphore since its inception; and if she will make a statement. [176720]

Mr. Byrne [holding answer 7 January 2008]: Project Semaphore was launched in November 2004 and was commissioned to run for 39 months to provide an operational prototype to trial e-Borders concepts and technology in order to inform and de-risk the e-Borders solution.

Up to November 2007 the cost of Project Semaphore was £38 million.

To date, there have been over 19,000 alerts issued resulting in more than 1500 arrests for crimes which include murder, kidnap, rape, assault, firearms and fraud. These include:

Significant number of registered sex offenders identified leaving UK.

Significant counter-terrorist interventions.

Genetics: Databases

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many and what proportion of new DNA profiles added to the National DNA database in each month since September 2007 relate to individuals aged (a) under 16, (b) 16 to 18, (c) 19 to 20, (d) 21 to 30, (e) 31 to 40, (f) 41 to 50, (g) 51 to 60 and (h) over 60 years, broken down by police force; and if she will make a statement. [179093]

Meg Hillier: The figures given in the tables are the number of subject sample profiles taken by police forces in England and Wales and loaded to the National DNA Database (NDNAD) between 1 October 2007 and 18 January 2008. The data was obtained on 18 January 2008 and is based on the current age of the subjects as at 18 January 2008. Copies have been placed in the Library.

A proportion of DNA profiles held on the NDNAD are replicates, that is, a profile for a person has been loaded on more then one occasion (one reason for this is that the person gave different names, or different versions of their name, on separate arrests). During 2007, the replication rate was calculated to be 13.7 per cent. It was re-calculated as at 31 December 2007 and it is now estimated that 13.3 per cent. of profiles held on the NDNAD are replicates. Therefore, the number of individuals on the NDNAD is now approximately 13.3 per cent. less than the number of subject profiles. The presence of these replicate profiles on the NDNAD does not impact on the effectiveness and integrity of the database. None the less, a long-term exercise is under way to identify issues associated with the removal of all such redundant replicate profiles.

Homicide

Mr. Carswell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many honour killings were recorded by each police force in each of the last 10 years; and if she will make a statement. [185349]

Mr. Coaker: The requested information cannot be provided as, currently, circumstances around so-called honour killings are not identifiable from centrally-held homicide data. However, over the coming months we will be working closely with the Association of Chief Police Officers to develop an honour-based violence action plan that will seek to ensure that all reports of honour-based violence are investigated and to increase awareness of this appalling crime. We will be reporting on the progress of this work on a regular basis.

More broadly, we are currently developing a national black and minority ethnic (BME) working group of Government, statutory agencies and the third sector that will promote a partnership approach to issues such as domestic and sexual violence, forced marriage, so-called honour crimes and female genital mutilation. The group will identify and develop actions and practical tools to assist victims and potential victims.

We are also aware that we need to understand more about the help-seeking behaviours of women from BME communities with a view to informing national policy and practice development. We have commissioned research from Bristol university to undertake a study of this and expect interim findings in September 2008.

Illegal Immigrants: Crime

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people residing in the UK illegally were convicted of a criminal offence in each year since 2002. [183035]

Jacqui Smith: In order to provide the information requested the detailed examination of individual case files would be required and for this to be cross referenced with information held on the Police National Computer.

The chief executive of the Border and Immigration Agency has regularly written to the Home Affairs Committee and provided the most robust and accurate information available on foreign national prisoners. Copies of these letters are available in the Library of the House.

Immigrants: Police Custody

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on how many occasions the Immigration Service used police cells to hold immigrants in each year since 1997; and what the average cost was in each police force area in each year. [190827]

Mr. Byrne: The information requested could only be obtained by the detailed examination of individual case records and could therefore be provided only at a disproportionate cost.

Offenders: Deportation

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether the Government seeks to deport (a) foreign national offenders sentenced to imprisonment for a period of less than one year and (b) foreign national offenders sentenced to non-custodial community punishments. [180681]

Mr. Byrne: The chief executive of the Border and Immigration Agency advised in her appearance before the Home Affairs committee on 15 January that over 4,200 foreign national prisoners were deported or removed from the United Kingdom in 2007. Our policy was set out very clearly during the passage of the UK Borders Act.

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether the Government seeks to deport foreign national offenders sentenced to (a) less than a year's custody and (b) non-custodial community punishments for (i) possession of a firearm and (ii) possession of class B or C drugs with intent to supply. [180682]

Mr. Byrne: Our policy was set out very clearly during the passage of the UK Borders Act.

Offensive Weapons: Crime

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what research has been undertaken by her Department on (a) areas and (b) communities with high levels of knife-related crime. [180309]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office regularly collects information on knives and violent incidents via the British Crime Survey. The findings are published each year at national level. Data from the 2006-07 survey can be found on the Home Office web site at:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/pdfs07/hosb1107.pdf

The Offending, Crime and Justice Survey (OCJS) also includes questions on young people carrying and using knives. These findings are also published at national level. The latest published information from the 2005 survey can be found on the Home Office website at:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/pdfs06/hosb1706.pdf

Historically, homicide has been the only offence category for which police recorded knife crime is collected by the Home Office. Figures are published each year for method of killing, and 'sharp instrument' is one of these methods. National findings for 2006-07 can be found on the Home Office website at:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/pdfs08/hosb0308.pdf

Data on knife-enabled grievous bodily harm and robbery offences have been collected centrally since April 2007. Figures for 2007-08 will be published in July 2008 in the next annual 'Crime in England and Wales' volume.

Police Custody

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will make a statement on the development of police investigation and detainee handling centres. [176300]

Mr. McNulty: The provision of Police Investigation and Detainee Handling Centres in each force area is an operational matter for the chief officer of the force concerned.

Police National Computer

David T.C. Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which organisations have access to the police national computer. [188453]

Mr. McNulty: The following organisations have access to the police national computer:

All Police Forces in England and Wales
All Police Forces in Scotland

Police Stations

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the Answer of 30 January 2008, Official Report, column 389W, on police stations, how many police buildings have been (a) opened and (b) closed in each year since 1997, broken down by police authority area. [189368]

Mr. McNulty: The management of the police estate and allocation of resources are matters for each police authority and the chief officer, who are responsible for assessing local needs.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the Answer of 30 January 2008, Official Report, column 389W, on police stations, what changes in the use of police buildings have taken place in the last five years. [189369]

Mr. McNulty: The use of police stations has changed in recent years to reflect more modern policing. Many forces have now devised innovative ways of increasing their accessibility to members of the public by using other more modern methods of interaction, such as police shops in high streets, police kiosks and by use of mobile police stations—particularly in rural areas.

The management of the police estate and allocation of resources are matters for each police authority and the chief officer, who are responsible for assessing local needs.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the Answer of 30 January 2008, Official Report, column 389W, on police stations, how many police buildings there were in each police authority area in each year since 1997. [189370]

Mr. McNulty: The management of the police estate and allocation of resources are matters for each police authority and the chief officer, who are responsible for assessing local needs.

Police: Ethnic Groups

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many of the participants at the review of policing event on 31 July 2007 were (a) Afro-Caribbean, (b) Muslim, (c) Sikh and (d) Jewish. [190824]

Mr. McNulty: The event, held on 31 July 2007, sought the views of an invited audience on a number of key issues relating to Sir Ronnie Flanagan's Review of Policing, but specifically with regards to equality and diversity issues. The groups and organisations represented at the event included:

1990 Trust—Promotes the interests of Britain's black communities Action Aid—Global anti-poverty agency
a: gender—Transgender group
British Association of Women in Policing
Calderdale Race Equality Council
Carisma—Black and Minority Ethnic group and a number of independent community members representing the black and minority ethnic community.

Individual participants were not monitored by religion or ethnicity on the day.

Police: Eyesight

Dr. Murrison: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will make a cost-benefit analysis of offering corrective laser eye surgery to firearms officers. [185241]

Mr. McNulty: The consideration of privately funding corrective laser eye surgery is a matter for individual Chief Officers of Police.

Police: Finance

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much central Government funding is being provided to each police authority in the 2007-08 financial year; how much each authority is raising through local precepts; and how much the combined figure for both funding streams represents per head of population in each authority area. [189604]

Mr. McNulty: Information is set out in the following table.

We do not distribute grant to police authorities purely on the basis of population. The police funding formula uses a range of data relating to demographic and social characteristics to reflect the relative needs of each authority. Grant allocations also take into account the relative tax base of each authority. Grant allocations are stabilised by damping to limit year-on-year variations.

Police authority total Government grant allocations 2006-07 and 200708

Police: Information and Communications Technology

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much funding her Department (a) spent on and (b) committed to the Police Portal; why the Police Portal was withdrawn; what plans she has to introduce a secure online crime reporting system for use by police forces; and if she will make a statement. [190342]

Mr. McNulty: This matter is subject to ongoing legal proceedings and it would, therefore, not be appropriate to provide the requested information at this stage.

Police: Retirement

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the number of retired police officers in North Yorkshire and the impact of the cost of their pensions on the operational budget of North Yorkshire Police. [189093]

Mr. McNulty: Information on the number of retired police officers in individual police forces is not held centrally as the administration of the police pension schemes is the responsibility of each individual police authority.

Under the new system of pensions financing introduced on 1 April 2006 police authorities now have a separate pensions account out of which retired officers' pensions are paid. Where the cost of pensions in payment exceeds the level of employer and officer contributions paid into the pension account in any year the account is topped up with a grant from central Government; any surplus is recouped. A key benefit of this change is that it takes away from police authorities the burden of the rising cost of pensions, as the number of pensioners increases, from the operational budget. Instead, the operational budget now only has to provide for the employers' contributions in respect of serving officers.

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many senior police officers were permitted to retire while under disciplinary investigation in each of the last five years. [189159]

Mr. McNulty: The retirement of senior police officers is primarily a matter for the officer concerned, and his or her police authority. The Home Office does not collate information on those who retire while subject to disciplinary investigation.

Resettlement: Iraq

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many applications for the Gateway Programme the UK Government has received from Iraqi citizens formerly employed by the Ministry of Defence. [189855]

Mr. Byrne: The Gateway programme policy states that an individual cannot make an application for resettlement directly to the Border and Immigration Agency. Applications can only be made by the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees to the UK following an individual assessment by them in a third country. As of 27 February, one formal application for the Gateway programme had been made by UNHCR to the UK on behalf of Iraqi citizens formerly employed by the Ministry of Defence.

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many Iraqi citizens formerly employed by (a) the Ministry of Defence, (b) the Foreign and Commonwealth Office and (c) the Department for International Development have been screened by the Border and Immigration Agency since 8 October 2007. [189942]

Mr. Byrne: Since 8 October 2007 the Border and Immigration Agency has screened the following number of Iraqi citizens who were formerly employed by the three main employing Departments:

74 Iraqi citizens who were formerly employed by the Ministry of Defence have been or are being screened by the Border and Immigration Agency.

Eight Iraqi citizens who were formerly employed by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office have been or are being screened by the Border and Immigration Agency.

Three Iraqi citizens who were formerly employed by the Department for International Development have been or are being screened by the Border and Immigration Agency.

Serious and Organised Crime Agency

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many disclosure notices have been obtained by the Serious and Organised Crime Agency to date. [187276]

Jacqui Smith: SOCA's annual report for 2006-07 reported the use of 22 disclosure notices. Comparable figures for 2007-08 are not yet available.

The Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 confers powers on the Director of Public Prosecutions, the Director of Revenue and Customs Prosecutions and the Lord Advocate in relation to the giving of disclosure notices. Detailed cross-matching and validation of data between SOCA and its partners is carried out at the end of each financial year.

As required under the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005, SOCA will publish a report on the exercise of its functions during 2007-08 as soon as possible after the end of the financial year. Comparable figures for 2007-08 will be available when this report is published.

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people employed by the Serious and Organised Crime Agency have been trained in powers of arrest since 1 April 2006. [187277]

Jacqui Smith: Further to my response of 8 March 2007, 182 SOCA staff are undergoing the SOCA investigators course, which incorporates training in powers of arrest.

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many cases relating to (a) drugs, (b) firearms and (c) counterfeit currency have been referred to the Serious and Organised Crime Agency (SOCA) by HM Revenue and Customs; and how many of those cases have been investigated by SOCA. [187278]

Jacqui Smith: Between 1 April 2006 and 31 August 2006, 444 notifications relating to drugs seizures were referred to SOCA by HM Revenue and Customs. Four of these cases were investigated by SOCA.

In order to align these notifications with the UK Serious Organised Crime Control Strategy a refined framework was introduced on 1 September 2006. Since then 101 notifications relating to drugs seizures have been received and SOCA has undertaken investigations in 30 of these cases.

No notifications have been received relating to firearms or counterfeit currency.

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people have been (a) arrested, (b) prosecuted and (c) convicted as a result of operations by the Serious and Organised Crime Agency. [187280]

Jacqui Smith: The SOCA annual report for 2006-07 reported that SOCA casework in the UK had led to 749 arrests; 283 cases reached court and 271 resulted in convictions.

Detailed cross-matching and validation of data between SOCA and its partners is carried out at the end of each financial year. SOCA will publish a report on the exercise of all their functions during 2007-08 as soon as possible after the end of the financial year.

Serious and Organised Crime Agency: Firearms

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many firearms have been seized by the Serious and Organised Crime Agency. [187284]

Jacqui Smith: The SOCA Annual Report for 2006-07 reported that SOCA activity had contributed to the seizure of 151 firearms in the UK.

Detailed cross-matching and validation of data between SOCA and its partners is carried out at the end of each financial year. As required under the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005, SOCA will publish a report on the exercise of all its functions during 2007-08 as soon as possible after the end of the financial year.

Serious and Organised Crime Agency: Manpower

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people were employed by the Serious and Organised Crime Agency in the most recent period for which figures are available. [187283]

Jacqui Smith: The number of full-time equivalent staff directly employed by SOCA at 31 January 2008 was 4,008.

Serious and Organised Crime Agency: Resignations

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many members of staff resigned from the Serious and Organised Crime Agency in each quarter since 1 April 2006. [187279]

Jacqui Smith: The number of resignations from SOCA over the past seven quarters, since 1 April 2006, are: seven, 10, 28, 30, 36, 46, 29 and three staff have resigned during the current quarter.

Serious and Organised Crime Agency: Secondment

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many officers from the Serious and Organised Crime Agency are seconded to partner agencies overseas. [187282]

Jacqui Smith: There are 32 officers from the Serious Organised Crime Agency embedded with partner agencies overseas.

Shoplifting: Wales

Mrs. James: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people were (a) arrested and (b) convicted for shoplifting in the South Wales police force area in each of the last two years. [187096]

Mr. McNulty: Information on how many people were (a) arrested for shoplifting cannot be separately identified from the main offence group of 'other theft offences' of which it is a part.

The number of people who were (b) convicted for shoplifting in the South Wales police area was 1,704 in 2005 and 1,187 in 2006.

Mrs. James: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment has been made of the incidence of shoplifting in the South Wales Police Division H area. [187097]

Mr. Coaker: It is not possible to accurately assess the prevalence of shoplifting. For a variety of reasons many offences are not reported to the police and many offences do not come to the attention of the victim. The available information is contained in the Home Office recorded crime statistics.

South Wales police Division H equates to the Swansea basic command unit (BCU). At BCU level, the Home Office collects statistics on the numbers of offences recorded by the police for that area.

The following table shows that when comparing 2005-06 with 2006-07, shoplifting offences recorded for Swansea BCU have increased by 19 per cent., from 1,449 to 1,726 offences. In 2006-07, shoplifting accounted for 8 per cent. of all crime recorded by the police in the Swansea BCU.

Overall in 2006-07 there was a fall of 6 per cent. in total recorded crime in Swansea. There were also significant decreases in some of the high volume crimes with theft of a motor vehicle down 22 per cent., theft from a vehicle down 11 per cent. and violence against the person down 15 per cent.

Shoplifting offences recorded and detected in Swansea basic command unit (BCU)

| | Number of offences recorded | Number of sanction detections | Sanction detection rate (percentage) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 1,492 | 741 | 50 |
| 200304 | 1,553 | 710 | 46 |
| 2004-05 | 1,451 | 869 | 60 |
| 2005-06 | 1,449 | 907 | 63 |
| 2006-07 | 1,726 | 1,166 | 68 |

Special Constables: Travel

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether she plans to extend free travel on mainline railways in London to volunteer special police constables within the Metropolitan Police Service; and if she will make a statement. [190160]

Mr. McNulty: I understand that the Metropolitan Police Service has no plans to extend free travel on mainline railways for special constables.

Task Force on Child Protection: Internet

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the operating budget was of the Task Force on Child Protection on the Internet in each year since its inception; and how many dedicated staff were employed by the Task Force in each year. [190814]

Mr. Coaker: All groups and organisations in the Home Secretary's taskforce on Online Child Protection contribute to resources and products which have been produced on an 'as needed' basis. There is no dedicated budget or resource.

Terrorism

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will bring forward proposals to create offences of (a) grooming and (b) radicalisation of children and vulnerable people by terrorists and extremist organisations. [188303]

Mr. McNulty: There are no current plans for additional legislation to create specific offences of 'grooming' and 'radicalising' children and vulnerable people. The Terrorism Act 2006 introduced offences regarding the encouragement of terrorism which we believe are sufficient in this regard. Government continue to monitor the effectiveness of current terrorism legislation, and we are committed to working with communities and young people to build resilience to the threat from violent extremists who seek to undermine our shared values.

Mr. Ingram: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what representations she has received from the Scottish Executive on the judicial processes to apply to those to be charged with terrorist offences where those offences are planned in England but carried out in Scotland. [190852]

Mr. McNulty [holding answer 3 March 2008]: The Counter-Terrorism Bill introduced on 24 January 2008 includes a proposal to enable specific terrorist offences committed in any part of the UK to be dealt with in any part of the UK. This provision updates the law and enables police forces and prosecuting authorities to handle terrorist cases in the most effective way. The Scottish Executive was fully consulted on this proposal before the Counter-Terrorism Bill was introduced.

Terrorism: Arrests

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many (a) men and (b) women have been (i) arrested, (ii) charged with and (iii) convicted of terrorist-related offences since the introduction of the Terrorism Act 2000; [184744]

(2) how many people have been (a) arrested, (b) charged and (c) convicted of terrorist-related offences under (i) the Terrorism Act 2000, (ii) the Anti-Terrorism, Crime and Security Act 2001, (iii) the Prevention of Terrorism Act 2005 and (iv) the Terrorism Act 2006; [184745]

(3) how many people arrested under (a) the Terrorism Act 2000, (b) the Anti-Terrorism, Crime and Security Act 2001, (c) the Prevention of Terrorism Act 2005 and (d) the Terrorism Act 2006 have been (i) charged with and (ii) convicted of a non-terrorism related offence since each Act came into force. [184746]

Mr. McNulty: Statistics on the number of arrests, charges and convictions under the Terrorism Act 2000 and under other legislation are available on the Home Office website. The figures are not broken down in the format requested as a power of arrest only exists under S41 of TACT 2000. There is no power of arrest under any of the other Acts mentioned.

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/security/terrorism-and-the-law/

Since 11 September 2001 to 31 March 2007, there have been 1,228 arrests under the Terrorism Act 2000 or under other legislation, where the investigation was conducted as a Terrorist investigation. Of the total 1,228 arrested, 1,165 were arrested under the Terrorism Act 2000 and 63 arrests under other legislation, where the investigation was conducted as a terrorist investigation; 132 were charged with terrorism legislation offences only, and 109 charged with terrorism legislation offences and other criminal offences. In 2007, 37 individuals were convicted in 15 significant terrorist cases. 21 of those individuals pleaded guilty. So far in 2008,18 people have been convicted of significant terrorist related offences of which seven individuals pleaded guilty.

Terrorism: Children

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment she has made of the use of children by terrorist organisations; and if she will make a statement. [188264]

Mr. McNulty [holding answer 22 February 2008]: Assessment on the tactics used by terrorist organisations and trends are produced by the appropriate parts of the national security machinery. The Director General of the Security Service has said that terrorist organisations are attempting to radicalise young people. As a country we all have a shared duty to resist violent extremism and to protect young people from extremist messages. The Government are committed to working with communities and young people to build resilience to the threat from violent extremist groups who seek to undermine our shared values. While acknowledging the seriousness of the threat we currently face, the vast majority of people in Britain reject violent extremism.

Terrorism: West Midlands

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps the Government has taken to improve counter terrorism efforts in the West Midlands in the last 10 years. [167514]

Mr. McNulty [holding answer 26 November 2007]: Since early 2003, the United Kingdom has had a long-term strategy for countering international terrorism (known within Government as CONTEST). Its aim is to reduce the risk from international terrorism, so that people can go about their daily lives freely and with confidence. The strategy is divided into four principal strands: Prevent, Pursue, Protect and Prepare. The polices and activities which flow from that cover the whole of the United Kingdom.

As part of this strategy the Government have developed a national structure for counter terrorism policing which includes a Counter Terrorism Unit based in the West Midlands. The unit was established in April 2007 and will reach full capacity in 2008. The national structure has significantly increased the ability of the police to gather intelligence and evidence against terrorists and to disrupt them and their activities.

Theft: Children

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many children were charged or cautioned for robbery in Peterborough City Council area in each year since 1997. [189979]

Maria Eagle: I have been asked to reply.

Information covering persons aged under 18 cautioned or proceeded against at magistrates courts for robbery in the Cambridgeshire police force area from 1997-2006 are provided in the following table.

The court proceedings database held by my Department does not contain information on charging. Also, data are not available below police force area level.

Number of offenders aged 10-17 cautioned and defendants aged 10-17 proceeded against for Robbery in the Cambridgeshire police force area, 1997-2006[1,2]

| | Offenders cautioned | Defendants proceeded against |
|---|---|---|
| 1997 | 6 | 38 |
| 1998 | 2 | 30 |
| 1999 | — | 49 |
| 2000 | 3 | 40 |
| 2001 | 2 | 28 |
| 2002 | 1 | 37 |
| 2003 | — | 34 |
| 2004 | 6 | 28 |
| 2005 | 6 | 38 |
| 2006 | — | 34 |

[1] These data are provided on the principal offence basis.

[2] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the police forces and courts.

As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Office of the Third Sector

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what responsibilities the Office of the Third Sector has in relation to the Charity Commission. [191374]

Phil Hope: The Charity Commission (the Commission) is a non-ministerial Government Department and is the independent regulator of Charities in England and Wales. In the exercise of its functions it is not subject to the direction or control of any Minister of the Crown or other Government Department. The Minister for the Cabinet Office appoints the members of the Commission's board and conducts parliamentary business on the Commission's behalf. He has policy responsibility for the law in relation to charities in England and Wales, including making Regulations and Orders under the Charities Acts. The Office of the Third Sector works closely with the Commission on matters of mutual interest, such as the implementation of the Charities Act 2006, while recognising and respecting the Commission's independence.

PRIME MINISTER

China

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Prime Minister pursuant to the Answer of 4 February 2008, Official Report, columns 747-48W, on China, what discussions he had with the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform on (a) the selection of business leaders to accompany him on his trip to China, (b) the basis on which such business leaders were invited and (c) any bilateral business agreements made during the visit; and if he will make a statement. [190950]

The Prime Minister: I have regular meetings and discussions with ministerial colleagues and others on a wide range of subjects.

Departmental Reviews

Mr. Maude: To ask the Prime Minister what reviews he has commissioned since June 2007; on what date each review commenced; what progress has been made on each to date; and when each is expected to report. [191048]

The Prime Minister: I refer the right hon. Member to the answer I gave the right hon. Member for Witney (Mr. Cameron) at Prime Minister's Questions on 6 February 2008, Official Report, column 949.

Iraq: Weapons

Mr. Amess: To ask the Prime Minister what the evidential basis was for the statement in the 2002 Iraq dossier that Iraq could deploy weapons of mass destruction within 45 minutes of an order to use them; and if he will make a statement. [190871]

The Prime Minister: These matters have been examined during the course of the Butler Review and other inquiries, and covered during debates and statements on Iraq and in briefings by my predecessor's official spokesman. All relevant information has been placed in the public domain in as far as that could be done without prejudicing national security.

Legal Opinion: Armed Forces

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Prime Minister if he will make it his policy to publish legal advice provided to the Cabinet on proposals to go to war or otherwise commit the military to action. [190528]

The Prime Minister: Advice from the Law Officers is handled in accordance with the requirements of the ministerial code.

Sudan

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Prime Minister what plans he has to visit Darfur. [192079]

The Prime Minister: For Security reasons, my future engagements are announced as and when appropriate.

WOMEN AND EQUALITY

Age: Discrimination

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality what research she has commissioned on the incidence of discrimination in the supply of goods and services to people on the basis of age; and if she will make a statement. [190506]

Barbara Follett: The Government Equalities Office has worked with the Department of Health to commission two literature reviews and two research studies to assess the costs and benefits of eliminating age discrimination in the provision of health and social care.

Departmental Databases

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Minister for Women and Equalities what databases are (a) owned and (b) maintained by the Government Equalities Office. [185428]

Barbara Follett: The Government Equalities Office has two Microsoft Access databases that hold a register of its staff and its stakeholders respectively. These databases are maintained by GEO and hold no sensitive data. Access to these databases is restricted to GEO staff.

Gender Responsive Budgeting

Bob Spink: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality if she will evaluate the merits of the application of gender responsive budgeting in the Government's public expenditure process; and if she will make a statement. [190477]

Barbara Follett: Gender responsive budgeting is one of a range of tools which the Government are using to tackle gender inequality.

We will be working with women's non-government organisations to improve gender analysis of tax and spending policies over the forthcoming year.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Departmental Impact Assessments

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many regulatory impact assessments his Department has conducted in the last 12 months. [191264]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: Information on the final regulatory impact assessments published between 1 January and 30 June 2007 can be found in Command Paper 7297, available at:

http://www.official-documents.gov.uk/document/cm72/7297/7297.pdf

For the Department for International Development, no regulatory impact assessments have been listed. Departments are in the process of identifying the final regulatory impact assessments published between 1 July and 31 December 2007. The Department for International Development did not conduct any regulatory impact assessments within this period.

From April 2008, all final impact assessments will be published on a central website.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what the salary range is for each pay band of civil servants in his Department. [188797]

Gillian Merron: The salary range for each pay band of civil servant in the Department for International Development is shown in the following table:

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Bingo

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what estimate he has made of the number of people belonging to bingo clubs in England. [191565]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Information on the number of people belonging to bingo clubs in England is not collected or held centrally.

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what assessment he has made of the potential of bingo clubs to contribute to the delivery of his Department's leisure policies; and if he will make a statement. [191570]

Mr. Sutcliffe: A regulatory impact assessment (RIA) for the Gambling Act was prepared by the Department for Culture, Media and Sport in April 2005. This contained a competition assessment for the bingo market. The RIA can be accessed on the Department's website at:

http://www.culture.gov.uk/what_we_do/Gambling_racing/

The Department has a close working relationship with the Bingo Association, the main trade body representing the interests of the industry. This enables the Department to have a good understanding of the issues of importance to the bingo industry. The Government recognise that bingo provides a very popular leisure pursuit for the millions of people who play the game each year. Bingo halls provide an important source of employment and play a significant social role in their local communities.

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what discussions he has had with the Chancellor of the Exchequer on the level of value added tax payable by bingo clubs; and if he will make a statement. [191571]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Ministers and officials have had discussions with Treasury about a range of gambling issues.

OLYMPICS

Departmental Cost Effectiveness

Bob Spink: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what progress she has made in the zero-based budget review of expenditure for which she is responsible under the Comprehensive Spending Review. [191483]

Tessa Jowell: On 10 December 2007 the Government announced the result of work undertaken to ensure that the budget for the Games is fully aligned with scope, programme and risks; and confirmed that the findings of this work validated the ODA Budget, and the overall funding package of £9.325 billion that was announced in March 2007, which is consistent with the CSR settlement.

Details of progress across the Olympic programme, and funding for the Games, can be found in the first Annual Report on the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games, published on 22 January 2008. I will make further reports to Parliament on a six monthly basis.

Ministerial Duties: Paymaster General

Robert Neill: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what functions she has carried out in her capacity as Paymaster General. [191662]

Tessa Jowell: My ministerial functions are set out in the List of Ministerial Responsibilities, which is available for reference in the Libraries of the House.

WALES

A55: Accidents

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how many personal injury accidents there were on the A55 in Wales in each of the last five years; and how many involved at least one heavy goods vehicle in each year. [190565]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The data regarding personal injury accidents on the A55 in Wales are contained in the table. Although these figures encouragingly show a downward trend, the number of accidents in 2006 is still very regrettable.

Personal injury accidents on A55 between Holyhead and Wales/England boundary

| | Total | 3.5t + |
|---|---|---|
| 2002 | 140 | 12 |
| 2003 | 125 | 7 |
| 2004 | 131 | 6 |
| 2005 | 101 | 7 |
| 2006 | 89 | 5 |

Departmental Older Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how many people over the age of 55 have been recruited by his Department in each of the last three years. [191523]

Mr. Paul Murphy: In line with anti-age discrimination legislation and good practice, the Wales Office does not ask candidates to provide their age or date of birth when applying for jobs, because of this it is not possible to separate those staff from the others recruited.

Hazardous Substances: Waste Disposal

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales when his Department was informed of (a) the dumping of toxic waste and (b) the leaching of toxins into groundwater at Brofiscin Quarry; what steps have been taken to (i) remove the waste and (ii) prevent further leaching; and if he will make a statement. [191180]

Mr. Paul Murphy: All records relating to the former Welsh Office on this issue have been transferred to the Welsh Assembly Government. However, I understand the Welsh Office was aware of the contamination in 1975 from a report prepared by the Water Pollution Research Laboratory on behalf of the then Department for the Environment. The Welsh Office was also referred to in earlier publications concerning Brofiscin. In addition, the Welsh Office carried out a survey into contaminated land in Wales, including Brofiscin quarry in 1988.

The Environment Agency has been liaising with the Welsh Assembly Government and local authority in respect of Brofiscin Quarry since the implementation of Part 2A Contaminated Land legislation in 2001 in Wales. The site was determined as contaminated land in March 2005 by the local authority. The Environment Agency is currently conducting a remedial options appraisal in accordance with the relevant legislation and statutory guidance.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Elections: Proof of Identity

Mr. Shepherd: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland, what representations he has received from electors who have been refused a ballot paper at an election in Northern Ireland since 2002 because of their inability to provide a required form of identification [199072]

Mr. Woodward: I have received no representations to this effect. The hon. Member may wish to be aware that the Government will shortly lay draft regulations before the House which will extend the types of photographic ID accepted at polling stations in Northern Ireland to include the Translink Blind Person and War Disabled SmartPasses; and remove the requirement that ID must be current. We hope that this will reduce the number of people who find they are unable to exercise their vote on polling day as a result of bringing to the polling station ID which has recently expired or is not acceptable as proof of identity.

Mr. Shepherd: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what assessment he has made of the effect on voter turnout of the need for electors to provide a proof of identification at polling stations in Northern Ireland since 2002. [190071]

Mr. Woodward: I have considered the information available on this subject in various reports prepared by the Electoral Commission and have been pleased to note that this important counter-fraud measure appears not to have had a significant adverse effect on the numbers voting in Northern Ireland.

Departmental Plants

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much his Department spent on pot plants in each of the last five years. [192064]

Mr. Woodward: The Northern Ireland Office does not hold a budget for expenditure exclusive to pot plants. To produce this information could be done only at disproportionate cost.

Any expenditure that is incurred is in accordance with the principles of Managing Public Money and the Treasury handbook on Regularity and Propriety.

Departmental Translation Services

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much was spent on translation services by his Department, associated agencies and non-departmental public bodies in (a) 2003-04, (b) 2004-05, (c) 2005-06, (d) 2006-07 and (e) to date in 2007-08. [187993][1]

Mr. Woodward: The following amounts were spent by the Northern Ireland Office, its associated agencies and non-departmental bodies including the Police Service of Northern Ireland, the Probation Board for Northern Ireland and the Northern Ireland Prison Service on translation services:

(a) 2003-04: £415,024.17

(b) 2004-05: £484,535.29

(c) 2005-06: £1,214,706.93

(d) 2006-07: £912,123.00

(e) to date in 2007-08: the return has not been completed for this period yet but as soon as the figures become available we shall provide the hon. Member with this information.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Alcoholic Drinks: Misuse

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department further to the Prime Minister's comments on tackling binge drinking at her press conference on 28 January 2008, what additional powers are planned for local authorities to tackle excessive drinking in town centres. [183778]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 1 February 2008]: In her speech of 6 February 2008, the Home Secretary made it clear that the Home Office will consider whether the existing laws on the confiscation of alcohol from young people are adequate. The Home Secretary also said that she will consider changing the law if necessary, to make it clear that drinking in public by those people under the age of 18 is unacceptable.

Additionally, the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport said in his statement of 4 March 2008, that the offence of persistently selling alcohol to children would be changed from 'three strikes' to 'two strikes' in three months. The Government will legislate to increase the maximum fine for not obeying an instruction to stop drinking in a designated public place from £500 to £2500. Other issues which may not require legislation include making it easier for the Police to disperse antisocial drinkers and we will extend the alcohol arrest referral pilots so that under 18s may also benefit from a brief intervention from a trained worker.

Animal Experiments

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what her response is to recommendation 17 of the Animal Procedures Committee's 2005 report on the "Statistics of Scientific Procedures on Living Animals". [191166]

Meg Hillier: We will shortly be reviewing our response to all of the recommendations in this Animal Procedures Committee report, including recommendation 17, and will aim to publish our further conclusions when we publish the "Statistics of Scientific Procedures on Living Animals 2007".

Canvey Island

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on how many occasions access to Canvey Island via the (a) A130 and (b) Fleet Road was temporarily closed by the police in each of the last 10 years. [191789]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 4 March 2008]: The Information is not collected centrally or recorded by Essex police. Essex police recognise the impact of any closure to strategic roads and will always seek to divert traffic and/or re-open the road as quickly as possible. They need, however, to balance this against the priorities of dealing with incidents and any resulting criminal investigation.

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the average time taken for the police to respond to an emergency call on Canvey Island when the A130 access road is blocked. [191799]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 5 March 2008]: This information is not collected centrally and is not recorded by Essex police.

Domestic Violence: Homicide

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people were killed by their partner or ex-partner in each of the last 10 years; how many of these victims had previously contacted the police regarding their partner or ex-partner; how many of the perpetrators had previously been charged with an offence relating to domestic violence; and how many of the perpetrators were on bail when the offence took place. [187894]

Mr. Coaker: Available data from the Homicide Index relate to offences currently recorded as homicides in England and Wales as at 12 November 2007. Latest analysis is published in "Homicides, Firearm Offences and Intimate Violence 2006/07" (Home Office Statistical Bulletin 03/08), which can be found at:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/pdfs08/hosb0308.pdf

The number and percentage of homicide victims by relationship of victim to principal suspect are shown in table 1.05.

The additional requested information cannot be provided as it has not been collected by the Home Office.

Identity Cards: Contracts

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department to which external companies and agencies her Department has awarded contracts for the identity cards programme. [180254]

Meg Hillier: Since the merger of the Home Office Identity Cards Programme and the UK Passport Service to create the Identity and Passport Service in April 2006, projects to deliver enhancements to passports, identity cards and other improvements have been necessarily combined.

Much of the work conducted by Identity and Passport Service cannot be categorised, both financially and operationally, as contributing towards either the introduction of passports with facial images and fingerprints or identity cards alone. Consequently it is not possible to identify which external companies and agencies have been awarded contracts solely for the identity cards programme.

Offensive Weapons: Children

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent estimate her Department has made of the numbers of children who carry knives. [180121]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office funded the 2005 Offending, Crime and Justice survey, which was a household survey of people aged between 10 and 25 years. National level findings of this survey, which included questions on the carrying and use of knives, are published. The latest published figures indicate that 4 per cent. of young people aged between 10 and 17 years had carried a knife in the previous 12 months. The results from the 2005 survey can be found on the Home Office website at:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/pdfs06/hosb1706.pdf

Passports: Glasgow

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many passport requests were received by mail at the Glasgow Passport Office (a) in the latest year for which figures are available and (b) in each of the previous five years. [187572]

Meg Hillier: The requested information is given in the table.

| Glasgow | Postal applications received |
|---|---|
| 2003 | 567,369 |
| 2004 | 568,186 |
| 2005 | 591,048 |
| 2006 | 652,619 |
| 2007 | 554,784 |

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what percentage change there has been in the Glasgow Passport Office's workload in the last 12 months. [187577]

Meg Hillier: The requested information is given in the table.

Glasgow Passport Office

| | Intake |
|---|---|
| January 2007 | 46,981 |
| January 2008 | 43,306 |
| Percentage change | 8.5 |

Passports: Personation

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will review the procedure for returning expired passports to their holders in order to reduce the risk of identity theft. [189031]

Meg Hillier: The Secure Delivery service, which is used by the Identity and Passport Service to send out new passports, is available for passport applicants to have their expired passports returned to them. Applicants are encouraged to opt for this service, for which a fee of £3 is charged. Where this service is not chosen, expired passports are returned by second class post, the cost of which is included in the application fee. All expired passports are cancelled before being returned. These arrangements are kept under review.

Theft: Metals

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what progress has been made in reducing crime by the national task force on metal thefts; and if she will make a statement; [192133]

(2) what assistance she is planning to give to Operation Saruman in Cambridgeshire on the reduction of metal theft; and if she will make a statement. [192134]

Mr. Coaker: The national task force on metal theft set up by the Association of Chief Police Officers (ACPO) is currently developing its plan for co-ordinated preventative and enforcement action on metal theft.

The plan will be the focus of a national conference on metal thefts on 25 March 2008 which will be attended by representatives from the public and private sectors. The conference follows a national day of action on 28 January 2008, the results of which are currently being collated.

We are aware of police operations against metal thieves in several different force areas including Operation Saruman in Cambridgeshire. A significant part of the developing action plan will outline how local operations can be supported by national and regional partners including the provision of good practice advice and examination of the effectiveness of current legislation.

Vehicle Number Plates: Police

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent guidance she has issued to police on illegal vehicle number plates; and if she will make a statement. [191227]

Mr. Coaker: Enforcement of the law on illegal vehicle number plates is an operational matter for the police. At the end of January this year police forces across the country joined together in "Operation Larch". The operation was intended to provide evidence on links between illegal number plates and wider criminality, inform debate on changes that might be proposed and maximise disruption to criminal activity. I look forward to the police collation and analysis of data from this operation.

Youth Taskforce

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what discussions she has had with ministerial colleagues in the Department for Children, Schools and Families on setting the priorities for the Youth Taskforce. [167108]

Mr. Coaker: The Government's response to youth crime is cross-cutting.

The Youth Task Force's forthcoming action plan will be agreed by Ministers across Government, and Ministers and officials from both Home Office and Department for Children Schools and Families have been involved in discussions on the priorities of the Youth Taskforce.

JUSTICE

Immigration: Deportation

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many of the 359 appeals against a notice of intent to deport between 1 August and 31 October 2006 were successful; on what grounds they were successful; and how many of those that were successful cited breach of Article 3 of the European Convention on Human Rights as a ground for appeal. [191896]

Mr. Straw: Of the 359 oral appeal hearings against a notice of intent to deport held at the Asylum and Immigration Tribunal between 1 August and 31 October 2006, 70 were successful.

The grounds, and any specific articles of the European Convention on Human Rights, cited in any appeal which was successful could not be determined without examination of the individual files. This would incur disproportionate cost to the Tribunal.

Licensed Premises: Closures

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many closure notices have been given to premises licence holders for persistently selling alcohol to children since the coming into force of section 23 of the Violent Crime Reduction Act 2006. [191310]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I have been asked to reply.

This information is not currently held centrally.

The latest DCMS Statistical Bulletin on Alcohol, Entertainment and Late Night Refreshment, which shows a breakdown of licensing data between April 2006 and March 2007, was published on 8 November 2007. The most recent data therefore covers the period prior to section 23 of the Violent Crime Reduction Act 2006 coming into effect in April 2007.

Matrimonial Proceedings

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many legal aid certificates have been issued (a) in total and (b) in relation to ancillary relief within matrimonial proceedings in (i) south region, (ii) London region, (iii) midlands region, (iv) Wales region and (v) north region since 2004. [191436]

Maria Eagle: Ancillary relief related cases are not separately recorded by the Legal Services Commission, but are classified under 'financial provision proceedings'. Also included under this heading are: property adjustment/ lump sum orders, periodical payments orders and transfers of tenancy. The table outlines the total number of civil legal aid certificates issued and the number of legal aid certificates issued for 'financial provision proceedings' in each financial year since 2004.

The number of certificates issued for financial provision has shown a steady decline since 2004-05. This is partly due to changes made to eligibility for legal aid for ancillary relief, introduced in October 2005, which tightened the criteria where alternative sources of funding may be available.

| | London | Midlands | North | South | Wales | Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Total certificates | | | | | | |
| 2006-07 | 26,513 | 35,814 | 52,184 | 28,638 | 8,656 | 151,805 |
| 2005-06 | 26,711 | 36,854 | 51,748 | 30,750 | 8,921 | 154,984 |

| | London | Midlands | North | South | Wales | Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2004-05 | 27,176 | 36,310 | 50,970 | 30,751 | 9,304 | 154,511 |
| Certificates for financial provision proceedings | | | | | | |
| 2006-07 | 1,616 | 5,564 | 6,277 | 4,323 | 1,301 | 19,081 |
| 2005-06 | 1,673 | 6,828 | 7,019 | 5,587 | 1,440 | 22,547 |
| 2004-05 | 1,937 | 7,091 | 7,173 | 6,179 | 1,601 | 23,981 |

Notes:
1. Certificates are classified according to the location of the lead supplier.
2. These totals have been revised to include back-dated certificates issued after year-end.
3. Certificates are classified according to the first or main proceedings.
4. Further information has led to the reclassification of a few certificates previously reported under financial provision proceedings.

Proceeds of Crime Acts 2002: Prosecutions

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many (a) successful and (b) unsuccessful prosecutions under the Proceeds of Crime Acts 2002 and 2005 there have been; how much has been recovered under these Acts; and what the cost of recovery was. [190754]

Maria Eagle: The information requested covering defendants found guilty at all courts and unsuccessful prosecutions under the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002[1] for money laundering offences for the years 2003-06 have been provided in the table.

[1] The proceeds of Crime Act 2002 was amended by the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005.

Number of defendants found guilty at all courts for offences under the Proceeds of Crime act 2002, and the number of 'unsuccessful prosecutions', England and Wales 2003-06[1,2,3]

| | Found guilty | Unsuccessful prosecutions |
|---|---|---|
| 2003 | 15 | 25 |
| 2004 | 129 | 101 |
| 2005 | 564 | 379 |
| 2006 | 1,262 | 618 |

[1] These data are provided on the principal offence basis.
[2] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the police forces and courts. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those date are used.
[3] Includes defendants acquitted at crown courts, cases dismissed and 'left on file', juries discharged and cases where there is 'no case to answer' or no evidence offered.

Information provided by the Home Office shows that the total amounts of criminal assets recovered in England Wales and Northern Ireland in the years 2003-04 to 2006-07 are as follows:

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| 2003-04 | 54.5 |
| 2004-05 | 84.4 |
| 2005-06 | 96.6 |
| 2006-07 | 125 |

Information on the cost of recovery is not held by the Ministry of Justice.

Public Protection

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many critical public protection cases there were at the most recent date for which figures are available; and what mechanisms are in place for public protection in relation to those cases. [191908]

Maria Eagle: As at 4 March, there are 153 critical public protection cases registered with the Public Protection Unit (PPU) in the National Offender Management Service (NOMS). Each critical public protection case is managed under the Multi-Agency Public Protection Arrangements (MAPPA). Within MAPPA, the Police, Probation and Prison Services collaborate to assess and manage the risks presented by offenders, with co-operation from a number of other agencies. The NOMS PPU may provide additional funds to support local risk management arrangements for critical public protection cases.

Youth Opportunities Fund: Finance

Jim Cousins: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much was allocated to the Youth Opportunities Fund and the Youth Capital Fund in the City of Newcastle (a) in total and (b) for administrative overheads and recharges in each year from 2005-06 to 2007-08. [191627]

Beverley Hughes: I have been asked to reply.

The Youth Opportunity and Capital Funds (YOF and YCF) were established in April 2006 as complementary, universal funds operating under a single management framework. In 2006-07, £179,521 was allocated to the city of Newcastle for YOF and £155,271 was allocated for YCF. The same amounts were allocated to the city of Newcastle in 2007-08. In each of these years, up to £15,000 of the YOF allocation could be used for administrative overheads.

In 2006-07, the city of Newcastle spent both its YOF and YCF allocations in full. Details of 2007-08 expenditure are due to be submitted to the Department for Children, Schools and Families by the end of June.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Departmental Recycling

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what weight of paper his Department recycled in each of the last five years. [179462]

Kevin Brennan: In the five years to 2006/07 my Department's predecessor, the Department for Education and Skills, reported the following volumes of paper recycled:

| | Recycled paper (metric tonnes) |
|---|---|
| 2002/03 | 377.3 |
| 2003/04 | 416.52 |
| 2004/05 | 367 |
| 2005/06 | [1]1,082.62 |
| 2006/07 | 868.88 |

[1] Information on office paper waste was not separately identified for this year but information on a project to recycle Departmental publications was.

Drinking Water

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much his Department spent on bottled water in the latest year for which figures are available. [189808]

Kevin Brennan: The total spend on bottled water for the Department for Children, Schools and Families' predecessor Department DFES for 2006-07 was £53,000 per annum.

Educational Visits: Negligence

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what representations he has received on the impact of the provisions of the Compensation Act 2006 on school visits; and if he will make a statement; [191899]

(2) how many awards have been made under the Compensation Act 2006 for claims of negligence or breaches of statutory duties by teachers on school visits. [191900]

Jim Knight: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given on 5 March 2008, Official Report, column 2644W.

English Language

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much his Department has spent on English language classes for staff in the last year for which figures are available. [177431]

Kevin Brennan: The Department does not provide or fund English language classes for staff.

The Department has signed and is committed to the Government Skills Pledge to encourage and support all staff to achieve at least a full level 2 qualification. Some element of this support may in a few cases include supporting the attainment of basic literacy. This is provided via local colleges and incurs no direct cost to the Department

Ministerial Visits

Mr. Wareing: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will make a statement on his visit to Liverpool, West Derby constituency on Friday 1 February 2008; at whose invitation he attended; where he visited; and whom he met. [192153]

Ed Balls: I did not visit Liverpool, West Derby constituency on 1 February 2008.

Physical Education: Teachers

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the answer of 4 February 2008, Official Report, column 927W, on physical education: teachers, if he will breakdown the figure of 1,570 physical education initial teacher training (ITT) places between those which are (a) school-centred and (b) employer-based. [190433]

Jim Knight [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The Training and Development Agency for Schools (TDA) has allocated 1,130[1] of the 1,570 places available for physical educational Initial Teacher Training in 2008/09 to mainstream training providers. The remaining 440[1] places will be for Employment Based Routes which have yet to be allocated to specific providers.

Figures are rounded to the nearest 10.

Pupils: English Language

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what percentage of children in schools in Lincolnshire speak English as a second language. [175792]

Jim Knight: The information is available in the following table. This can be found in tables 34 and 35 of Statistical First Release 'Schools and Pupils in England: January 2007 (Final)', which is available on the Department's website:

http:/www.dfes.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/SFR/s000744/index.shtml

Schools: Community Relations

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps the Government has taken to assist schools with the promotion of community cohesion since 1997. [191892]

Beverley Hughes: Good schools, through improvements to their teaching and learning; and through work to narrow achievement gaps and engagement with the community, have been developing an understanding and appreciation of others among their pupils and preparing them for active participation in a diverse society,

The Education and Inspections Act 2006 placed a new duty to promote community cohesion on the governing body of maintained schools in England, which came into effect from 1 September 2007. Guidance to schools on the new duty was issued in July 2007. Ofsted plan to inspect schools against this duty from September 2008 as part of school inspections.

Furthermore, we launched the Schools Linking Network on 3 October 2007 to support schools in linking with other schools and encourage interaction between pupils from different backgrounds A national conference and nine regional conferences were held to raise awareness of the duty. Currently, we are developing a resource pack to provide further practical support for schools in meeting the duty.

Schools: Offensive Weapons

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many people were convicted for possession of a blade or offensive weapon on school premises in (a) 2005, (b) 2006 and (c) 2007. [187877]

Mr. Coaker: I have been asked to reply.

Data on convictions for possession of knives and offensive weapons on school premises for 2005 and 2006 are provided in the following table.

Data for 2007 will be available in autumn of this year.

Number of persons found guilty for having an article with a blade or point or an offensive weapon on school premises, England and Wales, 2005 and 2006[1, 2, 3]

| | Article with a blade or point[4] | Offensive weapons |
|---|---|---|
| 2005 | 44 | 29 |
| 2006 | 45 | 36 |

[1] These data are provided on the principal offence basis.
[2] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the police forces and courts. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.
[3] Offences under Criminal Justice Act 1988 SS.139 and 139(2) as added by Offensive Weapons Act 1996 S.4(1)
[4] Figures for this offence for 2005 exclude convictions in West Mercia PFA due to an issue with the data.

Teenage Pregnancy

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps the Government has taken to reduce teenage pregnancy rates since 1997. [191905]

Beverley Hughes: The Teenage Pregnancy Strategy was launched in 1999 and included:

the establishment of a media campaign aimed at 13 to 17-year-olds; measures to improve the quality of sex and relationships education (SRE) in schools; measures to improve sexually active young people's access to contraceptive and sexual health services; support for parents to talk to their children about sex and relationship issues; and additional support to help teenage parents and their children achieve better outcomes.

Between 1998 (the baseline year for the Strategy) and 2006 (the latest year for which data are available), the under-18 conception rate has fallen by 13.3 per cent. to its lowest level for over 20 years. The under-16 rate has fallen by 13.0 per cent. over the same period.

As well as giving young people the 'means' to avoid teenage pregnancies, we are also tackling the underlying factors that increase their risk of teenage pregnancy—low attainment, poverty, early disengagement from learning and low aspirations—through the Every Child Matters reforms.

Written Questions

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) when he will answer questions (a) 163291, (b) 163205, (c) 163194, (d) 163314, (e) 163318, (f) 163211, (g) 163320, (h) 163319, (i) 163310, (j) 163386, (k) 163193, (l) 163102, (m) 163455, (n) 163548, (o) 163554, (p) 163534, (q) 163759, (r) 163564, (s) 163557, (t) 164018, (u) 163821, (v) 164017, (w) 163765, (x) 163766, (y) 163762, (z) 173767, (aa) 163764, (ab) 163311 and (ac) 163209 tabled by the hon. Member for Yeovil; [175151]

(2) when he will answer questions (a) 164444, (b) 164421, (c) 164420, (d) 166028, (e) 166037, (f) 164423, (g) 166105, (h) 166107, (i) 166030, (j) 165755, (k) 166686, (l) 166106, (m) 168199, (n) 168191, (o) 166731, (p) 169801, (q) 167782, (r) 168194, (s) 169834, (t) 169839, (u) 169832, (v) 169838, (w) 169800, (x) 169833, (y) 169837, (z) 170196, (aa) 170790 and (ab) 170786 tabled by the hon. Member for Yeovil. [175149]

Kevin Brennan: The Department has responded to all of the above parliamentary questions. PQ 173767 was not allocated to this Department but a check with the official report indicates that the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs has issued a response. We were informed that PQ 165755 had been withdrawn as the text of the PQ was identical to PQ163222 which has received a full reply.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Citizenship: Young People

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps his Department has undertaken in consequence of the Resolution of the Council of the European Union of 14 November 2006 on participation by and information for young people in view of promoting their active citizenship; and if he will make a statement. [184058]

Beverley Hughes: I have been asked to reply;

The Resolution of the November 2006 European Council is consistent with the considerable work we are doing in this country under 'Aiming High' the Government's 10-year strategy for young people published in July 2007. This strategy has the objective of improving the life chances of young people and their relations with the communities in which they live through participation in positive leisure-time opportunities, activities and improved support services.

Music: Internet

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many prosecutions there have been for the illegal (a) copying and (b) downloading from the internet of music under the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988; and if he will make a statement. [190854]

Ian Pearson: The Government keep no central records of specific prosecutions for illegal copying and downloading from the internet of music under the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

Near Earth Objects Task Force

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many of the recommendations of the Near Earth Objects Task Group's report (a) have been implemented, (b) are in the process of being implemented, (c) have not been commenced and (d) will not be implemented; and if he will make a statement. [174285]

Ian Pearson: The last update to the Government response to the task force recommendations was issued in January 2005. At that time, it was decided that many of the issues had moved on significantly from 2000 when the recommendations were made and that there was limited value in revisiting them in their original form. The UK Government remain committed however to their original policy, namely to address this global issue at an international level. The recent establishment of a working group on NEOs within the United Nations, chaired by the UK, and emerging opportunities such as ESA's plan for a space situational awareness programme; encompassing NEOs, demonstrates that the UK remains effective in delivering on this commitment.

Science and Technology Facilities Council: Finance

Mr. David Hamilton: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what discussions he had with Scottish academic institutions before deciding upon the budget for the Science and Technology Facilities Council. [190546]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The Department holds regular discussions with Scottish academics and their institutions on issues across the research funding agenda.

Training: Young People

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what proportion of (a) 16, (b) 17 and (c) 18 year-olds in 2006 are in (i) jobs without training, (ii) other education and training and (iii) employer funded training; and how many are in (A) full-time and (B) part-time jobs for each category. [189266]

Beverley Hughes: I have been asked to reply.

Estimates of participation in education for those aged 16-18 are published annually by the Department in a statistical first release (SFR) each June. The most recent estimates of the number and proportion of academic age 16, 17, and 18 year-olds in England in (i) jobs without training, (ii) other education and training and (iii) employer funded training, along with full-time education and work based learning at end 2006 are shown in the Tables 1 and 2 provided with this answer.

The Department does not publish breakdowns of these estimates by full-time/part-time employment. However, it is possible to produce estimates of this from the Labour Force survey (LFS), applying survey estimates of proportions in full/part-time employment in each group to the official figures above. Estimates for England, thus calculated, are shown in the Tables 3 and 4 provided with this answer. It is important to note that the LFS will produce estimates that will be subject to sampling error and respondent error. Estimates from Quarter 4 2006 and Quarter 1 2007 have been combined to improve accuracy.

[1] Due to rounding and a very small overlap between the Full-time education and WBL figures, columns may not add up to 100 per cent.

UK Astronomy Technology Centre

Mr. David Hamilton: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) what representations he has received on the funding of the UK Astronomy Technology Centre; [190544]

(2) what steps he has taken to ensure that the UK Astronomy Technology Centre remains operational prior to the publication of the Wakeham review. [190545]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 29 February 2008]: I have received a number of representations from the general public about the funding of the UK Astronomy Technology Centre (UKATC). UKATC, which is owned by the Science and Technology Facilities Council (STFC), is a world leader in the design and construction of instruments to many of the world's major telescopes. However, STFC's demand for its services has declined since the UK joined the European Southern Observatory in 2002.

The STFC is looking at the future of the Astronomy Technology Centre in relation to the potential demand for its services and the council's science budget allocation. STFC is exploring the possibility of a partnership that makes use of the unique skills in the ATC and applies them to a wider portfolio, and it will look to work with the local universities and local funding agencies in taking that forward. It is too early to say what the outcome of these discussions will be.

STFC issued a notice on 2 January calling for voluntary redundancies across all its activities. In line with previous announcements, the SRS (Synchrotron Radiation Source) at Daresbury will close on 31 December 2008 but STFC has not taken a decision on whether any compulsory redundancies (other than those relating to SRS) will be needed.

The cross-council review led by Bill Wakeham, Vice-Chancellor of Southampton university, and commissioned by Research Councils UK, will examine the health of physics research and I expect the review panel to report to RCUK over summer 2008.

DEFENCE

Afghanistan: Peacekeeping Operations

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of the security situation in the Afghan provinces of (a) Nimruz, (b) Farah and (c) Herat. [190668]

Des Browne: The Taliban have launched opportunistic raids on district centres in the western provinces of Nimruz, Herat and particularly Farah. Both ISAF and the Afghan National Army have conducted surge operations in these provinces to counter the threat and ensure that security is maintained.

Compared to many areas of eastern and southern Afghanistan these provinces experience less violence, the majority of which is the result of low-level criminality and clashes among local power brokers. Herat in particular has benefited from a sustained period of relative stability, reconstruction and growth.

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of the security situation in (a) Kunduz and (b) Badakhshan province. [190692]

Des Browne: The security situation in both Kunduz and Badakhshan is steady. Compared to many areas of eastern and southern Afghanistan these provinces experience fewer incidents of violence, the majority of which is the result of low-level criminality linked to drug smuggling and local criminal gangs.

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of the security situation in Helmand province. [190723]

Des Browne: ISAF and the Afghan armed forces continue to engage in successful operations against the Taliban in Helmand, pushing them back from populated areas and bringing more of the province under the control of the Government of Afghanistan.

Nevertheless, the insurgents continue to pose a threat through improvised explosive devices, suicide bombers and opportunistic attacks.

Mr. Kilfoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what equipment is available to British forces in Afghanistan for jamming Taleban communications. [191129]

Des Browne: I am withholding information on equipment capability as its disclosure would, or would be likely to prejudice the capability, effectiveness or security of the armed forces.

Armed Forces

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what (a) operational control, (b) administrative control, (c) technical control and (d) other command relationship there is between British and non-British forces (i) operating in Helmand Province and (ii) deployed on ESDP military operations by unit down to the battalion level; and what the nationality is of each unit. [190875]

Des Browne: The only permanent non-UK battalion-sized unit from the International Stabilisation Force (ISAF) based in Helmand province is provided by Denmark. It is under the Operational Control of the UK Commander of Task Force Helmand.

The Afghan National Army (ANA) currently deploys five units of battalion size or greater in Helmand province. Their operations are closely coordinated with ISAF operations, including through the use of Operational Mentoring, Liaison and Training Teams, although there is no formal command relationship between ISAF and ANA units.

Other non-UK units may, on occasion, temporarily deploy into Helmand province for specific missions: the precise command relationships with these units will vary dependent on the precise nature of their operational taskings. The UK does not have any battalion level units conducting ESDP operations.

Armed Forces: Publications

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library copies of the joint service publications (a) JSP 717, (b) JSP 745, (c) JSP 745 and (d) JSP 766. [175453]

Derek Twigg: I have arranged for copies of JSP 717 Using the MOD Metadata Standard and JSP 766 The Defence Directive on Employer Support, to be placed in the Library of the House.

JSP 745—MOD Web Publishing Policy is still in draft and is not yet available for publication.

Armed Forces: Recruitment

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what data are retained by his Department on people who applied to join the armed forces but did not sign up; and if he will make a statement. [190448]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: I refer the hon. Member to the oral statement made by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Defence on 21 January 2008, Official Report, column 1225.

The extent of the details retained on any individual depends upon what stage of the recruit selection process an applicant either opted out or was found to be not suitable. In all cases this would include all personal details as requested on the armed forces application form (AFCO form 4). For those whose applications are progressed, details of medical and selection process results and possibly security clearance results, may also be retained.

Armed Forces: Shipping

Mr. Streeter: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which vessels make up the Amphibious Fleet; and where they are base-ported. [192150]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Amphibious Fleet consists of HM Ships Ocean (landing platform helicopter), Albion and Bulwark (landing ship dock), which are base ported at Devonport as well as the four Bay Class landing ship dock (auxiliary) vessels—Largs Bay, Lyme Bay, Mounts Bay and Cardigan Bay—which are not base ported at a specific location.

Mr. Streeter: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence at what level in his Department decisions are taken to remove ships or submarines from their port and base-port them elsewhere. [192152]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Recommendations to make changes to the base ports of ships and submarines are generally considered by the Navy Board. Depending on the nature and scale of these recommendations, Ministers will usually be consulted before a final decision is taken.

Ballistic Missile Defence

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his policy is on the possible development of a European research and development programme for technical and industrial capabilities related to the US missile defence system. [191062]

Des Browne: The UK continues to work with European allies, through NATO, on a number of research and development programmes related to missile defence.

BOWMAN Combat Radio System

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) what percentage of UK (a) Regular and (b) Territorial Army personnel are trained to use the Bowman communications system; [191618]

(2) what the recommended minimum time period for pre-deployment training is for use of the Bowman communications system; [191619]

(3) what the average time taken for pre-deployment training is for use of the Bowman communications system. [191620]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: 95 per cent. of Regular Army units have been trained to use the Bowman Communications System. In addition a limited number of Territorial Army (TA) units and those TA personnel deployed on operations as augmentees, amounting to about 5 per cent. of the TA, have also received Bowman training; this figure will increase significantly during the next two years as Bowman training rolls out to the Territorial Army as a whole.

There is no specific pre-deployment training (PDT) on the Bowman Communications System. The utilisation of Bowman, the primary means of tactical command and control, is a theme which runs continuously throughout PDT.

The use of Bowman is just one of a series of basic soldiering skills that are continuously employed, and an established programme is already in place to ensure that Army personnel who require Bowman training will receive it. The minimum time required for a soldier to be trained in the 'basic' use of Bowman is three days. If required, remedial training is also provided during PDT.

Challenger Tanks: Repairs and Maintenance

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) what system is used to ensure that there is sufficient spare track in theatre for Challenger 2 main battle tanks; [191343]

(2) how much track for Challenger 2 main battle tanks is kept in storage by his Department. [191345]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The British Army uses the GLOBAL computer system which predicts the usage of spare tracks and subsequently orders as required through the joint supply chain to maintain a pre-determined level of stock. In the case of Challenger 2, the data from which GLOBAL predicts the demand has been built up over a significant period of time, ensuring this item does not run out. Demands from operational theatres take precedence over those supporting training activity.

A total of 95 full vehicle sets of track for Challenger 2 are currently held in storage.

Clyde Submarine Base

Mr. Streeter: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which ships or submarines are base-ported at Faslane. [192151]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: There are 15 Royal Navy vessels currently base ported at HM Naval Base Clyde (Faslane), as shown in the following table:

| Class of vessel | Name of vessel |
|---|---|
| Nuclear submarines | HMS Vanguard |
| | HMS Victorious |
| | HMS Vigilant |
| | HMS Vengeance |
| | HMS Superb |
| | HMS Sceptre |
| Mine Countermeasures Vessels | HMS Walney |
| | HMS Penzance |
| | HMS Pembroke |
| | HMS Grimsby |
| | HMS Bangor |
| | HMS Ramsay |
| | HMS Blyth |
| | HMS Shoreham |
| P2000 | HMS Smiter |

Defence Equipment

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) what percentage of (a) weapons mounted installation kits, (b) Warrior vehicles, (c) Saxon vehicles, (d) Scimitar vehicles, (e) combat vehicle reconnaissance tracked vehicles and (f) .5 inch heavy machine guns have been fit for service in each year since 2003; [191444]

(2) how many (a) weapons mounted installation kits, (b) Warrior vehicles, (c) Saxon vehicles, (d) Scimitar vehicles and (e) combat vehicle reconnaissance tracked vehicles were available for army training in each year since 1997. [191446]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Officials are currently compiling information from a range of sources which will take some time to complete. I will therefore write to the hon. Member and place a copy of my letter in the Library of the House.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many of his Department's civil servants were (a) suspended and (b) dismissed for accessing (i) obscene and (ii) other prohibited material on work computers in each of the last five years. [188787]

Derek Twigg: Since April 2007, one civilian has been suspended and dismissed for an offence relating to misuse of IT facilities, including accessing inappropriate material. Information for previous years is not held centrally in the format requested and could be provided only at disproportionate cost. The Department's rules make clear that deliberate abuse of IT facilities to access inappropriate material is a serious disciplinary offence for which dismissal is likely to be the appropriate penalty.

Departmental Older Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many people over the age of 55 years have been recruited by his Department in each of the last three years. [191500]

Derek Twigg: The following table shows the intake of UK Regular Forces and Civilian personnel aged 55 and above for each of the last three years.

Headcount

| | 2004-05 | 2005-06 | 2006-07 |
|---|---|---|---|
| UK Regular Forces[1, 2] personnel intake aged 55 and above | [3] | [3] | [3, 4] |
| Civilian[5] personnel intake aged 55 and above | 900 | 570 | 570 |
| Combined UK Regular Forces[1, 2] and Civilian[5] personnel intake aged 55 and above | 900 | 570 | [4]570 |

[1] UK Regular Forces includes nursing services and excluded Full Time Reserve Service personnel, Gurkhas, the Home Service battalions of the Royal Irish Regiment and mobilised reservists. It includes trained and untrained personnel.
[2] Due to ongoing validation of data from the new joint personnel administration system, UK Regular Forces statistics from 1 October 2006 are provisional and subject to review.
[3] Denotes less than 10.
[4] Denotes provisional.
[5] Civilian intake data for the top level budgets and trading funds, but excludes data for locally engaged civilians and Royal Fleet Auxiliary personnel for whom intake data by age is not known.

Drinking Water

David T.C. Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much his Department spent on mineral water in each of the last three years. [187675]

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much his Department spent on bottled water in the latest year for which figures are available. [189802]

Derek Twigg: The information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Iraq: Helicopters

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what fleets of helicopters are available to UK armed forces in (a) Afghanistan and (b) Iraq; and what future (i) enhancements and (ii) changes to the number of helicopters are planned by his Department. [191610]

Des Browne [holding answer 4 March 2008]: As of February 2008, the UK routinely deployed Chinook, Sea King, Lynx and Apache helicopters in Afghanistan and Merlin, Puma and Lynx helicopters in support of operations in Iraq.

The Ministry of Defence keeps helicopter numbers and capability under constant review and the nature and scale of the assets we deploy can and does vary over time. I am withholding further details of our helicopter deployments as disclosure would, or would be likely to, prejudice the capability, effectiveness or security of the armed forces deployed in Afghanistan and Iraq.

As a result of experience on operations, we are taking steps to increase the robustness of our existing helicopter fleets, such as the purchase of the six Danish Merlin helicopters and the conversion of the eight Chinook Mk3 helicopters to a support helicopter role. We have carried out extensive modifications to improve the operational capability of our helicopters in response to urgent operational requirements, including fitting new rotor blades to a number of our Sea Kings to improve their performance in hot and high conditions, enabling their deployment to Afghanistan. We are also increasing the number of flying hours we will deliver each month to commanders on the ground in Afghanistan from our Chinook and Apache fleets.

As we have made clear previously, UK forces in Afghanistan make use of civil helicopters provided through a NATO contract and our forces also routinely draw upon helicopters provided by other ISAF nations.

Iraq: Peacekeeping Operations

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many members of the armed forces have not been provided with Osprey body armour on deployments in (a) Iraq and (b) Afghanistan; and if he will make a statement. [191466]

Des Browne [holding answer 4 March 2008]: A range of personal protective equipment is available to troops in both Iraq and Afghanistan, and commanders on the ground are able to choose the correct equipment appropriate for any particular set of operational circumstances. Enhanced combat body armour is provided as standard to all personnel in both theatres. Osprey body armour provides additional protection but at the expense of reduced mobility and increased heat retention. Osprey is not therefore issued as standard to all deploying forces but it is made available wherever and whenever commanders on the ground believe it to be the most appropriate protective equipment.

We do not hold records centrally of which individuals have and have not been issued with Osprey body armour at any particular time. But sufficient sets of Osprey body armour are available in both Iraq and Afghanistan for all those personnel who require it.

Military Aircraft: Helicopters

Mr. Kevan Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much his Department is spending in 2007-08 on new helicopters for the armed forces. [191608]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 4 March 2008]: The in-year budget for 2007-08 for all helicopter procurement projects is £317 million. By the end of March 2008, we forecast that we will spend almost all of the budget. Support and capability upgrade costs are not included in this figure.

Military Aircraft: Repairs and Maintenance

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) how many times a (a) C17A Globemaster, (b) Hercules C-130K, (c) Hercules C-130J, (d) Tristar, (e) VC-10 and (f) Nimrod MR2 was cannibalised for spare parts in each year since 2001; [190639]

(2) how many times a (a) C17A Globemaster, (b) Hercules C-130K, (c) Hercules C130J, (d) Tristar, (e) VC-10 and (f) Nimrod MR2 were cannibalised for spare parts in each month in 2007. [190651]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The removal of serviceable parts from one aircraft for use on another is a routine and temporary measure to ensure that the maximum numbers of aircraft are available to the front line.

I refer the hon. Member to the answers I gave him on 30 January 2006, Official Report, column 29W, and 15 January 2007, Official Report, column 772W.

Sudan: Peacekeeping Operations

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment his Department has made of the capability of the UK armed forces to (a) participate and (b) assist in the African Union/United Nations hybrid operation in Darfur; and if he will make a statement. [192636]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The United Nations/African Union Mission in Darfur (UNAMID) is a hybrid mission, which succeeded the African Union Mission in Sudan (AMIS). As such it was agreed on creation that the majority of its units would be from the African Union. Furthermore, due to our heavy commitments elsewhere, the MOD is not in a position to offer, or contribute, force elements or enablers to a United Nations mission in Sudan.

However, the UK has provided several staff officers who are holding key positions in the UNAMID HQ in Sudan in order to increase the mission's capacity to deploy and operate effectively in Darfur. The UK Government are also working to support this Mission by helping troop contributing countries with the provision of equipment and training packages.

Warships

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which ships he expects to enter a period of extended readiness in 2008. [190645]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: As explained in my predecessor's letter to the hon. Member for New Forest, East (Dr. Lewis) on 6 March 2007, 'extended' readiness is not a term currently used by the MOD, in regard to the fleet. The normal operating cycle of every ship includes periods of low readiness, and in the course of 2008 a number of ships will enter periods of 'low' or 'very low' readiness depending on their programmes and departmental planning requirements.

As outlined in the aforementioned letter, with the exception of HMS Invincible and ships in, or preparing for, refit, it remains MOD policy not to publish details of the readiness states of individual Royal Navy vessels or types for reasons of national security.

In line with this policy, I can confirm that the following RN surface ships are currently at low or very low readiness: the aircraft carrier HMS Invincible; and the amphibious assault ship HMS Ocean, and three destroyers and frigates, HMS York, HMS Sutherland and HMS St. Albans, all of which are in refit.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Agriculture: Subsidies

Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many single farm payments were made late in each of the last five years. [187565]

Jonathan Shaw: The single payment scheme was introduced in 2005. The regulatory payment window for each scheme year commences on 1 December in the year of claim and ends on 30 June in the following year.

For the 2005 scheme year, 25,690 claimants received either a full payment or the balancing sum, following an earlier manual or partial payment, after the payment window had closed. Nine claims are yet to be paid. For the 2006 scheme year, the equivalent figure is 2,533 claimants, with 69 claims yet to be fully processed. These figures exclude cases where top up payments have been made following corrections to entitlements or where other changes have been made to claim values following representations by claimants.

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the value was of interest payments made to claimants who received their full Single Payment scheme payment after the regulatory payment window in the (a) 2005 and (b) 2006 scheme years. [188450]

Jonathan Shaw: The value of interest payments made to claimants who received their full Single Payment scheme (SPS) payment after the closing of the regulatory payment window are £2.4 million for SPS 2005 and £400,000 for SPS 2006.

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the (a) number and (b) value of overpayments made to Single Payment scheme (SPS) claimants was in the (i) 2005 and (ii) 2006 SPS; and what the amount recovered was in each case. [188451]

Jonathan Shaw: Overpayments are currently estimated to total some £20.0 million to 10,299 applicants under the 2005 Single Payment scheme (SPS) and £17.6 million to 6,925 applicants under the 2006 SPS.

Some £2.7 million as been recovered thus far.

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the (a) number and (b) value of underpayments made to Single Payment Scheme (SPS) claimants was in the (i) 2005 and (ii) 2006 SPS; and what amount is still owed in each case. [188452]

Jonathan Shaw: RPA does not keep separate data on cases where a top up payment was required after a single payment scheme claim has been corrected. Nor can such data now be readily identified. RPA does retain data on changes in claim values but there is no automatic relationship between those data and underpayments because manual or partial payments may have been made to the claimant. The latest available data shows that claim values in respect of 2005 were increased by £28.6 million for 12,611 claimants.

Agriculture: Trade Competitiveness

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps his Department has taken to ensure that UK pig farmers are not operating at a competitive disadvantage to those in other EU member states. [190661]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 4 March 2008]: DEFRA is very aware of the challenges currently facing the pig livestock sector and their efforts to maintain competitiveness. The leading concern of the industry is the increase in feed costs, which is a global phenomenon affecting producers across the EU.

UK producers have also been affected by last year's animal disease outbreaks. DEFRA put together an aid package last October for all livestock sectors, which included £2 million to promote red meat, including pork.

Regulation in the pig and other livestock sectors is essential to protect public health, animal health and welfare, and the environment. Many UK regulations follow common EU standards and requirements and it has been a priority for the UK in negotiating these to ensure that controls are proportionate and avoid placing unnecessary burdens on producers and others.

One area in which we are ahead of the EU is our unilateral ban, agreed in 1991 for good welfare reasons, on close-confinement sow stalls and tethers from 1999. Tethers have now also been banned in the EU and the UK pressed for and succeeded in obtaining an EU ban on sow stalls, which will take effect from 2013 onwards and have a levelling effect. We have encouraged the pig industry to take advantage of high UK welfare standards to promote the attributes of UK pigmeat in the market place.

Biofuels

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will reclassify the glycerol by-product from bio-diesel production from used cooking oil as fuel rather than waste; and if he will make a statement. [191349]

Joan Ruddock: Whether or not a substance is "waste" within the meaning of Article 1(1)(a) of the Waste Framework Directive (WFD) is a matter that must be determined on the facts of the case and the interpretation of the law is a matter for the Courts. It is not a function of the Government to classify or to declassify any particular substance as waste or non-waste.

The Environment Agency is designated as a "competent authority" for the purpose of implementing the WFD in England and Wales and is required to give effect to the directive's definition of waste, as interpreted by the European Court of Justice and our national Courts.

In April 2007, the Environment Agency issued a regulatory position statement on glycerol produced during the manufacture of biodiesel. It is available on the Agency's website and states that used vegetable oil is waste and that wastes which are processed for use as a fuel normally remain waste until they are burned. However, in July 2007 the Court of Appeal ruled that a waste substance may cease to be waste before being burned if it has been converted into a distinct marketable product which can be used in exactly the same way as an ordinary fuel and with no worse environmental effects.

In light of this, organisations are free to present to the Environment Agency any information they consider relevant to satisfy the Agency that the substance has ceased to be waste before being used as a fuel.

Centre for Environment Fisheries and Aquaculture: Finance

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether there have been changes to the funding allocated to the Centre for Environment, Fisheries and Aquaculture Science for the next five years since the answer given on 4 December 2007, Official Report, column 1089W, on the Centre for Environment, Fisheries and Aquaculture: finance; and if he will make a statement. [190941]

Jonathan Shaw: The only formal change to the response provided in December 2007 is for the year 2008-09; in this year committed funding has been reduced to £29.7 million. Subsequent years are still subject to approval.

Coastal Areas: Access

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will make it his policy to ensure that the implementation of proposals on coastal access do not lead to any capital or income financial loss for landowners and rural businesses. [191429]

Jonathan Shaw: We are in the process of developing the detail of coastal access legislation and are seeking to identify an appropriate opportunity to introduce such legislation. Implementation will be undertaken in line with an approved statutory methodology and in discussion with local interests, including landowners and managers. We will ensure that any proposals strike a fair balance between the interests of the public in accessing the coast and the interests of landowners and rural businesses.

Departmental Eurostar

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much his Department and its agencies spent on (a) first and (b) other class travel by Eurostar in the last 12 months for which figures are available. [187750]

Jonathan Shaw: For the period January 2007 to December 2007 inclusive, from information held centrally, the core-Department spent £394,735 on first class travel, and £254,124 on second class travel, by Eurostar. All official travel is undertaken in accordance with departmental travel policy.

Departmental ICT

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many (a) mobile telephones, (b) personal digital assistants and (c) laptop computers issued to departmental staff were reported (i) lost, (ii) missing and (iii) stolen in each year since 2001. [184345]

Jonathan Shaw: The following figures show the reported number of thefts/losses of mobile telephones, personal digital assistants and laptops from 2001.

| | Mobile phones | Personal digital assistants including Blackberry and palm top devices | Laptops |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2001-02 | 1 | 0 | 13 |
| 2002-03 | 0 | 12 | 23 |
| 2003-04 | 1 | 0 | 2 |
| 2004-05[1] | 0 | 1 | 3 |
| 2005-06[1] | 4 | 1 | 18 |
| 2006-07[1] | 4 | 8 | 22 |
| 2007-08 (to date[1]) | 0 | 1 | 13 |

[1] Following the outsourcing of IT services to IBM in October 2004, computers/laptops are no longer classed as departmental assets as they form part of the overall contract for the provision of IT services. All IT equipment therefore belongs to IBM. However, in an effort to reduce the losses of laptops, advice and guidance on the security of portable computer equipment is regularly issued to users.

Departmental Internet

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many Wikipedia entries have been (a) created and (b) amended (i) by (A) special advisers, (B) Ministers and (C) communications officials and (ii) from IP addresses of (1) special advisers, (2) Ministers and (3) communications officials in (x) his Department and (y) its agencies since August 2005. [185526]

Jonathan Shaw: It would not be possible to obtain this information without incurring disproportionate cost; DEFRA staff access internet sites via a single Government secure intranet (GSI) gateway, and IP addresses within DEFRA's network are allocated dynamically to individuals' computers.

Departmental Private Finance Initiative

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what private finance initiative projects have been approved by his Department in each of the last three financial years, broken down by (a) value and (b) start date. [190884]

Jonathan Shaw: The capital value and start date for every signed PFI project are recorded centrally on the Treasury's website at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/documents/public_private_partnerships/ppp_pfi_stats.cfm

Departmental Publications

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what public information booklets were published by his Department in 2007; and what the (a) print run and (b) cost to the Department was in each case. [185794]

Jonathan Shaw: The information requested is set out in the following table.

| Title | Cost (£) | Copies |
|---|---|---|
| Crop Inspector Report for Cereal Crops | 355.00 | 10,000 |
| Crop Inspector Report for Crucifereous fodder | 99.00 | 1,000 |

| FMD Movement Restriction Leaflet | 3,120.00 | 500,000 |
| Barley and Malt Link Factsheet-AMF194 | 735.00 | 516 |

DEFRA's approach to the production of leaflets is to do so only where they are the most effective means of communication with particular audiences. In all other instances we publish information through our website.

Departmental Recruitment

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether the policy of British jobs for British workers will affect his Department's recruitment policy. [179879]

Jonathan Shaw: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 3 March 2008, Official Report, column 2207W, by the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for the Cabinet Office (Mr. Watson).

Departmental Recycling

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recycling scheme is in operation in each building used by his Department. [176553]

Jonathan Shaw: The following table details the recycling schemes which are available in DEFRA buildings in London, York and Alnwick.

| Item | Disposed by |
|---|---|
| Paper—general | Recycled |
| Paper—confidential | Shredded |
| Cardboard | Recycled |
| Electrical goods | Pre-WEEE collected by maintenance providerPost-WEEE handled as instructed by manufacturer |
| Fridges | In London recycled where possible. York and Alnwick recycled by maintenance provider. Degassed first in all instances |
| Batteries | Recycled where possible |
| M and E Plant | Local contractor sorts and recycled where possible |
| Light tubes | Recycled locally |
| Metal | In York all metal waste from the major project is separated out and recycled. In other locations collected and recycled where possible or disposed of via local scrap recycling company |
| Cans, bottles, plastics | Recycled |
| Toner cartridges—printers, mobile phones, CDs | Collected and recycled where possible |
| Computer hardware | Managed by IBM |
| Food waste, catering oils, wet waste | In London handled by catering contractors and catering oils part recycled and filtered for use in contractor's vehicle. Wet waste scheme starting in January 2008 |

| Item | Disposed by |
|---|---|
| Waste water, rain water | Harvesting plant being installed in York and Alnwick re-build for rainwater |
| Furniture | In London handled in-house via Green Works. York recycled locally—offered to local charities, small businesses etc. In Alnwick surplus furniture will be recycled |

Departmental Visits Abroad

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many overseas visits by officials in his Department took place in each of the last 10 years; which countries were visited; and how much was spent on such visits in each such year. [181609]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA came into being in June 2001. The information requested for each of the last 10 years could be provided only at disproportionate cost. For the period April 2006 to December 2007 inclusive for core DEFRA, the Animal Health Agency, the Centre for Environment, Fisheries and Aqua-Cultural Science, the Government Decontamination Service, and the Rural Payment Agency the information held centrally on overseas visits by officials is:

| Travel type | Country | Spend (£) | Number of tickets |

Drinking Water

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what volume of bottled water was consumed in his Department in the last 12 months. [187971]

Mr. Woolas: From information held centrally, the core-Department consumed 1,969 litres of bottled water in 2007.

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many litres of bottled water were purchased by his Department in each of the last three years; and if he will make a statement. [188265]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 22 February 2008]: From information held centrally the core-Department has purchased the following amounts of bottled water in each of the last three years:

| | Litres |
|---|---|
| 2005 | 9,848 |
| 2006 | 12,948 |
| 2007 | 1,969 |

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much his Department spent on bottled water in the latest year for which figures are available. [189790]

Jonathan Shaw: From information held centrally, £3,392 was spent by the core-Department on bottled water in 2007.

David T.C. Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much his Department spent on mineral water in each of the last three years. [187665]

Jonathan Shaw: From information held centrally, the core-Department has spent the following sums on mineral water in each of the last three years.

| | £ |
|---|---|
| 2005 | 18,699 |
| 2006 | 24,744 |
| 2007 | 3,392 |

Energy-using Products Directive

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment his Department has made of the likely effects of the Energy-using Products Directive's provisions on supply system bundles on levels of waste from 2013. [190932]

Joan Ruddock: The Government's Market Transformation Programme is currently assessing the full range of possible impacts of the implementation of the Energy Using Products Directive, based on the Commission's current proposals.

Environment Protection

Martin Horwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 15 January 2008, Official Report, column 1101W, on environmental protection, how much of the funding received by the Environment Agency has been spent on purposes related to the detection and prosecution of environmental offences, including fly-tipping in each of these years; and what the projected allocation is of future business resource efficiency and waste funding to the Environment Agency (a) in total and (b) for these purposes in the next three years. [189804]

Joan Ruddock: From April 2008, the Business Resource Efficiency and Waste (BREW) programme will be amalgamated into a single, more focused approach of allocating DEFRA funding to increase resource efficiency and reduce carbon emissions.

Funding to delivery bodies working on business resource efficiency will continue in the next spending period, beginning in 2008-09. The following table shows the allocation of BREW funding to the Environment Agency between 2005 and 2008 and the comparable amount of funding allocated to similar projects in 2008-09.

The table also shows how much of the money that was received by the Environment Agency under the BREW Programme was allocated to the detection and prosecution of environmental crime, with the comparable amount of funding allocated to similar projects in 2008-09 shown alongside.

| | | £ million |
|---|---|---|
| Budget | Funding allocated to the Environment Agency (EA) | Funding allocated by EA to tackling environmental waste crime |
| 2005-06 | [1]2.0 | 2.0 |
| 2006-07 | [1]4.454 | 2.0 |
| 2007-08 | [1]4.454 | 2.0 |
| 2008-09 | [2]2.75 | [3]1.5 |
| 2009-10 | [4]__ | [5]__ |
| 2010-11 | [4]__ | [5]__ |

[1] BREW.
[2] Former BREW.
[3] Indicative only.
[4] Indicative budget to be confirmed.
[5] To be confirmed.

DEFRA is still in discussion with the Environment Agency to finalise the use of funding that it is receiving in 2008-09 for activities formerly funded by the BREW Programme. The full indicative allocations for 2008-09 are as follows:

£1.5 million: Waste crime (includes £ 0.5 million capital expenditure)

£0.75 million: NetRegs—an internet based service providing free environmental guidance for small businesses in the UK to help them comply with environmental legislation.

£0.5 million: Waste protocols.

In recent years, the Environment Agency has typically spent approximately £14 million per annum on the enforcement and prosecution of illegal waste activity. This figure represents the full costs incurred by the Environment Agency and does not take into account any costs they may recover through the courts.

Fairtrade Initiative

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what his Department's policy is on the use of fair trade goods (a) in staff catering facilities and (b) at official departmental functions and meetings; and if he will make a statement. [183853]

Jonathan Shaw: Guidance on the use of fairtrade goods is set out on the "fairtrade" page of the Public Sector Food Procurement Initiative (PSFPI) website at:

http://www.defra.gsi.gov.uk/farm/policy/sustain/procurement/trade.htm

Departmental policy is to promote fairtrade goods through voluntary non-contractual means. From information held centrally, 100 per cent. of the tea, coffee and chocolate provided for hospitality functions is free trade. Members of staff have the option of buying fairtrade products in staff catering facilities and have been encouraged to purchase fairtrade products through awareness raising campaigns.

DEFRA's 'Catering Services Food Procurement Toolkit'

http://www.defra.gov.uk/farm/sustain/procurement/toolkit.htm covers fairtrade products at pages 6, 16, 37, 38, 79, 93 and 123.

Fishing Vessels

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) pursuant to the answer of 27 February 2008, Official Report, column 1624W, what the number of vessels he has identified for decommissioning is; and if he will make a statement; [191734]

(2) what his estimate is of the cost of decommissioning; and if he will make a statement; [191735]

(3) if he will use European Fisheries Fund monies to fund the decommissioning of 10 metre and under vessels; and if he will make a statement. [191736]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA officials are currently working on the form of a potential decommissioning scheme for under 10 metre vessels. If I decide that a decommissioning scheme is appropriate, I would expect to be in a position to formally consult on the details of such a scheme in the summer of this year. Until then, it is not possible to say whether vessels will be "identified for decommissioning". Previous schemes have not identified vessels, but set parameters within which certain vessels would be eligible.

The final cost of any decommissioning scheme is related to the scheme design, the monies available, and the number of vessel owners that apply to decommission their vessels. For planning purposes, I have set aside up to £5 million and would draw on funds both from the EU and national sources.

Home Energy Efficiency Scheme

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of the change in the number of vulnerable households that will receive new central heating as a result of the 20 per cent. reduction in the Warm Front budget. [188598]

Mr. Woolas: The Warm Front budget has not been reduced by 20 per cent.

Import Controls: Expenditure

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much his Department spent on border security and enforcement in each of the last three financial years. [186424]

Jonathan Shaw: A number of DEFRA agencies undertake a range of activities at the border, including the Environment Agency, Animal Health and the Plant Health and Seeds Inspectorate. However, disaggregated costs for security and enforcement are not available and could only be provided at disproportionate cost.

Rural Areas: Housing

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will take steps to ensure that funding will be available for (a) rural community council and (b) local measures to aid the supply of affordable rural housing to continue when Rural Social and Community Programme funding ends in March. [191430]

Jonathan Shaw: The Rural Social and Community Programme (RSCP) was always intended to be a time-limited, two-year programme. It also included a specific requirement that beneficiaries' plans should include preparations for the closure of the scheme in March 2008. The Government recently recognised the importance of the rural community councils (RCCs) by announcing new funding worth over £10 million to the network over the next three years.

In addition, I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 28 February 2008, Official Report, columns 1869-70W.

| Sea | |
|---|---|
| Possible reefs in the mid-Irish Sea | Spring 2007 |
| Possible reefs in the central and western English Channel | Summer 2006 |
| Possible reefs in the eastern Irish Sea | Summer 2005 |
| Sandbank in the northern Irish Sea | Winter 2005, summer 2005 |
| Reefs west of the Hebrides | Summer and autumn 2004 |
| Submarine canyons in the south-west Approaches | Summer 2007 |

Further areas of search for "reefs" and "submarine structures made by leaking gases" will be surveyed by JNCC in 2008, 2009 and 2010 on the Scottish Continental Shelf, the offshore area in the North West of Scotland and the Irish Sea.

Seas and Oceans: Nature Conservation

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he expects the loss of marine biodiversity to be halted; what progress is being made to achieve this; and if he will make a statement. [191615]

Jonathan Shaw: The Government are committed to halting the decline of marine biodiversity by 2010.

The establishment of an ecologically coherent network of marine protected areas will help us to meet this goal. Currently we have 151 protected sites with marine features in the UK. This includes 76 Special Protections Areas with marine habitats for birds, 72 Special Areas of Conservation with marine habitats or species, and three statutory marine nature reserves.

The Joint Nature Conservation Committee has been consulting on seven initial offshore sites since December 2007. The consultation is due to close on 14 March 2008.

The forthcoming Marine Bill will give us the powers to designate Marine Conservation Zones for nationally rare, threatened and representative marine features.

To help us to understand the state of our marine biodiversity, we are currently developing indicators to report on 'marine ecosystem integrity'. This will contribute to the UK's reporting on the progress being made towards the commitment made under the Convention on Biological Diversity to 'halt the decline of biodiversity by 2010'.

Trends from the indicator will help us to understand what changes are occurring in the marine environment and where management should be focussed most to prevent further decline.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether he has identified any potential multi-purpose marine protected areas; and if he will make a statement. [191733]

Jonathan Shaw: We will be considering multi-purpose sites as part of the development of a network of marine protected areas. No such sites have yet been formally identified.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what changes have been made to the Marine Strategy Directive since the original draft was published; whether any of these changes reflect the Government's position as stated in the European Standing Committee on the Strategy for the Protection and Conservation of the Marine Environment on 14 February 2006; what representations his Department made to the European Commission and EU counterparts following that European Standing Committee meeting; what the Government's current policy on the Directive is; and if he will make a statement. [191738]

Jonathan Shaw: Agreement has been reached on the terms of a draft Marine Strategy Directive following its Second Reading at the European Parliament in December 2007. The draft directive is due to be presented to council shortly for adoption.

The outcome fully reflects the Government's priorities, and incorporates important changes from the first draft in relation to cost effectiveness and risk-based management (Article 14), co-operation through the regional seas conventions, and the role of the European Commission. The UK was also closely involved in drafting an acceptable definition of 'good environmental status' (GES) and ensuring that the descriptors of GES in Annex I are based on the status of the environment rather than the reduction in certain human pressures. The UK Government made substantive representations on the draft directive in the normal way, through council working groups and at council.

The directive will require member states to take the necessary measures to achieve and maintain good environmental status of their waters by 2020 at the latest. This is challenging, but achievable, with sensible safeguards on cost effectiveness and will help member states deliver better protection for their waters. We are already establishing the measures necessary to assess our waters. The Marine Bill will enable the UK to take a leading role in implementing the directive in a way which reflects UK needs and priorities.

Television

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many plasma television screens have been purchased by his Department and its agencies, and at what cost, in the last 24 months. [191084]

Jonathan Shaw: From information held centrally, the core-Department plus the Marine Fisheries Agency and Natural England have purchased one LCD and four plasma television screens in the last 24 months at a total cost of £4,149. Further information on expenditure on plasma television screens by all other executive agencies and non-departmental public bodies could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

HEALTH

Accident and Emergency Services

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make it his policy to define the core purpose of each specific unscheduled care service with reference to the British Association for Emergency Medicine's guidelines. [189966]

Mr. Bradshaw: It is a matter for the local national health service to ensure that they provide urgent and emergency care services that are responsive to people's needs.

Decisions about the shape and type of urgent and emergency care services should be taken locally so that services reflect the needs of the local population.

Administrative Delays

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance his Department has issued to NHS foundation trusts on the measurement in March of the 18 week referral to treatment waiting time target. [191456]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department has not issued any guidance directly to foundation trusts on measurement of the March referral to treatment milestone.

Ambulance Services: Canvey Island

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health on how many occasions ambulances responding to emergency calls on Canvey Island have been diverted due to temporary road closures resulting from road traffic accidents in the last 12 month period for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [191790]

Mr. Bradshaw: This information is not held centrally. It is for the local national health service to decide how best to provide services to the communities they serve, including ambulance services.

The hon. Member may wish to raise this issue with the chief executive of the East of England Ambulance Service NHS Trust.

Carbon Monoxide: Health Hazards

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps have been taken by his Department to increase awareness of the symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning amongst healthcare professionals. [191886]

Dawn Primarolo: I refer the hon. Member to the written answer I gave to my hon. Friend the Member for High Peak (Tom Levitt) on 30 January 2008, Official Report, column 457W.

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what training is given to trainee doctors to enable them to recognise the symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning. [191887]

Ann Keen: The Department is not responsible for setting curricula for health professional training. However, we do share a commitment with statutory and professional bodies that all health professionals are trained, so that they have the skills and knowledge to deliver a high quality health service to all groups of the population with whom they deal, whatever their condition.

Post-registration training needs for national health service staff are determined against local NHS priorities, through appraisal processes and training needs analyses informed by local delivery plans and the needs of the service.

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what records his Department holds on levels of non-fatal carbon monoxide poisoning. [191901]

Dawn Primarolo: The Information Centre for health and social care hold records on Hospital Episode Statistics which cover those admitted to hospital with a diagnosis of carbon monoxide poisoning recorded in any primary or secondary diagnosis field.

These do not contain data which would allow determination of whether the admission to hospital proved fatal or non-fatal, because information about a patient, once they are discharged from hospital, is not captured.

Dental Services

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what percentage of (a) children, (b) adults and (c) all people in (i) England and (ii) each English region were registered with a dentist in each of the last three years. [191508]

Ann Keen: The proportion of the population registered with an national health service dentist, in England, as at 31 March, 1997 to 2006 are available in Annex B of the "NHS Dental Activity and Workforce Report, England: 31 March 2006." The information is provided by children/adults, and by primary care trust (PCT) and strategic health authority (SHA).

This information is based on the old contractual arrangements which were in place up to and including 31 March 2006. This report was published on 23 August 2006 and is available in the Library and is also available at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/statistics-and-data-collection/primary-care/dentistry/nhs-dental-activity-and-workforce-report-england-31-march-2006

Under the new contractual arrangements, introduced on 1 April 2006, patients do not have to be registered with an NHS dentist to receive NHS care. The closest equivalent measure to 'registration' is the number of patients receiving NHS dental services ('patients seen') over a 24-month period. However, this is not directly comparable to the registration data for earlier years.

The proportion of the population seen by an NHS dentist is available in Table C2 of Annex 3 of "NHS Dental Statistics for England: Quarter 2, 30 September 2007" report. Information is available for the 24-month periods ending 31 March 2006, 31 March 2007, 30 June 2007, and 30 September 2007. The information is provided by children/adults, and by PCT and SHA.

This report was published on 28 February 2008 and a copy has been placed in the Library and is also available at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/statistics-and-data-collections/primary-care/dentistry/nhs-dental-statistics-for-england:-quarter-2:-30-september-2007

Both reports have been published by The Information Centre for health and social care.

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many dental practices have had to suspend NHS dentistry before the end of the current financial year due to budgetary constraints; and if he will make a statement. [190678]

Ann Keen: Primary care trusts (PCTs) in England agree with dental providers the level of services to be delivered over the course of the year, and their annual contract values. These service levels, once agreed, cannot be changed, unless the provider and PCT agree.

It is for the provider to ensure that the annual service level agreed is delivered in a way that maintains services for patients through the year. The Department does not assess the performance of individual providers. PCTs, as commissioning bodies, are responsible for monitoring the services carried out by their local dental providers.

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what assessment he has made of NHS dentistry provision in Hertfordshire; [190679]

(2) what plans he has to extend provision of NHS dentistry in Hertfordshire. [190680]

Ann Keen: It is for primary care trusts (PCTs) to commission health services including dentistry for their local populations. The hon. Member may therefore wish to raise this with the chief executives of West Hertfordshire and East and North Hertfordshire PCTs.

More generally, increasing the number of patients seen within National Health Service dental services is now a formal priority in the NHS Operating Framework for 2008-09. This has been supported by a very substantial 11 per cent. uplift in overall allocations to PCTs from 1 April 2008.

Dental Services: Children

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many dental (a) fillings and (b) extractions were carried out on children in (i) England and (ii) each English region in each of the last three years. [191509]

Ann Keen: I refer the hon. Member for Upper Bann to the answer I gave him on 19 October 2007, Official Report, columns 1383-84W.

Dental Services: Finance

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the cost was of (a) dental fees for items of service and (b) dental treatments in each of the last three years; and how much of the cost was borne by patients (i) in total and (ii) as a percentage of the overall cost in (A) England and (B) each English region in each of those years. [191510]

Ann Keen: Prior to April 2006, primary dental services were provided under either former general dental services (GDS) or former personal dental services (PDS) pilot arrangements. Most services were provided under GDS. Under this system dentists were remunerated on a fee per item of service basis.

In a number of areas, PDS pilots were also established, where dentists were remunerated not on fee per item but on locally commissioned arrangements. The number of GDS practices converting to PDS pilots increased significantly over the years 2004-05 and 2005-06.

The information held by the Information Centre for health and social care on the expenditure by local area for national health service primary dental care under the former GDS and PDS arrangements in 2004-05 and 2005-06 has been placed in the Library.

Equivalent information is not available for 2006-07. Under the new contract arrangements for primary dental care services introduced from 1 April 2006, primary care trusts agree an annual contract value with dental contractors in return for delivery of an agreed level of dental activity. The former item of service fees were discontinued and payments can no longer be itemised by individual treatments.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Ms Keeble: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of his Department's expenditure was allocated to Government growth areas in the last year for which figures are available. [190957]

Mr. Bradshaw: The following table shows the revenue allocations made by the Department to primary care trusts (PCTs) in the growth areas in 2008-09. The PCT revenue allocations for 2008-09 totalled £74.2 billion. The £12.9 billion allocated to PCTs in growth areas represents 17 per cent. of the 2008-09 PCT revenue allocations. This is 13 per cent. of the total national health service budget for 2008-09.

| PCT name | 2008-09 recurrent allocation (£000) |

Diabetes: Health Education

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what change there has been in his Department's support for self-management of, and education on, the treatment of diabetes since 2007. [190460]

Ann Keen: The Department continues to promote support for self-management and education as key elements of care for people with diabetes.

Since the publication of two departmental and diabetes UK joint reports: Structured Patient Education in Diabetes in June 2005 and Care Planning in Diabetes in November 2006, a support for self-management working group has been set up. The group is looking at ways that local services can develop support for self management, including care planning, structured education, psychological issues and self-monitoring. We expect that some outcomes of the group's work will be shared with the diabetes community later in the year.

Diabetes: Standards

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effect of changes in waiting times for appointments with specialist teams on service quality and the standard of care provided to patients with diabetes. [190260]

Ann Keen: The Department is not aware that any such assessment has been made. It is the responsibility of local national health service organisations to commission specialist diabetes services, and to ensure that those services meet all the needs of local people with diabetes. We would expect these services to be of good quality and to meet national waiting time targets.

Doctors: EU Nationals

Peter Bottomley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether compliance with the EU Professional Qualifications Directive for Health Professionals requires a tiered system grouping applicants for positions in the NHS into categories during selection. [186644]

Ann Keen: No. Selection for posts in the national health service is a matter for local employers.

Peter Bottomley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to consult the Royal Colleges on (a) the effects and (b) the implementation of the EU Professional Qualifications Directive for Health Professionals. [186645]

Ann Keen: The Academy of Medical Royal Colleges and the Royal Colleges of Nursing and Midwifery were consulted in summer 2007 on regulations to implement the European Directive on Recognition of Professional Qualifications, 2005/36/EC. Now that United Kingdom legislation to implement this directive is in force, the Department has sought feedback from health and social care regulatory bodies on the effects and implementation of the directive, which concerns the recognition of professional qualifications by regulatory bodies.

Fluoride: Finance

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the (a) feasibility and (b) cost of engineering and water management work required to introduce fluoridated water to areas; and if he will make a statement. [190534]

Ann Keen: Feasibility varies between localities depending upon the coverage of the water distribution system and any technical constraints it imposes. For a strategic health authority with an average population of 5 million we estimate the capital costs of the water plant would be in the range of £15 million to £25 million and the recurrent costs of the operation of the plant and the fluoride chemicals around 80 pence per head of population per year. This compares to some £40 per person currently spent each year on national health service primary care dental services.

General Practitioners

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the percentage of general practitioner practices in (a) England and (b) each English region with at least 50 per cent. of their patients living three or more miles away in each of the last three years. [191582]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department does not hold this information centrally.

General Practitioners: Baby Clinics

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many general practitioner surgeries within each primary care trust area ran weekly baby clinics in each of the last 10 years. [191885]

Ann Keen: The information requested is not collected centrally.

General Practitioners: Working Hours

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many general practitioners covered out-of-office hours in (a) Torbay constituency and (b) England in each year since 1997. [192260]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information requested is not held centrally. The hon. Member may therefore wish to approach the chief executive of Torbay Care Trust for information on numbers of general practitioners covering out of hours.

Primary care trusts now have a legal responsibility to ensure that they provide, or secure provision of out of hours services for their local population.

Health Services: Greater London

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what progress has been made in implementing the targets for the National Service Framework for Long-Term Conditions in Leyton and Wanstead. [190616]

Ann Keen: It is for individual primary care trusts (PCTs), including Redbridge and Waltham Forest PCTs, within the national health service to develop locally the levels of service described in the "National Service Framework for Long-term (Neurological) Conditions (the NSF)". The NSF has a 10-year implementation programme from its publication in March 2005, with flexibility for organisations to set the pace of change locally to take account of differences in local priorities and needs.

Information on the progress that has been achieved locally with regard to the implementation of the targets set out in the NSF can be obtained direct from Redbridge and Waltham Forest PCTs.

Health Services: Pre-School Education

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many visits were made by health professionals to pre-school settings in each of the last five years; and how many children were referred for additional assessment in each year. [191884]

Ann Keen: This information is not available centrally.

Health Visitors

Mr. Kidney: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance his Department gives to primary care trusts on the recruitment and retention of health visitors. [188821]

Ann Keen: It is the responsibility of local organisations to commission and develop services to respond to local needs. The Operating Framework for 2008-09 highlights the importance of maternity and children's services' work force, and the need for local organisations to commission and provide the necessary work force. Health visitors are well placed to deliver significant parts of this service.

Hearing Aids: Waiting Lists

Mr. Betts: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the waiting time for assessment for digital hearing aids was in each primary care trust in England in the latest period for which figures are available. [188885]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The data are not collected in the format requested. However, average waiting times for all audiological assessments as at December 2007, including assessment for digital hearing aids, are shown in the following table.

Average (median) waiting times for audiological assessments: position at end December 2007: commissioner based

Hospitals: Screening

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department is taking to reduce the disparity between the regions in the figures for the percentage of stroke victims who receive brain scans within 24 hours of their admission to hospital. [190732]

Ann Keen: The new National Stroke Strategy, announced in December, will modernise services and deliver the newest treatments for stroke across England. The strategy emphasises the need to improve access to scans and stipulates that brain imaging should be performed in the next scan slot, or within 60 minutes of request out of hours. We are asking all local stroke networks to ensure that any patient who could benefit from urgent care should be transferred to an acute stroke centre that provides 24-hour access to scans and other specialist stroke care.

The national health service is funded to implement the strategy. We have fully costed the proposals in the strategy, and this will be reflected in the allocation which goes to primary care trusts for next year. In addition, we have committed new central funds totalling £105 million over the next three years. Some of that new funding will be used to develop demonstration sites for acute services which will enable us to not only show a step change in service provision in those areas, but to provide lessons that can be shared. The £105 million is central funding—on top of money going into the NHS to support this change.

Local Involvement Networks

Mrs. Lait: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he expects to publish guidance on local involvement networks for local authorities; and by when he plans to require that guidance to be implemented. [191298]

Ann Keen: The NHS Centre for Involvement (NCI) has been contracted by the Department to promote more effective patient and public involvement and consultation and to provide support, advice and guidance to stakeholders in this respect. The NCI will be producing a detailed compendium of guidance from 1 April, when local involvement networks (LINks) will come into force.

Since the Local Government and Public Involvement in Health Act 2007 was enacted in October last year, a great deal of support work has been done to ensure that a LINk is established in each local authority (LA) area. This has included £10,000 being allocated to each LA and the monthly issuing of newsletters designed to help local authorities plan for LINks.

In addition, in August 2007, the Department published its "Getting Ready for LINks" guidance, which set out the activities that local authorities should be undertaking in order to successfully contract with a host organisation to run its local LINk.

NHS: ICT

Peter Bottomley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which strategic health authorities have trusts with Cerner Millennium systems (a) installed and (b) proposed for installation; who in NHS headquarters has the responsibility for collating the experience of trusts with Cerner; what assessment he has made of levels of satisfaction with Cerner in the NHS; and if he will make a statement. [191290]

Mr. Bradshaw: Information on existing deployments for each strategic health authority (SHA) area are shown in the following table.

| SHA | Trust |
|---|---|
| NHS London | Homerton Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust |
| | Newham Healthcare NHS Trust |
| | Barnet and Chase Farm Hospitals NHS Trust |
| | Queen Mary's Sidcup NHS Trust |
| South Central | Buckinghamshire Hospitals NHS Trust |
| | Milton Keynes General Hospital NHS Trust |
| | Nuffield Orthopaedic Centre NHS Trust |
| | Winchester and Eastleigh Healthcare NHS Trust |
| South East Coast | Surrey and Sussex Healthcare NHS Trust |
| | Worthing and Southlands Hospitals |
| South West | Weston Area Health NHS Trust |
| | Taunton and Somerset NHS Trust |

Other trusts in these SHA areas, and one further trust in the North West SHA, will in due course go live with the Cerner Millennium system on dates to be determined by local agreement with the national health service bodies concerned.

While many users who have become familiar with the Cerner Millennium software over time have expressed satisfaction with the system, we are aware that initial concerns have been expressed by some users about the level and quality of functionality provided following some recent deployments of the system. These concerns are being investigated.

Since April 2007, deployment of systems is the responsibility of the SHAs. However, at a national level, NHS Connecting for Health collates information about the performance of suppliers and handles commercial issues. NHS Connecting for Health and SHAs are working closely with the relevant local service providers, and their sub-contractor Cerner to address the user's concerns about the product and its ease of use. The continuous process of applying lessons learned from each deployment aims to ensure the system achieves its potential to serve the needs of the NHS.

NHS: Manpower

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what forecasts he has made of the future requirements for additional (a) radiographers, (b) radiologists and (c) bowel screening colonoscopists over the next five years (i) in England and (ii) in Gloucestershire; and if he will make a statement. [189064]

Ann Keen: Work force planning is a matter for local determination, as local work force planners are best placed to assess the health care needs of their local population. The Department continues to ensure the frameworks are in place to support this.

The number of qualified radiographers employed in the national health service has increased by 2,793 (23.72 per cent.) since September 1997.

The number of diagnostic radiographers has increased by 2,171 (20.9 per cent.) since 1997.

The number of therapeutic radiographers has increased by 622 (44.2 per cent.) since 1997.

[1] More accurate validation in 2006 has resulted in 9,858 duplicate records being identified and removed from the non-medical census. Although this represents less than 1 per cent. of total records, it should be taken into consideration when making historical comparisons.
These 9,858 duplicate records, broken down by main staff group, are: 3,370 qualified nurses; 1,818 qualified scientific, therapeutic and technical staff; 2,719 support to doctors and nurses; 368 support to scientific, therapeutic and technical staff; 1,562 NHS infrastructure support; and 21 in other areas.
[2] New occupation codes for health care scientists were introduced in 2003. As a result, a small number of staff previously included under diagnostic radiography are now classified within medical physics.

The annual NHS work force census does not separately identify the number of bowel screening colonoscopists as they are not a registered specialty or profession and consist of people from a number of different work force groups.

Nurses: Cancer Treatment

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many specialist clinical nurses there are for (a) each cancer specialism and (b) each cancer network; and what assessment he has made of the efficacy of clinical nurse specialist provision; [190571]

(2) how many lung cancer patients there were per lung cancer clinical nurse specialist in each cancer network in the latest period for which figures are available; [190572]

(3) if he will make it his policy to retain current numbers of lung cancer clinical nurse specialists; [190573]

(4) what steps he is taking to improve the access of lung cancer patients to clinical nurse specialists. [190574]

Ann Keen: Data on the number of clinical nurse specialists are not collected centrally. The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) has identified clinical nurse specialists as core members of the multidisciplinary cancer team in their 'Improving Outcomes' series of guidance.

Since 1997 there are over 79,000 (25 per cent.) more nurses in the national health service. It is for cancer networks to work in partnership with strategic health authorities, primary care trusts, NHS trusts and postgraduate deaneries to make the best use of these staff and to put in place a sustainable process to assess, plan and review their workforce needs and the education and training of all staff linked to local and national priorities for cancer including the implementation of NICE Improving Outcomes Guidance.

Nursing and Midwifery Council: Management

Mr. Devine: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what arrangements his Department has for oversight of the governance and management practices of the Nursing and Midwifery Council. [190570]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Nursing and Midwifery Council (NMC) is an independent regulatory body and as such is responsible for its own internal management practices.

The Government have reviewed the governance of all the health care regulatory bodies and published their proposals in the White Paper, "Trust, Assurance and Safety— The Regulation of Health Professionals in the 21st Century". These include a number of reforms to the governance of the regulatory bodies, such as the introduction of appointment only councils that are smaller and more board-like.

The Government established the Council for Healthcare Regulatory Excellence (CHRE) in April 2003 with functions that include promoting best practice and consistency in the regulation of health care professionals and reporting on the performance of regulators' various functions. As part of its responsibilities, CHRE undertakes an annual performance review, of which governance is a key factor, of all of the health care regulators.

Ophthalmic Services: Expenditure

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the cost of ophthalmic services in (a) England and (b) each English region was in each of the last two years. [191504]

Ann Keen: I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave him on 25 October 2007, Official Report, columns 568-69W.

Organs

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many organs for transplantation were (a) stolen and (b) lost from NHS premises in each of the last five years. [188840]

Ann Keen: Under the Human Tissue Act 2004 (Ethical Approval, Exceptions from Licensing and Supply of Information about Transplants) Regulations 2006, practitioners must be able to account for every organ procured, transplanted or in any case where the organ is not transplanted, the manner of disposal. There is no evidence to show that any organs for transplant have been either lost or stolen from national health service premises.

Organs: Donors

Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will seek discussions with his Spanish counterpart to discuss policy on organ donation. [189204]

Ann Keen: As part of its work to examine how donation rates might be improved, the organ donation taskforce looked at successful models of organ donation from across the world. As part of that process, Dr. Rafael Matesanz, of the Organizacion Nacional de Trasplantes in Spain, and architect of the successful Spanish model, gave a presentation to Taskforce on the system in operation in Spain. The former Minister of State (Ms Winterton) attended this Taskforce meeting.

Both the Taskforce, and officials within the Department will continue to work closely with officials in Spain during the implementation phase of the Taskforce report.

Patients: Surveys

Miss Kirkbride: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the cost of the GP patient survey is; and how much has been spent on translation services for the survey. [191006]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department has budgeted around £10 million for this year's general practitioner patient survey. This includes costs to conduct both the access and choice parts of the survey. It is not possible to give a more detailed breakdown of costs as this would require disclosure of commercially sensitive and confidential information provided by our suppliers.

Peterborough Primary Care Trust: Screening

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many women were screened for (a) breast cancer and (b) cervical cancer in the Peterborough primary care trust and predecessor trusts in each year since 2001; and if he will make a statement. [190699]

Ann Keen: Screening for cancer saves lives. The earlier that cancer can be diagnosed the greater the chance of it being cured and screening is vital to diagnosing some cancers early. It is for strategic health authorities working in partnership with their primary care trusts (PCTs), local screening services and stakeholders to provide appropriate screening services for their local populations.

Women aged between 50 and 70 are invited for free breast screening every three years. The numbers of women screened for breast cancer in the Peterborough PCT and its predecessor trusts in each year since 2001 are shown in the following table.

For ease of interpretation, the proportion of eligible women that have had a test with a recorded result at least once in the previous three years has also been provided. Information has been provided for the 53-64 age group, because coverage is dependant on the three year screening round. As the breast screening programme was not extended to women aged 65-70 until April 2006, three year coverage will not be fully available for this age group until 2008-09.

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to increase the take-up of bowel cancer screening among men aged over 60 years of age in the Peterborough primary care trust area from April; and if he will make a statement. [190700]

Ann Keen: The national health service bowel cancer screening programme is the first cancer screening programme in England to invite men as well as women.

National roll out of the NHS bowel cancer screening programme began in April 2006, with the first invitations sent out in July 2006, and is expected to be complete by December 2009.

This is an ambitious project and when the programme is fully rolled out, it is expected to detect around 3,000 cancers per year in England.

Strokes: East of England

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will commission research into the time taken for the East of England region stroke patients to receive a brain scan; and if he will make a statement. [191353]

Ann Keen: A national sentinel audit for stroke has been carried out by the Royal College of Physicians since 1998. The latest audit in 2006 was funded by the Healthcare Commission. The aims of the audit include enabling national health service trusts, including those in the East of England region, to evaluate the quality of their stroke services by comparison with national standards. The audits results cover facilities for and access to brain scans. A further audit will be undertaken in 2008. The 2006 audit is available on the Royal College of Physicians website at:

www.rcplondon.ac.uk/pubs/books/strokeaudit/

TRANSPORT

A1079: Accidents

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment her Department has made of road safety on the A1079 road between Hull and York; and if she will make a statement. [192432]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department for Transport has not undertaken an assessment of road safety on the A1079. As part of the local authority's Primary Route Network, this road is the responsibility of the East Riding of Yorkshire council. It is for the council to assess the needs and priorities of all the roads within its control and decide how best to target its resources.

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many people were (a) killed and (b) injured in road traffic incidents on the A1079 road in each of the last five years; and if she will make a statement. [192568]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The numbers of casualties resulting from reported personal injury road accidents that were (a) killed and (b) injured on the A1079 in 2002 to 2006 are shown in the table.

A13: Sadlers Farm

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what representations she has received from archaeological groups on investigations to determine the extent of historical workings or artefacts prior to the commencement of works on the A13 Sadlers Farm junction. [190492]

Ms Rosie Winterton: To date, the Secretary of State for Transport has received no representations from archaeological groups in connection with A13/A130 Sadlers Farm junction.

A130: Safety Barriers

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will commission a central safety barrier for the A130 between Sadlers Farm, Benfleet and Waterside Farm, Canvey Island. [191797]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 5 March 2008]: The commissioning of safety measures on the A130 rests not with the Secretary of State for Transport but with the local highway authority, in this case Essex county council.

Aviation: Exhaust Emissions

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will make it her policy that the initial allowances for the aviation sector within the EU Emissions Trading Scheme be subject to auction. [191824]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 5 March 2008]: Decisions on the inclusion of aviation in the EU emissions trading scheme require international agreement. Under the agreement at the December 2007 Environment Council meeting, 10 per cent. of the initial allocation of carbon allowances to the aviation sector would be auctioned. The December agreement also made a provision for the level of auctioning to be reviewed.

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will make it her policy that the cap for the aviation sector within the EU Emissions Trading Scheme be set at 90 per cent. of 2004 to 2006 average emissions. [191825]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 5 March 2008]: Decisions on the inclusion of aviation in the EU emissions trading scheme require international agreement. Under the agreement at the December 2007 Environment Council meeting, the emissions cap for aviation would be set at 100 per cent. of the average historical emissions in 2004 to 2006. The December agreement also made provision for there to be a review of the emissions cap.

Bus Services: Grants

Lynda Waltho: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much bus service operators grant was paid to community transport organisations in each year since 2002. [191806]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The amount of Bus Operators Grant (BSOG) paid by the Department to community transport organisations operating services under section 19 of the Transport Act 1985 has been as follows:

| | £ |
|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 663,724 |
| 2003-04 | 2,807,432 |
| 2004-05 | 4,518,738 |
| 2005-06 | 4,343,320 |
| 2006-07 | 5,240,332 |

In addition a number of community transport bodies receive BSOG for the operation of local bus services under section 22 of the Transport Act 1985 but a separate record is not kept of the payments to these services.

Bus Services: Subsidies

Graham Stringer: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate she has made of the average public subsidy to a bus operating on the non-tendered network in (a) Greater Manchester and (b) England in 2006-07. [190457]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 29 February 2008]: We estimate that in 2006-07 the average subsidy (defined as reimbursement of the costs of concessionary fares and payments of Bus Service Operators Grant) per bus operating non-tendered mileage was:

| | Cost (£) |
|---|---|
| Greater Manchester | 35,272 |
| Rest of England[1] | 35,282 |

[1] Excluding London which is essentially a tendered network.

For the purposes of this calculation we have used the assumption, derived from statistical surveys of the proportion of bus operated mileage which is on non-tendered routes, that 80 per cent. of buses are engaged in non-tendered work and that 80 per cent. of subsidy (as defined in the table) is with respect to non-tendered routes.

Cars: Exhaust Emissions

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many cars were sold in 2007 with tailpipe carbon emissions below 110g/km in the (a) UK and (b) EU. [186954]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Statistics regarding vehicles newly registered in 2007 are not yet available.

However, the number of cars newly registered in Great Britain in 2006 were as follows:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| Number of cars newly registered in 2006 | 2,340,043 |
| Of which: | |
| Number where $CO_2$ emissions less than 110 g/km | 42,192 |
| Of which: | |
| Number where $CO_2$ emissions greater than or equal to 110 g/km | 2,253,222 |
| Of which: | |
| Number where $CO_2$ emissions not available | 44,629 |

These data include all cars that have been newly registered in 2006 and will, therefore, include vehicles that have been imported into Great Britain during this time.

Concessionary Bus Travel

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether she has had discussions with National Express on bringing them wholly or partially into the national concessionary bus fares scheme. [190874]

Ms Rosie Winterton: I have had no discussions with National Express regarding the extension of concessionary travel to their coaches. There are no proposals at present to extend statutory concessionary fares to forms of transport other than local bus services.

Since 2003, there has been a half-fare concessionary travel scheme for older and eligible disabled people on long distance coaches. It is a voluntary scheme but the major providers of long distance coach services, including National Express, take part. The scheme will continue following the introduction of the England-wide free off-peak local bus travel concession in April.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate she has made of the cost of implementation of the national concessionary bus fares scheme. [191330]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Our assessment of the likely cost impact of the new concession is based on generous assumptions about pass take-up, fares and increased patronage. On this basis we have allocated an additional £212 million to travel concession authorities from 1 April, enough to fund around an extra £200 million bus journeys across England. We are confident that this funding is sufficient to cover the additional cost of the new concession.

The money will be distributed by a special grant, in line with the wishes of local government itself, using a formula to direct funding to areas likely to experience increased costs such as urban and tourist centres and coastal towns. The formula used is based on the most popular option with local authorities, as determined from our recent consultation on the issue.

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the Answer of 7 February 2008, Official Report, column 1414W, on concessionary bus travel, what funding has been provided for bus concession travel through the formula grant process in each year for which figures are available; and how much and what percentage of that funding was allocated to Taunton Deane local authority area in each of those years. [187901]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Between 2000 and 31 March 2006 the statutory minimum bus concession was half fare off-peak local bus travel within an eligible resident's local authority area. During this period funding to local authorities for the statutory minimum concession through formula grant was not separately identified.

From 1 April 2006, with the improvement to the statutory minimum concession to free off-peak local bus travel within a resident's local authority area, the Government provided an extra £350 million in 2006-07 and a further £367.5 million in 2007-08. The Revenue Support Grant formula does not allow us to identify how much of that formula grant funding for concessionary travel was allocated to individual local authorities such as Taunton Deane borough council in those years.

Concessionary Travel: Mentally Ill People

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will make people with mental health illnesses eligible for the national concessionary fares scheme; and if she will make a statement. [190049]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Transport Act 2000 (or for those resident in London, the Greater London Authority Act 1999) makes provision for concessionary travel for a wide range of disabled people including people with severe learning disabilities. We have no plans at present to change the eligibility criteria for statutory concessionary bus travel to include people with mental health illnesses. Local authorities retain the ability to offer discretionary concessions over and above the statutory minimum at their own expense. This can include offering concessionary travel to other categories of people, such as those with mental health problems.

Our current focus is on the successful implementation of the new all-England off-peak bus travel concession from April this year. Any changes to the scope of the statutory minimum concession, such as extending the eligibility criteria, would significantly increase the number of people eligible for concessionary travel at any time and would have to be fully funded. The impacts would need to be considered carefully following consultation with all the interested parties.

Cycleways

Stephen Hesford: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what her plans are for increasing the length of the UK cycle network in each region over the next five years. [192443]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Department announced in January a £140 million investment for cycling in England over the next three years to complement local authority spend. This has a number of programmes including new routes to around 500 schools, building on the successful Links to Schools programme where £18.4 million of Government funding since 2005 has provided 295 links to over 600 schools and forms part of the National Cycle Network (NCN).

£47 million has also been allocated for extending the Cycling Demonstration Towns (CDT) programme to up to 17 towns including a large city. The outcome of the bidding process for new CDTs is due to be announced later this year. Until the new CDTs and six existing ones develop their future programmes, I am unable to say what the precise plans are for increasing the cycle network in the CDTs.

Local authorities provide on and off road cycle facilities such as cycle tracks and cycle lanes, using their Local Transport Plan (LTP) Integrated Block grant from the DfT (which covers schemes costing less than £5 million and includes such cycle schemes) plus their own funding. The Department has encouraged local authorities to develop a cycling strategy as part of the LTP process from 2006 to 2011. It is for local authorities to determine the development of the local cycle networks as part of that strategy. Sustrans, who have developed the NCN, then work with local authorities to link the local networks to it.

The aforementioned covers England only (excluding London) as that is the Department's responsibility. Responsibility for cycling in Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland is a devolved matter for the administrations there. The Mayor of London is responsible for the development of the cycle network in London.

Cycling England

Dr. Francis: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether the £17 million Cycling England programme has been reflected in Barnett consequentials in the Welsh block grant. [190619]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Wales departmental expenditure limits for the CSR period were published in the comprehensive spending review last October. They were determined in the normal way through the published Barnett formula. The block grant for the Welsh Assembly Government for 2008-09 will be published in the Wales Office annual report later in the year. For the SR04 period, the Welsh DEL were published in the 2004 Spending Review based on the Statement of Funding Policy published in that year. The block grant for 2007-08 was published in the 2007 Wales Office annual report. The published Barnett formula comparability factor for the Department for Transport used in the CSR is 68.3 per cent. while that for SR04 was 63.8 per cent.

Cycling: Environment Protection

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what advice she has offered to partners in local strategic partnerships and local area agreements on cycling as a form of sustainable transport. [188587]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Specific advice related to transport (including cycling) and local area agreements Was published in December 2007 by the Department for Communities and Local Government and the Department for Transport entitled 'Local Transport Services: the Crucial Role of the New Local Performance Framework' and can be viewed at:

www.communities.gov.uk/publications/localgovernment/transport

Earlier this year the Secretary of State set out our approach to cycling in "A Sustainable Approach for Cycling", the same time announcing a six fold increase in the budget for Cycling England, which will complement local authority spend. Their budget will double to £20 million next year and then rise to £60 million in both 2009-10 and 2010-11.

This investment will enable an extra 500,000 children to have access to the new Bikeability cycle training by 2012, create additional safer walking and cycling routes to at least 500 schools and allow the expansion of the Cycling Demonstration Town programme.

Dartford Tunnel: Tolls

Mr. Holloway: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many DART-Tag holders live in (a) DA11, (b) DA12, (c) DA13 and (d) ME3 postcode areas. [187078]

Ms Rosie Winterton: We do not hold data in the form requested. DART-Tags are registered against accounts and may be switched between users. The address held relates only to the account holder. In some cases there is more than one tag registered on an account.

The following figures show the number of accounts registered against addresses in these postcode areas. The account holder may not necessarily live at the address; in some cases the address will be that of a business.

| | Number of accounts |
|---|---|
| (a) DA11 | 550 |
| (b) DA12 | 622 |
| (c) DA13 | 288 |
| (d) ME3 | 401 |

Mr. Holloway: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much pre-payment income was received from DART tag holders at the Dartford River crossing in each of the last 12 months; and how many crossings were made by such customers in the last 12 months. [187079]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Figures are shown in the following table for the last 12 months.

| Month | Payments made by DART-Tag | Number of journeys paid by DART-Tag |
|---|---|---|
| February 2007 | 1,524,951 | 953,081 |
| March 2007 | 1,743,635 | 1,086,697 |
| April 2007 | 1,573,164 | 973,733 |

Departmental Home Working

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many people in her Department have been able to work from home in the last 12 months. [189773]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The information requested can be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Older Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many people over the age of 55 have been recruited by her Department in each of the last three years. [191528]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Tabled are the details of the number of DfT staff recruited throughout each of the last three years for each agency:

| | 2005 | 2006 | 2007 | Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| DFT(c) | 31 | 8 | 8 | 47 |
| DSA | 34 | 23 | 23 | 80 |
| DVLA | 11 | 10 | 16 | 37 |
| HA | 72 | 52 | 21 | 145 |
| MCA | 8 | 8 | 13 | 29 |
| VCA | 0 | 0 | 3 | 3 |
| VOSA | 7 | 6 | 14 | 27 |
| GCDA | 3 | 6 | 3 | 12 |
| Total | 166 | 113 | 101 | 380 |

Departmental Recruitment

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether the policy of British jobs for British workers will affect her Department's recruitment policy. [179886]

Jim Fitzpatrick: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my hon. Friend, the Parliamentary Secretary, Cabinet Office, the hon. Member for West Bromwich, East (Mr. Watson) on 3 March 2008, Official Report, columns 2205-06W.

Departmental Retirement

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many staff in her Department retired on grounds of stress-related illness in each of the last three years. [187680]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The information requested can be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

The Department has a stress policy in place and also believes in early intervention by occupational health in response to reported stress absences. All staff have access to counselling services.

Departmental Temporary Employment

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what average hourly rate her Department and its predecessors paid to employment agencies for agency staff in each year since 1999, broken down by employment agency. [187907]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The information requested can be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Fairtrade Initiative

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will take steps to promote Fair Trade Fortnight 2008 amongst staff within her Department; and if she will make a statement. [189513]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Within our main London HQ building a number of Fairtrade products are already available in the staff restaurant. These, and other products that become available from our suppliers, will be promoted during Fairtrade fortnight.

Fairtrade fortnight is promoted at regional Department for Transport sites. Promotions reflect local building management arrangement but include the display of Fair Trade posters, leaflets and catalogues, free samples, products for purchase and awareness sessions.

Great Western Trains: Rolling Stock

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to her written ministerial statement of 26 February 2008, Official Report, columns 73-4WS, on First Great Western franchise, how many carriages First Great Western is running; how many the franchise requires them to run from April 2008; and how many they will run from April 2008. [190609]

Mr. Tom Harris [holding answer 29 February 2008]: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the written statement made by my hon. Friend the Secretary of State, on 26 February 2008. This statement confirmed that additional carriages will be added to trains operating the First Great Western Portsmouth to Cardiff route from this summer.

The franchise agreement will be changed specifically to commit First Great Western to implementing the passenger benefits package, including the additional carriages for the Cardiff to Portsmouth route. These will comprise 10 extra carriages.

With regard to other rolling stock in its fleet, First Great Western has in the past increased the size of its fleet in response to operational needs, but details of the extra rolling stock are matters for First Great Western itself.

Heathrow Airport: Security

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will meet the British Airports Authority to discuss a review of security arrangements following the incident at Heathrow airport on 25 February. [190766]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The airport operator is investigating the incident and keeping the Department informed. We will ensure prompt action is taken where necessary.

Housing: Infrastructure

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what discussions she has had with the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government on improvements to infrastructure in relation to large scale new housing development. [190769]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The Department for Transport is a co-signatory of the Government's PSA Target to "Increase Long Term Housing Supply and Affordability". To support its delivery, the Department for Transport and the Department for Communities and Local Government have together developed a work programme that evaluates the need for infrastructure improvements to support housing growth. Progress on the work programme is reviewed by both Departments on a regular basis.

Intercity Express

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when she expects a prototype of the new Intercity Express to be available for testing on the network. [190558]

Mr. Tom Harris: Prototypes for the new trains are scheduled for on-track testing in 2012. The first of the trains will enter operational service in 2013.

Intercity Express: Consultants

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much her Department has spent to date on consultants on the specification for the new Intercity Express programme; and for what reason this matter was not deemed to be one for the rolling stock companies. [190557]

Mr. Tom Harris: The Department for Transport has spent £7.9 million on the project since 2005. The Department has taken the lead in developing the specification to ensure we achieve maximum benefits for passengers and value for money for taxpayers for what is expected to be one of the largest rolling stock orders ever placed in the UK.

The procurement process for the new train was open to all interested parties within the industry, including rolling stock companies. Tenders are due to be returned in May.

M6: Lancashire

Geraldine Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether Government funding has been allocated for the Heysham/M6 link road. [192593]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Lancashire county council have informed the Department for Transport that the latest outturn total cost for the Heysham to M6 link scheme is now estimated to be £140 million. The next steps are for the North West region to confirm that it continues to support the scheme at the higher cost, and for DfT to conclude our assessment and appraisal of Lancashire's major scheme business case. This will allow DfT to take a decision on whether to grant programme entry.

Maritime and Coastguard Agency: Pay

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent representations she has received from (a) management, (b) trade unions and (c) others on pay levels for staff in the Maritime and Coastguard Agency. [188742]

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport on what occasions she has met representatives of the Maritime and Coastguard Agency to discuss the pay dispute in that organisation. [189747]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Ministers have regular meetings with the Maritime and Coastguard Agency's chief executive to discuss a range of important issues, including levels of pay. I have also met trade unions to listen to their concerns about MCA pay levels and have corresponded with union representatives and Members of this House who have raised similar concerns on behalf of constituents.

Motor Vehicles: Excise Duties

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many cars were registered in each vehicle excise duty band in each region in England and Wales in each year since 1997. [190564]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The information requested has been placed in the Libraries of the House.

Oil: Prices

Graham Stringer: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what price of oil has been used by her Department when making forecasts of congestion on the road network; and if she will make a statement. [190456]

Mr. Tom Harris [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The Department for Transport uses oil price projections from the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (BERR) to produce a fuel price forecast. This is then used in the Department's National Transport Model (NTM) for forecasting congestion on the road network. Their latest projections are for oil (in 2006 prices) to fall gradually to $50 by 2015 before then rising to $52.5 in 2020 (approximately $75 in nominal prices).

BERR also produce a high and low projection around this central price which we have also used in our forecasts. These are for prices of $25 and $80 (about $115 nominal) in 2020. The Department forecasts congestion in different scenarios including ones where high prices are assumed. This is to check the robustness of estimates were high oil prices, such as those observed currently in crude oil markets, to continue.

BERR are currently revising their oil price projections in light of a consultation on them that has recently ended. We will use this revised information to determine new traffic and congestion forecasts.

Parking Offences: Cameras

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport under what legislation CCTV cameras may be used to enforce parking restrictions; what guidance she has (a) issued and (b) plans to issue in the next 12 months to local authorities on the use of such cameras, with particular reference to the impact on (i) disabled drivers and (ii) drivers collecting passengers or unloading goods; what discussions she has had with motoring groups about the use of such cameras; and if she will make a statement. [190881]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The London Local Authorities Act 2000 empowers traffic authorities in London to use CCTV to enforce parking. The civil enforcement of parking provisions in part 6 of the Traffic Management Act 2004 will be applied from 31 March 2008, replacing the London legislation and giving all English traffic authorities the option of using CCTV to detect parking contraventions. The new legislation requires CCTV cameras and associated evidence recording equipment to be certified by the Secretary of State for Transport.

On 28 February this year, the Secretary of State published statutory guidance on civil parking enforcement in accordance with section 87 of the Traffic Management Act. That guidance makes it clear that CCTV should be considered only where enforcement is difficult or sensitive, and it should not be used where exemptions, such as those for loading and unloading and for 'blue-badge' holders, are not visible to the equipment. Guidance on the procedures for obtaining certification of CCTV equipment was also published on 28 February. Further and more detailed operational guidance will be published later in March.

The AA and the RAC were members of the working group that advised the Department on the regulations and guidance to implement part 6 of the Traffic Management Act 2004.

Public Transport: Concessions

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent assessment she has made of the (a) feasibility and (b) cost of giving people eligible for free bus passes free local travel on all modes of public transport available in their local area. [191387]

Ms Rosie Winterton: While there are no plans at present to extend statutory concessionary travel, local authorities retain the ability to offer discretionary concessions. This includes concessionary travel on other modes of transport in their area, over and above the statutory minimum, at their own expense.

Our current focus is on the successful implementation of the new all-England bus concession from 1 April. However, although we have not conducted a detailed consideration of the feasibility or cost of further extensions, we have developed some outline cost estimates based on broad assumptions. These suggested that the annual cost of extending statutory concessionary travel nationally to rail could be at least £250 million; to trams and light rail systems about £15 million, and to demand responsive community transport services at least a further £25 million.

Given the large number of inquiries we receive about the cost of extensions we have recently commissioned some research to provide a more robust estimate of various costs. This will allow us to give more detailed response to similar inquiries in the future. We expect this work to be completed in the next few months.

Renewable Transport Fuel Obligation

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when she expects her Department's review of the operation of the Renewable Transport Fuel Obligation to report. [190222]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Renewables Fuels Agency (RFA) will have a duty to report to Ministers on a quarterly basis on the implementation of the Renewable Transport Fuel Obligation (RTFO). These reports will cover matters such as the amount of greenhouse gas emissions that the policy has saved, the types of biofuel that different transport fuel suppliers have chosen to source, and the origin and sustainability impacts of those biofuels. The first of these reports is due to be submitted in September 2008, by which time the RFA will have gathered data from the first three months of the RTFO'S operation.

In addition, the Government have recently asked the RFA to lead a review of the indirect impacts of biofuel production. The terms of reference for this review are being finalised. Initial analysis is due to be provided to Ministers by the early summer.

Roads: Canvey Island

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will make a statement on the inquiry into an additional access road for Canvey Island; and what the (a) timetable and (b) cost of the inquiry is expected to be. [191160]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The question of an additional access road to Canvey Island is a matter for Essex county council as local highway authority. I understand that at present they have no proposals which are at or approaching the stage of a public inquiry.

Roads: Finance

Mr. Holloway: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport which road schemes in Gravesham have been paid for by funds raised from the Dartford River Crossing; and how much such funding was spent on these schemes in each of the last five years. [187077]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Transport Act 2000 requires that all net revenues from the charging scheme at Dartford-Thurrock River Crossing are spent on transport. Revenues therefore increase the funding available for investment by the Department of Transport. This has helped to ensure delivery, for example, of schemes benefiting users of the Crossing, such as major improvements to the A2.

Since 2003, when the charging scheme was introduced, the Department has made available £1 million per year to Kent county council, and between £0.75 million and £1 million per year to Thurrock council, to help deliver local transport projects. This is in recognition of the impact of the Crossing on local residents. This funding is in addition to the regular local transport block allocations for Kent county council (which in 2007-08 totalled £36.7 million) and support for local authority major schemes, such as Kent Fastrack.

Kent county council's financial returns to the Department do not include a full breakdown of its actual expenditure between district areas, so it is not possible to provide figures for Kent's actual expenditure on roads in Gravesham district.

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the latest ministerially-approved costs are of road schemes in the Highways Agency's Major Roads programme (a) in total and (b) broken down by individual scheme. [188495]

Mr. Tom Harris: The following table lists all schemes in the Highways Agency's programme of Major schemes which were not opened to traffic as of 21 February 2008.

| Scheme name | Latest ministerial approved estimates (£ million) |

Roads: Lighting

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what guidance her Department has given to local authorities on the safety implications of switching streetlights off early to reduce carbon emissions. [189141]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 26 February 2008]: The Department for Transport endorses "Invest to Save", which is published by the UK Lighting Board in conjunction with the Institution of Lighting Engineers. This provides guidance to local authorities considering adopting energy saving measures such as dimming or switching off lights. The document can be found at Institution of Lighting Engineers website:

www.ile.org.uk

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport which local authorities in England (a) have undertaken and (b) are planning to undertake trials of part-night street lighting. [190767]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 29 February 2008]: This information is not held centrally.

Roads: Repairs and Maintenance

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many road works on the strategic road network took place in (a) the last 10 years and (b) 2007; under what mechanism and how frequently road markings are reviewed; how many road markings were (i) made and (ii) altered after accidents occurred in the vicinity in the last 12 months; and what the average length of time taken to remark a road after an initial decision to do so had been made was in the last 12 months. [191787]

Mr. Tom Harris: The following table shows the number of road works on the strategic road network undertaken and recorded in the years for which data are available. The increase year-by-year is not an indication of an increased number of road works but reflects improved record keeping.

Road markings are reviewed as part of an inspection programme carried out in line with TD 26/04 Inspection and Maintenance of Road Markings and Road Studs on Motorways and All purpose Trunk Roads. Inspections take place either every 7 or 28 days, depending on the inspection category of the route. The number of road markings renewed following accidents is not immediately available and the time taken between identifying a need to renew road markings and carrying out the work will depend on the category of the defect.

Rolling Stock: East Coast Railway Line

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what process is being followed to determine the specifications for the new rolling stock planned for deployment on the east coast mainline; and if she will make a statement. [190562]

Mr. Tom Harris: The next major new rolling stock deployment on the East Coast Main Line (ECML) will be the Intercity Express Programme (IEP). The specification for IEP was set out in the Department for Transport's Invitation to Tender, published in November. This is to achieve maximum benefits for passenger and value for money for taxpayers. It incorporates 'best-in-class' features of modern trains plus targets for improving these.

The Thameslink Programme will also see the introduction of a new fleet of suburban vehicles, operating to commuter destinations on the East Coast Main Line. The Department will be initiating the procurement process later this year.

Shipping: Paint

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate she has made of the number of UK registered vessels with tributyltin paint in each year since 1997; and what information her Department holds on the number of vessels with such paint with a foreign country of origin using UK waters. [191931]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Government do not maintain estimates of numbers of vessels, UK registered or otherwise, operating with tributyltin paints.

Taxis: Crime

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many multi-agency taxi and minicabs 'STOP' operations have been organised in (a) London and (b) Cheshire in 2007-08; how many drivers have been found to be owing outstanding fines; how much has been collected in fines; how many STOP notices have been issued; and for what types of vehicle. [187011]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Responsibility for enforcement of taxi and PHV legislation is a matter for the relevant licensing authority; other agencies have their own responsibilities for other enforcement activity which might be included in a multi-agency approach. While recognising that effective enforcement is important, we do not keep a central record of enforcement activity dedicated to taxi and private hire vehicle (PHV, that is, minicab) drivers.

Transport: Carbon Emissions

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the answer of 4 February 2008, Official Report, column 792W, on transport: carbon emissions, if she will estimate the percentage of carbon dioxide emission reductions by 2020 likely to come from (a) policy measures and (b) technological developments independent of Government policy. [186836]

Jim Fitzpatrick: It is not possible to separate the impacts of policy measures from technological developments that have occurred independently of Government policy. This is because many policy measures to reduce $CO_2$ (for example, graduated VED or standards for new car $CO_2$) will affect both the production and consumption of fuels and vehicles, and these processes interact.

However, in our modelling of the impacts of policies to improve new car fuel efficiency (including the EU voluntary agreements, graduated vehicle excise duty, company car tax, vehicle labelling) we assume that there would have been no improvements in new car fuel efficiency in the absence of these policy measures. This is because analysis of historic trends suggests that any 'natural' improvement in fuel efficiency would have been balanced by worsening fuel efficiency from a trend towards heavier vehicles.

Transport: Finance

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much funding the local transport authority in (a) Suffolk, (b) Bedfordshire, (c) Cambridgeshire, (d) Essex, (e) Hertfordshire and (f) Norfolk received (i) in total, (ii) per mile of road and (iii) per head of population in each year since 1997. [187618]

Ms Rosie Winterton: My hon. Friend the Member for Lincoln (Gillian Merron), the then Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Transport, provided this information up to and including 2006-07 in her reply of 22 March 2007, Official Report, columns 1048-50W. Table 1 contains the equivalent figures for 2007-08. The final amount of some funding is dependent on how much is actually claimed and the figures include the current estimate of what will be claimed for the rest of 2007-08.

Table 1 also includes final figures for 2006-07 for Cambridgeshire, which have been revised from the previous answer in the light of further information, in particular in respect of their Guided Bus Scheme.

Total local transport funding, as included in table 1, comprises:

capital for the delivery of local transport plans, including for major local authority schemes, (which can vary substantially from year to year and between authorities); specific grants to local authorities for bus services;

the specific road safety grant (which started in 2007-08);

the Community Infrastructure Fund; and the Transport Innovation Fund

Table 1

| Local authority | 2007-08 funding (£000) | 2007-08 funding (£/mile) | 2007-08 funding (£/head) |
|---|---|---|---|
| Suffolk County Council | 25,839 | 6.09 | 37.79 |
| Bedfordshire County | 19,553 | 11.49 | 33.93 |
| Cambridgeshire County Council | 62,214 | 21.53 | 107.49 |
| Essex County Council | 51,112 | 10.10 | 38.42 |
| Hertfordshire County Council | 27,038 | 8.93 | 25.97 |
| Norfolk County Council | 37,490 | 6.01 | 45.92 |

Table 1

| Local authority | 2007-08 funding (£000) | 2007-08 funding (£/mile) | 2007-08 funding (£/head) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2006-07: Cambridgeshire | 43,467 | 15.04 | 75.10 |

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the budget was for transport for the South West in 2006-07; and who is responsible for the timescale within which these funds were spent. [190770]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 29 February 2008]: In addition to investment on the strategic road network and support for passenger rail services through franchise contracts and grants to Network Rail for operating the network, the South West benefits from transport funding allocated at the regional and local level.

At the regional level, an indicative £86 million in respect of transport was included in the South West Regional Funding Allocation for 2006-07.

Local authorities, and the Highways Agency in the case of trunk road schemes, are responsible for developing and delivering major schemes. The exact timing of implementation and funding of each scheme is subject to advice from the region on prioritisation, to satisfactory appraisal, and to securing all necessary statutory powers and Government approvals.

At the local level, £173.7 million of capital funding was allocated in 2006-07 to upper and single tier local authorities in the South West for integrated transport improvements and highways capital maintenance. In addition revenue funding is allocated to local authorities through the revenue support grant system, and there are a few specific grants supporting transport services, for example Rural Bus Grant. In general, the funding provided is not ring-fenced, and local authorities are responsible for decisions on its use including the timing of this investment funding.

Transport: Lancashire

Geraldine Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much Government funding has been provided to Lancashire county council in 2007-08 to provide rural public transport. [192547]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Most Government funding support for Lancashire county council for transport, including tendered bus services, is provided within the revenue support grant, administered by CLG. The revenue support grant is not service-specific and it is for the county council to decide on its use.

In addition the Department provided specific grants for Lancashire county council in 2007-08 for:

| | £ |
|---|---|
| (a) rural bus subsidy | 1,349,677 |
| (b) rural bus challenge | 156,778 |
| (c) 'Kickstart' (for bus services) | 162,610 |

It has also allocated Lancashire capital funding of £11.961 million for 2007-08 for integrated transport projects. It is for the county council to decide how to invest this funding according to its policies and priorities.

Vehicle Number Plates: Revenue

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much was raised in each year since 1997 by the sale of vehicle number plates; what plate raised the largest sum in each year; and how much was raised from that plate. [190520]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Revenue raised by the sale of vehicle number plates for each financial year since 1997 is as follows:

| | £000 |
|---|---|
| 1997-98 | 36,242 |
| 1998-99 | 47,089 |
| 1999-2000 | 48,008 |
| 2000-01 | 56,671 |
| 2001-02 | 65,921 |
| 2002-03 | 74,936 |
| 2003-04 | 78,427 |
| 2004-05 | 83,438 |
| 2005-06 | 83,986 |
| 2006-07 | 87,427 |

We do not hold information on the plate that raised the most revenue for each year.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Coal Fired Power Stations

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (1) what representations he has received from environmental non-governmental organisations on investigations to determine the nature and extent of existing land or waterway contamination prior to the (a) construction and (b) operational phases of the proposed coal power station development at Kingsnorth in Medway; [189631]

(2) what representations he has received from industry groups on loading and unloading facilities for construction vehicles during the construction phase of the proposed coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth in Kent; [189634]

(3) what representations he has received from local (a) stakeholders and (b) residents on schemes for the transportation of construction staff to and from the site during the construction phase of the proposed new coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth in Kent; [189635]

(4) what representations he has received from industry groups on the creation of an environmental mitigation area during the (a) construction and (b) operational phases of the proposed new coal power station development at Kingsnorth in Medway; [189636]

(5) what representations he has received from environmental non-governmental organisations on loading and unloading facilities for construction vehicles during the construction phase of the proposed coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth in Kent; [189639]

(6) what representations he has received from environmental non-governmental organisations on site access during the construction phase of the proposed new coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth; [189641]

(7) what representations he has received from trades unions on turning facilities for large vehicles and the effect these facilities will have on local transport during the construction phase of any new coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth; [189644]

(8) what representations he has received from (a) industry groups and (b) environmental non-governmental organisations on schemes for the implementation of an on-site programme of archaeological work in accordance with recommended mitigation measures and strategies during the construction and operational phases of the proposed coal power station development at Kingsnorth; [189646]

(9) what representations he has received from (a) local stakeholders and (b) environmental non-governmental organisations on the financial contribution of £140,500 from E.On for safety improvements on Roper's Lane and Stoke Road in relation to the proposed coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth in Medway; [189647]

(10) what representations he has received from industry groups on identifying measures for the reduction of motor vehicle traffic generation during the construction phase of the proposed coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth; [189660]

(11) what representations he has received from trades unions on vehicular circulation roads during the construction phase of the proposed coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth; [189674]

(12) what representations he has received from local (a) stakeholders and (b) residents on the provision of hard standings during the construction phase of the proposed coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth; [189678]

(13) what representations he has received from archaeological non-governmental organisations on schemes for the implementation of an on-site programme of archaeological work in accordance with the recommended mitigation measures and strategies during the (a) construction and (b) operational phases of (i) the proposed coal-fired power station development at Kingsnorth and (ii) other new coal-fired power station development in the UK; [189680]

(14) what representations he has received from non-governmental environmental organisations on the effective transmission range of heat captured through combined heat and power technology at the proposed coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth; [189681]

(15) what representations he has had from the shipping and ports industries on the effect of coal shipments to the proposed coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth on ship freight traffic to the container depot at Thamesport; [189692]

(16) what representations he has had from natural gas distribution companies on the effects on foreign natural gas imports of the proposed coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth; [189695]

(17) what representations he has received from environmental non-governmental organisations on the effects of groundwater contamination from the fuel oil supply for the two 50MW gas turbines at the proposed coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth in Kent; [189699]

(18) what representations he has received from environmental non-governmental organisations on provision for on-site overspill parking during the construction phase of the proposed coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth in Kent; [189702]

(19) what representations he has had from local stakeholders and residents on provision for overspill parking on site during the construction phase of any potential new coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth; [189704]

(20) what representations he has had from local stakeholders and residents on the layout and size of the parking area of any new coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth; [189705]

(21) what representations he has had from environmental non-governmental organisations on vehicular circulation roads during the construction phase of any new coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth; [189706]

(22) what representations he has received from trades unions on identifying measures for the minimisation of motor vehicle traffic generation during the construction phase of any new coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth; [189707]

(23) what representations he has received from industries associated with pulverised fuel ash on the production of fuel ash resulting from the proposed new coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth; [189710]

(24) what representations he has had from industry groups on the build-up of ammonium sulphates and bisulphates in the selective catalytic reduction process at the proposed new coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth; [189712]

(25) what representations he has received from industry groups on provision for overspill parking during the construction phase of the proposed coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth; [189714]

(26) what representations he has received from industry groups on the (a) use and (b) merits of combined heat and power technology at the proposed coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth; [189717]

(27) what representations he has received from environmental non-governmental organisations on the risks of ammonia slippage from the selective catalytic reduction process at the proposed coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth. [189759]

Malcolm Wicks: The Department has received no such representations.

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (1) what representations he has received from Kent University on the proposed power station at Kingsnorth in Kent; [190107]

(2) what representations he has received on the construction of (a) parking sites and (b) hard standings on and off-site for the (i) construction and (ii) operational phase of the proposed power station at Kingsnorth in Kent, broken down by category of organisation; and if he will make a statement; [190133]

(3) what representations he has received from (a) local housing developers and estate agents and (b) other groups on the effect on regeneration projects and housing developments, including the Maritime Residential Park on the Medway, of the construction of the proposed power station at Kingsnorth in Kent.; [190315]

Malcolm Wicks: The Department has received no such representations.

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what discussions he has had with (a) Cabinet colleagues and (b) non-governmental bodies on the public safety issues associated with permanently sequestering carbon dioxide, with particular reference to the proposed power station at Kingsnorth in Kent. [190223]

Malcolm Wicks: No such discussions have taken place.

Departmental Opinion Polls

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform pursuant to the answer of 12 December 2007, Official Report, column 626W, on departmental opinion polls, what payments his Department has made to polling organisations since 27 June 2007. [178342]

Mr. Thomas: The information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Fireworks: Noise

Joan Walley: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the effect of category 3 noise fireworks on animal welfare; and if he will make a statement. [180147]

Mr. Thomas: No formal assessment has been made.

Investment: North West

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what support his Department has made available to attract inward investment to (a) Warrington and (b) the North West in the last three years. [184355]

Mr. Thomas: Through the Northwest Regional Development Agency (NWDA), the Department of Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (BERR) has provided support to attract inward investment through a number of initiatives.

The main gateway for Business Support in (a) Warrington and (b) the North West, is via Business Link, a NWDA funded project. Business Link provides a range of support services to businesses including advice on Starting Up; Finance and Grants; Taxes, returns and payroll; Employing people; Health, Safety, property; Environment and Efficiency; Exploiting ideas; IT and E-Commerce; Sales and Marketing; International Trade; Growing your business; Buying or selling a business.

The NWDA provides focused business support to key companies that compliment the Business Link service, as well as administering the Selective Finance for Investment (SFI) grant scheme on behalf of BERR. SFI aims to support companies that want to invest/ create jobs. The level of grant that can be provided is determined on a company's location.

There is also a range of sector specialists that proactively manage key companies across the region. This business support is aimed at companies to grow and develop their businesses with a view to attracting further investment.

Measurement

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what his policy is on the use of imperial weights and measures; and if he will make a statement. [190480]

Ian Pearson: I have been asked to reply.

Since 1965 it has been the policy of successive UK Governments to adopt metric weights and measures by stages in recognition that the global trend towards metrication would be likely to place UK business at a competitive disadvantage in world markets where transactions are conducted primarily in metric units. Metric units of measurement are now used for most transactions regulated by the Weights and Measures Act 1985. There are clear advantages in having a single system of units of measurement in place to allow consumers to compare quantities and prices, but we also recognise that a proportion of the public still prefers or is more familiar with imperial units, and so imperial units may continue to be used alongside metric in dual labelling.

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what recent representations he has received on (a) EU directives and (b) domestic legislation on imperial measures and imperial measuring equipment; and if he will make a statement. [190708]

Ian Pearson: I have been asked to reply;

The Department has received a number of representations from companies, trade associations, other organisations and individuals over the last year representing a range of viewpoints on the issue of units of measurement.

Overseas Trade: Consultants

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what role his Department's recently appointed emerging markets consultants will perform; and what size firms they will advise. [180263]

Mr. Thomas: The consultants (HGMP specialists) have been appointed on UKTI's behalf to deliver influence on a broader range of business activity in high growth markets. Targeted companies are experienced UK based mid corporate exporters, or established companies with the potential for success in these markets. In the process of assistance specialists will also capture intelligence on barriers to trade and the reasons for mid-corporate inaction in high growth markets.

Reconstruction: Iraq

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what estimate he has made of the percentage of contracts awarded to non-Iraqi companies for reconstruction in Iraq which have been awarded to UK companies since 2003. [187728]

Mr. Thomas: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I provided to the hon. Member for Dunfermline and West Fife (Willie Rennie) on 25 February 2008, Official Report, column 1171W.

Super-complainer Procedures

Mr. MacNeil: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform on how many occasions each of the designated representative bodies under the Enterprise Act 2002 has declined to act upon a consumer request to invoke super-complainer powers in cases of alleged consumer detriment. [181201]

Mr. Thomas: This is a matter for the individual designated super-complainants.

Telephone Services

Martin Horwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which public bodies for which his Department is responsible use non-geographical telephone numbers for lines intended for use by members of the public. [179563]

Mr. Thomas: From the central records that are available the public bodies for which the department is responsible using non-geographical telephone numbers for public access are as follows:

ACAS
The Insolvency Service
Companies House
BERR Publications Orderline
Personal Training Services Consortium
Low Pay Commission
Employment Agency Standards
The Queens Award Office
Envirowise
Business Link

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Arson: Cambridgeshire

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps she is taking to reduce the incidence of arson in Peterborough and Cambridgeshire; and if she will make a statement. [190934]

Mr. Dhanda [holding answer 3 March 2008]: The Department awarded Cambridgeshire Fire and Rescue Service £89,043 as part of the Fire Prevention Grant (2006-08). It is for the Fire and Rescue Service, working in partnership with other agencies, to decide how the grant is allocated to reduce the incidence of arson in the local area.

Community Relations

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when her Department plans to convene a panel of experts to consider recommendation 25 in Our Shared Future, on guidelines for local authorities on awarding public sector contracts to faith-based bodies; how many people will sit on the panel; and who will be invited to sit on it. [190157]

Mr. Dhanda: No date has been set to convene a panel of experts nor has any terms of reference or panel been decided.

Community Relations: Religion

Colin Challen: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what discussions have taken place with secular organisations on her Department's consultation, Face to Face and Side by Side: A framework for inter faith dialogue and social action; and if she will undertake a similar consultation on a secular dialogue on social action. [192154]

Mr. Dhanda: Discussions have taken place with a wide range of organisations, including the British Humanist Association and the National Secular Society. The formal consultation process is open to all organisations. In accordance with standard criteria for Government consultations, a list of all organisations responding to the consultation will be made public. There are no plans to undertake a consultation specifically on secular dialogue and social action.

Departmental Internet

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many Wikipedia entries have been (a) created and (b) amended (i) by (A) special advisers, (B) Ministers and (C) communications officials and (ii) from IP addresses of (1) special advisers, (2) Ministers and (3) communications officials in (x) her Department and (y) its predecessor since August 2005. [185534]

Mr. Dhanda: The information requested is not held centrally within the Department and can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Marketing

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 21 January 2008, Official Report, column 1525W, on departmental marketing, what the size is of each of the display boards in the Department's two main central London buildings. [184793]

Mr. Dhanda: There is a single display board in Eland House with the following dimensions: 1615 mm x 717 mm. There is a single ministerial display board in Ashdown House with the following dimensions: 900 mm x 610 mm. These are currently being updated to reflect the recent ministerial changes.

Departmental Offices

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether her Department has office facilities outside the United Kingdom. [191647]

Mr. Dhanda: Communities and Local Government has no office facilities outside the United Kingdom

Departmental Recruitment

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether the policy of British jobs for British workers will affect her Department's recruitment policy. [179873]

Mr. Dhanda: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 3 March 2008, Official Report, columns 2206-07W, by my hon. Friend the Member for West Bromwich, East (Mr. Watson).

Departmental Sick Pay

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the cost of sickness pay to staff in her Department was in the most recent year for which figures are available. [187511]

Mr. Dhanda: The Department monitors the sickness absence of its staff through analysis of working days lost rather than the actual cost for each individual absence. Consequently, it is not possible to give an exact cost of sickness pay in the most recent year.

Departmental Waste Disposal

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how frequently the residual waste bins of her Department's buildings in Eland House are emptied. [191653]

Mr. Dhanda: Communities and Local Government's waste bins at Eland House are collected and emptied with the following frequencies:

| Waste type | Number of collections per week |
|---|---|
| General waste | 2 |
| Paper | 3 |
| Cardboard | 3 |
| Glass | 1 |
| Cans | 1 |
| Plastics | 1 |
| Food waste | 1 |

Disabled People: Equality

Roger Berry: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what conclusions her Department has reached in fulfilment of the duty under section 3.111 of the statutory code of practice of the disability equality duty. [190763]

Mr. Dhanda: The actions taken by the Department to fulfil its disability equality duty are described in the Disability Equality Scheme Annual Report which we published on 28 February 2008. This is available on our website at:

www.communities.gov.uk/publications/corporate/disabilityequalityscheme2008

Departmental Divisions

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what divisions there are in her Department. [191633]

Mr. Dhanda: The Department of Communities and Local Government has six Groups each led by a Director General. The Groups are "Housing and Planning, Cohesion and Resilience, Local Government and Regeneration, Regions and Communities, Finance and Corporate Services" and "HR and Transformational Change".

Dorset Fire and Rescue Service

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many (a) full-time and (b) retained fire stations have been closed in Dorset since 1997. [191235]

Mr. Dhanda [holding answer 3 March 2008]: The information requested is not held centrally.

Dorset Fire and Rescue Service: Olympic Games 2012

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what responsibility Dorset Fire and Rescue Service is planned to have in relation to aquatic events hosted at Weymouth as part of the 2012 Olympic Games; and how many marine craft Dorset Fire and Rescue Service has. [191233]

Mr. Dhanda [holding answer 3 March 2008]: Dorset fire and rescue authority participates in two groups responsible for co-ordinating security at the Olympic events in Weymouth. These are: the Dorset Strategic Partnership, the overarching body that is co-ordinating wider games planning within Dorset; and the Dorset Emergency Services Strategic Group chaired by Dorset police.

The authority does not own any marine craft. Responsibility for search and rescue at sea lies with HM Coastguard. The degree of support afforded to HM Coastguard by costal fire and rescue authorities is a matter for local risk assessment by the individual authorities.

Empty Property

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many public requests ordering disposal were received in (a) 2006 and (b) 2007; and how many of these requests resulted in a direction being issued. [189516]

Mr. Dhanda: Under section 98 of the Local Government Planning and Land Act 1980 the following public requests to order disposal were received:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 2006 | 12 |
| 2007 | 12 |

One direction was issued in 2007.

Fire Services

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she next intends to publish an updated version of the full business case in respect of the Fire Control Project; and if she will make a statement. [186876]

Mr. Dhanda: We are planning to publish an updated full business case in the summer of 2008 and we will ensure that a copy is placed in the Library of the House.

Fire Services: Buildings

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to her Answer of 25 February 2008, Official Report, column 1220W, on Fire Service's buildings, what (a) primary and (b) other considerations were taken into account in determining the size of regional control centres. [192162]

Mr. Dhanda: The following factors were taken into account in determining the size of Regional Control Centres.

Each Regional Control Centre is part of a resilient network. It has been designed to deal with both its own workload, whilst also providing extra capacity to take on the work of other Regional Control Centres should they, for whatever reason, become overloaded or unavailable. Each building will contain a large control room, operations room, emergency planning room, and space to accommodate other staff or agencies as required for large scale incidents.

Each facility is designed to be self-supporting for seven days, and has been designed to incorporate uninterruptible power supplies (UPS), generators and fuel storage, with the ability to replenish fuel supplies from outside the secure area. Each also has significant water and effluent storage capacity.

Regional Control Centres will provide space for training new personnel, meeting rooms and provide adequate staff facilities, such as, canteen and locker rooms. Each building will also contain space for building services machinery and the main IT equipment room.

The Regional Control Centres have also been designed so there is capacity in the network to accommodate future growth in demand for call handling.

Food: Standards

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what plans she has to ensure that local authorities act upon guidance offered by the Food Standards Agency in respect of (a) food provision for older people and (b) food served to adults in institutions in the provision of (i) meals on wheels, (ii) luncheon clubs, (iii) sheltered accommodation, (iv) staff catering and (v) other civic catering services. [191362]

Mr. Dhanda: The Department for Communities and Local Government has no responsibility for ensuring local authorities act upon guidance offered by the Food Standards Agency.

Government Offices for the Regions: Finance

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to her Answer of 21 February 2008, Official Report, columns 904W, on Government Offices for the Regions: Finance, what estimate she has made of the cost to her Department of managing centrally each Government Office's estates budget. [192097]

Mr. Dhanda: The total central cost of managing the GO estate is estimated at £1.2 million, which covers the annual pay costs of the property asset management team.

The Government offices are funded by contributions from 10 sponsor Departments and the above costs are therefore not solely provided by CLG. The proportion of total spending provided by CLG is c.40 per cent. of the total, thus the CLG contribution to the cost of managing the network estates budget is £480,000.

Department Offices: Central London

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many of her Department's staff are based in her Department's central London offices. [187330]

Mr. Dhanda: On 31 January 2008 66 per cent. of the staff in Communities and Local Government were based in central London offices. This figure includes Communities staff who work in the Government Office network. Information for our Executive Agencies is not held centrally.

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the running costs for her Department's central London offices were in 2007-08; and what they are budgeted to be in each of the next four years. [187332]

Mr. Dhanda: The running costs for Communities and Local Government's central London offices in 2007-08 are forecast to be £47,520,156. At present the planned expenditure for 2008-09 is £41,836,460, however this is under active review since we are looking at options for further rationalisation of our estate. In addition we have a rent review pending which will impact the operating costs in later years.

The figures given represent gross expenditure and do not reflect receipts from other building occupants.

The answer does not include IT and telephony costs or costs for the Government Office for London.

Hospices: Children

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what funding each local authority has made to children's hospices in each of the last five years. [163712]

Mr. Dhanda: The information requested is not held centrally.

Housing: Disabled People

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) how much was spent by Castle Point Borough Council on improving homes for disabled people in each of the last three years; and if she will make a statement; [190705]

(2) how many home improvement grants for disabled people were (a) applied for and (b) awarded in Castle Point constituency in each of the last three years. [190706]

Mr. Iain Wright: Disabled Facilities Grant (DFG) is a mandatory grant used to provide adaptations to the homes of disabled people. Local authorities in England report their annual Disabled Facilities Grant expenditure and the number of recipients of Disabled Facilities Grant through the Housing Strategy Statistical Appendix. The 2006-07 Housing Strategy Statistical Appendix report will be published shortly. The 2003-04 to 2005-06 expenditure is provided in the following table. Communities and Local Government provide 60 per cent. of the value of the Disabled Facilities Grant to local authorities. Local authorities fund the remaining 40 per cent. from other sources. In addition to Disabled Facilities Grant local authorities may improve the homes of disabled people with other funding streams not reported as part of the Housing Strategy Statistical Appendix. Communities and Local Government do not hold this information or information on how many people have applied for home improvement grants. The following table sets out Disabled Facilities Grant expenditure for Castle Point borough council:

| | 2003-04 | 2004-05 | 2005-06 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Total expenditure (£) | 243,000 | 214,000 | 319,000 |
| CLG contribution (£) | 145,000 | 90,000 | 116,000 |
| Number receiving DFG | 36 | 31 | 55 |

Housing: Thames Gateway

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the likely number of residential properties to be built on the tidal or fluvial floodplain in the Thames Gateway area over the next eight years; and if she will make a statement. [191322]

Caroline Flint: Because much of the new housing expected in the Thames Gateway has yet to be planned, it is not possible to determine accurately the amount that will be built within the floodplain. However, only some 35 per cent. of the entire Thames Gateway area itself is at risk from tidal or fluvial flooding.

Under PPS25—"Development and Flood Risk"—all local planning authorities (LPAs) are required to notify the Environment Agency when they become aware of an application for house building in the functional floodplain. The LPA will then make a judgment as to the acceptability of the risk, and also of the likely effect of the development on floodwater run-off rates. Flood-risk mitigation measures (such as land-raising, improvements to flood defences or porous paving) can then be devised and, if these will render the risk acceptable, make these a condition of planning consent.

The tidal flood defences in the Thames Gateway are of among the highest standards anywhere in the UK (exceeding a 1 in 2000 year event standard in the development areas) and, through its Thames estuary 2100 project, the Environment Agency is devising a detailed programme for maintaining those standards into the future.

Local Authorities: Publications

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate (a) her Department and (b) the Lifting the Burdens Task Force has made of the cost to local authorities of publishing statutory notices. [191655]

John Healey: The 2006 Cabinet Office report 'Informing the Public in the multimedia age' approximated that the annual cost of publishing statutory notices could be up to £30 million.

The Lifting the Burdens Task Force have not made any estimate of the cost of publishing statutory notices.

Local Government Ombudsman: Complaints

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many complaints were (a) received, (b) investigated and (c) upheld by the Local Government Ombudsman for England in each of the last 10 years, broken down by the council or agency for which the complaint was filed. [189151]

Mr. Dhanda: This information has been placed in the Library of the House.

Local Government: Occupational Pensions

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she plans to make a decision on extending protection of the Rule of 85 for the Local Government Pension Scheme; and if she will make a statement. [191891]

John Healey: My statement to the House on 13 December 2007, Official Report, column 49WS, announced that the Local Government Pension Scheme Policy Review Group, with the assistance of the Government Actuary's Department, had been asked to undertake a fresh costings exercise of extending the current levels of protection in the scheme, following the removal of the Rule of 85, using 2007 actuarial valuation data. An announcement will be made as soon as the current work is completed.

As Ministers have consistently made clear, to maintain the scheme's viability and to meet the Government's policy of ensuring no adverse effects on taxpayers, the costs of any amendments to improve the level of protections would need to be provided from within the scheme, and be affordable and legal.

Drinking Water

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many litres of bottled water were purchased by her Department and its predecessor in each of the last three years; and if she will make a statement. [191247]

Mr. Dhanda: Communities and Local Government purchased the following quantities of bottled water in each of the last three years.

| | Central Department | Executive agencies |
|---|---|---|
| 2005 | 12,735 | 12,408 |
| 2006 | 12,735 | 13,378 |
| 2007 | 14,150 | 17,724 |

Note:
Figures for 2005 and 2006 are approximate.

Minister for London: Domestic Visits

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what visits the Minister for London has made to each constituency in London since appointment. [190526]

Mr. Dhanda: The Minister for the Olympics and London, in her capacity as Minister for London, has visited or attended meetings in the following constituencies since June 2007.

Cities of London and Westminster
Hammersmith and Fulham
Hendon
Hornsey and Wood Green
North Southwark and Bermondsey
West Ham

National Community Forum: Finance

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what funding her Department provided to the National Community Forum in each of the last three years; what funding it plans to provide in each of the next three years; and if she will make a statement. [190111]

Mr. Dhanda: The funding allocated to the National Community Forum (NCF) in each of the last three financial years is laid out in the following table:

| Financial year | Funding allocated (£) |
|---|---|
| 2005-06 | 200,000 |
| 2006-07 | 200,000 |
| 2007-08 | 200,000 |

Decisions on future funding have not yet been made.

Regional Ministers: Finance

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to her Answer of 25 February 2008, Official Report, columns 1228-29W, what (a) non-cash allocations and (b) funds for a voluntary early release scheme Government Offices for the Regions have received in financial year 2007-08; and what the purpose of such funding was in each instance. [192096]

Mr. Dhanda: The total non-cash allocation received by the Government offices is £3.2 million. This is principally to cover the cost of dilapidation provisions, depreciation and cost of capital incurred by the Government office network. It also however includes the non-cash funding of the release schemes—which is a net allocation of £702,000.

The Government offices have received £5 million from sponsor Departments for the 2007 release scheme, which includes the £702,000 non-cash referred to in (a) above. This pays for the in-year costs of the staff who have volunteered to take early release from the Government offices as well as setting up a provision for the future costs of those staff who will receive payments in future years.

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the Answer of 25 February 2008, Official Report, column 1229W, on regional Ministers: finance, which programme budgets are administered by the Government Offices for the Regions, broken down by sponsoring Department. [192098]

Mr. Dhanda: The information from 2006-07, which is the most recent year the data were collected, is as follows:

| Sponsor Department | Programme funding (£) |
|---|---|
| Department for Transport | 2,389,000,000 |
| Communities and Local Government | 2,180,046,041 |
| Department for Works and Pensions | 1,150,845,613 |
| Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform | 947,214,000 |
| Department for Education and Skills | 811,379,686 |
| Home Office | 233,313,878 |
| Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs | 16,155,346 |
| Total | 7,727,954,564 |

Regional Planning and Development

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what representations each regional Minister has received on (a) regional spatial strategies and (b) other Government policies relating to the regions for which they have responsibility; what steps each regional Minister has taken as a result of those representations; and if she will make a statement. [187836]

Mr. Dhanda: Regional Ministers exercise no decision making powers in relation to the revision of Regional Spatial Strategies (RSS). While they may receive representations on them when, for example, the Secretary of State publishes their Proposed Changes for consultation, Regional Ministers would re-direct these to the relevant Government Office dealing with the specific RSS on behalf of the Secretary of State.

Regional Ministers receive representations on a variety of policies affecting the region from a range of stakeholders. Generally they refer representations received to the Government Office on behalf of the relevant Secretary of State, or directly to the relevant Department of State. Details of these representations could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Television Screens

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many plasma television screens have been purchased by her Department and its agencies, and at what cost, in the last 24 months. [191026]

Mr. Dhanda: Communities and Local Government purchased two 63 in plasma screen TVs in December 2006 for AV provision in conference rooms at a total cost of £16,167.34. In relation to CLG agencies, the Fire Service College purchased one 42 in plasma screen TV in January 2008 for AV provision in the video suite costing £800.00.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Afghanistan: Police

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of EU work to train Afghan police; what arrangements there are to co-ordinate the work of the EU and (a) individual EU member states and (b) the US on such training; what the (i) short, (ii) medium and (iii) long-term objectives of the EU's work are; and what the (A) criteria and (B) timescale are for ending the work in the future. [191069]

Dr. Howells: EU support for training the Afghan police is co-ordinated through the EU Police Mission to Afghanistan (EUPOL). EUPOL brings together contributions from EU member states, various non-EU states, and the EU Secretariat and Commission. The aim of this co-ordinated support is to establish an effective and self-sustaining civilian police force in Afghanistan. As EUPOL works to reach full strength, progress has been made on planning its programme and in developing an international consensus on a policing strategy for Afghanistan.

EUPOL co-ordinates its work with the Combined Security and Transition Command—Afghanistan, which is responsible for delivering the US programme of police training, through the International Police Co-ordination Board.

The objectives of the EUPOL mission are set out in its Concept of Operations (CONOPS), dated 30 October 2007:

> "To assist the Afghan police in training, institutional reform and capacity building; to support the institutional development of the Ministry of the Interior; to work towards a joint overall strategy for the international community in police reform in Afghanistan; and to improve cohesion and co-ordination amongst international actors in the area of police training in Afghanistan".

Detailed milestones are contained in the mission's internal action plan.

The head of the EUPOL mission reports formally every six months to the EU Political and Security Committee on the mission's progress.

The CONOPS states that EUPOL's mission will conclude:

> "When there is sufficient local capacity in the Afghan police to continue self-sustaining progress towards building and maintaining a civilian police service that is both transparent and accountable, operating within a sound legal framework in accordance with international standards and the rule of law and which is trusted by Afghan citizens and is responsive to the needs of society".

The EUPOL mission has a mandate until June 2010.

British Council

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what role his Department plays in (a) scrutinising and (b) approving the activities of the British Council. [191037]

Mr. Jim Murphy: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary is accountable to Parliament for the activities and the performance of the British Council. As such, he approves the British Council's strategic objectives and agrees the amount of grant-in-aid the British Council receives.

The Permanent Under-Secretary (PUS) of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO), as the principal accounting officer, is accountable to Parliament for the British Council's grant-in-aid. The PUS designates the chief executive of the British Council as the British Council's accounting officer.

The British Council Board and the FCO determine the British Council's performance framework in the light of the FCO's wider strategic aims. In carrying out its objectives the British Council sets its own professional standards and devises its own programmes.

British Overseas Territories: Remembrance Day

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps he is taking on the representation of UK overseas territories at the wreath laying ceremony on Remembrance Sunday 2008. [192270]

Meg Munn: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave him on 19 February 2008, Official Report, column 148. I will however meet my hon. Friend to discuss his proposal.

Caribbean

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State's responsibilities are regarding the Caribbean and Central America; when he last visited (a) the Caribbean and (b) Central America; what the purpose was of each visit; and what plans there are for such visits in the future. [192269]

Meg Munn: I am responsible for promoting and protecting British interests in the Caribbean and Central America through our network of overseas posts and through our interaction with stakeholders.

My last two visits covered the Dominican Republic and the Cayman Islands in December 2007; and Panama, Jamaica and Mexico in September 2007. The purpose of the visits was to meet my counterparts in the region (including members of Cabinet and the Legislative Assembly in the Cayman Islands) and to discuss issues of mutual concern.

Foreign engagements, for Government Ministers, are kept under constant review. Because of the unpredictable nature of world events, final decisions on overseas visits are often not taken until shortly before travel. It is not our normal practice to announce visits until they are firm.

Departmental Impact Assessments

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many regulatory impact assessments his Department has conducted in the last 12 months. [191267]

Meg Munn: Information on the final regulatory impact assessments published between 1 January and 30 June 2007 can be found in Command Paper 7297, available at:

http://bre.berr.gov.uk/regulation/ria/regulatory_reporting/index.asp.

For the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, one regulatory impact assessment has been listed.

Departments are in the process of identifying the final regulatory impact assessments published between 1 July and 31 December 2007.

From April 2008, all final impact assessment will be published on a central website.

Departmental Travel

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much his Department spent on travel (a) within the UK and (b) overseas for officials in the last year for which figures are available. [191170]

Meg Munn: I refer the hon. Member to the reply my hon. Friend the Minister for Europe gave to him on 27 February 2008, Official Report, columns 1700-01W.

Departmental travel arrangements are made in the most efficient and cost effective way, and all official travel is undertaken in accordance with the rules set out in the 'Civil Service Management Code and the Ministerial Code.'

Diego Garcia: Rendition

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether the recent discovery that facilities on Diego Garcia had been used for the rendition of two individuals was preceded by a specific request by the UK to the US authorities to review their records in this respect. [189527]

David Miliband: As set out in my statement to the House on 21 February 2008, Official Report, columns 547-48, new information was passed to UK officials by the US regarding rendition flights through Diego Garcia on 15 February. This was not preceded by a specific UK request to the US authorities to review their records in this respect. However, it follows regular dialogue on these issues, including assurances provided by the US in September 2007 at annual political-military talks in relation to the US Naval Support Facility at Diego Garcia.

EC Defence Policy

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the EU's policy is on responding to a threat of an attack against Europe using missiles and weapons of mass destruction. [191054]

Dr. Howells: We consider the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation the forum to develop a collective defence policy on how to respond to the threat of attack against Europe using missiles and weapons of mass destruction. The EU Lisbon Treaty states

"commitments and co-operation in this area (European defence) shall be consistent with commitments under the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation which, for those states which are members of it, remains the foundation of their collective defence and the forum for its implementation".

European Union: Intelligence Services

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the Government's policy is on whether the EU should (a) establish a European intelligence agency and (b) fund an EU intelligence-gathering capability. [191063]

David Miliband: The Government do not believe there is any need for a European intelligence agency. It is our belief that the interests of the UK are best served by the national intelligence agencies, sharing information on threats and capabilities on a bilateral or multilateral basis with our European partners as appropriate. British intelligence agencies are a major contributor to this process and continue to help build our partners' capabilities.

Immigration: Forced Marriage

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will publish the guidance given to staff in UK overseas posts on handling immigration cases involving suspected forced marriage. [191183]

Meg Munn: It would not be appropriate to publish detailed guidance on handling immigration cases involving suspected forced marriage, as it would serve the agenda of those perpetrating forced marriage, not help the victims. However I will gladly send copies of the current guidance to the hon. Member in confidence.

However, general guidance on Forced Marriage is treated in the Entry Clearance Guidance, which is accessible on the UKvisas website at:

www.ukvisas.gov.uk

Islamabad, which handles 75 per cent. of the recorded reluctant sponsor cases, has a dedicated 'Consular-Immigration Link' team to handle these cases, with their own internal guidelines.

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many cases of suspected forced marriage were identified by British officials in each UK overseas post in immigration cases in each of the last five years. [191184]

Meg Munn: The Forced Marriage Unit has been treating immigration cases separately to general consular assistance cases since 2006. Since 2006 we have handled the following numbers of forced-marriage-related immigration cases:

2006—92 cases (69 Pakistan, 12 India, 10 Bangladesh, 1 Sudan)

2007—95 cases (63 Pakistan, 15 Bangladesh, 11 India, 1 United Arab Emirates, 1 Albania, 2 Yemen, 1 Jordan, 1 Turkey)

2008—38 cases up to 29 February 2008 (36 Pakistan, 2 Bangladesh)

It is not possible to access statistics for cases handled prior to 2005.

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps his Department takes to inform the Home Office when suspected cases of forced marriage in immigration cases are identified by British officials in overseas posts. [191185]

Meg Munn: The Forced Marriage Unit is the central contact point for overseas posts that identify immigration cases involving forced marriage. The Forced Marriage Unit is a joint Home Office-Foreign and Commonwealth Office unit and is staffed by officials from both departments.

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many people in immigration cases who had been identified by officials in UK overseas posts as taking part in activities surrounding potential forced marriage were reported to the authorities in the country concerned in each of the last five years. [191186]

Meg Munn: The vast majority of forced marriage cases, dealt with by our overseas posts involve the victim wanting to extract themselves from the situation without risking further repercussions, either in the UK or in the country of their marriage. We would not report forced marriage incidents that come to our attention to local authorities as a matter of course as this could often place the victim, and parties sympathetic to the victim, at greater risk.

Iraq: Asylum

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 175W, on Iraq: asylum, how many former locally-engaged Iraqi staff (a) have applied for (i) resettlement in the UK and (ii) independent leave to enter, (b) have moved to third countries in order to register for resettlement and (c) have been assessed as eligible but have not yet declared a preference. [189438]

David Miliband: We have received over 970 applications for assistance from Iraqi locally-engaged staff under the scheme I announced in written ministerial statements on 9 and 30 October 2007 respectively.

Almost 400 of those have been assessed as eligible for assistance under the scheme. 447 applications have not met the eligibility criteria. Of those assessed as eligible, over 130 applicants have chosen resettlement in the UK under the Gateway programme and ten have chosen indefinite leave to enter.

We have ten applicants who have already moved to third countries and would like resettlement in the UK under the Gateway programme.

76 staff have been assessed as eligible under the scheme but have yet to declare a preference of which type of assistance they would like.

Kosovo: Organised Crime

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the likely effect of the recent EU rule of law mission in Kosovo on relations between the EU and the UN; and what work the mission will undertake to combat organised crime. [191053]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The EU's police and rule of law mission to Kosovo (EULEX) will work closely and in coordination with the UN and other relevant international actors to uphold the rule of law. EULEX will ensure that organised crime, corruption, inter-ethnic crimes, financial/economic crimes and other serious crimes are properly investigated, prosecuted, adjudicated and enforced, according to the applicable law.

Middle East: Armed Conflict

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received of the number of (a) Qassam rocket, (b) Katyusha rocket and (c) mortar bomb attacks from Gaza into Israel in (i) 2005, (ii) 2006, (iii) 2007 and (iv) 2008; and if he will make a statement. [191132]

Dr. Howells: The UK condemns all rocket attacks from Gaza into Israel and is concerned at the recent rise in rocket attacks over the last two days. On 28 February, I made the following statement in response to the barrage of rockets that hit south Israel:

"Palestinian militants must halt immediately the bombardment of southern Israel and should stop trying to undermine the peace process. We recognise Israel's right to protect itself and its citizens, but call on the government to exercise maximum restraint and do everything possible to avoid the deaths of civilians—especially children."

871 Qassam rockets landed in Israel from Gaza in 2007; 962 in 2006; and 296 in 2005. 1,511 mortar shells landed in Israel from Gaza in 2007; 55 in 2006; and 854 in 2005. In January 2008, 267 Qassam rockets and 256 mortar shells were fired into Israel from the Gaza strip. We are aware that several Katyusha rockets have been fired from Gaza into Israel, but we do not have an exact breakdown.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the Palestinians on rocket and mortar attacks from Gaza into Israel. [191133]

Dr. Howells: I issued statements on 27 and 28 February condemning unreservedly the barrage of rockets on southern Israel that left one man dead and several others injured that day. There can be no justification for the almost daily rocket and mortar attacks on Sderot and the surrounding area. The Government continue to call on all Palestinian factions to stop attacks, including rocket attacks, which target civilians and only escalate an already tense situation. At the same time, Israel must ensure its actions are in accordance with international law. It is important that all parties find a way to restore calm, stopping the reciprocal attacks, for the sake of the populations on both sides.

My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary spoke to the Israeli Defence Minister Ehud Barak conveying his deep concerns and condolences on 28 February.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) what reports he has received on the impact on (a) commercial, (b) social and (c) educational life in Israeli towns of rocket and mortar attacks from Gaza; [191135]

(2) what reports he has received of the number of Israeli residents (a) killed, (b) injured and (c) diagnosed with post-traumatic stress disorder as a result of rocket and mortar attacks from Gaza in each year since August 2005; [191134]

(3) what estimate he has made of the cost to Israel of physical damage to buildings and structures caused by rockets and mortars fired from Gaza in the last 12 months; and if he will make a statement; [191138]

(4) what reports he has received of the impact on the economy of Israeli towns which have been subject to rocket and mortar attacks from Gaza; and if he will make a statement. [191139]

Dr. Howells: Our embassy in Tel Aviv continues to report on the impact these rockets have on the day to day lives of Israelis living in southern Israel. The barrage of rockets reportedly has a huge psychological effect on the communities of Sderot, Ashkelon and other nearby Israeli areas. While we do not have any reports on the impact to the local economy, the rocket attacks have caused damage to infrastructure. Rocket fire has caused damage to homes, schools and offices resulting in large disruption to resident's lives. As a direct consequence of these rocket attacks, the local economy has suffered.

Five Israelis have been killed by rocket attacks from Gaza into Israel since August 2005. Several hundred people have been injured. We do not have figures available on how many people have been diagnosed with post-traumatic stress disorder as a result of these rocket attacks.

I issued a statement on 27 February condemning unreservedly the barrage of rockets on southern Israel that left one man dead and several others injured that day. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary spoke to Israeli Defence Secretary Ehud Barak on 28 February expressing his concerns and condolences about the situation in southern Israel and Gaza. There can be no justification for the almost daily rocket and mortar attacks on Sderot and the surrounding area. The Government continue to call on all Palestinian factions to stop attacks, including rocket attacks, that can only escalate an already tense situation. At the same time, Israel must ensure its actions are in accordance with international law. It is important that all parties find a way to restore calm for the sake of the populations on both sides.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assistance he plans to provide to Israel to protect its citizens from rocket and mortar attacks from Gaza; and what recent discussions he has had with the Israeli Government on ways for it to protect its citizens from such attacks. [191136]

Dr. Howells: I issued a statement on 27 February condemning unreservedly the barrage of rockets on southern Israel that left one man dead and several others injured that day. There can be no justification for the almost daily rocket and mortar attacks on Sderot and the surrounding area. The Government continue to call on all Palestinian factions to stop attacks, including rocket attacks, which target civilians and only escalate an already tense situation. At the same time, Israel must ensure its actions are in accordance with international law. It is important that all parties find a way to restore calm, stopping the reciprocal attacks, for the sake of the populations on both sides.

My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary spoke to the Israeli Defence Minister, Ehud Barak, conveying his deep concerns and condolences on 28 February. Their discussions focused on southern Israel and Gaza.

Middle East: Jordan Valley

David Lepper: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations the Government have made to the Government of Israel about the demolition of Palestinian homes in the village of Hadidiya in the Jordan Valley by the Israeli army on 6 February. [190940]

Dr. Howells: We raised the alleged issue with the Israeli embassy in London on 29 February. Our embassy in Tel Aviv and Consulate-General in Jerusalem continue to monitor the situation in the Jordan Valley and raise our concerns when appropriate.

The demolition of Palestinian homes and property is an issue over which we are greatly concerned. While the UK recognises Israel's right to defend itself against terrorist attack, the Israeli Government must act within international law. The demolition of homes harms innocent civilians. It only fuels anger among Palestinians and consequently risks undermining prospects for peace in the longer term. We have called on the Israeli authorities to end house demolitions in the occupied Palestinian territories.

Middle East: EUBAM

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his policy is on restoring the EU monitoring force, EUBAM, on the Rafah border between Egypt and Gaza; and if he will make a statement. [191140]

Dr. Howells: The UK is deeply concerned about recent events at the crossing between Gaza and Egypt. The 28 January EU General Affairs and External Relations Council made clear that

> "the EU is ready to consider resuming its monitoring mission at Rafah under the provisions of the relevant international agreements related to Access and Movement concluded in November 2005".

We support the efforts of our EU and UN colleagues to promote an effective Palestinian security force and the reopening of the Gaza crossings.

My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary discussed the situation at Rafah with his Egyptian counterpart, Aboul Gheit, on 19 February. We support the efforts by the Government of Egypt to find a peaceful and orderly solution to the current situation.

Nuclear Fuels

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what progress has been made in securing international agreement to an International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) administered mechanism for reliable access to nuclear fuel since it was presented to the IAEA Board of Governors' meeting, 12 to 15 June 2006; and if he will make a statement. [185079]

David Miliband: Detailed proposals comprising nuclear fuel assurances, enriched uranium reserves and new multinational enrichment facilities have been put forward by Germany, Russia, the United States, the UK and others. Many are complementary and compatible. The UK Enrichment Bond is an assurance of supply initiative. The UK, Germany and the Netherlands will host a conference on 17-18 April to bring together potential customer and supplier States to exchange views and inform further development of these proposals. We expect at least two proposals to be discussed at the June 2008 International Atomic Energy Agency Board of Governors.

Russia: Foreign Policy

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the impact on the EU of recent developments in Russian foreign policy; and whether the Government supports the development of an EU common policy toward the Russian Federation. [191068]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The EU and the Russian Federation have a substantive dialogue on foreign policy issues, as provided for by the EU-Russia Common Space on External Security. Where Russian foreign policy impacts on the EU, the EU seeks a common EU response.

The Government support the commencement of negotiations between the EU and the Russian Federation on an agreement to replace the current EU-Russia Partnership and Co-operation Agreement. A new agreement should provide a comprehensive and robust framework for relations between the EU and Russia.

Television Screens

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many plasma television screens have been purchased by his Department and its agencies, and at what cost, in the last 24 months. [191083]

Meg Munn: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) delegates budgets for such equipment to individual internal departments and does not hold a centralised record of such purchases. The information could therefore only be provided at disproportionate cost.

Standard FCO guidance applies to the purchase of plasma television screens. This is based on achieving value for money.

TREASURY

Northern Rock

11. Mr. Mackay: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make a statement on Northern Rock's relationship with Granite. [191853]

13. Mr. Robathan: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what Northern Rock's relationship with Granite is. [191855]

Yvette Cooper: I refer the hon. Gentlemen to the answer I gave on the Floor of the House to the hon. Member for Isle of Wight (Mr. Turner) earlier today, Official Report, column 1898.

20. Peter Viggers: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the Government's financial exposure to Northern Rock and its associated financial entities is. [191862]

Yvette Cooper: Parliament has been notified of all contingent liabilities relating to Northern Rock.

Mr. David Jones: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what Northern Rock's relationship with Granite is; and if he will make a statement. [191842]

Yvette Cooper: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer I gave on the Floor of the House to the hon. Member for Isle of Wight (Mr. Turner) earlier today.

Gold Sales

12. Mr. Lilley: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will publish the advice he received from the Bank of England and his Department's officials prior to the sale of gold in 1999 and 2000. [191854]

Angela Eagle: Full details of the rationale for the gold sales is set out in the Treasury publication, Review of the Sale of part of the UK Reserves, which was published in October 2002. We have no plans to publish officials' advice.

Climate Change

14. Mr. Bailey: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent discussions he has had with international finance ministers on the economic impact of climate change. [R] [191856]

Angela Eagle: The UK is working to ensure that the economic impacts of climate change, highlighted by the Stern Review, are a central topic for Finance Ministers. Recently, the Chancellor has discussed these issues with colleagues from the G20, the G7 and other EU member states. The UK is working closely with our partners to develop a new suite of strategic climate funds to support developing countries in adapting to and mitigating the impact of climate change.

16. Dr. Whitehead: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent assessment he has made of the effects on the economy of climate change. [191858]

Angela Eagle: The Stern Review on the Economics of Climate Change assessed a wide range of evidence on the impacts of climate change and the economic costs, and concluded that the benefits of strong and early action far outweigh the economic costs of inaction. The Government are committed to creating the conditions necessary for cost-effective emissions reductions in the UK, and encouraging multi-lateral effort and international trading to reduce the costs to the UK and the world.

Health Expenditure

15. Lynda Waltho: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent assessment he has made of the effects on the economy of expenditure on health care. [191857]

Yvette Cooper: Health care investment supports the health of the working population and so UK productivity. The NHS's £11 billion spend on drugs also supports an innovative pharmaceutical sector. Recognising the importance of health care to the economy, Dame Carol Black will this year publish the first ever review into the health of Britain's working age population. This will look at what more the NHS, working with employers, can do to improve productivity in the wider economy.

Interest Rates

17. Dr. Ladyman: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent assessment he has made of the effects of the current level of interest rates on the economy. [191859]

Angela Eagle: The Chancellor will update his economic forecasts in the Budget on March 12 in the normal way, taking into account all relevant factors.

Energy Prices

18. Mr. David Hamilton: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the effect that energy prices will have on consumer price inflation over the next year. [191860]

Angela Eagle: Overall, CPI inflation has remained very close to its 2 per cent. target over the last seven months. The Government will publish their latest assessment of recent economic developments and prospects in the financial statement and Budget report on 12 March, in the normal way.

Child Poverty

19. Kerry McCarthy: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what discussions he has had with ministerial colleagues on child poverty during preparations for the 2008 Budget. [191861]

Jane Kennedy: Ministers have a wide variety of meetings as part of the process of policy development and delivery. As was the case with previous Administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such meetings.

Tax Credits

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what steps he is taking to make award notices easier to understand for tax credit claimants. [191851]

Jane Kennedy: A revised version of the award notice, reflecting comments from the voluntary and community sector, has been in use since April 2006. Additionally, claimants now receive a two-page summary that explains the most important aspects of their award and tells them what information on their award notice they need to check. At the end of the year, a customer's renewal notice provides a full history of the changes made in the period of the award.

Child Benefit

Mr. Steen: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will ensure that Mr. Goult of Littlehampton near Totnes can continue to repay the lump sum child benefit payment erroneously paid to him and his wife in July 2006 by the Child Support Agency in weekly instalments. [[2159]]

Jane Kennedy: HM Revenue and Customs is responsible for the payment of child benefit. Information relating to child benefit is strictly confidential and may only be disclosed to or discussed with the applicant. Correspondence regarding an individual's child benefit payments should therefore be sent directly to the Child Benefit Office, Waterview Park, Washington, Tyne and Wear NE38 8QG.

Child Benefit: EU Nationals

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how many nationals of each A8 country were receiving UK child benefit for a child or children living in another EEA member state at the end of December 2007; and at what cost to the public purse; [183706]

(2) in respect of how many Czech children living in the Czech Republic UK child benefit is paid; and how much was spent on those payments in the last year for which figures are available; [183707]

(3) in respect of how many Hungarian children living in Hungary UK child benefit is paid; and how much was spent on those payments in the last year for which figures are available; [183708]

(4) in respect of how many Estonian children living in Estonia UK child benefit is paid; and how much was spent on those payments in the last year for which figures are available; [183709]

(5) in respect of how many Latvian children living in Latvia UK child benefit is paid; and how much was spent on those payments in the last year for which figures are available; [183710]

(6) in respect of how many Lithuanian children living in Lithuania UK child benefit is paid; and how much was spent on those payments in the last year for which figures are available; [183711]

(7) in respect how many Slovakian children living in Slovakia UK child benefit is paid; and how much was spent on those payments in the last year for which figures are available; [183712]

(8) in respect of how many Slovenian children living in Slovenia UK child benefit is paid; and how much was spent on those payments in the last year for which figures are available. [183713]

Jane Kennedy: Around 7.5 million families are currently claiming child benefit for around 13 million children.

At the end of December 2007, there were around 21,000 ongoing awards to A8 nationals recorded as receiving child benefit for around 34,000 children living in another EEA member state. This equates to around a quarter of a per cent. of all child benefit awards.

The breakdown by nationality is as follows but these disaggregated numbers are only estimates and should be used with caution.

| Country | Number of awards at 31 December 2007 | Number of children included in awards |
|---|---|---|
| Czech Republic | 102 | 160 |
| Estonia | 9 | 15 |
| Hungary | 38 | 64 |
| Latvia | 192 | 255 |
| Lithuania | 482 | 714 |
| Poland | 19,054 | 31,399 |

| Country | Number of awards at 31 December 2007 | Number of children included in awards |
|---|---|---|
| Slovakia | 951 | 1,667 |
| Slovenia | 2 | 2 |

The other information requested is not available in the format requested or is available only at disproportionate cost.

Damian Green: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer in respect of how many children in (a) Romania, (b) Bulgaria, (c) Poland, (d) the Czech Republic and (e) Slovakia UK child benefit was being paid on 31 December 2007. [191197]

Jane Kennedy: For information relating to claims from nationals of Poland, the Czech Republic, and Slovakia for children resident in another EEA country, I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer given to the hon. Member for Runnymede and Weybridge (Mr. Hammond) earlier today (183706). At the end of December 2007, there were 13 ongoing awards to Bulgarian and Romanian nationals for 14 children living in another EEA country broken down by nationality as follows:

| Country | Number of awards at 31 December 2007 | Number of children included in awards |
|---|---|---|
| Bulgaria | 9 | 9 |
| Romania | 4 | 5 |

Crosby Public-Private Forum

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much has been spent on the Crosby Public-Private Forum on identity management to date. [169862]

Yvette Cooper: The total costs of Sir James Crosby's report of the Public-Private Forum on identity management, copies of which are available in the Vote Office and the Printed Paper Office, were £702,870.39, including research, secretariat and sundry expenses.

Departmental Visits

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer on how many occasions members of the public undertook tours of his Department in each of the last five years. [192014]

Angela Eagle: The Treasury building at 1 Horse Guards Road is a regular participant in London Open House weekend. Details of other tours undertaken by members of the public are not held centrally.

Employment: Bingo

Bob Russell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people are employed in the bingo industry; what forecast he has made of the size of that workforce in February 2009; and if he will make a statement. [191569]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 6 March 2008:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question on how many people are employed in the bingo industry; and what forecast has been made of the size of the workforce in February 2009. (191569)

Employment figures classified according to industry are routinely provided using the Annual Business Inquiry (ABI). The figure provided below, using SIC03 is compiled from the industry classified as "Gambling and betting activities" (SIC03 code 92.71). Bingo is not separately identified.

In 2006 the ABI records that there were 96,644 people employed in "Gambling and betting activities". Forecasts relevant to this question are not compiled by the Office for National Statistics.

As with any sample survey estimates from the Annual Business Inquiry are subject to margins of uncertainty.

Healthy Start Scheme

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what steps he is taking to ensure that people whose tax credit claims are being dealt with clerically receive promptly the Healthy Start vouchers to which they are entitled. [191572]

Jane Kennedy: A process is in place to ensure that applications for Healthy Start from clerically paid child tax credit claimants can be processed by the Healthy Start Issuing Unit (HSIU), with case by case assistance from HMRC.

In addition, where a tax credits recipient first appears to satisfy the Healthy Start eligibility criteria TCO staff are instructed to refer the recipient's details to the HSIU who prompt the individual to apply for Healthy Start if they have not done so already. Periodic ongoing checks with HMRC staff ensure that they continue to be supported for as long as they remain entitled.

Work is under way to develop an automated mechanism which will speed up this process and provide a safety net for individuals who have not previously made an application for Healthy Start.

Iraq Conflict: Costs

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what representations he has made to the US Administration on the repayment of costs incurred in assisting the US in the Iraq war; and if he will make a statement. [191161]

Yvette Cooper: The UK seeks repayments from partner nations for their use of the MOD's life support facilities in theatre such as catering and medical facilities. The UK in turn pays for any services provided to them. Beyond that, no representations have been made to the US Administration for the repayment of costs incurred as a consequence of the UK's contribution to the current military operations in Iraq.

Minimum Wage

Jim Cousins: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many HM Revenue and Customs investigations into employers alleged to be paying less than the minimum wage (a) have been undertaken since 1999 and (b) were undertaken in each year since 1999; and how many criminal prosecutions followed such investigations in each year. [191629]

Jane Kennedy: The total number of investigations into employers paying less than the minimum wage in each year since 1999 and overall, can be found in the following table. There were no criminal prosecutions until 2007 when two employers were successfully prosecuted.

| | Investigations | Prosecutions |
|---|---|---|
| 1999-00 | 6,041 | 0 |
| 2000-01 | 7,256 | 0 |
| 2001-02 | 5,368 | 0 |
| 2002-03 | 6,238 | 0 |
| 2003-04 | 5,541 | 0 |
| 2004-05 | 5,155 | 0 |
| 2005-06 | 4,904 | 0 |
| 2006-07 | 4,235 | 0 |
| 2007-08 (to 31 January 2008) | 3,300 | 2 |
| Total | 48,038 | 2 |

In the great majority of cases where minimum wage arrears are identified the employer pays any minimum wage arrears without the need for any formal enforcement action. Where arrears are not paid, an Enforcement Notice will be issued setting out the arrears that are considered to be due. An employer will then have 28 days to lodge an appeal and subsequently have his case heard before an Employment Tribunal. If the appeal is not upheld or the Enforcement Notice is not appealed against, the arrears become due.

Pensions: Private Sector

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the average value of the fund at retirement for people retiring with a private sector pension on the latest dates for which figures are available. [192075]

Angela Eagle: No estimates are available. HMRC administrative data cover funds held by individuals in personal pension schemes only, and do not distinguish individuals at retirement.

Revenue and Customs: Employment Agencies

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what payments have been made to employment agencies by HM Revenue and Customs on each day since 1 October 2007. [179069]

Jane Kennedy: Listed in the table are the payments made by HMRC on each day since 1 October 2007 to employment agencies.

| Date | £ |

Tax Yields: East Sussex

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much revenue the Government raised in tax in (a) Eastbourne constituency and (b) East Sussex in each year since 1997. [192126]

Angela Eagle: Information on the total amount of tax raised in Eastbourne and East Sussex is not available.

Taxation: Exports

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the cost to the Exchequer of value added tax export relief was in each of the last three years. [191785]

Jane Kennedy: No estimate has been made of the cost of the zero rate for the export of goods. The relief implements basic VAT principles that goods consumed outside the EU are not subject to EU VAT, so there is no actual exchequer cost.

Taxation: Landlords

Jim Cousins: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many cases have been brought by HM Revenue and Customs against buy-to-let landlords alleged to have (a) claimed too much tax relief on mortgage payments and (b) under-stated rental income or capital gains in 2007-08. [191628]

Angela Eagle: The information is available only at disproportionate cost.

Tonnage Tax: Ferries

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what changes he plans to introduce to the tonnage tax regime for passenger ferry services operating in UK waters; and which (a) vessels and (b) ferry services will be affected; [191822]

(2) what estimate he has made of the effects of the withdrawal of the tonnage tax regime on the costs of ferry operators operating (a) Isle of Wight and (b) other internal UK ferry services. [191883]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 5 March 2008]: The Government have been engaged in discussions with the European Commission to ensure that the UK's tonnage tax regime is compliant with EU state aid guidelines. Those discussions are still ongoing. Apart from any changes which may be required as a result of those discussions, the Government have no plans to change the tonnage tax rules.

Ferries operating across harbours, rivers or estuaries have always been specifically excluded from tonnage tax and since 1 July 2005 ferries have had to be operating at sea to qualify for tonnage tax. HMRC has published guidance on the interpretation of "sea" for tonnage tax purposes.

We cannot provide data relating to the impact of this change on shipping companies because it is under review and because of the need to protect taxpayer confidentiality.

Welfare Tax Credits

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many households with dependent children, where those children were classified as being in poverty, were eligible for tax credits in the latest period for which figures are available. [192158]

Jane Kennedy: Latest available data, consistent with DWP's "Households Below Average Income" publication, shows that there were 1.5 million households with children in relative low income poverty in 2005-06 (household income less than 60 per cent. of median on a before housing costs basis). Nearly all these 1.5 million households have positive entitlements to tax credits.

Welfare Tax Credits: Administration

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many and what proportion of people in receipt of tax credits are being dealt with clerically. [191573]

Jane Kennedy: Out of the six million households in receipt of tax credits, around 22,700 are being dealt with clerically. This represents around 0.3 per cent. of households currently benefiting from tax credits.

Winter Fuel Payments

John Barrett: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what discussions he had with the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions on funding for the winter fuel allowance as part of the Comprehensive Spending Review process. [191847]

Jane Kennedy: The Chancellor has discussions with his Cabinet colleagues on a wide range of issues on a regular basis.

Tax rates and benefit payments are kept under review as part of the annual Budget process. However, the pre-Budget report 2005 announced that winter fuel payments will be paid at their current levels for the rest of this Parliament.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Child Support

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the longest repayment schedule agreed by the Child Support Agency is. [185879]

Mr. Plaskitt: The information requested is not available.

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many individual debts written off by the Child Support Agency were worth (a) over £1 million, (b) between £500,000 and £999,999, (c) between £250,000 and £499,999, (d) between £100,000 and £249,999, (e) between £50,000 and £99,999, (f) between £20,000 and £49,999, (g) between £10,000 and £19,999, (h) between £5,000 and £9,999 and (i) between £1,000 and £4,999. [185880]

Mr. Plaskitt: The Administration of the Child Support Agency is the matter for the chief executive. He will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty, dated 6 March 2008:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, how many individual debts written off by the Child Support Agency have been worth (a) over £1 million (b) between £500,000 and £999,999 (c) between £250,000 and £499,999 (d) between £100,000 and £249,999 (e) between £50,000 and £99,999 (f) between £20,000 and £49,999 (g) between £10,000 and £19,999 (h) between £5,000 and £9,999 and (i) between £1,000 and £4,999. [185880]

The Agency does not have the power to write off debt and has never done so. The Agency does, however, undertake an annual Debt Analysis Exercise which consists of a random, statistically valid sample of new and old rules cases, to distinguish between debt which is deemed collectable, and that which is deemed possibly uncollectable and probably uncollectable. The results of this sample exercise are applied to the total Agency debt balance and are subject to review by the National Audit Office as part of their audit of the Agency's accounts. Classing a debt as possibly or probably uncollectable does not mean the Agency has waived its discretion to take action in the future to collect any outstanding money. The Agency may reassess the status of a debt if it receives new information about the case to which it relates.

Figures concerning collectable and uncollectable debt can be found in the Agency's Annual Report and Accounts. In the most recent debt analysis exercise in March 2007, 49% of debt was classed as collectable.

The Agency takes the collection of outstanding debt very seriously. The focus of the current year of the Operational Improvement Plan is enforcement and compliance, as the Agency strives to increase its debt collection and get more money for more children. Every effort is made to ensure the non-resident parents fulfill their financial responsibility to their children.

Child Support Agency: Bolton

Chris McCafferty: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assessment he has made of the effectiveness and efficiency of the Vertex-contracted Child Support Agency (CSA) office in Bolton in (a) communicating with (i) hon. and right hon. Members, (ii) Ministers and (iii) other CSA offices and (b) operating efficiency. [184447]

Mr. Plaskitt [holding answer 6 February 2008]: The administration of the Child Support Agency is the matter for the chief executive. He will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty, dated 6 March 2008:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the Vertex-contracted Child Support Agency (CSA) office in Bolton in (a) communication with (i) hon. and right hon. Members (ii) Ministers and (iii) other CSA offices and (b) operating efficiently. [184447]

Vertex Data Science Ltd. manages the CSA Bolton site, a unit we have established to deal with those cases which for technical reasons can not be progressed on the computer system and therefore need to be administered clerically. By moving all the clerical work undertaken by the Agency to this one site from September 2006, the Agency was able to release people to focus on other improvement work outlined in the Operational Improvement Plan, including reducing the number of uncleared applications and strengthening enforcement.

While the arrangement has been generally beneficial, we have experienced some operational issues including expressions of concern from some clients, MPs and the Independent Case Examiner about how the Agency has managed its service to clients and delays in resolving complaints. The Agency has now taken steps to ensure that our service to clients improves in the future. In October 2007 the Agency renegotiated the contract to allow Vertex to focus on keeping maintenance flowing to children, and increased the resource dedicated to progressing clerical cases by retaining responsibility for new clerical cases until first payment stage.

In addition, all complaints with MP or Independent Case Examiner involvement as well as those cases that require a review are now also being dealt with by specialist caseworkers within the Agency. Clerical cases represent less than three per cent of all assessed cases. The administration of these cases will continue to present a challenge, however the Agency is continually working with its contractors to improve the service to these clients.

I hope you find this answer helpful.

Child Support Agency: Finance

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the staffing cost of each staff grade of the Child Support Agency was in each of the last 10 years. [185123]

Mr. Plaskitt: The administration of the Child Support Agency is the matter for the chief executive. He will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty, dated 6 March 2008:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, what the staffing cost of each staff grade of the Child Support Agency was in each of the last 10 years. [185123]

The Child Support Agency is a part of the Department for Work and Pensions. The Agency uses the Department's payroll and accounting system to record and report expenditure.

Whilst the payroll system does have the functionality to report employee costs by grade, in order to fully respond to this and capture all elements of employee costs, a number of scans would need to be commissioned. This would be at disproportionate cost in terms of both IT development and employee time.

However, the table below provides the total Agency spend on employees for the last ten financial years as recorded in the Child Support Agency Annual Report and Accounts.

| Financial year | Total employee spend (£ million) |
|---|---|
| 1997-98 | 145.5 |
| 1998-99 | 141.2 |
| 1999-2000 | 154.0 |
| 2000-01 | 157.7 |
| 2001-02 | 181.5 |
| 2002-03 | 210.0 |
| 2003-04 | 215.6 |
| 2004-05 | 218.9 |
| 2005-06 | 240.1 |
| 2006-07 | 271.2 |

Child Support Agency

Andrew Stunell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many Child Support Agency cases remain suspended pending the opening of new clerical team centres; [180770]

(2) how many Child Support Agency (CSA) cases were dealt with by the CSA's clerical team in each month since January 2007; [180771]

(3) how many Child Support Agency (CSA) cases were transferred to the CSA clerical team in each month since January 2007. [180772]

Mr. Plaskitt: The administration of the Child Support Agency is the matter for the chief executive. He will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty, dated 6 March 2008:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, how many Child Support Agency cases remain suspended pending the opening of new clerical team centres. [180770]; and

How many Child Support Agency cases were dealt with by the CSA's clerical team in each month since January 2007. [180771]; and

How many Child Support Agency cases were transferred to the CSA clerical team in each month since January 2007. [180772]

The Agency contracted out the management of its clerical cases to Vertex Data Science Ltd in September 2006. They initially managed all aspects of the clerical case-load at the Bolton site on our behalf and to date have administered more than £30m to parents with care. In October 2007 the Agency renegotiated the contract to allow Vertex to focus on keeping maintenance flowing to children, and increased the resource dedicated to progressing clerical cases by retaining responsibility for new clerical cases until first payment stage.

Child maintenance applications are processed clerically where, due to technical issues, they cannot be advanced on our computer system. Unfortunately the process of identifying, transferring and assessing these cases can add significant delays. In addition the Agency's success in reducing the number of outstanding applications uncovered a larger than expected number of cases needing to be processed clerically.

New clerical cases are now progressed to first payment stage at our Stockport and Cumnock sites, with new clerical cases being referred to these sites to be assessed before referral to Bolton to be maintained. All cases identified as being appropriate for clerical handling have been moved, or are currently in the process of being moved to the dedicated clerical teams for progression, with the transfer due to be completed by 15 February 2008.

Clerical cases represent less than three per cent of all assessed cases. The Agency is continually working with its contractors to improve the service to these clients. In addition an upgrade to the computer system (CS2) due to be completed by the end of March 2008, will reduce the need for the Agency's clerical teams.

Information on the number of new clerical cases and the total number of clerical cases being dealt with each month is set out in the attached table.

I hope you find this answer helpful.

Child Support Agency: Clerical cases

| Month (2007) | Number of new clerical cases | Number of clerical cases |
|---|---|---|
| January | 703 | 27,654 |
| February | 910 | 28,509 |
| March | 871 | 29,256 |
| April | 1,347 | 30,568 |
| May | 950 | 30,914 |
| June | 769 | 31,665 |
| July | 1,477 | 33,094 |
| August | 1,093 | 33,783 |
| September | 601 | 33,600 |
| October | 532 | 34,049 |
| November | 620 | 33,294 |
| December | 500 | 33,265 |

Note:
Each month the number of clerical cases increases to reflect new cases that are referred for clerical progression. Similarly, each month a number of existing clerical cases are closed and so are removed from the total number of clerical cases.

Child Support: Private Sector

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of collection of unpaid child support maintenance by private companies to which the work has been outsourced. [190028]

Mr. Plaskitt [holding answer 28 February 2008]: Since August 2006, the Agency has referred over 63,000 cases to debt collection agencies with a total debt of £335.9 million. By the end of December 2007, £9.3 million had been collected from 15,619 cases, of which 3,092 had paid in full. Additionally, in the same period, the seven-day warning letter sent by the Agency to inform clients that their debt is being transferred to the debt collection agencies has resulted in an additional £4.7 million being collected by the Agency.

This additional child maintenance collected is contributing to the Agency's Operational Improvement Plan commitment of collecting over £200 million in additional arrears by March 2009.

Children: Poverty

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps his Department plans to take to assist those children living in the severest poverty in Scotland. [187313]

Mr. Timms: The joint Department for Children, Schools and Families/Department for Work and Pensions Child Poverty Unit is working closely with the devolved administrations to take forward common priorities, co-ordinate approaches and share best practice in developing policy on child poverty.

Our policies are not designed only for those who fall 'just below the poverty threshold'. We have pledged to eradicate child poverty by 2020; this requires us to tackle child poverty, whatever its depth, in all countries of the UK.

The most common and internationally recognised threshold to measure relative poverty is income below 60 per cent. of median. Specific information regarding low income for the United Kingdom including the number of children living in households with income below 50 per cent. of the median, is available in "Households Below Average Income 1994-95 to 2005-06". The figures in this publication show that children in Scotland are no more at risk of being in poverty than they are in England.

In fact, the Public Service Agreement target to reduce child poverty by a quarter by 2004-05 was more than met in Scotland. Between 1998-99 and 2004-05, the number of children living in relative low income households in Scotland reduced by 90,000 (from 300,000 to 210,000).

Work, for those who can, remains the most sustainable route out of poverty. The Government are supporting families to escape poverty by increasing employment and raising incomes for those who can work. But we recognise that we need to do more to help those who are out of work or in low paid work. And we are looking again at what more the Government could do to ensure that children in these families are not at a disadvantage.

Correspondence: Child Support Agency

Mr. Pope: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when he expects the chief executive of the Child Support Agency to reply to the letter dated 21 September 2007 from the hon. Member for Hyndburn on Miss Angela Feeley. [187322]

Mr. Plaskitt: The administration of the Child Support Agency is the matter for the chief executive. He will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty, dated 6 March 2008:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, when he expects the Chief Executive of the Child Support Agency to reply to the letter dated 21st September 2007 from the Hon. Member for Hyndburn on Miss Angela Feeley. [187322]

As details about individual cases are confidential I have written to you separately about this case.

I hope you find this answer helpful.

Departmental Equality

Roger Berry: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what conclusions his Department has reached in fulfilment of the duty under section 3.111 of the statutory code of practice of the disability equality duty. [190764]

Mrs. McGuire: The conclusions reached by DWP in fulfilment of the duty can be found in the "Department for Work and Pensions Disability, Gender and Race Equality Schemes Annual Progress Report 2007" which includes an update on its disability equality scheme action plan. This was published on both its internal and external websites on 30 November 2007.

Departmental Fraud

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many staff of his Department were (a) prosecuted and (b) convicted for fraud against the Department in each of the last 10 years; and what the value of such fraud was in each year. [185964]

Mrs. McGuire: Information is not available in the exact format requested and can be provided only from January 2004.

The figures shown in the following table relate to all types of identified fraud against DWP committed by staff. It includes fraud relating to all the benefits administered by DWP, theft of assets and financial irregularities.

| | Number of staff convicted | Value of fraud (£) |
|---|---|---|
| January to March 2004 | 4 | 46,230.37 |
| April 2004 to March 2005 | 11 | 24,081.01 |
| April 2005 to March 2006 | 10 | 65,748.21 |
| April 2006 to March 2007 | 14 | 207,412.62 |
| April 2007 to December 2007 | 14 | 159,204.80 |

Departmental Internet

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many Wikipedia entries have been (a) created and (b) amended (i) by (A) special advisers, (B) Ministers and (C) communications officials and (ii) from IP addresses of (X) special advisers, (Y) Ministers and (Z) communications officials in (aa) his Department and (bb) its agencies since August 2005. [183936]

Mrs. McGuire: The Department for Work and Pensions does not have a policy of creating, monitoring or amending Wikipedia entries and no records exist of any entries being created and/ or amended by special advisers, Ministers and communications officials.

The Department for Work and Pensions accesses the world wide web via the Government Secure Intranet. The internal IP address is changed on the route out.

This means that when someone logs in to their PC, they are given an IP address from a central pool, which means, in practice, it is not possible to trace back to the individual who accessed the web. Sites such as Wikipedia see a centralised GSI gateway address rather than the address for a specific individual.

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many (a) staff and (b) full-time equivalent staff under 18 years are employed by his Department. [189075]

Mrs. McGuire: The civil service statistics are collected by the Office for National Statistics from the Annual Civil Service Employment Survey (formerly Mandate) and the latest published figures are for 30 September 2006.

On the 30 September 2006, the Department for Work and Pensions employed a total of (a) 160 staff and (b) 150 full-time equivalent staff under the age of 18-years-old.

Departmental Private Initiative

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the (a) value and (b) start date was of each private finance initiative project approved by his Department in each of the last three financial years. [190811]

Mrs. McGuire: The capital value and start date for every signed PFI project are recorded centrally on the Treasury's website at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/documents/public_private_partnerships/ppp_pfi_stats.cfm

Departmental Retirement

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many staff in his Department retired on grounds of stress-related illness in each of the last three years. [187681]

Mrs. McGuire: The information requested is not available. The Department for Work and Pensions does not separately record information about the type of illness or illnesses that result in retirement on grounds of ill health.

Departmental Sick Leave

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what percentage of working days lost by his Department's staff was attributed to stress-related conditions in the most recent year for which figures are available. [187882]

Mrs. McGuire: DWP, in common with other Government Departments, records sickness absences against a list of standard definitions. Stress-related conditions would fall under the category "depression, anxiety and other mental health issues". The percentage of working days lost attributed to depression, anxiety and other mental health issues in 2007 was calculated as 26.4 per cent. of total absences.

Fairtrade Initiative

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will take steps to promote Fair Trade Fortnight 2008 amongst staff within his Department; and if he will make a statement. [189512]

Mrs. McGuire: The Department works very closely with its estate partner (Land Securities Trillium) and its catering service partner (Compass Group) as part of our commitment to the sustainable food procurement initiative. The Department is committed to supporting Fairtrade and over 60 per cent. of its tea and coffee purchases are Fairtrade certified products.

Fairtrade Fortnight 2008 is being promoted to staff on the Department's intranet site. In addition, Compass is highlighting Fairtrade Fortnight 2008 using posters, leaflets and other promotional material.

The Department is working with Compass to expand on the range of Fairtrade products purchased and recently met jointly with Compass and the Fairtrade Foundation to build on this work for Fairtrade Fortnight 2009.

HM Revenue and Customs: Data Protection

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will allocate new national insurance numbers to those children whose data was included on the discs lost by HM Revenue and Customs in October 2007. [174850]

Jane Kennedy: I have been asked to reply.

National insurance numbers alone are not proof of identity and other checks would always be used to establish an individual's identity. There are no plans to allocate new national insurance numbers.

Industrial Health and Safety: Compensation

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many individuals received a consolatory payment from the Health and Safety Commission and Executive in each year since 1997; what the average value of payment was in each year; and how much was paid in total in consolatory payments in each year. [186113]

Mrs. McGuire: The reply is provided in the following tables. The Health and Safety Commission made no payments containing a consolatory element. The figures for the Health and Safety Executive (HSE) exclude all forms of compensatory payment that were made in the normal course of litigation. The figures up to and including 2006-07 relate to compensation/ex-gratia payments to individuals which may have included an element for consolatory payment but which was not recorded separately. The figure for 2007-08 relates to consolatory payments only and reflects the latest position at 20 February 2008.

| | Number of individuals who received compensation/ex-gratia payments from HSE which may have contained a consolatory element | Average value of such payments[1] (£) | Total value of such payments (£) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1997-08 to 2001-02 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| 2002-03 | 4 | 424 | 1,694 |
| 2003-04 to 2004-05 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| 2005-06 | 1 | n/a | 600 |
| 2006-07 | 0 | 0 | 0 |

[1] Rounded to the nearest pound.

| | Number of individuals who received a consolatory payment from HSE | Average value of such payments (£) | Total value of such payments (£) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2007-08[1] | 1 | n/a | 2,000 |

[1] Latest position.

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions in what circumstances a consolatory payment would be made by the Health and Safety Commission and Executive; and what guidance is provided by his Department on the payment of a conciliatory payment to a customer of the Health and Safety Commission and Executive; and if he will place a copy of that guidance in the Library. [186114]

Mrs. McGuire: A consolatory payment is made by the Health and Safety Commission/Executive (HSC/E) where, in very exceptional circumstances, maladministration has had an adverse effect on a person's life, irrespective of whether a measurable financial loss has occurred. The Department for Work and Pensions (DWP) provides guidance on conciliatory (special) payments in its Departmental Losses Framework document which HSC/E follows in relation to all those with whom it has dealings. Additionally, HSC/E's Framework Management Statement and its Financial Memorandum, together, set out the broad policy, governance/risk-management arrangements and financial framework within which HSC/E and its sponsoring Department, DWP, operate, including delegated financial authorities for such conciliatory payments.

For accounting purposes, HSC/E reports all categories of compensation payments to DWP. A summary is shown in the losses and special payments note to HSC/E's resource accounts.

The HSC/E Framework Management Statement etc. can already be accessed in the Library. A copy of DWP's Departmental Losses Framework document will be available in due course.

Industrial Training: Older Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what (a) grants and (b) training schemes are available through his Department for people (i) over 55 years old and (ii) in retirement to learn new job skills. [190011]

Mr. Plaskitt: People who are claiming a benefit or receiving state pension may take up training and retain their benefit, although people on jobseeker's allowance may only take up training part-time. Currently people who are on incapacity benefit for less than 28 weeks, and who are in receipt of housing benefit and council tax benefit, are not entitled to take full-time training to learn new job skills without losing eligibility for that benefit. However, we are revising this situation following the announcement made in "Opportunity, Employment and Progression: making skills work" published jointly with the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills in November 2007. This announcement stated our intention to remove the 16 hour study rule in housing benefit completely for short-term recipients of incapacity benefit; so that they, like long term incapacity benefit claimants, will always be able to take up the training they need to enable them to return to work.

All people below state pension age and claiming relevant benefits can access Department for Work and Pensions training schemes depending on whether they meet other eligibility criteria: for example, someone could be referred to an Employability Skills training programme if they had been assessed as having low literacy, language and numeracy skills and wanted to combine improving these with employability skills.

New deal 50 plus is the only Jobcentre Plus programme directly focused on supporting people aged 50 and over into employment. The programme offers personal adviser support and access to a training grant, worth up to £1500.

The training grant is currently available when an individual aged 50 and over and claiming a qualifying benefit takes up employment after attending a new deal 50 plus interview after six months of benefit dependency. It offers in-work training support to help individuals update existing skills or gain new skills related to their work for up to two years after starting work. The grant can be used for training provided by an employer or through an external training provider or other educational establishment.

Up to £1,200 of the grant can be used for training relevant to the job and a further £300 can be used to pay for life-long learning or skills training that is not job related.

Jobseeker's Allowance

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people on jobseeker's allowance (a) were sanctioned and (b) had their claim terminated because they went abroad in each of the last 10 years. [185885]

Mr. Plaskitt: When jobseekers go abroad, they no longer fulfil the entitlement conditions required for jobseeker's allowance and the jobseeker's entitlement ends.

The number of people on jobseeker's allowance that have had their claim terminated because they went abroad in each of the last 10 years is in the table.

Jobseeker's allowance claimants who have flowed-off benefit and gone abroad, Great Britain, December 1998 to December 2007

| As at December each year | Claimants who have gone abroad |
|---|---|
| 1998 | 6,480 |
| 1999 | 6,405 |
| 2000 | 6,620 |
| 2001 | 6,225 |
| 2002 | 5,600 |
| 2003 | 5,285 |
| 2004 | 4,760 |
| 2005 | 4,565 |
| 2006 | 6,030 |
| 2007 | 5,585 |

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what guidance Jobcentre Plus gives to claimants of jobseekers allowance wishing to go on holiday; [185889]

(2) what guidance Jobcentre Plus gives to its staff on the provision for jobseeker's allowance claimants to go on holiday. [185890]

Mr. Plaskitt: Jobcentre Plus training and guidance to staff supports and reinforces the advice given to jobseekers. The ES40 leaflet "Jobseeker's Allowance and getting back to work", given to all jobseekers at their new jobseeker interview, sets out the requirement that the jobseeker must tell Jobcentre Plus if they change their address or go away from home, even if it is for a day. This message is further reinforced in the forms that jobseekers are required to complete to notify such absences.

Jobcentre Plus provides advice and guidance to its staff to equip them to explain to jobseekers the impact going away from home may have on entitlement.

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people claimed jobseeker's allowance in (a) the UK, (b) the North East, (c) the Tees Valley and (d) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland in each year since 1997. [187455]

Mr. Plaskitt: The information is in the following table:

Number of jobseeker's allowance claimants

| As at January each year | UK | North East | Tees Valley | Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1997 | 1,907,755 | 107,320 | 31,875 | 3,960 |
| 1998 | 1,479,265 | 93,660 | 28,985 | 3,520 |
| 1999 | 1,386,410 | 88,595 | 26,735 | 3,175 |
| 2000 | 1,236,380 | 81,765 | 25,615 | 3,050 |

Jobseeker's Allowance: Eligibility

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps his Department is taking to ensure that people who leave employment for the purposes of obtaining jobseeker's allowance are not eligible for such allowance. [189102]

Mr. Plaskitt: The reason that a person's job came to an end is ascertained from evidence provided by the person themselves and from their employer. When we have evidence that someone may have left employment voluntarily or was dismissed for misconduct we can impose a benefit sanction and prevent jobseeker's allowance being paid for up to 26 weeks. A sanction means that no jobseeker's allowance is payable for that period.

All sanction decisions are made by a decision maker on a case by case basis, taking all the available evidence into account. A jobseeker has the right of appeal against a sanction decision.

Jobseeker's Allowance: Learning Disability

Mr. Chope: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps he is taking to ensure that young adults with learning difficulties in receipt of jobseekers allowance, who cannot read or understand forms or use telephones, are able to receive personal help from his Department. [190592]

Mr. Plaskitt [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the chief executive of Jobcentre Plus, Lesley Strathie. I have asked her to provide the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Lesley Strathie, dated 6 March 2008:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question asking what action is being taken to ensure that young adults with learning difficulties in receipt of Jobseeker's Allowance, who cannot read, understand forms or use telephones are able to receive personal help from the Department. This is something that falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

If a customer cannot read, understand forms or use telephones then a face-to-face meeting at the customer's local Jobcentre can be arranged at which the customer will be helped to make their claim for benefit and, where appropriate, be offered support to seek work. Customers making use of this facility may also wish to involve their own advocate or support agency in this process.

All of our customers will meet a Financial Assessor when they attend their New Jobseeker Interview or Work-Focused Interview. This allows the Financial Assessor the opportunity to assess the individual needs of the customer and offer any further help they need in order to make a successful claim.

For those customers with a disability who are ready to start looking for work, we have a network of Disability Employment Advisers who offer help to those who need and want a more in-depth support to find and retain employment. Disability Employment Advisers have received specialist training to allow them to help people with more complex barriers to employment and can offer help with completing applications forms as well as acting as an advocate for the customer in approaches made to potential employers.

Disability Employment Advisers can also help customers apply for help through a range of disability programmes including Access to Work, which can fund the cost of an advocate to attend a job interview with someone with learning difficulties.

We provide more personal support for vulnerable people who genuinely need an increased level of support and we are constantly looking at ways of improving services to our vulnerable customers.

Jobseeker's Allowance: Mortgages

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much has been paid to homeowners in receipt of jobseekers allowance for the purpose of making mortgage repayments in the latest period for which figures are available. [189101]

Mr. Plaskitt: The information is not available in the format requested.

As at May 2007, the most recent available information, there were 8,700 jobseeker's allowance claimants in receipt of help with mortgage interest. The average weekly amount was £46.81.

Local Housing Allowance

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what funding has been made available to the Pathfinder authorities for the pilots of the local housing allowance. [190541]

Mr. Plaskitt [holding answer 29 February 2008]: I refer the hon. Member to the written answer I gave on 11 December 2007, Official Report, column 464W, to the hon. Member for Inverness, Nairn, Badenoch and Strathspey (Danny Alexander).

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what guidance his Department plans to issue to local authorities on the up-take of bank accounts during the roll-out of local housing allowances; and whether such guidance will be issued by April 2008. [190777]

Mr. Timms [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The Department for Work and Pensions (DWP) has already provided a guidance manual and other support and advice to help local authorities with the introduction of the local housing allowance in April 2008. This support has included the provision of advice to local authorities on how best they can support their customers in opening bank accounts.

DWP is leading a campaign to help financially excluded people access free money advice. The "Now Let's Talk Money" campaign will direct them to suitable bank accounts, local trusted sources of affordable credit and confidential advice.

We are also encouraging local authorities to ensure that payment facilities are available to the small number of customers who cannot open a bank account.

Lone Parents: Advisory Services

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what guidance his Department issues to personal advisers helping lone parents. [190311]

Mr. Timms: The lone parent personal adviser role is one of a number of specialist adviser roles within Jobcentre Plus. Advisers are required to complete generic adviser training which includes e-learning, mentoring and workbooks. They also complete specialist modules of learning specific to the customer group they will be working with, for example lone parents. To support this training, departmental guidance is available on the departmental intranet site which covers all aspects of business process, regulations, procedures and best practice.

Low Incomes

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many children were members of families with income of less than (a) 30 per cent., (b) 40 per cent., (c) 50 per cent. and (d) 60 per cent. of median earnings in each year since 1997; [185946]

(2) how many families there were with incomes of less than (a) 30 per cent., (b) 40 per cent., (c) 50 per cent. and (d) 60 per cent. of median earnings in each year since 1997; [185947]

(3) how many pensioners there were with incomes of less than (a) 30 per cent., (b) 40 per cent., (c) 50 per cent. and (d) 60 per cent. of median earnings in each year since 1997. [185948]

Mr. Timms: The most common and internationally recognised threshold to measure relative poverty is income below 60 per cent. of median. We do not present information covering 40 per cent. of median income in our Households Below Average Income series as it is not a sound measure of poverty. This is because households stating the lowest incomes to the Family Resources Survey may not actually have the lowest living standards. Some people who report very low incomes appear to have high spending. Hence any statistics on numbers in this group may be misleading.

The sample size for the number of households having an income below 30 per cent. of median is too small to yield reliable results.

Specific information regarding low income for the United Kingdom is available in "Households Below Average Income 1994-95 to 2005-06". This annual report, which is a National Statistics publication, includes the numbers and proportions of individuals, children, working age adults and pensioners with incomes below 50 per cent., 60 per cent. and 70 per cent. of median income, and the proportions in persistent poverty.

Available information is shown in the following tables.

Table 1: Number of children living below 40 per cent., 50 per cent. and 60 per cent. of median income in each year between 1996-97 and 2005-06

Notes:

1. Figures in tables 1, 3, 4 and 6 correspond to Great Britain for 1996-97 and 1997-98 and correspond to the United Kingdom for other years. Estimates for Northern Ireland have been imputed for the years 1998-99 through to 2001-02.
2. Figures in table 2 and 5 correspond to Great Britain from 1996-97 to 2001-02, and correspond to the United Kingdom for later years. It is not possible to impute estimates for Northern Ireland for families for 1998-99 to 2001-02.
3. The reference period for Family Resources Survey (FRS) figures is single financial years.
4. The income measures used to derive the estimates shown employ the same methodology as the Department for Work and Pensions publication 'Households Below Average Income' series, which uses disposable household income, adjusted/equivalised for household size and composition, as a proxy for standard of living. This uses the OECD equivalence scale for all years in the series.
5. The Government's preferred measure of relative low income poverty is defined as being in a household with a household income of less than 60 per cent. of the contemporary median income. This is an internationally recognised measure.
6. This response includes a lower income threshold of 40 per cent. of the contemporary median income. The data for families with an income lower than 50 per cent. of median is not considered to be accurate as an indicator of living standards. Many of these households while having very low incomes would not be considered poor, but who do genuinely have few sources of income in the short-run. These figures are not national statistics and caution must be applied because those people stating the lowest incomes in the FRS may not actually have the lowest living standards.
7. Figures have been presented on both a before housing cost and after housing cost basis. For before housing cost, housing costs (such as rent, water rates, mortgage interest payments, structural insurance payments and ground rent and service charges) are not deducted from income, while for after housing cost they are. This means that after housing cost incomes will generally be lower than before housing cost.
8. A family is defined as a single adult or couple living as married and any dependent children.
9. Numbers in the tables have been presented in millions, rounded to the nearest 100,000 people.

Pensions

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners in (a) Milton Keynes and (b) England and Wales have been subject to means-testing in each year since 2000. [178617]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The information that is available is in the following table.

Tackling pensioner poverty was one of the Government's first priorities. The introduction of pension credit in October 2003, which targeted substantial additional resources on those in the greatest need, was supported by an extensive campaign to raise awareness of the new benefit and to encourage every pensioner with an entitlement to take it up. The 2004 figures demonstrate that the campaign had a considerable immediate impact. And, since the introduction of pension credit, the number of pensioners in relative poverty has fallen by around 700,000.

Number of beneficiaries of means tested benefits, aged 60 and over

| Mid year | England and Wales |
|---|---|
| 2000 | 3,070,000 |
| 2001 | 3,060,000 |
| 2002 | 2,970,000 |
| 2003 | 2,950,000 |
| 2004 | 3,380,000 |
| 2005 | 3,440,000 |
| 2006 | 3,420,000 |
| 2007 | 3,490,000 |

Notes:

1. Means tested benefits are pension credit (PC), minimum income guarantee/income support for the over 60s (MIG/IS), jobseeker's allowance (income-based) (JSA(IB)), housing benefit (HB), council tax benefit (CTB). Overlaps between benefits have been removed.
2. Figures have been rounded to the nearest ten thousand.
3. "Beneficiaries" is the sum of claimants aged 60 or over and claimants partners aged 60 or over.
4. Figures based on one per cent data samples (HB and CTB) and 5 per cent data samples (MIG/IS and JSA(IB) and PC) are subject to sampling variation. The 5 per cent. data sample has been rated in line with Work and Pension Longitudinal Study data.
5. CTB data excludes second adult rebate cases. HB data excludes any Extended Payment cases.
6. Estimates for 2000 to 2004 are based on past benefit data as at May of each year. Estimates for 2005-06 and 2006-07 use estimated annual average caseloads for HB and CTB and data as at May of each year for other benefits. 2007-08 is based on a forecast annual average caseload for HB and CTB and data for other benefits as at May of each year.

Polygamy

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what (a) research he has conducted and (b) representations he has received on the recognition of polygamous marriages. [190489]

Mr. Plaskitt: I refer the hon. Member to the written answer I gave the hon. Member for Hertsmere (Mr. Clappison) on 20 February 2008, Official Report, column 756W.

Poverty: Children

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many and what percentage of children living in poverty are in households liable to pay full council tax measured (a) before housing costs and (b) after housing costs; and what the average council tax bill is for those households. [185913]

Mr. Plaskitt: Just under a quarter of all children living in relative poverty measured before housing costs, live in households liable to pay full council tax. This equates to around 700,000 children.

Around two fifths of children living in relative poverty measured after housing costs, live in households liable to pay full council tax. This equates to around 1.4 million children.

The average weekly council tax bill for these households is around £20 and £21 respectively.

Notes:

1. Households are defined as being in poverty if their income is less than 60 per cent. of the national median equivalised income level.
2. These figures have been derived using the Policy Simulation Model (PSM) which uses data from the Family Resources Survey (FRS). These are estimated indicative figures.
3. The PSM models the calculation of individual taxes and income-related benefit entitlement, by deriving detailed microdata from the latest available FRS.
4. The PSM models the current policy year (2007-08) using the latest FRS data (2005-06), by uprating the FRS to represent the appropriate policy year.
5. The analysis provided assumes full take-up of income-related benefits in the current policy year (2007-08).

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many children in London were living in households with an income below (a) 60 per cent., (b) 50 per cent. and (c) 40 per cent. of median household income (i) after housing cost and (ii) before housing cost in each of the last 10 years. [189298]

Mr. Timms: Specific information regarding low income for the United Kingdom is available in "Households Below Average Income 1994-95 to 2005-06". This annual report, which is a National Statistics publication, includes the number and proportion of individuals, children, working age adults and pensioners with incomes below 50 per cent., 60 per cent. and 70 per cent of median income.

We do not present information covering 40 per cent. of median income in our "Households Below Average Income" series as it is not a sound measure of poverty. This is because households stating the lowest incomes to the Family Resources Survey may not actually have the lowest living standards. Some people who report very low incomes appear to have high spending. Hence, any statistics on numbers in this group may be misleading.

Data for number of children below various income thresholds for London over the last 10 years are shown in the following table.

Number of children below 40, 50 and 60 per cent. median income in London over the last 10 years

| 2003-04 to 2005-06 | 0.1 | 0.3 | 0.2 | 0.5 | 0.4 | 0.6 |

Notes:

1. Three survey year averages are given for regional low income statistics as robust single year estimates cannot be produced because of the sample sizes for individual regions.
2. The income measures used to derive the estimates shown employ the same methodology as the Department for Work and Pensions publication "Households Below Average Income" series, which uses disposable household income, equivalised for household size and composition, as an income measure as a proxy for standard of living.
3. The figures are based on OECD equivalisation factors.
4. The preferred measure of low income is based on a threshold of 60 per cent. of the contemporary median income. This is an internationally recognised measure and is consistent with indicators that will be monitored as part of Public Service Agreement Delivery Agreement 9.
5. This response includes a lower income threshold of 40 per cent. of the contemporary median income. The data for families with an income lower than 50 per cent. of median is not considered to be accurate as an indicator of living standards. Many of these households while having very low incomes would not be considered poor, but who do genuinely have few sources of income in the short-run. These figures are not National Statistics and caution must be applied because those people stating the lowest incomes in the Family Resources Survey may not actually have the lowest living standards.
6. Figures have been presented on both a before housing cost and after housing cost basis. For before housing cost, housing costs (such as rent, water rates, mortgage interest payments, structural insurance payments and ground rent and service charges) are not deducted from income, while for after housing cost they are.
7. Numbers in the table have been presented in millions, rounded to the nearest 100,000 children.

Rented Housing

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what (a) local reference rent is being applied and (b) the indicative local housing allowances rate is for each bedroom category within each locality/broad market rent area in each non-pathfinder local authority. [187944]

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many localities were in operation in relation to the local reference rent as at April 2007; and how many broad market rent areas will be in operation from April 2008. [188060]

Mr. Plaskitt: From April 2007 there were 440 local reference rent localities and from April 2008 there will be 188 broad rental market areas.

Shropshire

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the value was of each grant provided by his Department, its associated agencies and non-departmental public bodies to (a) Shrewsbury and Atcham Borough Council, (b) Shropshire County Council and (c) Telford and the Wrekin Borough Council in (i)

2006-07 and (ii) 2007-08; and what grants have been planned for 2008-09. [184097]

Mr. Plaskitt: Details of the grants provided for Shrewsbury and Atcham borough council and Telford and Wrekin borough council by DWP in 2006-07, 2007-08 are recorded in the following table. Figures have also been supplied for those grants that have so far been allocated for 2008-09. The grants consist of housing benefit (HB) administration subsidy and discretionary housing payments which are based on a specific formula, local housing allowance roll out, HB performance standards funding and HB Data scan funding. The table excludes benefit expenditure.

We are unable to provide information on grants supplied by the Department's agencies and non-departmental public bodies. This information is not held centrally and is held by the bodies themselves. We are also unable to provide figures for Shropshire county council as they do not administer housing benefit therefore they receive no HB grants from DWP.

Social Security Benefits: Employment

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps his Department is taking to allow people to move from unemployment to work without losing income. [187312]

Mr. Timms: The design of the tax and benefits system ensures that in the majority of circumstances individuals are financially better off in work. Our plans for building on our successful welfare to work policies are set out in Ready for work: full employment in our generation, which is available in the Library.

This includes the introduction of our new Better off in Work Credit which will allow us to assure qualifying customers that if they move into full-time employment their income from work, including in-work benefits, will be at least £25 a week more than the income they received from out of work benefits.

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what discussions he has had with Ministerial colleagues at the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform about the role of employers in relation to Government policy to move benefit claimants into employment. [190334]

Mr. Timms: I talk regularly with my ministerial colleagues at the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform on subjects of mutual interest. Employers have an important role to play in opening up job opportunities to benefit claimants and influencing the design of employment and skills policies to ensure they accurately respond to the needs of the local labour market.

For example, Local Employment Partnerships aim to secure a stronger commitment from employers to recruit from those who face the greatest barriers to finding work.

Social Security Benefits: Recipients

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people have received benefits meant for another person, excluding cases of fraud, in each of the last 10 years. [189310]

Mr. Plaskitt: The information requested is not available.

Social Security Benefits: Spain

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the oral answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 16, what the evidential basis is for his statement that UK citizens retiring to Spain have the same access to social services as people from other parts of the EU retiring to the UK. [190596]

Mr. Plaskitt: As in the UK, when a person moves to live in another member state, access to social services will depend on what services are available in the member state of residence and national legislation.

European nationals who move to live in another member state, such as UK citizens retiring to Spain, can access the social security systems of their new state of residence on the basis of rights laid down in European legislation, such as the European social security coordinating regulations.

State Retirement Pensions: Females

Mr. David Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many women receive reduced pensions having paid the married woman's stamp; what steps he is taking to help women adversely affected as a result of reduced pension payments; and if he will make a statement. [181211]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Basic pension entitlements for women who paid national insurance contributions at the married women's reduced rate at some point in their working lives are shown in the following table.

Women who elected to pay reduced rate contributions were able to revoke their elections at any time. Leaflet NI 1 – "National Insurance for Married Women" went to great lengths to make it clear that married women who chose to pay reduced-rate contributions would not qualify for national insurance entitlements, including retirement pension. Married women opting to pay reduced-rate contributions were required to sign a declaration on a form attached to NI1 that they had read and understood the leaflet.

There are no current plans to take steps to alter the level of pensions which they acquired as a result of this choice.

| | Number |
|---|---|
| Full Category A retirement pension or Category B retirement pension | 1,257,000 |
| Reduced Category A retirement pension or Category B retirement pension | 548,000 |
| Full Category B married women's pension | 1,228,000 |
| Total | 3,034,000 |

Friday 7 March 2008

WALES

Departmental Property

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how many residential properties his Department owns; how many of these are vacant; and how many of these have been vacant for longer than (a) three, (b) six and (c) 12 months. [192993]

Mr. Paul Murphy: None.

WOMEN AND EQUALITY

Equality

Lynne Jones: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality whether there is a duty on each Equality and Human Rights Commission Commissioner to promote lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgendered people's rights. [189617]

Barbara Follett: There is a statutory duty on the Equality and Human Rights Commission to promote equality of opportunity, including the right of persons not to be discriminated against on the grounds of their sexual orientation or gender re-assignment. Each Commissioner is subject to a code of practice which makes them collectively liable/responsible for the decisions of the Commission, including giving full effect to the statutory duties of the Commission.

TRANSPORT

Crossrail Line

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what contribution she expects BAA to make towards Crossrail if permission (a) is and (b) is not given for a third runway at Heathrow. [192365]

Mr. Tom Harris: The Department and BAA are negotiating the terms of a suitable contribution by BAA towards the construction of Crossrail. There is no linkage between this negotiation and the Department's consideration of the case for a proposed third runway at Heathrow.

Departmental Sick Pay

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the cost of sickness pay to staff within her Department was in the most recent year for which figures are available. [187512]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The notional cost of paid sickness absence in DfT for the financial year 1 April 2006 to 31 March 2007 was £15.5 million.

Ministerial Car Fleet

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 154W, on the Ministerial car fleet, to whom the cars in bands F and G have been allocated. [188825]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Of the 30 cars in VED band F, 13 are allocated to Secretaries of State and the remaining 17 are allocated to other Ministers. The one car in VED band G is allocated to a Secretary of State.

Network Rail: Fines

Clive Efford: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will ensure that revenue from the fine imposed on Network Rail for delays in December 2007 and January 2008 is spent on the rail network. [192715]

Mr. Tom Harris: This is a matter for the independent Office of Rail Regulation (ORR), whose investigation has concluded that the problems experienced over the new year were part of a continuing breach by Network Rail of its network licence. The ORR is now consulting on its response.

I understand that Network Rail is exploring urgently with passenger and freight operators and user representatives the option of funding a package of customer improvements worth £14 million. If agreement can be reached by the end of the month, the ORR could decide to endorse this rather than imposing its proposed penalty on Network Rail for breaching its licence.

Parliament Square: Accidents

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many road accidents occurred in Parliament Square in each year since 2001; how many (a) involved and (b) were caused by persons taking part in public demonstrations opposite Carriage Gates; and if she will make a statement. [192438]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The numbers of reported personal injury road accidents in Parliament Square in 2001 to 2006 are shown in the following table.

| | Number of accidents |
|---|---|
| 2001 | 24 |
| 2002 | 19 |
| 2003 | 27 |
| 2004 | 13 |
| 2005 | 13 |
| 2006 | 5 |

Information on the number of accidents involving or caused by persons taking part in public demonstrations opposite Carriage Gates is not collected.

JUSTICE

Chelmsford Prison

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the approved capacity for the number of prisoners to be held at Chelmsford Prison is; and how many prisoners were held there on (a) 1 January, (b) 1 February and (c) 1 March 2008. [192350]

Maria Eagle: The operational capacity at Chelmsford prison is 695. Prisoners unlocked were as follows (a) 684 (b) 692 (c) 692.

Chelmsford Prison: Suicide

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how many prisoners committed suicide in Chelmsford Prison in each of the last 10 years; and how many have committed suicide in 2008; [192347]

(2) how many safer cells there are at Chelmsford Prison; how many were installed in each of the last 10 years; and how many are planned to be installed in 2008; [192348]

(3) how many of those who committed suicide at Chelmsford Prison in the last 10 years were accommodated in safer cells. [192349]

Mr. Hanson: The number of self-inflicted deaths at Chelmsford prison in each of the last 10 years, and to 4 March 2008, is provided in the following table:

Chelmsford

| | Self-inflicted deaths |
|---|---|
| 1998 | 2 |
| 1999 | 1 |
| 2000 | 1 |
| 2001 | 1 |
| 2002 | 1 |
| 2003 | 0 |
| 2004 | 0 |
| 2005 | 1 |
| 2006 | 1 |
| 2007 | 3 |
| 2008[1] | 3 |

[1] Year to date

Note:

The Prison Service/NOMS definition of self-inflicted deaths is broader than the legal definition of suicide and includes all deaths where it appears that a prisoner has acted specifically to take their own life. This inclusive approach is used in part because inquest verdicts are often not available for some years after a death (some 20 per cent. of these deaths will not receive a suicide or open verdict at inquest). Annual numbers may change slightly from time to time as inquest verdicts and other information become available.

Of the 138 safer cells installed at Chelmsford prison (some of the older of which are on the maintenance database for refurbishment), 12 were installed in 1996 and 126 in 2006. There are no plans to install additional safer cells at Chelmsford prison during 2008.

None of the self-inflicted deaths at Chelmsford Prison since 1998 have occurred in safer cells.

Freedom of Information

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will bring forward proposals to bring (a) London councils, (b) regional assemblies and (c) the Local Government Association within the terms of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 as public authorities. [192190]

Mr. Wills: London local authorities including the Common Council of the City of London are already covered by the Freedom of Information Act and listed in Part II of Schedule 1.

The Government announced last year that Regional Assemblies in their current form and function would not continue. Their regional planning functions will in due course be transferred to the Regional Development Agencies, which are already public authorities within the meaning of the Freedom of Information Act.

The Local Government Association is not currently subject to the Act. The Government have just concluded a consultation on whether to extend coverage to organisations that carry out public functions and are not currently subject to the Act. The Government aim to publish its response to this consultation in May 2008.

Prisoners

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners were resident in open prisons who were deemed unsuitable for release on temporary licence in each of the last 12 months. [191903]

Mr. Hanson: Release on temporary licence is the mechanism that enables prisoners to participate in necessary activities, outside of the prison establishment, that directly contribute to their resettlement into the community and their development of a purposeful law abiding life. The eligibility requirements are set out in Prison Service Order 6300 Release on Temporary Licence, which is available on the Prison Service website. Eligible prisoners must pass a rigorous risk assessment before temporary release is granted.

Information on those considered unsuitable for release under temporary licence is not centrally available, would require manual inspection of individual prisoners' records and could not be provided without disproportionate cost.

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners were resident in open prisons who had not completed relevant offender management or treatment programmes in the closed estate in each of the last 12 months. [191904]

Mr. Hanson: Prior to allocation to an open prison, prisoners are assessed to ensure that the level of risk that they present can be safely managed in open conditions. The assessment will take account of a range of factors including participation in activities such as offending behaviour and treatment programmes where appropriate. However, some programmes are also delivered in open prisons. This information is therefore currently not available.

Prisoners Release

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners were released on end of custody licence from prisons in Essex on 1 January 2008. [191228]

Mr. Hanson: Prisoners are not released on end of custody licence at weekends or public holidays. If the ECL eligibility date falls on a weekend or public holiday release is deferred to the next working day. Therefore, no prisoners were reported to have been released on ECL on 1 January 2008.

Probation

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) whether any probation areas have advised the relevant courts that (a) unpaid work, (b) domestic violence programmes, (c) alcohol programmes, (d) sex offender programmes and (e) accredited programmes are unavailable; [192721]

(2) in how many probation areas courts have been advised of restrictions on the availability of a community penalty; and what alternative sentences are available in those areas. [192722]

Maria Eagle: The information requested is not collected centrally. I will make inquiries of probation areas and write to the hon. Member.

Probation Officers

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many trainee probation officers who qualified in 2007 have not been offered permanent jobs as probation officers. [192723]

Maria Eagle: 464 trainee probation officers qualified in 2007 of which 60 (13 per cent.) have not been offered permanent jobs as probation officers. Of the 60 trainee posts, 35 have been offered a variety of roles including fixed term PO contracts, PSO roles pending a PO vacancy or other roles within the service and 25 have left the service (some by their own volition).

A further 10 TPOs who qualified were originally offered temporary PO contracts which have now been made permanent.

Young Offenders

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice when he intends to establish restorative peer panels in Essex. [191229]

Mr. Hanson: The Government are currently evaluating the Lancashire Peer Panel Pilot Scheme and no decision will be made on extending the scheme to other parts of the country, until that evaluation is complete.

TREASURY

Capital Gains Tax: Second Homes

Adam Price: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether he has discussed his proposals on capital gains tax and second homes with the Government's rural affairs adviser Dr. Stuart Burgess. [192695]

Jane Kennedy: Treasury Ministers and officials discuss a wide variety of issues with numerous organisations and individuals in the public and private sectors as part of the process of policy development and delivery. As was the case with previous Administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such meetings.

Debts: Developing Countries

John Smith: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what further steps he plans to take to extend international debt relief. [191840]

Angela Eagle: The UK welcomes the recent agreements at the international finance institutions to finance Liberia's arrears clearance. This paves the way for Liberia to enter the HIPC initiative and receive debt relief. We will continue to support further eligible countries to achieve debt cancellation under the HIPC and multilateral debt relief initiatives. The UK also continues to provide debt relief to low-income countries not eligible for HIPC and that can use the savings for poverty reduction.

Departmental Publicity

Dr. Fox: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much his Department has spent on public awareness media advertising in the last 12 months. [190644]

Angela Eagle: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer given to the hon. Member for Upper Bann (David Simpson) by the then Financial Secretary (John Healey) on 25 June 2007, Official Report, column 374W.

Financial Institutions: Charity

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what plans he has encourage charitable trusts of financial institutions to contribute to good causes; [190063]

(2) which financial institutions have charitable trusts; what assets each such trust holds; and how much each contributed to good causes in each of the last five years for which figures are available. [190064]

Angela Eagle: It is the responsibility of the Charity Commission, as the independent regulator of charities in England and Wales, to ensure that grant-giving charitable foundations, including those set up by financial institutions, operate according to their founding charitable purposes.

The FSA is responsible for the regulation of financial institutions in the UK. The Government do not hold data on individual institutions' charitable giving.

Inward Migration

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 25 February 2008, Official Report, column 753, to the hon. Member for Peterborough, on inward migration, what the figure was for (a) inward migration and (b) net migration in each year since 1997. [190860]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 7 March 2008:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your question concerning what the figure was for (a) inward migration and (b) net migration each year since 1997. (190860)

The estimates of immigration and net migration for the UK are presented in the table below.

Total international migration, 1997 to 2006, United Kingdom

Thousand

| | Inflow | Net migration |
|---|---|---|
| 1997 | 327 | [1]48 |
| 1998 | 391 | [1]140 |
| 1999 | 454 | [1]163 |
| 2000 | 479 | [1]158 |
| 2001 | 479 | [1]173 |
| 2002 | 513 | [1]154 |
| 2003 | 508 | [1]147 |
| 2004 | 586 | [1]244 |
| 2005 | 563 | [1]204 |
| 2006 | 591 | [1]191 |

[1] Denotes a net inflow figure.

Drinking Water

David T.C. Davies: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much his Department spent on mineral water in each of the last three years. [187673]

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much his Department spent on bottled water in the latest year for which figures are available. [189798]

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many litres of bottled water were purchased by his Department in each of the last three years; and if he will make a statement. [191248]

Angela Eagle: I refer the hon. Members to the answer given to the Member for Warley (Mr. Spellar) by the then Financial Secretary to the Treasury, my hon. Friend the Member for Wentworth (Mr. John Healey) on 9 January 2006, Official Report, column 302W. Total costs for meeting refreshments were £223,619 in 2006-07 and £243,129 in 2005-06.

Unemployed: Housing

Clive Efford: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what proportion of unemployed people live in (a) council properties, (b) housing association properties, (c) private rented accommodation and (d) owner-occupied properties; and if he will make a statement. [192697]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Dennis Roberts, dated 7 March 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question what proportion of unemployed people live in (a) council properties, (b) housing association properties, (c) private rented accommodation and (d) owner-occupied properties; and if he will make a statement. I am replying in her absence. (192697)

The attached table gives the ILO unemployment number and percentage for the categories requested for the three month period ending December 2007. People aged 16 and over are classed as unemployed by the Labour Force Survey if they are without a job, are available to start work in the next two weeks, who want a job, have been seeking a job in the last 4 weeks or are waiting to start a job already obtained.

As with any sample survey, estimates from the LFS are subject to a margin of uncertainty.

Unemployed[1] people aged 16 and over, by housing tenure, three months ending December 2007

| | Percentage[2] |
|---|---|
| Rented from a local authority | 23 |
| Rented from a housing association[3] | 13 |
| Privately rented[4] | 19 |
| Owner occupied[5] | 43 |
| Other[6] | 1 |
| Total | 100 |

[1] Number of unemployed people measured using the internationally agreed definition recommended by the International labour Organisation (ILO).
[2] Number of ILO unemployed people in each housing tenure as a percentage of all ILO unemployed people.
[3] Includes housing association, charitable trust or local housing company
[4] Includes rented accommodation where the landlord is an employer of a household member, a relative or friend of a household member or any other private landlord.
[5] Includes people who own their property outright, purchased their property with a mortgage or loan or pay part rent and part mortgage.
[6] Includes those who are squatting or living rent free.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Alcoholic Drinks: Young People

Matthew Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many arrests have been made for underage drinking in (a) Cornwall, (b) the South West and (c) England in each year since 1979. [191880]

Mr. Coaker: The information requested is not collected centrally. The arrests collection undertaken by the Ministry of Justice provides data on persons arrested for recorded crime (notifiable offences) only. Summary offences of consumption of alcohol by persons aged under 18 are not included within this category.

Assets Recovery Agency

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the annual running costs were of (a) the Assets Recovery Agency and (b) the Serious and Organised Crime Agency in each of the three years for which figures are available. [191397]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 3 March 2008]: Net expenditure by the Assets Recovery Agency for the last three years for which figures are available is as follows:

| | Net expenditure (£ million) |
|---|---|
| 2004-05 | 14.0 |
| 2005-06 | 16.5 |
| 2006-07 | 13.5 |

SOCA's resource funding in 2006-07 was £391.6 million, its first year of operation.

Drugs: Methamphetamine

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what her most recent assessment is of the prevalence of crystal meth usage in England. [192600]

Mr. Coaker: Indications suggest that there is very low use of methamphetamine among the general population and also among drug misusing offenders who regularly come into contact with the criminal justice system. From April this year, questions on the use of methamphetamine will be included in the British Crime Survey to monitor trends in usage among the general population. My Department is also looking at ways in which different sources of data can be reviewed to ensure that any increase in the prevalence of methamphetamine use is identified early.

Hooliganism: Football

Dr. Iddon: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what discussions she has had with UEFA officials on the violence during the Bolton Wanderers versus Atletico Madrid football match in Madrid on 21 February; [190042]

(2) what discussions were held between Greater Manchester Police and the Madrid Police on the prevention of violence at the Bolton Wanderers versus Atletico Madrid football match on 21 February. [190043]

Mr. Coaker: Greater Manchester police participated in the pre-match UEFA hosted security meeting for the match in Madrid. The Home Office is awaiting police and other reports on the incident. The outcome will be taken fully into account in taking forward the EU work programme on minimising safety and security risks at football matches with an international dimension. Home Office and other UK football safety and security experts have played a leading role in developing this work programme.

Immigrants: Domestic Violence

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will provide funding for (a) legal aid and (b) safe accommodation for women with undecided immigration status who are victims of domestic violence or abuse while their immigration status is being assessed. [190052]

Mr. Coaker: Victims of domestic violence with undecided immigration status are eligible to apply for legal aid. All cases are judged on individual circumstances and are measured against the criteria set out in the Legal Services Commission Funding Code.

Victims of domestic violence with undecided immigration status can also access services funded by the Supporting People grant, which provides support to vulnerable people in refuges, hostels and supported accommodation, or in their own home.

In addition, the Home Office announced on 6 March a new scheme where victims of domestic violence who have made successful applications for indefinite leave to remain, may qualify for a contribution towards their housing and living costs.

We recognise the need to find a permanent solution to this issue and are working across Government to achieve this.

Neighbourhood Watch Schemes: Finance

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much financial support was given to Neighbourhood Watch in each of the last 10 years, including 2007-08; and how much is proposed to be given in 2008-09. [187946]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 21 February 2008]: The Neighbourhood Watch Movement has received no direct financial support from the Home Office in the past 10 years. Instead, the Home Office supports the Movement through provision of a dedicated liaison post, and by publishing materials and promotional literature for the Movement's use. Since 2004, the Home Office has chaired the National Strategy Group for Watch Issues, maintained a website and administered use of the Neighbourhood Watch logo. In 2005, the Home Office began funding annual public liability insurance for Movement members, and since 2007 has hosted quarterly national meetings of volunteers' representatives. The Home Office has committed to providing this range of support in 2008-09.

Police: Expenditure

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how much each police force in England and Wales spent on border security and enforcement in each of the last three financial years; [186421]

(2) how much the Metropolitan Police's Security Command spent on border security and enforcement in each of the last three financial years; [186423]

(3) what estimate her Department has made of the amount spent by Ports Police on border security and enforcement in each of the last three financial years. [186420]

Mr. McNulty: This information is not held centrally in the form requested. In general the Government allocate funding to police force areas as a whole rather than to specific locations or functions. The actual deployment of police officers at ports and their costs is an operational matter for individual Chief Officers. In the case of London, the Counter Terrorism Command is responsibie for the policing of the border within the Metropolitan police force area (especially Heathrow and London City airports).

Airport operators reimburse police authorities for the costs of uniformed police officers at airports designated under section 25 of the Aviation Security Act, such as Heathrow. At other ports, such as London City airport, police officers are funded wholly or partly by the police authority, or by other means, including voluntary contributions by airport operators. These amounts are determined locally.

Additional funding for Special Branch officers at ports is provided by the Home Office through Dedicated Security Post (DSP) grants which go towards the police costs of specific security functions. The grants paid to police forces towards the costs of funding their Special Branch officers at ports in financial years 2005-06, 2006-07 and 2007-08 were £70.6 million £71.4 million and £72.6 million respectively.

Security: Licensed Premises

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what licensing conditions apply to door staff working after midnight at licensed premises. [191902]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 6 March 2008]: Under the Private Security Industry Act 2001 an individual who carries out manned guarding activities, such as guarding premises or property, in relation to licensed premises, requires a door supervisor's licence from the Security Industry Authority. Further, where the activities in question are undertaken in relation to licensed premises as defined in the Act and under certain conditions, the requirements are that the activity takes place at or in relation to times when the premises are open to the public, and alcohol is being supplied for consumption on the premises or regulated entertainment is being provided. The requirement for a door supervisor's licence is not affected by the time of day when the activity takes place. It applies whether the individual is employed on contract or "in-house".

Shoplifting

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many arrests there were for shoplifting in each of the last three years; and what proportion of those arrested tested positive for illicit drugs. [191382]

Mr. Coaker: Data on arrests collected by the Ministry of Justice provide information on persons arrested for recorded crime (notifiable offences), aggregated by main offence group, i.e. violence against the person, sexual offences, robbery, burglary, etc. More detailed data about specific offences such as shoplifting do not form part of this collection. In the light of that, the data are not available in the requested format.

Since 2003, drug testing of offenders for specified class A drugs (heroin, cocaine/crack cocaine) in some police custody suites has operated as part of the Drug Interventions Programme (DIP). Under DIP, offenders who are arrested/charged with a trigger offence (including 'theft' offences, which also includes shoplifting offences) in DIP intensive areas (those areas with high levels of drug-related crime) are required to undergo a drug test.

The proportion of individuals who tested positive for heroin and/or crack cocaine following arrest/charge for 'theft' offences (including shoplifting) as part of the DIP programme in the last three years for which we have data are shown as follows:

| | Percentage |
|---|---|
| 2004-05 | 50 |
| 2005-06 | 48 |
| 2006-07 | 38 |

It should be noted that the reduction in the positive test rate reflects the introduction of the power to test on arrest rather than just at the charge stage. Data is not available for all illicit drugs as DIP only tests for specified CLASS A drugs (heroin, cocaine/crack cocaine) and that only some custody suites have drug testing.

Where individuals test positive for heroin and/or cocaine/crack cocaine, they are required to undergo an assessment of their drug use and treatment needs with a drug worker. Failure to attend can result in a criminal charge. Since 2003, more than 115,000 drug misusers have entered treatment through DIP.

Figures from a voluntary survey of police arrestees (the Arrestee Survey, Home Office Statistical Bulletin 12/07 (2007)), show that 54 per cent. of those reporting regular (weekly) use of heroin or crack cocaine (HC) reported shoplifting in the four weeks prior to arrest. Among those arrested for shoplifting, 37 per cent. self-reported weekly use of HC.

Theft: Computers

Mr. David Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps she has taken to raise public awareness of the risk of theft of laptop computers from cars through the use of devices to detect laptop signals from outside the car. [191413]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office has produced a wide range of information for the public aimed at informing them what they can do to reduce the risk of being victims of crime. In relation to theft from vehicles, there is general advice on not leaving any item on display in vehicles, regardless of its value, in our "Steer Clear of Car Crime" leaflets. We would encourage local police and other agencies to make use of and add to these messages.

Wildlife: Crime

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many full-time wildlife crime officers there were in each police force in each year since 1997, broken down by rank; and if she will make a statement. [188574]

Mr. Coaker: The requested information on the number of full-time wildlife crime officer, is not collected centrally.

Decisions on how wildlife crime is addressed, including decisions on resources and staffing, are matters for the police service. These decisions will be made by the chief constable in the light of the competing demands on the force and the priorities of the local communities.

The work of wildlife crime officers in forces is supported by a National Wildlife Crime Unit, which covers both England and Scotland; and the Home Office has recently announced that it will be providing funding for each of the next three years to support the work of this unit.

OLYMPICS

Olympic Games 2012

Robert Neill: To ask the Minister for the Olympics if she will place in the Library a copy of the Lee Valley Regional Park Authority Governance Review produced by Deloitte and Touche. [184428]

Tessa Jowell: The review of governance of the Lee Valley Regional Park Authority (LVRPA) was undertaken by Deloitte on behalf of the LVRPA. The authority is currently considering recommendations resulting from the review, and the policy options available to it. The Deloitte report and associated material are, therefore, still subject to LVRPA scrutiny and are not publicly available at this time.

Olympic Games 2012: Construction

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what steps have been taken to ensure that objects of historic value identified during the construction process for the 2012 Olympics are protected. [189601]

Tessa Jowell: Since 2003 the Museum of London Archaeological Service and Pre-Construct Archaeology (MoLAS-PCA), has worked in partnership to provide archaeological services to the London Development Agency (LDA) regarding the Olympic Park, and now continue to do so for the Olympic Delivery Authority (ODA).

As a part of the planning application process it is incumbent upon the ODA to fund an archaeological assessment of the proposed development site, and to undertake measures to either preserve in situ or record any archaeological remains found within the designated footprint.

Furthermore MoLAS-PCA are in regular contact with English Heritage's Greater London Archaeological Advisory Service (GLAAS), who also provide advice to the five host boroughs and the ODA Planning Decisions Team.

Interesting remains will either be photographed and recorded or removed to form part of the Museum of London's collection, and in the coming weeks the ODA will be announcing a programme of events involving schools and local communities that is based upon the artefacts excavated from the Olympic site to date.

Olympic Games: Freedom of Speech

Mr. Crabb: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what discussions she has had with officials from the British Olympic Association on freedom of speech for British athletes participating in the Olympic Games in Beijing. [192072]

Tessa Jowell [holding answer 6 March 2008]: The rules governing British athletes participating in the Olympic Games in Beijing are a matter for the British Olympic Association (BOA), which is independent of Government.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Assets: Consultants

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what consultancy firms the Cabinet Office has contracted to provide advice relating to property and estates in the last 12 months. [191023]

Mr. Watson: In the financial year 2006-07, the following consultancy firms were contracted by the Cabinet Office to provide advice relating to property and estates management.

Drivers Jonas
Feilden and Mawson
GVA Grimley
Macintyre Hudson
Stephenson and Son
Humberts

Data Protection

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (1) which recommendations of the 2005 report on data security by Dr. Mark Walport of the Council for Science and Technology the Government adopted; [191013]

(2) which recommendations of the Council for Science and Technology's 2005 report, entitled Better use of personal information: opportunities and risks, have been implemented by the Government. [191124]

Mr. Wills: I have been asked to reply.

There was no formal Government response to the Council for Science and Technology's 2005 report and the Government have not specifically implemented the recommendations. However, the report has been a valuable source of information in developing its thinking on how information is used and protected.

On 25 October, the Prime Minister asked Dr. Mark Walport and the Information Commissioner, Richard Thomas, to carry out an independent review of the use and sharing of personal information in the public and private sectors. The Ministry of Justice are currently considering how the programme should be structured to deliver service transformation.

Departmental Impact Assessments

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many regulatory impact assessments his Department has conducted in the last 12 months. [191275]

Mr. Watson: Information on the final regulatory impact assessments published between 1 January and 30 June 2007 can be found in Command Paper 7297, available at:

http://bre.berr.gov.uk/regulation/ria/regulatory_reporting/index.asp

None are listed for the Cabinet Office.

Departments are in the process of identifying the final regulatory impact assessments published between 1 July and 31 December 2007.

From April 2008, all final impact assessment will be published on a central website.

Email: Data Protection

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster pursuant to the answer of 24 January 2008, Official Report, column 2178W, on electronic mail, if he will place in the Library a copy of the sections of the Cabinet Office's protective security policy on the use of email. [191038]

Mr. Watson: For security reasons, it would not be appropriate to make public the precise internal security arrangements for Government Departments.

Security procedures for the use of electronic mail, along with other protective security measures, are based on the policy and procedures within the Government Manual of Protective Security (MPS).

Magazine Press

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster if he will place in the Library copies of the Cabinet Office staff magazine from the last 12 months. [191125]

Mr. Watson: I refer the hon. member to the answer given by the then Minister for the Cabinet Office my right hon. Friend the Member for North West Durham (Hilary Armstrong), on 26 March 2007, Official Report, column 1348W.

Members: Telephone Tapping

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster with reference to the inquiry into the covert recording of the hon. Member for Tooting, whether the Wilson Doctrine forbids surveillance or interception of hon. Members' use of (a) personal digital assistants, (b) mobile telephone texts, (c) voice over internet protocol systems, (d) internet browsers and (e) email. [191035]

The Prime Minister: I have been asked to reply.

I refer the right hon. Member to the answer given by my predecessor Mr. Blair to the hon. Member for North-East Hertfordshire (Mr. Heald) on 1 February 2007, Official Report, column 464W.

Security: Greater London

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what the scope and purpose of the Government Security Zone project is. [191126]

Mr. Watson: The Government Security Zone (GSZ) designates that area of central London containing major government and public buildings. The GSZ programme consists of a linked series of projects to enhance security within the zone. The main project is the "Whitehall Streetscape Improvement" project which is a partnership between Westminster city council and central Government. This project involves major renovation of Whitehall incorporating new security features.

DEFENCE

Afghanistan: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Kilfoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many times British forces have jammed mobile telephone networks in Afghanistan. [191130]

Des Browne: I am withholding detailed information on operational tactics and procedures as its disclosure would, or would be likely to prejudice the capability, effectiveness or security of the armed forces.

Armed Forces: Compensation

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what guidance exists for compensation for armed forces personnel who are injured in armed combat; and if he will make a statement. [192157]

Derek Twigg [holding answer 6 March 2008]: Upon the launch of the armed forces compensation scheme on 6 April 2005, every member of the armed forces (including reserve forces) was sent a copy of a booklet entitled 'Your Compensation Scheme Explained'; moreover, all service recruits who have joined since that date have received a copy. In addition, details of the compensation scheme are available to all members of the armed forces via the internet (www.veterans-uk.info), updates to the scheme are notified by way of Defence Internal Briefings which are available to all personnel via their chain of command and Intranet. Articles about the scheme have appeared in the in-house service periodicals (Navy News/ Soldier Magazine and the RAF News).

Detailed information is held in all Ship/Unit Administrative Offices in the form of booklets and tri fold leaflets. In addition, all personnel have access to the Joint Service Publication 765 'The Armed Forces Compensation Scheme for Injury, Illness and Death Due to Service' either via the MoD Intranet or from their Administrative Offices. Staff at all Service Medical facilities (including the Royal Centre for Defence Medicine at Selly Oak and the Medical Rehabilitation Unit at Headley Court) are aware of the scheme and able to advise patients of the process for making a claim. Finally, details of the scheme and how to make a claim are held by Ship/Unit welfare staff and ex-service charities.

The Service Personnel and Veterans Agency who administer the scheme have a Free phone helpline (0800 169 2277) which personnel can access to seek specialist assistance with making a claim.

Armed Forces: Gliding

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library a copy of the RAF's project evaluation in respect of the relocation of the Joint Service Gliding Centre and the RAF Gliding and Soaring Association Centre from RAF Bicester to RAF Halton. [191928]

Derek Twigg [holding answer 6 March 2008]: Yes. I will place a copy in the Library.

Armed Forces: Publications

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will place in the Library copies of the joint service publications (a) JSP 463, (b) JSP 468, (c) JSP 469 and (d) JSP 471. [175422]

Derek Twigg: The information is as follows:

(a) JSP 463 (Procedures for Project Sponsorship of Staff Targets and Requirements (The Purple Book)) is not a current publication and no copy of it could be located.

I have placed (b) JSP 468 (Joint Service Manual for the Loan and Secondment of Personnel to Commonwealth and Foreign Forces) and (c) JSP 469 (Service Code of Practice for Custody and Detention) in the Library of the House.

(d) JSP 471 (Defence Nuclear Accident Response) is available on the MOD website at the following address:

http://www.mod.uk/DefenceInternet/AboutDefence/CorporatePublications/HealthandSafetyPublications/JSP471/

Armed Forces: Uniforms

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the average cost of (a) service dress, (b) blues and (c) mess dress is for each regiment; and how much service personnel receive towards the costs of each. [191447]

Derek Twigg: The average cost, at public expense, for all three Services for parade wear (service dress) is £100 and blues is £190. Mess dress for the RN and RAF is £135. Army officers are given an allowance to purchase all of their uniform requirements and this varies from regiment to regiment. The majority of grants are around £2,100, but it is not possible to separate out the cost of each dress uniform from this.

Defence Medical Service: Manpower

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what progress is being made in recruitment to fill manning shortfalls in the Defence Medical Service. [183133]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: We accept that manpower shortfalls remain in some key specialties, including some consultant cadres and specialist nurses. These shortfalls have never resulted in the Defence Medical Services being unable to meet operational commitments. We manage medical deployments on a tri-service basis, allowing the work load to be shared more evenly and maximising capabilities. In addition we make use of reserves and civilian agency contractors and work closely with allies to ensure appropriate medical support is in place.

To encourage the recruitment of certain specialities within the Defence Medical Services, where there are the most severe shortfalls, the Department pays "Golden Hellos". Golden Hellos are currently paid to General Medical Practitioners, and certain specialist consultants and nurses.

In addition the single services' medical directorates have their own locally driven policies to improve recruitment.

Departmental Consultants

Geraldine Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many consultants his Department employed in (a) 2005, (b) 2006 and (c) 2007; and at what cost in each year. [192643]

Derek Twigg: Specific data on the number of consultants employed by the Ministry of Defence are not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

However, MOD expenditure on external assistance, which includes management and other types of consultancy, has been reported to Ministers since 1995-96: summaries are available in the Library of the House.

Furthermore, information on organisations, including consultancy firms, paid £5 million or more by the MOD in each financial year is published in the UK defence statistics. Copies are also placed in the Library.

Departmental Plants

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much his Department spent on pot plants in each of the last five years. [192056]

Derek Twigg: This information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Recruitment

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether the policy of British jobs for British workers will affect his Department's recruitment policy. [179880]

Derek Twigg: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given by my right hon. Friend, the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster on 3 March 2008, Official Report, columns 2206-07W.

Harrier Aircraft: Repairs and Maintenance

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the current percentage shortfall is in spares for the (a) Harrier and (b) Typhoon aircraft. [190636]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The information is not held in the format requested.

Aircraft spares for the Harrier aircraft fleet are partly provided direct from industry. Spares demands satisfied from MOD stocks average 90 per cent. Spare parts availability for the Harrier fleet has been sufficient to meet its operational commitments.

Aircraft spares for Typhoon are partly provided direct from industry and partly by the MOD through an international contract. These arrangements are being built up as the RAF fleet grows and demands satisfied from MOD stocks average 68 per cent. Spare parts availability for the Typhoon fleet has been sufficient to meet its operational commitments.

Iraq: Peacekeeping Operations

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence on what date he expects UK troops deployed in Iraq to be reduced to 2,500; and if he will make a statement. [191331]

Des Browne: UK force levels in southern Iraq currently stand at around 4,100. In keeping with the plans my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister set out to Parliament on 8 October 2007, Official Report, column 23W, we continue to plan to be able to reduce UK force levels in southern Iraq to around 2,500 from this spring. Final decisions however will, as always, be based on the advice of our military commanders and conditions on the ground at the time. Work continues on the details in consultation with our coalition partners and the Government of Iraq.

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the average cost is per capita per diem of feeding British troops on operations in (a) Iraq and (b) Afghanistan; and what percentage of the total cost is attributable to (i) transport, (ii) storage, (iii) catering and (iv) food. [191342]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Based on actual food and storage and distribution costs, and forecast personnel numbers for March 2008, the average cost per capita, per diem, of food, and the storage and distribution of food, for troops and civilians in Iraq and Afghanistan is as follows:

| | Cost (£) | Food (Percentage) | Storage and distribution (Percentage) |
|---|---|---|---|
| Iraq | 6.47 | 51 | 49 |
| Afghanistan | 12.84 | 32 | 68 |

The ratio between fresh food and operational ration pack elements of the cost varies between the operational needs in each environment. Equally, the storage and distribution requirements for each operational theatre vary, and hence the proportion of overall cost attributable to each is different.

In Afghanistan, there are additional storage and distribution costs in meeting the demands of that operational environment, for example military charter flights and convoys to support the forward operating bases, and these cannot be broken down.

Catering costs in both theatres would include: capital costs of kitchens and dining rooms; maintenance of catering infrastructure; civilian contracts in support of catering. This information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

RAF Halton: Complaints

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many complaints (a) his Department and (b) the RAF received in (i) 2003, (ii) 2004, (iii) 2005, (iv) 2006 and (v) 2007 about flying activities at RAF Halton. [191929]

Derek Twigg [holding answer 6 March 2008]: The number of complaints received is as follows:

Complaints about flying activities at RAF Halton since 2003

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 2003 | 67 |
| 2004 | 216 |
| 2005 | 132 |
| 2006 | 25 |
| 2007 | 38 |

The information comes from three sources—statistics held by RAF Halton; correspondence directed towards headquarters personnel and training command (before April 2007) and headquarters air command (after April 2007) and written complaints directed towards the Ministry of Defence. There is a possibility that there may be a small amount of duplication between these sources.

Territorial Army

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what steps his Department is taking to mark the role played in the defence of the UK by the Territorial Army Volunteer Reserve in its centenary year. [190610]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 29 February 2008]: I refer the hon. Member to the written ministerial statement the then Minister of State for the Armed Forces made on 12 June 2007, Official Report, column 41WS, and the reply I gave, as current hon. Friend the Minister for the Armed Forces, on 17 September 2007, Official Report, column 2176W, to the hon. Member for Westbury (Dr. Murrison).

I hope to be in a position to make an announcement on the events that are planned to mark the role played by the Territorial Army in the very near future.

USA: Nuclear Weapons

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what discussions he has had with counterparts in NATO countries on the United States' plan to site nuclear missile bases in the Czech Republic and Poland. [192465]

Des Browne: The UK knows of no US plans to site nuclear missile bases in the Czech Republic and Poland. US plans to base conventional ballistic missile defence assets in these countries are discussed regularly in NATO.

PRIME MINISTER

Councillors: Surveillance

Robert Neill: To ask the Prime Minister if he will extend the Wilson Doctrine to cover the communications of elected local councillors with their constituents. [191658]

The Prime Minister: I set out the position on the Wilson Doctrine on 12 September 2007, Official Report, column 2103W.

Devolution: Scotland

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Prime Minister what recent consideration he has given to returning powers devolved to the Scottish Parliament to the United Kingdom Parliament. [190948]

The Prime Minister: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my noble Friend Lord Hunt of Kings Heath the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Ministry of Justice on 31 January 2008, House of Lords Official Report, column WA145. In addition, I refer the hon. Member to the press briefing given by my spokesman on 18 February 2008. A transcript of this is available on the No. 10 website

http://www.number-10.gov.uk/output/Page14595.asp and a copy has been placed in the Library of the House.

Efficiency in Public Services Review: Written Questions

Chris Huhne: To ask the Prime Minister pursuant to the answer of 26 February 2008, Official Report, column 1343W, on efficiency in public services review: written questions, what assessment he has made of the compliance of (a) the Home Office, (b) the Ministry of Defence and (c) other Government departments with the guidance to officials on drafting answers to parliamentary questions in responding to parliamentary questions on redundancies and related costs arising from the conclusions of the Gershon Review; and if he will make a statement. [191517]

The Prime Minister: All Departments, including the Ministry of Defence and the Home Office, publish performance against their Gershon targets in detail in their annual reports. Copies of these reports and further mid-year departmental reports are available in the Libraries of the House.

Farnborough Air Show

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Prime Minister what plans he has to visit the Farnborough Air Show. [192001]

The Prime Minister: I have no current plans to do so.

British Food

Mr. Paice: To ask the Prime Minister what proportion of food served in 10 Downing Street was of British origin in (a) 2005, (b) 2006 and (c) 2007, broken down by food type; and what proportion was sourced from countries outside the EU in each case. [192006]

The Prime Minister: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to him by my predecessor, the right hon. Tony Blair, on 31 January 2007, Official Report, column 303W.

Human Embryo Experiments

Mr. Amess: To ask the Prime Minister how many (a) letters and (b) postcards he has received since July from (i) members of the public, (ii) hon. Members and (iii) members of the House of Lords on (A) the creation of human/animal hybrids and (B) the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Bill; how many and what percentage (I) supported and (II) opposed each; and if he will make a statement. [190872]

The Prime Minister: Since July my Office has received approximately 5,800 letters about the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Bill. Given the volume of correspondence I receive, thousands of letters each week covering a broad spectrum of issues, my Office records letters by subject rather than by view expressed.

Ministerial Policy Advisers

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Prime Minister how many special advisers he employs; and how much each of them is paid. [191973]

The Prime Minister: I refer the hon. Member to my written statement on 22 November 2007, Official Report, columns 147-150WS.

HEALTH

Abortion

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what (a) reports and (b) studies on post-abortion syndrome have been considered by his Department since January 2006; and if he will make a statement. [190792]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department considered all of the information on the issue of the mental health risks of induced abortion which was submitted to the recent House of Commons Science and Technology Committee inquiry on the scientific developments relating to the Abortion Act 1967.

We have commissioned the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists to review all evidence relating to induced abortion, to update its 2004 clinical guideline on "The Care of Women Requesting Induced Abortion".

Accident and Emergency Departments: Admissions

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of patients attending accident and emergency (A&E) departments were subsequently admitted to hospital via A&E in each quarter since January 2003. [192421]

Mr. Bradshaw: I refer the hon. Member to the written answer I gave to the hon. Member for Hemel Hempstead (Mike Penning) on 28 February 2008, Official Report, column 1878W.

Blood: Donors

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what legal advice his Department has received on the compatibility of the ban on gay men giving blood with anti-discrimination legislation; and if he will make a statement. [190213]

Dawn Primarolo: In April 2007, the Government introduced the Equality Act (Sexual Orientation) Regulations 2007 (Statutory Instruments No. 1263). During the drafting of these regulations, consideration was given to the matter of blood donation from gay men. This led to specific provision being made in the regulations.

The aim of donor selection criteria is to protect the health of the population and current arrangements have proved to be an essential element in reducing transfusion-transmitted infections.

Cannabis: Rehabilitation

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what support is available to people who are trying to stop using cannabis. [191617]

Dawn Primarolo: In each local authority area, a commissioner with responsibility for specialist substance misuse will specify and commission a range of drug treatment services based on a needs assessment. Within any local drug treatment system, we would expect appropriate specialist treatment provision for people whose primary problem is cannabis, as well as for those people whose primary problem is with another drug who also experience problems with cannabis use.

The latest evidence-based approaches to treating problematic cannabis use in both adults and young people are outlined in the recently updated clinical guidelines, "Clinical Guidelines on drug misuse and dependence (2007)", and within the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) clinical guidelines on psychosocial interventions in drug misuse[1]. There is an expectation that treatment provided will be in line with these guidelines.

Information for young people and their families/carers is also available through Frank, the Government's drugs information campaign launched in May 2003. Frank provides a 24-hour a day helpline staffed by a team of trained advisers who can provide information and advice on any issue relating to drugs, including cannabis, as well as making referrals to local agencies when a caller requires face-to-face help and support. Frank also provides a website, talktofrank.com, which is a comprehensive source of information and advice on drugs.

[1] NICE clinical guideline 51—drug misuse: psychosocial interventions.

Chlamydia: Screening

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 18 December 2007, Official Report, column 1377W, on Chlamydia: screening, what steps have been taken to work with the strategic health authorities which are not reaching the 15 per cent. screening target. [190862]

Dawn Primarolo: The National Chlamydia Screening Programme (NCSP) is managed by the Health Protection Agency. The NCSP Team and regional facilitators are working with all programme areas to support them in reaching the target. The Department is working through performance management routes to increase screening volumes and the National Support Team for sexual health is supporting the areas finding it most challenging to meet their targets.

Clear

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what payments his Department and its agencies have made to communications consultancy, Clear; and for what purpose.[1] [191086]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department paid invoices to Clear totalling £4,230.00 between May and June 2004. Records do not show the purpose of these invoices.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many of his Department's civil servants were (a) suspended and (b) dismissed for accessing (i) obscene and (ii) other prohibited material on work computers in each of the last five years. [188784]

Mr. Bradshaw: No civil servants have been dismissed or suspended for accessing obscene or other prohibited material in the two years since January 2006. Before that date, information is not available without recourse to individual personnel records and would entail disproportionate costs to collect.

To ensure acceptable use of information technology (IT) all permanent and temporary members of staff have to actively agree a reminder on the subject every time they log on to the Department's IT network. Frequent communications on IT security and acceptable use of IT are distributed to system users, notably on the departmental intranet.

Departmental Standards

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 21 January 2008, Official Report, column 1690W, on departmental standards, which financial control total each East of England trust listed in the document placed in the Library did not meet in 2006-07; and by how much the control total was not met by each trust. [188378]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The following table shows the 14 trusts (primary care trusts (PCTs) and national health service trusts) that failed to meet their financial plan target as agreed between the strategic health authority and themselves and by how much.

| Name of PCT/NHS trust | Difference between planned and audited outturn (£ million) |
|---|---|
| Bedfordshire PCT | 9.6 |
| Cambridgeshire PCT | 34.7 |
| East and North Hertfordshire PCT | 6.8 |

1. [Official Report, 2 June 2008, Vol. 476, c. 7MC.]

| Name of PCT/NHS trust | Difference between planned and audited outturn (£ million) |
|---|---|
| Great Yarmouth and Waveney PCT | 4.1 |
| Luton PCT | 12.7 |
| Mid Essex PCT | 1.7 |
| Norfolk PCT | 24.0 |
| South East Essex Teaching PCT | 1.6 |
| South West Essex Teaching PCT | 1.3 |
| Suffolk PCT | 12.1 |
| West Hertfordshire PCT | 9.4 |

Diseases

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many cases there were of (a) mumps, (b) rickets, (c) whooping cough, (d) scarlet fever, (e) cholera, (f) diphtheria, (g) leprosy, (h) botulism, (i) gout, (j) impetigo, (k) scurvy, (l) listeria, (m) tuberculosis, (n) polio, (o) typhus and (p) typhoid in England in each of the last five years, broken down by strategic health authority. [187203]

Dawn Primarolo: Information on rickets, gout, impetigo and scurvy is not held centrally.

Such information as is available has been placed in the Library.

Food: Salt

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what responsibility his Department has for Government policy on the effects of salt intake on health. [190216]

Dawn Primarolo: The Scientific Advisory Committee on Nutrition (SACN) recommended that a reduction in the average population salt intake would proportionally lower population average blood pressure levels and confer significant public health benefits by contributing to a decrease in the burden of cardiovascular disease. The Department prioritised salt reduction in its White Paper "Choosing Health—Making healthy choices easier", in which it committed to having discussions with industry to increase opportunities for people to make healthy choices in what they eat.

The Department and the Food Standards Agency have been working in partnership to deliver the SACN recommendation and reduce the average population salt intakes to six grams, as set out in the Department's "Food and Health Action Plan" and the agency's "Strategic Plan" up to 2010.

Reducing the rising burden of lifestyle diseases is also one of the high-level priorities that the Department will have a particular focus on for 2008-09, with the Department having a leading role working with partners across the public and private sectors, nationally and regionally.

Health Services: Admissions

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many attendances at (a) walk-in centres, (b) minor injuries units and (c) type 1 accident and emergency departments there were in each quarter since January 2003. [192420]

Mr. Bradshaw: I refer the hon. Member to the written answer I gave to the hon. Member for Hemel Hempstead (Mike Penning) on 28 February 2008, Official Report, columns 1876-78W.

Health Services: Overseas Visitors

Mrs. Riordan: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the policies of EU Member States in respect of reimbursement of patient expenditure on (a) biological treatments and (b) abatacept; and if he will make a statement. [189627]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department has made no such assessment.

Health: Climate Change

Mr. Kemp: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what research the Government has (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated on the effects of climate change on public health in the last 10 years. [189983]

Dawn Primarolo: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer given to the hon. Member for Coventry, South (Mr. Cunningham) on 26 February 2008, Official Report, column 1460W.

Hepatitis

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many new diagnoses of hepatitis C there were in each of the last 10 years. [191384]

Dawn Primarolo: The information requested is available in the Health Protection Agency's annual report, "Hepatitis C in England, the Health Protection Agency Annual Report 2007", copies of which have been placed in the Library.

HIV Infection

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what expenditure the NHS incurred on average on the treatment and care of a patient with HIV in each of the first five years from diagnosis. [187862]

Dawn Primarolo: Costs of treating people with HIV vary depending on the severity of symptoms and level of immune suppression. Estimated annual costs of HIV treatment, including the costs of combination antiretroviral therapies range between £12,000-£19,000 per person. Total national health service expenditure on HIV treatment in 2006-07 was £497 million. This was the first year these data have been collected since HIV treatment and care budgets were placed into the NHS baselines in 2002-03.

Human Embryo Experiments

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) letters and (b) postcards he has received since July from (i) members of the public, (ii) hon. Members and (iii) members of the House of Lords about (A) the creation of human/animal hybrids and (B) the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Bill; how many and what percentage (1) supported and (2) opposed each; and if he will make a statement. [190790]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department has received two relevant postcard campaigns since July 2007. We have received 6,093 postcards on a campaign organised by the Society for the Protection of Unborn Children, which we started receiving in September 2007, part of which expresses opposition to any Bill that could lead to admixed embryos. We have also received 1,461 postcards issued by the All Party Parliamentary Pro-Life Group, which we started receiving in February 2008, asking hon. Members to vote against the creation of admixed embryos.

In addition to these campaigns, the Department has received a large volume of correspondence on issues surrounding embryos research, however due to the way in which correspondence is recorded the information requested could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

In Vitro Fertilisation

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many human embryos were (a) lost, (b) damaged and (c) destroyed due to accidents at fertility clinics in each year since 2000; what steps he has (i) taken and (ii) plans to take to prevent such accidents; what guidance on the matter he has (A) issued and (B) plans to issue in the next 12 months to fertility clinics; and if he will make a statement. [190791]

Dawn Primarolo: The Human Fertilisation and Embryology Authority (HFEA) has informed the Department that it does not require clinics to submit the information requested as part of its routine data collection. However, incidents involving loss, damage or accidental destruction of embryos should be notified to the HFEA in accordance with the requirement to report adverse incidents that occur in licensed establishments.

The HFEA uses the adverse incident reporting system to help clinics learn from mistakes and to develop control measures to reduce the risk of incidents reoccurring. Information about risk control measures is issued to clinics in the form of HFEA alerts and patient safety notices. Past alerts have included guidance on transportation of embryos and associated risks and risks involving power supply and critical equipment. The HFEA's Code of Practice also makes clear that where adverse incidents occur, clinics are expected to review relevant procedures to minimise the risk of any reoccurrence of the incident and inform the HFEA of the revised procedures.

The HFEA has advised the Department that it intends to continue the development of its systems for improving risk management in clinics and dissemination of critical information in response to individual incidents.

Stephen Hesford: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many births were the result of IVF or donor insemination between 2002 and 2007. [191285]

Dawn Primarolo: The information requested is shown in the following table.

Total number of babies born in the UK as a result of in vitro fertilisation (IVF) and donor insemination treatments 2002-05[1]

| | IVF[2] | Donor insemination[3] |
|---|---|---|
| 2002 | 9,760 | 889 |
| 2003 | 10,076 | 821 |
| 2004 | 10,190 | 749 |
| 2005[1] | 11,268 | 645 |

Notes:
1. 2005 are the most recent year for which information is currently available.
2. Data include all IVF treatment cycles including use of donated eggs, frozen embryo transfers and treatment cycles involving the use of micromanipulation techniques.
3. Data include treatment cycles involving artificial insemination and Gamete Intrafallopian Transfer.

Influenza: Vaccination

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many pensioners aged 65 and over received free influenza inoculations in (a) Bexley and (b) London in each year since they became available. [191000]

Dawn Primarolo: The information requested is shown in the following table.

Vaccination uptake (percentage) among the 65 years and over for Bexley and London for each year between 2000 and 2007 (cumulative data)

| Survey year | Strategic health authority (SHA)/primary care trust (PCT) | Total persons vaccinated | Total percentage uptake |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2000-01 | Bexley and Greenwich PCT | 40,887 | 63 |
| | London SHA | 462,917 | 60 |
| 2001-02 | Bexley and Greenwich PCT | 74,257 | 65 |
| | London SHA | 538,935 | 62 |
| 2002-03 | Bexley PCT | 23,478 | 67 |
| | London SHA | 608,562 | 63 |
| 2003-04 | Bexley PCT | 24,825 | 71 |

| 2004-05 | Bexley PCT | 24,117 | 68 |
| | London SHA | 626,133 | 67 |

Vaccination uptake (percentage) among the 65 years and over for Bexley and London for each year between 2000 and 2007 (cumulative data)

| Survey year | Strategic health authority (SHA)/primary care trust (PCT) | Total persons vaccinated | Total percentage uptake |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2005-06 | Bexley PCT | 25,684 | 73 |
| | London SHA | 677,115 | 72 |
| 2006-07 | Bexley PCT | 14,105 | 71 |
| | London SHA | 620,801 | 70 |
| 2007-08[1] | Bexley PCT | 15,743 | 68.9 |
| | London SHA | 641,558 | 71.1 |

[1] Data for this year's survey (2007-08) should be taken as provisional until final figures are published.

Note:
Uptake figures include only those general practitioner (GP) practices which have returned confirmation to the survey and reflect data for individuals vaccinated at these premises.

Meat Hygiene Service: Inspections

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) abattoirs and (b) meat processing plants are subject to inspection by the Meat Hygiene Service. [191202]

Dawn Primarolo: As at 28 February 2008, there were 393 abattoirs subject to audit and inspection by the Meat Hygiene Service (MHS) and 752 cutting plants subject to audit by the MHS.

Meat Hygiene Service: Manpower

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) veterinarians and (b) technicians worked for the Meat Hygiene Service in each of the last three years. [191203]

Dawn Primarolo: In each of the last three years, the Meat Hygiene Service had an annual average full-time equivalent of staff as follows:

| | Number of staff (full-time equivalent) |
|---|---|
| 2006-07 | |
| Official Veterinary Surgeons | 354 |
| Meat Inspectors and Meat Technicians | 1,397 |
| 2005-06 | |
| Official Veterinary Surgeons | 382 |
| Meat Inspectors and Meat Technicians | 1,357 |
| 2004-05 | |
| Official Veterinary Surgeons | 386 |
| Meat Inspectors and Meat Technicians | 1,348 |

Medicine: China

Mrs. Moon: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment his Department has made of (a) the potential health effects of Chinese medicine techniques and (b) the effectiveness of the regulations governing the use of Chinese medicine techniques; and if he will make a statement. [186275]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Government consider that decision making on individual clinical interventions, whether conventional, or complementary/alternative treatments, are a matter for local national health service service providers and practitioners. In making such decisions, they have to take into account evidence for the safety, effectiveness and cost-effectiveness of the treatment, the availability of suitably qualified practitioners, and the needs of the individual patient. Clinical responsibility rests with the NHS professional who makes the decision to refer and who must therefore be able to justify any treatment they recommend. If they are unconvinced about the suitability of a particular treatment, they cannot be made to refer.

A working group, chaired by Professor Mike Pittilo of Robert Gordon University, has completed its work looking at proposals for regulation of herbal medicine, traditional Chinese medicine and acupuncture which were made in a report of the House of Lords Select Committee on Science and Technology in 2000. Their report will be submitted to Ministers shortly, and a decision will then be taken about whether, and if so, how soon, legislation should be brought forward.

Members: Correspondence

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the Minister of State will reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire, dated 23 January, about the painkiller drug Vioxx. [191157]

Dawn Primarolo: A reply was sent to the hon. Member on 26 February 2008.

NHS: Questionnaires

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 310W, to the hon. Member for Westmorland and Lonsdale (Tim Farron), on NHS: questionnaires, what the cost to the public purse was of each questionnaire on which his Department has worked with Ipsos MORI in financial year 2007-08. [190139]

Mr. Bradshaw: In 2007-08, the overall cost, to date, of the surveys conducted by Ipsos MORI on behalf of the Department, is £10,432,843.

West Suffolk Hospital: Clostridium

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients at (a) West Suffolk Hospital, (b) Addenbrookes Hospital and (c) Ipswich Hospital died from Clostridium difficile in each of the last five years. [191591]

Angela Eagle: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 7 March 2008:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many patients at (a) West Suffolk Hospital, (b) Addenbrookes Hospital and (c) Ipswich Hospital died from Clostridium difficile in each of the last five years. (191591)

Special analyses of deaths involving Clostridium difficile in England and Wales are undertaken annually by ONS. The latest year for which figures are available is 2006. Information on the numbers of deaths between 1999 and 2006 involving Clostridium difficile was published in Health Statistics Quarterly in February 2008.[1] This publication is available in the House of Commons library.

ONS has not yet released any figures on deaths involving Clostridium difficile for individual hospitals. The possibility of producing figures for hospitals in the future is currently being investigated.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Building Schools for the Future Programme: Disadvantaged

Helen Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps he is taking to encourage local authorities to use the Building Schools for the Future programme to benefit deprived communities and rebuild schools that are most in need. [192482]

Jim Knight: To ensure that Building Schools for the Future reaches the schools that are in most need, prioritisation was based on the greatest educational and social need of geographically coherent groupings of schools proposed by local authorities, GCSE results and eligibility for free school meals were used as proxies for these needs. Once in the programme, authorities must demonstrate through their Strategy for Change submissions that they are addressing the educational and physical priorities in their estates.

Regional Development Agencies: Finance

Mr. Prisk: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether he has allocated any resources to be spent via the regional development agencies' single pot in 2007-08. [179812]

Bill Rammell: I have been asked to reply.

The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills (DfUS) has allocated £44.5 million to be spent via the regional development agencies single pot in 2007-08.

Written Questions: Government Responses

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families when he expects to answer question 173128, on user survey research, tabled on 6 December 2007 by the hon. Member for Falmouth and Camborne. [190897]

Beverley Hughes: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given on 5 March 2008, Official Report, columns 2649-50W.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Child Support: Administration

Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether employees at the Child Support Agency were given an indication of the timescale under which older cases would be put onto the new child support system. [188521]

Mr. Plaskitt: The administration of the Child Support Agency is a matter for the chief executive. He will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty, dated 7 March 2008:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether employees at the Child Support Agency were given indication of the timescale in which older cases would be put onto the new child support system. [188521]

We have always made clear that the bulk migration and conversion of cases from the old scheme to the new scheme would only take place when the Agency and Ministers are satisfied that the arrangements are working well for new clients. Our people were informed of that position from the outset and it has been reiterated on a number of occasions.

I hope you find this answer helpful.

Credit Unions

Andrew Selous: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions in which constituencies credit unions have received financial assistance from the public purse in the last 12 months for which figures are available. [188836]

Mr. Plaskitt: The information placed in the House of Commons Library provides details of constituencies, by Government office region, where Growth Fund contracted Credit Union or Community Development Finance Institutions, and their subcontractors, are located. It also provides details of the number of loans made and their value to date in those regions.

The affordable loans are being made to people on low income in areas of high financial exclusion with coverage extending beyond constituency boundaries.

The information will be updated and placed in the House of Commons Library on a quarterly basis.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many of his Department's civil servants have been (a) suspended and (b) dismissed for accessing (i) obscene and (ii) other prohibited material on work computers in each of the last five years. [188780]

Mrs. McGuire: The information is not available in the format requested.

The Department records information on the number of staff suspended and dismissed but does not break it down into the categories requested.

The Department's disciplinary policy is published on the Department's intranet and is accessible to all staff. The policy reflects the requirements in section 4.5 of the Civil Service Management Code.

Specific guidance on the use of the Department's IT, including consequences of misuse, is set out in the electronic media policy also published on the intranet.

Departmental Impact Assessments

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many regulatory impact assessments his Department has conducted in the last 12 months. [191273]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Department has published two final (regulatory) impact assessments ((R)IA) since March 2007. These relate to the Child Maintenance and Other Payments Bill, and the Pensions Bill which are currently before Parliament. A copy of each of these (R)IAs is available in the Library.

Information on published final (regulatory) impact assessments can be found in Command Papers available at:

http://bre.berr.gov.uk/regulation/ria/regulatory_reporting/index.asp

From April 2008, all final impact assessments will be published on a central website.

Departmental Official Hospitality

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much his Department and its agencies spent on (a) alcohol and (b) entertaining in the last 12 months. [187834]

Mrs. McGuire: The estimated spend on Hospitality for the Department for Work and Pensions for the period February 2007 to January 2008 (inclusive) is £57,000. This equates to 0.00094 per cent. of the total departmental expenditure limit (DEL) spend for 2006-07. Hospitality comprises expenditure on meals, drinks and snacks for non-civil servants.

The Department for Work and Pensions does not currently keep a separate record of expenditure on alcohol for hospitality purposes. Such expenditure is included within the hospitality account. Expenditure on alcohol and entertaining fall within the classification "Hospitality" within Managing Public Money, the use of which is strictly prescribed, and in accordance with published departmental guidance on financial procedures and propriety, which is based on the principles set out in Managing Public Money and the Treasury handbook on Regularity and Propriety. Accordingly, alcohol is provided only as an exception and only with the specific written authority of a small number of designated senior civil servants.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the salary range is for each pay band of civil servants in his Department. [188795]

Mrs. McGuire: The following tables show the salary ranges for pay bands in the Department for Work and Pensions.

Departmental Plants

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much his Department spent on pot plants in each of the last five years. [192063]

Mrs. McGuire: DWP occupies its properties under the terms of the PRIME PFI contract and pays an inclusive facilities unit price for the accommodation. The contract includes the provision of interior plants. The cost of those plants is not separately identifiable.

Departmental Public Relations

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many external contracts his Department held with public relations companies in each of the last 10 years; and what the total cost of those contracts was. [183167]

Mrs. McGuire: The Department for Work and Pensions was formed on 8 June 2001 from parts of the former Department of Social Security, the former Department for Education and Employment and the Employment Service. Information on costs prior to 2001 is not held centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost. In addition numbers of contracts prior to 2005-06 were not collated centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

The Department runs a number of promotional campaigns to increase awareness of people's rights and responsibilities or changes to legislation. PR agencies are taken on where messages are most effectively promoted by supplementing 'paid-for' advertising (press/TV/radio) with public relations activity.

The following table details spend on PR campaigns and numbers of contracts and totals:

| April-March | Numbers of contracts | Cost (thousand) |
|---|---|---|
| 2001-02 | — | 59 |
| 2002-03 | — | 698 |
| 2003-04 | — | 1,412 |
| 2004-05 | — | 1,435 |
| 2005-06 | 5 | 1,206 |
| 2006-07 | 7 | 1,061 |
| Total | 12 | 5,871 |

Employment Agencies

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much his Department paid to recruitment agencies in relation to departmental appointments in each year since 1997. [184910]

Mrs. McGuire: I refer the hon. member to the reply given on 18 February 2008, Official Report, columns 224-25W.

Honours

Mr. Pope: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many members of the senior Civil Service in his Department have received an honour. [187116]

Mrs. McGuire: There are 20 current members of the senior civil service in DWP who have received an honour.

Incapacity Benefit: Medical Examinations

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the annual cost of medical examinations for those on incapacity benefit is expected to be under his proposed system. [189094]

Mrs. McGuire: The medical assessment process for employment and support allowance (ESA) will be delivered under contract by Atos Healthcare. The net additional cost to deliver this part of ESA is estimated to be in the region of £200 million for the period up to August 2015. This covers the costs of the new medical assessments including the new work focused health-related assessment, gathering information from customers and health care professionals, investments in information technology and Estates infrastructure, overheads and set-up costs.

Incapacity Benefit: Part-Time Employment

Mr. Geoffrey Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps the Government plans to take to stop incapacity benefits claimants from being discouraged to seek part-time work. [189640]

Mrs. McGuire: Incapacity benefits claimants are actively encouraged to do part-time work through the permitted work rules.

Any claimant is able to do some work providing their earnings do not exceed £20 a week.

People who are exempt from the personal capability assessment, or those who work as part of a hospital treatment programme, or those who work with supervision by a public or local authority or a voluntary organisation which finds or provides work for people with disabilities, can do permitted work for an unlimited period if their earnings do not exceed £88.50 a week.

People who may be able to return to full-time work are encouraged to attempt work by a further rule which allows people to work for up to 52 weeks providing earnings do not exceed £88.50 and the work lasts less than 16 hours weekly.

Jobcentre Plus provides a number of specialist programmes and services which support incapacity benefits claimants to move into paid work. These include Pathways to Work, New Deal for Disabled People, Access to Work, Work Preparation, Residential Training, Workstep (a programme of supported employment) and the Job Introduction Scheme. The Return to Work Credit offers eligible customers, in Pathways to Work areas, who find work of at least 16 hours a week, a weekly payment of £40 for up to 52 weeks if their gross annual earnings are below £15,000. Disability employment advisers and incapacity benefit personal advisers provide advice and support for people looking for work.

Jobcentres: Telephone Services

Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assessment he has made of the efficacy of the telephone service in jobcentres; and if he will make a statement. [188525]

Mr. Timms: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the chief executive of Jobcentre Plus, Lesley Strathie. I have asked her to provide my hon. Friend with the information requested.

Letter from Lesley Strathie, dated 7 March 2008:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question asking what assessment he has made of the efficacy of the telephony service in Jobcentres. This is something that falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

The modernisation of our telephone service means it is easier for customers to call and speak to the right person or department without having to be transferred, and to receive a more efficient and professional service. Our service is now more flexible as it enables customers to access our services by telephone from their home over longer hours than was previously possible, and avoids them having to visit their local office to make a claim, enquire about benefits and/or seek access for job search support.

We deal with over 69,000 calls every weekday to our contact centres. We are currently answering 95.8% of calls to our new claims service. Similarly for customers seeking to access our job broking services we are achieving 94.4% of calls answered.

Following the introduction of the telephone service for Social Fund Crisis Loans we have experienced an increase of between 41-114% in call volumes (depending on the site) month on month compared to two years ago for applications to the Social Fund Crisis Loans service and as a result some offices have struggled to cope. To improve this service we are currently deploying an additional 700 staff based in our contact centres. This has enabled us to answer over 90% of calls and take nearly 40,000 applications per week.

Jobcentre Plus is continually looking for ways of improving its services and we are discussing with our telephone service providers what changes could be made to improve queue management. We are making a significant investment in the most up to date telephony infrastructure to upgrade both telephony and the available management information, to enable the effective handling of peaks and troughs of the calls we receive. The new management information system will also provide us with improved data to help monitor and develop our telephony service.

Low Incomes

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how his Department defines material deprivation; and whether this definition has changed since 1997. [185940]

Mr. Timms: Our material deprivation measure is designed to be a wider measure of families' living standards.

We define it as the number of children living in households suffering a combination of relative low income (70 per cent. of contemporary median) and material deprivation.

The available material deprivation figures and details of the methodology can be found in 'PSA Delivery Agreement 9: Halve the number of children in poverty by 2010-11, on the way to eradicating child poverty by 2020', available on the HM Treasury website. The measure was first set out in detail in CSR 2007 and has not changed.

New Deal for Lone Parents

Rosie Cooper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will bring forward proposals under the New Deal for Lone Parents beyond its current level two in order to extend access to personal development opportunities. [189795]

Mr. Timms: New deal for lone parent funding for education and training is usually used for courses up to NVQ/SNVQ Level two or equivalent. However, where it is clear that a lone parent can achieve an NVQ/SNVQ Level three in 52 weeks, and the training can be completed within the 52 week period of entitlement (for example where the lone parent has the appropriate qualification levels in the subject), funding to NVQ/SNVQ Level three could be considered. In all cases consideration must be given to whether the training will lead to sustainable employment.

Pensions Service: Telephone Services

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions why the arrangement for free calls to the 0800 Pension Service number from mobile telephones was ended. [187712]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: It has always been the case that customers making a call to a 0800 or 0845 Pension Service number from a mobile phone, non BT phone network or from abroad, will be charged at the specific operators' call rate.

This is a part of a broader policy, implemented by Ofcom who are the independent regulator and competition authority for the UK communications industries.

Poverty

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what targets have been set for poverty reduction by 2010; and what progress has been made towards them. [185945]

Mr. Timms: We have set a target to halve the number of children in relative poverty by 2010-11 from a starting point of 3.4 million in 1999-99. In addition we have a further target to eradicate child poverty by 2020.

Significant progress has been made so far, with 600,000 fewer children living in relative poverty in 2005-06 compared with 1998-99.

Social Security Benefits: Disabled

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the written ministerial statement of 13 December 2007, Official Report, column 68WS, on disability benefits (European Court of Justice) what progress has been made in discussions with the European Commission to clarify the extent of the Government's responsibilities following the judgment in the European Court of Justice of 18 October 2007. [186980]

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what his policy is on the payment of disability living allowance to UK citizens resident in other EU countries; and if he will make a statement. [187023]

Mrs. McGuire: We are continuing our discussions with the European Commission and expect to publish eligibility criteria for payment of the disability benefits within the European Economic Area and Switzerland on the Department's website, www.dwp.gov.uk, and the Directgov website, www.direct.gov.uk, by 5 April 2008.

A further statement will be made to Parliament in due course.

Social Security Benefits: Fraud

Mr. Binley: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much the Government has spent on the Shop Benefit Fraudsters advertisements. [189833]

Mrs. McGuire: The Department for Work and Pensions runs public information campaigns about benefit fraud. These campaigns are not simply about encouraging people to 'shop benefit fraudsters', the campaigns are designed to positively reinforce honest behaviour, to create a climate of intolerance to benefit fraud and to undermine its social acceptability. The advertising expenditure for these campaigns is in the following table.

| | Advertising spend (£000) |
|---|---|
| 2001-02 | 8,039 |
| 2002-03 | 35 |
| 2003-04 | 8,383 |
| 2004-05 | 6,017 |

| | Advertising spend (£000) |
|---|---|
| 2005-06 | 7,042 |
| 2006-07 | 5,418 |

Notes:
1. Figures are for the advertising spend on the Targeting Fraud (2001 to 2002), Targeting Benefit Fraud (2003 to 2006) and Targeting Benefit Thieves (2006 to 2007) campaigns.
2. All figures are exclusive of VAT.
3. The figures in these tables refer to media spend only, excluding production and other costs.
4. All figures have been rounded to the nearest thousand.

Widows: Bereavement Benefits

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the eligibility criteria are for who may receive widow's benefits on the death of a husband; and whether there is a cap on the number of wives who may do so. [188267]

Mr. Plaskitt: Bereavement benefits are available to men and women determined by their deceased spouse or civil partner's national insurance contributions.

The bereavement payment is a tax-free lump sum payment of £2,000. It is payable if the surviving spouse or civil partner is under pension age when they are bereaved or if they are over state pension age and their late spouse or civil partner was not entitled to a category A state pension.

The bereavement allowance is payable for a maximum period of 52 weeks from the date of bereavement. It is a weekly benefit payable to widows, widowers and surviving civil partners who are aged between 45 and state pension age.

Widowed parent's allowance is payable to a widow, widower or surviving civil partner who has a dependent child or qualifying young person (aged from 16 to 20).

We do not recognise polygamous wives for the purpose of contributory benefits based on a husband's contributions, because the legislation provides that there can only be one spouse.

Winter Fuel Payments

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many households (a) with more than £100,000 annual income and (b) in each household income decile have (i) one member and (ii) two members in receipt of (A) £100 a week, (B) £150.a week, (C) £200 a week and (D) £300 a week winter fuel payment. [189136]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The information is not available in the format requested.

An annual winter fuel payment of £200 is paid to a person aged 60 or over living at home (£100 if they share a home with someone else eligible for a winter fuel payment—this may be a spouse, partner, sibling or friend). £300 is payable to a person payments are available to almost all people aged 60 or over. Eligibility is not based on income; they were designed to give older people reassurance that they could turn up their heating in winter.

In 2005-06, the latest year for which details are available, Winter Fuel Payments were made to around 100,000 households containing pensioners with equivalised total annual income above £100,000.

The available information on the distribution of winter fuel payment by income decile is given in the following table.

£ million

| Equivalised income decile (after housing costs) | Number of households containing pensioners in receipt of winter fuel payments |
|---|---|
| Decile 1 (lowest incomes) | 0.6 |
| Decile 2 | 0.8 |
| Decile 3 | 1.4 |
| Decile 4 | 1.2 |
| Decile 5 | 1.1 |
| Decile 6 | 0.9 |
| Decile 7 | 0.8 |
| Decile 8 | 0.8 |
| Decile 9 | 0.7 |
| Decile 10 (highest incomes) | 0.6 |

Notes:
1. Data are provided on an after housing costs basis, which is our preferred measure for Pensioners.
2. These statistics employ the same methodology as the Department for Work and Pensions publication 'Households Below Average Income' (HBAI) series, which uses disposable household income, adjusted (or "equivalised") for household size and composition, as an income measure as a proxy for standard of living. These figures are based on OECD equivalisation factors.
3. The figures are survey based and based in part on imputed information. In 2005-06, WFPs were made to 8.2 million households.

Winter Fuel Payments: Eltham

Clive Efford: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people received a winter fuel payment in (a) Eltham constituency and (b) Greenwich borough in the most recent period for which figures are available. [192696]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: In winter 2006-07, 14,360 people in Eltham constituency and 32,070 people in the borough of Greenwich received a winter fuel payment. We expect the numbers to be similar for winter 2007-08.

Notes:

1. Figures rounded to the nearest 10.

2. Parliamentary constituencies and local authorities are assigned, by matching postcodes against the relevant ONS postcode directory.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Drinking Water

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many litres of bottled water were purchased by his Department in each of the last three years; and if he will make a statement. [191255]

Mr. Woodward: The following table shows the Northern Ireland Office's (excluding its agencies) expenditure the last three financial years on the provision of bottled water and ancillary services related to the provision, for example the supply of dispensers and cups.

| | Expenditure (£) |
|---|---|
| 2004-05 | 29,915 |
| 2005-06 | 33,114 |
| 2006-07 | 33,655 |

Information on the number of litres acquired is not held and could only be provided at disproportionate cost. The Department is now committed to progressively reducing the usage of bottled water.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Basra Development Commission: Standards

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development pursuant to the Answer of 29 November 2007, Official Report, column 730W, on Basra Development Commission: standards, whether the Commission is now fully functional; and what detailed objectives have been agreed for the Commission. [191947]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The Basra Development Commission (BDC) was announced by Barham Saleh, the Iraqi Deputy Prime Minister, and the Basra Provincial Council, at the third Basra Development Forum on 12 December 2007.

The Commission brings together national, regional and international business knowledge to provide advice on how to increase investment and economic growth in the province. It will serve as a high level advisory body championing inward investment and local business development, but not as a direct delivery agent. Michael Wareing, international CEO of KPMG, has been appointed as co-chair of the Commission. The other co-chair is Munadil al Miyahi, chair of the Basra Provincial Council's Economic Development Committee. Four other Iraqi Commissioners have now been confirmed by the Government. The full Commission met for the first time in Basra on 19 February.

The next step for the Commission is to formulate a Basra Economic Development Strategy, to establish Working Groups and a Youth Unemployment Task Force to consider taking forward priority areas of work, and to lead gatherings for potential investors in Basra. The first will be an 'Invest Basra' conference in Kuwait, March 12-13. The purpose of the conference is to bring external investors together with individuals and companies offering serious investment opportunities in Basra province.

Ghana: Money

Mr. Scott: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development pursuant to the Answer of 1 February 2008, Official Report, column 721W, on Ghana: money, what the exchange rate was on each transfer; how many Ghana new cedis were received for each; what commission was paid on each transfer; which exchange institution or bank was used for each; and what the purpose was of each. [192692]

Gillian Merron: Pursuant to the answer of 1 February 2008, Official Report, column 721W, the exchange rates used and cedi equivalents for transactions are noted in the following table.

Standard Chartered Bank is used for all transactions, with transfers from sterling to Ghana new cedis agreed on a no commission basis. Each payment was used to fund local expenditure through the DFID Ghana office.

| | Value (£) | Exchange rate (GHS to £) used | Amount in new Ghana cedis (GHS) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 7 August 2007 | 100,000 | GHS 1.8750 | 187,500.00 |
| 13 September 2007 | 125,000 | GHS 1.8880 | 236,000.00 |
| 5 November 2007 | 170,000 | GHS 1.9850 | 337,450.00 |
| 12 December 2007 | 83,000 | GHS 1.9850 | 164,755.00 |
| 9 January 2008 | 100,000 | GHS 1.9100 | 191,000.00 |

Kosovo: Electricity

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment he has made of the availability of supply of (a) electricity and (b) water in Kosovo; what assessment he has made of such availability in each year since 2001; and if he will make a statement. [192247]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: There is near-universal access to electricity, and the proportion of the population with an indoor water tap has risen from 64 per cent. in 2002-03 to 84 per cent. in 2005-06. However, power is frequently interrupted and water quality is uneven.

Donors who are working to improve the quality of power and water supplies in Kosovo include the World Bank, the European Commission and the USA.

The Kosovo Poverty Update 2007, prepared by the World Bank and Statistics Office of Kosovo gives detailed figures for access to water and electricity going back to 2002-03. These are the earliest readily available figures. It is available at:

http://siteresources.worldbank.org/INTKOSOVO/Country%20Home/21541686/KosovoPAvol1.pdf

Kosovo: Internet

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment he has made of (a) the number of internet users in Kosovo and (b) the availability of access to internet services; and if he will make a statement. [192264]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: Very little data are available on internet access and usage in Kosovo.

According to the UNDP Human Development Report 2006, 75 per cent. of young people report using the internet. This report is available at:

http://www.kosovo.undp.org/repository/docs/hdr_eng.pdf

Mozambique: Money

Mr. Scott: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development pursuant to the Answer of 1 February 2008, Official Report, column 722W, on Mozambique: money, what the exchange rate was on each transfer; how many Mozambiquan metacais were received for each; what commission was paid on each transfer; which exchange institution or bank was used for each; and what the purpose was of each. [192691]

Gillian Merron: Pursuant to the answer of 1 February 2008, Official Report, column 722W, on Mozambique, the exchange rates and amounts received were as follows:

| | Value (£) | Mts | Rate |
|---|---|---|---|
| 16 August 2007 | 30,136.40 | 1,524,000 | 50.57 |
| 5 September 2007 | 39,798.04 | 2,056,000 | 51.66 |
| 1 October 2007 | 29,450.04 | 1,530,000 | 51.95 |
| 19 October 2007 | 39,093.97 | 2,048,000 | 52.39 |
| 12 November 2007 | 28,698.14 | 1,524,000 | 53.10 |
| 28 November 2007 | 29,303.91 | 1,455,000 | 49.65 |
| 9 January 2008 | 30,404.22 | 1,410,000 | 46.38 |

No commission was charged. All transactions were undertaken by Standard Bank as this is DFID Mozambique's Corporate Banking Service Provider. The purpose was to pay for locally incurred costs of running the DFID Mozambique office.

Uganda: Money

Mr. Scott: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development pursuant to the Answer of 1 February 2008, Official Report, columns 723-24W, on Uganda: money, what the date was of each transaction; which exchange institution or bank was used for each; and what the purpose was of each. [192690]

Gillian Merron: Over the past six months the DFID Uganda office has made four transactions through Barclays Bank Uganda above the value of £25,000 where US dollars were sent from the Department's headquarters in the UK to Barclays Bank Uganda, and were converted to Ugandan shillings in-country. The converted money was used where local payments in shillings are required, for example: local staff salaries; suppliers; utility bills; office rental costs; office supplies; transport and maintenance.

| | US dollars ($) transformed to shillings | Equivalent in £ | Exchange rate ($ to shs.) | Commission[1] |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 30 August | 200,000 | 98,080.01 | 1,650 | 0 |
| 24 September | 200,000 | 99,642.31 | 1,755 | 0 |
| 18 October | 200,000 | 97,148 | 1,727 | 0 |
| 14 November | 300,000 | 143,929.2 | 1,675 | 0 |

[1] DFID Uganda has negotiated with its bankers not to charge commission on any of its transactions as we do not receive interest from the money in its accounts.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Cetaceans: Conservation

Mr. David Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what steps he is taking to protect whales, dolphins and porpoises in UK waters; [191339]

(2) what steps he is taking to protect the bottlenose dolphin. [191412]

Jonathan Shaw: All cetaceans (whales, dolphins and porpoises) are protected in the UK under the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 which makes it an offence to intentionally kill or injure cetaceans. The Government strengthened the protection given to cetaceans through the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 which introduced a new offence of recklessly disturbing cetaceans. The first successful conviction under the Act was in December 2007.

All cetaceans are also listed under Annex IVa of the Council Directive (92/43/EEC) on the Conservation of Natural Habitats and of Wild Fauna and Flora (the Habitats Directive), as species in need of strict protection. This directive is transposed into UK law by the Conservation (Natural Habitats &c.) Regulations 1994, protecting cetaceans from deliberate killing and capture.

The UK is also a Party to ASCOBANS—the Agreement on the Conservation of Small Cetaceans of the Baltic, North East Atlantic, Irish and North seas—which aims to restore and/or maintain biological or management stocks of small cetaceans at the level they would reach when there is the lowest possible anthropogenic influence and proposes to reach these aims through co-ordinating and implementing conservation measures for small cetaceans.

We realise that the by-catch of cetaceans in some fisheries can be a problem. In an attempt to reduce fisheries by-catch DEFRA and the devolved administrations' fisheries departments published the UK Small Cetacean By-catch Response Strategy in March 2003. An update on the progress of implementing the strategy can be found at:

http://www.defra.gov.uk/marine/fisheries/conservation/cetaceans.htm

As part of this strategy, the UK Government spent around £1.6 million from 2000-05 on research into cetacean by-catch caused by fishing effort and measures to mitigate against by-catch.

Mr. David Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will take steps to prevent the closure of the bottlenose dolphin sanctuary in the Moray Firth. [191340]

Jonathan Shaw: This matter is within the devolved responsibility of the Scottish Executive. The hon. Gentleman may wish to write to the Executive about this matter.

Coastal Fishing

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the remit is of the study commissioned to monitor the environmental effects of inshore fishing; and if he will make a statement. [188431]

Jonathan Shaw: Owners of inshore fishing vessels that target quota stocks and operate (i) off the north east coast centred around Hartlepool, (ii) off the east coast centred around Lowestoft, and (iii) in the Thames Estuary, will be invited to participate. The pilot will collect information on a range of indicators including fishing method, catches, discards, marketing and fuel consumption. This, and other information, will help inform the implementation of Fisheries 2027, a long-term vision for sustainable fisheries. DEFRA officials have spoken with a number of fishermen from the above areas who have expressed an interest in participating in the pilot and, in due course, they will be holding meetings in the three pilot areas to discuss details of the scheme. I have not offered compensation but costs of equipping participating vessels will be met by DEFRA. I will consider extending the pilot to recreational fishing following a review of the first six months of the scheme which I aim to have operational by the summer.

Energy Using Products Framework Directive

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what steps his Department is taking to ensure that the EnergyUsing Products Framework Directive does not disadvantage small and medium-sized manufacturers; [190509]

(2) how his Department plans to implement the provisions of the Energy Using Products Directive relating to progressive minimum standards for controls that installers will need to comply with when installing a boiler; if he will ensure that that implementation does not include requirements additional to those in the Directive; and if he will make a statement. [190511]

Joan Ruddock: The Energy Using Products Framework Directive (EuP) by itself, does not have any direct impact on industry. Rather it establishes a Framework for the European Commission and member states to develop implementing measures setting eco-design requirements for specific products or product groups. It is only when these implementing measures have been agreed and enter into force that they require manufacturers to take action. Discussions on specific implementing measures are still ongoing.

Similarly, as discussions between the Commission, member states and stakeholders relating to the proposed implementing measure for hot water heaters and boilers are still ongoing it is not yet possible to say what the exact requirements, if any, will be for controls nor what form this implementing measure will take.

My officials have invited key stakeholders, including members of the boiler and water heater industry, to discuss the proposals currently being considered in this area and to raise any concerns on implications for the UK. The Commission is currently analysing responses from the industry and the alternative proposals it has put forward.

Fisheries

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many pelagic pair trawlers from each country of origin operated within each area in the UK's 12 nautical mile limit in the last 12 months; and if he will make a statement. [190476]

Jonathan Shaw: During 2007, six French pair teams and one German pair team were observed. It is difficult to determine if the vessels were pelagic fishing at the time of observation as not all vessels were inspected. The German pair team accessed the UK 12 nautical mile limit in the North sea off the Northumberland coast, the French pair teams were all operating in the English channel. Activity within Scottish and Northern Ireland waters is a matter for those Administrations.

Fisheries: Enforcement

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what joint operations the Government has undertaken with its European counterparts in relation to fisheries protection and enforcement in each year since 2005; and if he will make a statement. [190474]

Jonathan Shaw: The table indicates the number of joint operations undertaken by the Marine and Fisheries Agency with its European counterparts since 2005.

Op Shark relates to joint operations with the Netherlands, Denmark and Belgium, or a combination thereof.

Op St. Pierre relates to joint operations with France.

Op Wasp relates to operations with the Republic of Ireland.

Joint Deployment Plans (JDP) are operations under the auspices of the Community Fisheries Control Agency (CFCA).

| | Op Shark | Op St. Pierre | Op Wasp | JDP |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2005 | 1 | 1 | 4 | — |
| 2006 | 5 | 1 | 9 | — |
| 2007 | 2 | 1 | 5 | 3 |

The aforementioned information does not include any joint operations that may have been undertaken by the Scottish and Northern Ireland authorities.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many joint operations were undertaken between the Royal Navy Fishery Protection Squadron and the Scottish Fisheries Protection Agency in the last 12 months; and if he will make a statement. [190475]

Jonathan Shaw: No joint operations have been undertaken between the Royal Navy Fishery Protection Squadron and the Scottish Fisheries Protection Agency in the last 12 months.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how he calculates the level of aerial surveillance required to enforce fisheries rules and regulations; and if he will make a statement. [190943]

Jonathan Shaw: Aerial surveillance requirements are a matter for the Marine and Fisheries Agency and take into account a variety of operational needs including levels and types of fishing activity and availability of other enforcement assets.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what vessels from other EU member states undertake fisheries protection and enforcement within UK fishery limits; and if he will make a statement. [190946]

Jonathan Shaw: Patrol vessels from other member states may operate in UK waters in the following circumstances:

1. when taking part in Joint Deployment Plans organised by the Community Fisheries Control Agency.

2. when taking part in joint exercises organised by the UK and one or more other member states.

3. when inspecting their own vessels under their own initiative after notifying the UK authorities in accordance with EC Reg. 1042/2006.

4. when inspecting OMS vessels under their own initiative, when permission from the UK must be sought in accordance with EC Reg. 1042/2006.

To date, vessels from France, Belgium, Netherlands, Germany and Denmark have taken part in joint operations under options 1. and 2. France have notified the UK and inspected their own vessels under option 3. No vessels have or sought our permission to carry out operations under option 4.

Fisheries: Navy

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what effect the reduction in the funding to the Marine and Fisheries Agency from 2007-08 to 2008-09 had on discussions over the changes made to the new contract effective from 1 April 2008 with the Royal Navy on the number of Fishery Protection Squadron patrol days to be provided; and if he will make a statement. [190942]

Jonathan Shaw: The Marine and Fisheries Agency (MFA) received formal confirmation of its initial allocation shortly before the public announcement in DEFRA's press release of 21 February 2008. The operational budget has not been reduced. The MFA initial budget for 2008-09 is based on 2007-08 operational responsibilities. Additional resources for any other activities that the MFA may be asked to undertake in 2008-09 will be provided accordingly

The MFA's operational requirements for monitoring, control and surveillance at sea under the new Royal Navy Agreement, were fully taken into account as part of the business planning and budget allocation process.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he will decide whether to alter the number of patrol days provided by the Royal Navy Fishery Protection Squadron under the new contract; what consideration he has given to changing the number of days to (a) 750, (b) 650 and (c) 600; and if he will make a statement. [190945]

Jonathan Shaw: There are no plans at present to alter the number of patrol days provided by the Royal Navy under the new agreement.

The draft new agreement permits a maximum of 750 patrol days, and not less than 650 days, a year.

Heating

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment the Government have made of the likely effects of Lot 1 of the Energy-using Products Directive on the UK heating controls industry. [190416]

Joan Ruddock: The Government's Market Transformation Programme is currently assessing the full range of possible impacts of the implementation of the Energy Using Products Directive based on the Commission's current proposals.

Heating controls play an important role in reducing the energy used by heating systems. DEFRA officials held a large stakeholder meeting on 4 February to discuss the proposals in the public consultation launched on 17 January, which set out indicative standards for better use of existing controls and advanced controls for domestic heating, and to receive feedback from industry on the Commission's proposals on boilers and water heaters.

Officials have also held a number of ad hoc meetings with key stakeholders from the boiler and water heater industry in order to discuss the implications of the proposals on boilers and water heaters for the UK.

Incinerators

Sir Paul Beresford: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what guidance his Department has provided to local authorities on the minimum levels of energy produced from waste that should be created by new build incinerators; and if he will make a statement. [192728]

Joan Ruddock: New incinerators have to meet the requirements of the waste incineration directive (200/76/EC), article 6(6) which requires that > "any heat generated by the incineration or the co-incineration process shall be recovered as far as practicable".

Guidance published by DEFRA and the Welsh Assembly Government was first issued in early 2003 and deals with this, and all other requirements of the waste incineration directive. It does not, however, stipulate the minimum levels of energy produced from waste that should be created by new build incinerators. The guidance is available on the DEFRA website.

Marine and Fisheries Agency: Finance

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what account he took of the commitments and likely spending of the Marine and Fisheries Agency (MFA) in the next financial year when reducing the MFA budget from 2007-08 to 2008-09; and if he will make a statement. [190944]

Jonathan Shaw: The operational budget has not been reduced. The Marine and Fisheries Agency (MFA) initial budget for 2008-09 is based on 2007-08 operational responsibilities. Additional resources for any other activities that the MFA may be asked to undertake in 2008-09 will be provided accordingly.

The MFA received formal confirmation of its initial allocation shortly before the public announcement in DEFRA's press release of 21 February 2008.

The commitments and requirements of the MFA were taken into account as part of the Department's business planning and budget allocation process.

Seas and Oceans: Nature Conservation

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 27 February 2008, Official Report, column 1633W, whether the network of ecologically coherent and well-managed protected areas are those under Natura 2000 network; and if he will make a statement. [191611]

Jonathan Shaw: The network of ecologically coherent and well-managed protected areas referred to in the answer of 27 February 2008, Official Report, column 1633W, will include Natura sites, of which we currently have 76 Special protections areas with marine habitats for birds, and 72 special areas of conservation with marine habitats or species.

The Joint Nature Conservation Committee has been consulting on seven initial offshore sites since December 2007. The consultation is due to close on 14 March 2008. However, we expect that the network will also include a number of marine conservation zones, as proposed under the forthcoming Marine Bill.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he expects the majority of the marine Natura 2000 network protecting species and habitats of key importance to be in place; and if he will make a statement. [191612]

Jonathan Shaw: The Government are committed to having the majority of the Natura 2000 network in place by 2010, and is aiming for the network to be substantially completed by 2012.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many offshore marine sites his Department has surveyed for marine protected area status; when they were surveyed; and if he will make a statement. [191613]

Jonathan Shaw: The Joint Nature Conservation Committee (JNCC) has been consulting on seven initial offshore marine sites since December 2007. These include: Braemar Pockmarks, Darwin Mounds, Haig Fras, North Norfolk Sandbanks and Saturn Reef, Scanner Pockmark, Stanton Banks and Wyville Thomson Ridge. The consultation is due to close on 14 March 2008.

Of the potential offshore Special Areas of Conservation (SACs) currently undergoing consultation, DEFRA funded surveys for Wyville Thomson Ridge in summer 2006, and Stanton Banks in summer 2003.

Our programme of data collection and survey will continue to identify further sites. Currently, the 13 areas listed in the table have been surveyed for Natura 2000 sites for Annex I habitats through collaborative and commissioned survey. These areas will then be considered by the JNCC against the selection criteria. As a result, some may be recommended to Government as SACs over the next two years.

| Site | Date of survey |
|---|---|
| Rockall Bank in the Rockall Trough and Bank regional sea, north-west of Scotland | Autumn 2005, 2006 and 2007 |
| Anton Dohrn seamount, north-west of Scotland | Autumn 2005 |
| George Bligh Bank, north-west of Scotland | Summer 2006 |
| Papa Bank, north of Scotland | Summer 2006 |
| Hatton Bank, north-west of Scotland | Summer 2006 |
| Rosemary Bank, north-west of Scotland | Summer 2006 |
| Possible reefs in the northern Irish Sea | Winter 2006-spring 2007 |
| Possible reefs in the mid-Irish Sea | Spring 2007 |
| Possible reefs in the central and western English Channel | Summer 2006 |
| Possible reefs in the eastern Irish Sea | Summer 2005 |
| Sandbank in the northern Irish Sea | Winter 2005, summer 2005 |
| Reefs west of the Hebrides | Summer and autumn 2004 |
| Submarine canyons in the south-west Approaches | Summer 2007 |

Further areas of search for "reefs and submarine structures made by leaking gases" will be surveyed by JNCC in 2008, 2009 and 2010 on the Scottish Continental Shelf, the offshore area in the North West of Scotland and the Irish sea.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 27 February 2008, Official Report, column 1634W, on seas and oceans: Treaty of Lisbon, what provisions in the Treaty on the European Communities and the Treaty on European Union set out the respective competences of the EU and member states in relation to (a) marine biological resources, (b) marine biological resources under the Common Fisheries Policy and (c) the marine environment; and if he will make a statement. [191737]

Jonathan Shaw: The conservation of marine biological resources under the Common Fisheries Policy is an exclusive competence of the European Union.

All other aspects of marine biological resources and the marine environment are a shared competence.

The Lisbon treaty will not change this, and will be reflected in articles 3(1)(d) and 4(2)(d) and (e) of the treaty on the Functioning of the European Union (Tofu).

Waste Management: Finance

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the Business Resource Efficiency and Waste (BREW) budget is for 2008-09; and what funding has been allocated to each of the individual organisations within BREW in that year. [191808]

Joan Ruddock: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave her on 4 March 2008, Official Report, column 2274W.

Written Questions: Government Responses

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs for what reasons the answers given on 27 February 2008, Official Report, column 1634W, on seas and oceans, were not provided on the named day. [191932]

Jonathan Shaw: My ministerial colleagues and I aim to ensure that hon. Members receive a substantive response to their named day question on the due day. Unfortunately, this is not always possible.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Departmental Cost Effectiveness

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what progress his Department has made on its zero-based budget review under the comprehensive spending review. [191495]

Mr. Thomas: I refer the hon. Member to the Annex pertaining to my Department in "Meeting the Aspirations of the British people: the 2007 Pre-Budget Report and Comprehensive Spending Review" (Cm 7227).

BERR published on 20 December 2007 its Value-for-Money delivery agreement:

http://www.berr.gov.uk/about/strategyobjectives/Value%20for%20Money%20Delivery%20Agreements/page43140.html

Departmental Freedom of Information

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what percentage of Freedom of Information requests received by his Department have given rise to responses that have been published by his Department. [180221]

Mr. Thomas: Our Department has adopted a selective disclosure log whereby only the most interesting and high profile pieces of information which may be of wider public interest are published on the Department's website. We believe that if the public has greater understanding of the sorts of information a public authority holds, it will enable them to make better informed requests for information in the future.

In 2007 this resulted in 20 responses being published on the website which represents about 4 per cent. of cases which were processed during the year. In the two previous years, 2006 and 2005 since the FOI access right came into force approximately 2 per cent. of cases (13 and 15 respectively) were published on the Department's website.

Departmental Older Workers

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many people over the age of 55 have been recruited by his Department and its predecessors in each of the last three years. [191529]

Mr. Thomas: The figures for civil servants over the age of 55 recruited by my Department (BERR and before that DTI) in each of the last three years are as follows:

| | Over age 55 |
|---|---|
| 2007 | 0 |
| 2006 | 4 |
| 2005 | 4 |

These are overall figures the Department, excluding its agencies and non-departmental bodies.

Departmental Private Finance Initiative

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which private finance initiative projects were approved by his Department in each of the last three financial years; and what the (a) value and (b) start date was of each. [190753]

Mr. Thomas: The capital value and start date for every signed PFI project are recorded centrally on the Treasury's website at

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/documents/public_private_partnerships/ppp_pfi_stats.cfm

However I can confirm that BERR has not let any new PFI projects within the last three financial years.

Fairtrade Initiative

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will take steps to promote Fair Trade Fortnight 2008 among staff within his Department; and if he will make a statement. [189511]

Mr. Thomas: The Department will be promoting Fairtrade Fortnight through its contracted service provider. We will have posters and leaflets promoting fairtrade awareness in our restaurant areas.

We will also have stalls telling customers what products are available that are fair-trade produce.

During Fairtrade Fortnight we will also be hosting stalls from those companies who supply our service provider promoting their produce.

Frontiers: Security

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much was spent in total by local trading standards units on border security and enforcement in each of the last three financial years. [186418]

Mr. Thomas: Border security is a matter for the Home Office.

Members: Correspondence

Peter Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when he will reply to the letter of 5 November 2007 from the hon. Member for Mid Worcestershire on World Trade Organisation agreements and the approach of the US Administration to on-line gambling. [191359]

Mr. Thomas: I apologise for the delay in responding to the hon. Member, this was due to an administrative error. A reply will be issued shortly.

Overseas Trade: Iran

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the value of UK trade with Iran was in years (a) 2005-06 and (b) 2006-07; and what it is expected to be in 2007-08. [191986]

Mr. Thomas: Trade statistics are usually published on a calendar year basis. The Office for National Statistics UK Balance of Payments Pink Book gives the following figures:

£ million

| | 2005 | 2006 |
|---|---|---|
| UK exports of goods to Iran | 452 | 423 |
| UK imports of goods from Iran | 34 | 70 |
| UK exports of services to Iran | 204 | 212 |
| UK imports of services from Iran | 44 | 43 |
| UK exports of goods and services to Iran | 656 | 635 |
| UK imports of goods and services from Iran | 78 | 113 |

Data is not yet available for 2007 on a balance of payments basis. Using a slightly different definition, HM Revenue and Customs 'Overseas Trade Statistics' give:

£ million

| | 2005 | 2006 | 2007 |
|---|---|---|---|
| UK exports of goods to Iran | 463.9 | 431.4 | 400.3 |
| UK imports of goods from Iran | 38.8 | 71.7 | 66.4 |

Personal Records: Data Protection

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether a Government response was issued to the recommendations of the Council for Science and Technology's 2005 report entitled, Better use of personal information: opportunities and risks. [191094]

Mr. Wills: I have been asked to reply.

There was no formal Government response to the Council for Science and Technology's 2005 report and the Government have not specifically implemented the recommendations. However, the report has been a valuable source of information in developing its thinking on how information is used and protected.

On 25 October the Prime Minister asked Dr. Mark Walport and the Information Commissioner, Richard Thomas, to carry out an independent review of the use and sharing of personal information in the public and private sectors. The Ministry of Justice are currently considering how the programme should be structured to deliver service transformation.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Council Tax: Databases

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimates or projections her Department has made of the change in the size of the council tax database due to (a) migration, (b) demographic and (c) household formation changes over the next (i) year, (ii) three years and (iii) five years. [191669]

John Healey: The council taxbase projections used in the local government finance settlements for 2008-09, 2009-10 and 2010-11 are based on the billing authority's taxbase as at 8 October 2007 adjusted for student exemptions, increased by the average annual increase between 2005 and 2007. The following link provides a detailed explanation:

http://www.local.communities.gov.uk/finance/0809/taxbase.pdf

Electoral Register: Fraud

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether legal guidance has been given to (a) the Audit Commission and (b) local authorities on the request by the Audit Commission to certain local authorities to use their electoral register data as part of the national fraud initiative. [191631]

John Healey: Government have not given legal guidance on this issue either to the Audit Commission or to local authorities. However, we are aware that the Audit Commission has circulated legal advice, which it has received, to the local authorities from whom data has been requested.

Fire Services: Manpower

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 25 February 2008, Official Report, column 1220W, on fire services: buildings, what estimate she has made of the number of staff required at any one time to provide a resilient 24-hour operation. [192351]

Mr. Dhanda: The number of staff employed within each RCC is a matter for each individual RCC company.

However, the indicative numbers from the staffing model suggests that the number of control room staff required on duty across the network to provide a resilient 24-hour operation is as follows:

| Time period | Control operators | Team leaders | Other control room staff | Control room management |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 8 am to 4 pm | 76 | 18 | 9 | 9 |
| 4 pm to 8 pm | 103 | 19 | 9 | 9 |
| 8 pm to 11 pm | 86 | 18 | 9 | 9 |
| 11 pm to 8 am | 59 | 9 | 9 | 9 |

These numbers are for the whole network in steady state, i.e. when all RCCs are fully operational and the network is fully functional, and takes into account the daily fluctuations in call volumes.

In addition to the staff within the Control Room of the Regional Control Centre, there will also be other senior management, technical support, and support staff in each of the nine RCCs.

Housing Association: Debts

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what changes the Housing and Regeneration Bill will make to the status of housing association debt for the purpose of the Exchequer's balance sheet. [189515]

Caroline Flint: The ONS have previously judged registered social landlords to be private non-financial corporations, taking into account the existing regulatory framework. HM Treasury advise that the additional regulatory measures being introduced though the Housing and Regeneration Bill are not relevant to the sector classification of registered social landlords. They will therefore have no effect on the status of housing association debt.

Local Authorities: Assessments

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the Comprehensive Performance Assessment rating, including sub-categories, was of each local authority in each year such ratings have been awarded. [192406]

John Healey: CPA scores for single tier and county councils were introduced in 2002. Information on CPA and the scores themselves are publicly available on the Audit Commission's website at:

http://www.audit-commission.gov.uk/cpa/index.asp?page=index.asp&area=hpcpa

Local Authorities: Cost-effectiveness

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which local authorities cited efficiencies in (a) parking charges and (b) parking enforcement in their submissions of (i) forward and (ii) backward look annual efficiency statements to her Department in each year since their inception. [191659]

John Healey: Local authorities report their efficiency gains to the Department for Communities and Local Government through annual efficiency statements, which are published on the Department's website at:

www.communities.gov.uk/localgovernment/efficiencybetter/deliveringefficiency

Guidance to councils on the completion of annual efficiency statements is available at:

www.communities.gov.uk/publications/localgovernment/measuringreporting

This makes clear that the introduction of a new charge or fine, or an increase in an existing charge or fine does not in itself constitute an 'efficiency' and therefore should not be included in the annual efficiency statement.

Councils that referenced 'parking' in their most recent efficiency statements may have made these gains from improvements to any aspect of their parking service, and not simply through more efficient management of parking charges or enforcement.

Travelling People: Caravan Sites

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much her Department plans to spend on (a) the provision of new Gypsy and Traveller sites and (b) the refurbishment of existing Gypsy and Traveller sites in (i) 2007-08, (ii) 2008-09, (iii) 2009-10 and (iv) 2010-11. [190110]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Government makes Gypsy and Traveller Sites Grant available for the provision of new sites and refurbishment of existing sites. In 2007-08, £18.4 million has been approved for new sites or the extension of existing sites, £11.8 million has been approved for the refurbishment of existing sites (which in some cases may bring pitches back into use) and £3.7 million has been approved for schemes which include both refurbishment and extension. £33 million will be available for the grant in 2008-09, and £32 million in both 2009-10 and 2010-11.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

1 Carlton Gardens

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 5 February 2008, Official Report, column 964W, on 1 Carlton Gardens, whether an empty property council tax discount is being claimed for the property. [189581]

Meg Munn: The Department will be claiming the council tax discount for the period the property has been empty.

Carbon Emissions

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations he has received from his counterparts in the EU on the operation of the Emissions Trading Scheme; and if he will make a statement. [191174]

Mr. Jim Murphy: I meet regularly with EU counterparts on a range of issues, including the EU Greenhouse Gas Emission Trading Scheme (ETS), as do my Ministerial and policy colleagues. Currently the UK is working with EU partners, including the Commission, to review how the EU ETS can best deliver the necessary reductions in emissions beyond 2012. The UK view is that the review should be ambitious, delivering real emissions reductions (ie 20 per cent. or 30 per cent. as part of an international negotiation) by 2020, as agreed at the spring Council 2007, greater harmonisation and long-term certainty, and maximise its potential to stimulate investment in low-carbon technology. The Commission's proposal for a revised EU ETS from 2013 was discussed by EU Environment Ministers at the Environment Council on 3 March and will also be discussed by EU leaders at the spring European Council on 13-14 March.

The Government agree with Sir Nicholas Stern that a global price for carbon is essential if we are to achieve a low carbon economy. The EU ETS and other mandatory emissions trading schemes being developed around the world are crucial stepping stones towards this. It is a major pillar of both UK and EU climate change policy and is the primary market based mechanism in the fight against climate change. It is fundamental to reducing greenhouse gas emissions by keeping emissions within agreed limits while allowing emission reductions to be made at least cost through trading of allowances.

Caribbean: Royal Visits

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what costs his Department expects to incur associated with the use of the Leander yacht by HRH Prince of Wales during his official visit to the Caribbean in March; and if he will make a statement. [190665]

Meg Munn [holding answer 7 March 2008]: The Department for Transport has overall responsibility for the funding of official travel for members of The Royal Family. This is administered by The Royal Travel Office in Her Majesty The Queen's Household.

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many members of the Royal Household he expects to accompany the Prince of Wales during his visit to the Caribbean in March at the expense of the public purse. [191225]

Meg Munn [holding answer 7 March 2008]: 14 members of staff will accompany Their Royal Highnesses The Prince of Wales and The Duchess of Cornwall at public expense.

Defence: Foreign Relations

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the likely effect of the US missile defence shield installations in Poland and the Czech Republic on relations between the European Union and Russia. [191066]

Mr. Jim Murphy: This is not an EU proposal. It is a bilateral arrangement between the US and the states involved. There are regular discussions at the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation-Russia Council on this matter.

Departmental Recruitment

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether the policy of British jobs for British workers will affect his Department's recruitment policy. [179878]

Meg Munn: I refer the hon. Member to the reply my hon. Friend the Parliamentary Secretary, Cabinet Office gave to him on 3 March 2008 Official Report, columns 2206-07W.

EC Common Foreign and Security Policy: Black Sea

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the implications for the European security and defence policy of the EU's border on the Black Sea following the accession of Romania and Bulgaria. [191064]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The EU considers Black sea issues through the general policy framework provided by the Black Sea Synergy Initiative. This does not include implications of an EU border on the Black Sea for European Security and Defence Policy. The EU would consider defence aspects only in the context of specific developments in the region that might require a potential EU crisis management intervention, which would be planned and conducted through the European Security and Defence Policy.

Gibraltar: Politics and Government

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the likely effects on the people of Gibraltar of (a) the new constitution and (b) agreement over the airport. [191819]

Mr. Jim Murphy [holding answer 5 March 2008]: Gibraltar's new constitution came into force in January 2007. This followed a decision by the people of Gibraltar to accept it in a referendum organised by the Government of Gibraltar in 2006. The new constitution provides for a modern and mature relationship between the UK and Gibraltar.

As my noble Friend the Minister for Africa, Asia and the UN, the right hon. Lord Malloch-Brown, set out in his answer to the noble Lord, the right hon. Lord Luce, in another place on 21 November 2007, Official Report, columns WA79-80, the airport agreement has allowed for more connections to and from Gibraltar airport and since December 2006 direct flights between Madrid and Gibraltar have become routine. Gibraltar is also now included in new EU aviation measures.

International Cooperation: Human Rights

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs who represented the Government at the Durban Two Preparatory Committee meeting on 31 August 2007. [191564]

Meg Munn: Our Permanent Representative to the UN in Geneva and members of the UK Delegation represented the Government at the Preparatory Committee for the Durban Review Conference on 31 August 2007.

NATO

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the (a) current and (b) future relationship between NATO and the EU. [191067]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The EU and the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (NATO) are key organisations that have both successfully delivered stability and security to the European region. The Government place a high priority on improving EU/NATO relations, since it is important that the two organisations work effectively together, and will continue to work with partners and allies to deliver more effective co-operation in both Brussels and in operations like Kosovo and Afghanistan. As my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary stated in his recent Bruges speech

> "We must [also] overcome the blockages to collaboration with NATO. We welcome the signs of increased willingness on the part of key partners to do so".

Saudi Arabia

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he next plans to visit Saudi Arabia. [191788]

Dr. Howells: I can inform my right hon. Friend that my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary intends to visit Saudi Arabia in the next few months. I visited the Kingdom on 23-24 February 2008.

Simon Mann

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps he plans to take in the week beginning 10 March to monitor the (a) treatment and (b) risk of torture of Mr. Simon Mann in Black Beach Prison Equatorial Guinea. [192481]

Meg Munn: Our consul from the British deputy high commission in Lagos travelled to Malabo and visited Mr. Mann in prison on 12 February. Our high commissioner in Abuja presented his credentials in Equatorial Guinea on 6 March and followed up on Mr. Mann's situation. Consular officials aim to visit Mr. Mann again very soon, when they will discuss Mr Mann's welfare with the authorities in Equatorial Guinea.

The authorities have offered assurances that he will be treated well while in detention.

Spain: Gibraltar

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what estimate he has made of the average waiting time at the border for those travelling from (a) Spain into Gibraltar and (b) Gibraltar into Spain in the last 12 months. [191818]

Mr. Jim Murphy [holding answer 5 March 2008]: The September 2006 Cordoba agreements set out new arrangements for the border designed to improve pedestrian and traffic flows between Gibraltar and Spain. These arrangements, which saw the introduction of red and green customs channels in both directions, came into force in December 2006 and have considerably improved border fluidity. Data gathered by the Gibraltar authorities for traffic travelling from Gibraltar to Spain shows a marked improvement when figures are compared to similar periods before December 2006. Queues with measurable delays only build up in peak traffic periods, usually at the end of the working day and Saturdays. The Gibraltar authorities do not gather data on delay times entering Gibraltar from Spain.

Sudan: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 5 December 2007, Official Report, column 1306W, on Sudan: peacekeeping operations, what assessment has been made of which groups in Darfur continue to obstruct the political process; and if he will make a statement. [192077]

Meg Munn [holding answer 6 March 2008]: There has been no further recent progress in the Darfur political process owing to various factors including fragmentation among rebel groups. The African Union (AU) and the UN assess that there are now five main rebel groups in Darfur. They are currently talking to all of these groups both in and outside of Darfur to encourage them to unify further and agree on common platforms for negotiations with the Government of Sudan. The UN/AU will be hosting a meeting of international partners in Geneva on 18 March to set out the current status of the peace process and how to move it forward including in relation to the level of rebel engagement. The UK is discussing that issue with the UN and other partners in the run-up to that meeting.

My right hon. Friends the Foreign Secretary and Secretary of State for International Development, in a joint statement of 27 February expressed concern about recent violence by all sides in West Darfur, and called for continued international attention including by the Security Council.

USA: Nuclear Weapons

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the Government's policy is on the United States' plan to site nuclear missile bases in the territory of EU member states; and if he will make a statement. [192486]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The UK knows of no US plans to site nuclear missile bases in the territory of EU member states. The UK does, however, welcome US plans to place missile defence assets in Poland and the Czech Republic. These plans are an important step towards providing missile defence coverage for Europe.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Apprenticeships: Teesside

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps his Department has taken to involve employers on the Tees to establish and deliver plans to increase the number of apprenticeships on (a) Teesside and (b) Stockton. [189336]

Bill Rammell: As part of National Apprenticeships Week in February 2008, the Learning and Skills Council worked with partners including employers and the Tees Valley work-based learning provider network to promote the broad range of apprenticeships available. This built on existing work with apprenticeship providers including in Stockton and the Tees Valley to improve quality and completion rates and to offer the apprenticeships employers and young people demand.

The Government report "World-class Apprenticeships: Unlocking Talent, Building Skills for All available at:

http://www.dius.gov.uk/publications/world_class_apprenticeships.pdf

sets out plans to expand the number and range of apprenticeships throughout England. Plans to expand the number of employers delivering apprenticeships include developing more flexible and responsive apprenticeship frameworks, and incentives payments to targeted businesses.

Over the past decade, we have more than doubled the number of young people and adults starting apprenticeships in England. Over the period to 2020 we project that apprenticeship starts will increase to over 250,000 per year.

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps the Government plan to take to increase the number of apprenticeship in (a) Teesside and (b) Stockton. [189337]

Bill Rammell: The Tees Valley Learning and Skills Council will build on its existing work with partners including employers, sector skills councils and the Tees Valley work-based learning provider network to increase the number of apprenticeships on offer locally.

Government plan to expand the number and range of apprenticeships in England were set out in 'World-class Apprenticeships: Unlocking Talent, Building Skills for AH11 available at:

http://www.dius.gov.uk/publications/world_class_apprenticeships.pdl

Over the past decade, we have more than doubled the number of young people and adults starting apprenticeships in England. Over the period to 2020 we project that apprenticeship starts will increase to over 250,000 per year.

Costs

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what estimate he has made of the cost to date of the establishment of his Department. [180409]

Mr. Lammy: The costs of setting up the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills were met within existing departmental budgets.

Council of Ministers

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what the A List items are of the next EU Council of Ministers meeting he will be attending. [180167]

Bill Rammell: The next meeting of the Education Council is scheduled for 22 May 2008 which I am due to attend for the UK. A items for the meeting will not be produced until shortly beforehand.

The next meeting of the Competitiveness Council is scheduled for 29-30 May. My hon. Friend the Minister for Science and Innovation (Ian Pearson) is likely to attend for the UK. A items for the meeting will not be produced until shortly beforehand.

Departmental ICT

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many websites his Department currently operates; how many it operated at 1 January 2005; and what the estimated annual cost has been of running his Department's websites. [162285]

Bill Rammell: The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills currently operates three websites, www.dius.gov.uk.

www.foresight.gov.uk

and

www.bnsc.gov.uk

www.bnsc.gov.uk is operated on behalf of BNSC by Science and Technology Facilities Council, a delivery partner of BNSC.

Following the machinery of government changes the Department was created in June 2007 therefore DIUS did not operate a website in January 2005.

The estimated annual costs are

| | £ |
|---|---|
| www.dius.gov.uk | 300,000 |
| www.bnsc.gov.uk | 100,000 |
| www.foresight.gov.uk | 100,000 |

Departmental Recycling

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what (a) volume and (b) percentage of its waste his Department recycled in each of the last five years. [172507]

Bill Rammell: The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills was created by machinery of Government changes at the end of June 2007 and therefore data on the Department's level of recycling has not yet been collected.

Departmental Sustainable Development

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills whether his Department has adopted the Carbon Trust's Carbon Management Programme. [181325]

Bill Rammell: Since its creation in June 2007, estates and facilities management services have been provided to the Department for Innovation Universities and Skills as a shared service by the Department for Children Schools and Families and by the Department for Business Enterprise and Regulatory Reform.

DCSF headquarters has adopted and is operating the Carbon Trust's carbon management programme within its departmental environmental management system (SUMS) action plans. BERR are developing a programme with the Carbon Trust, including advice on renewables and carbon reduction options.

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills whether his Department met the target in the Sustainable Operations on the Government Estate to reverse the then upward trend in carbon emissions by April 2007. [181326]

Bill Rammell: The last published return on central Government progress on sustainable operations is contained within the Sustainable Development in Government Report for 2005/06. The 2006/07 report is due to be published in March 2008.

As the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills was only formed in June 2007, we were not able to take part in this return.

The Department's accommodation is located within buildings managed on our behalf by the Department for Children, Schools and Families and the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform, and as such, our sustainable operations performance will be returned within their reports.

Departmental Telephone Services

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which agencies under his Department's responsibility use the (a) 0845 and (b) 0870 telephone codes for customer enquiries; how many 0845 and 0870 telephone codes each agency uses; and how much revenue was generated for each of these codes by each agency in each of the last five years. [183888]

Bill Rammell: The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills (DIUS) was created by the Prime Minister on 28 June 2007.

A number of "08" telephones services are administered by the Department for public use.

From central records, the only information that can be provided on the Department's use of 0870 and 0845 telephone numbers is listed as follows.

| | 0845 | 0870 | Revenue |
|---|---|---|---|
| UK-IPO | 0845 001 0030 | 0870 191 0111 | Call volumes to most numbers, especially the 0870 numbers, are relatively low |
| | 0845 015 0010 | 0870 191 0112 | No revenue was generated from the 0845 numbers |
| | 0845 015 0020 | 0870 191 0113 | |
| | 0845 015 0030 | 0870 191 0114 | |

| Centre for Excellence in Leadership (CEL) | | 0870 060 3278 | Since 2005, income of about £300 in the form of expenditure rebate on our 0845 and 0870 numbers |

| | 0845 | 0870 | Revenue |
|---|---|---|---|
| Sector Skills Development Agency (SSDA) | | 0870 000 23990870 000 2401 (fax) | These are not income generators in any form |
| Construction Industry Training Board (citb) | | | 2006—£33,4002007—£89,5382008—£15,890 |
| Engineering Construction Industry Training Board (ecitb) | Seven "0845" numbers | | No revenue |
| Lifelong Learning UK (LLUK) | 0845 757 7890 | | 17 June 2005 to 13 February 2008 £1,164.25 |

Written Questions

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many written parliamentary questions have been tabled for answer by his Department this Session; and what the average number of days taken to answer them was. [190240]

Bill Rammell: The Department has so far received 908 questions this Session. The Department's PQ tracking system is currently unable to break down the data requested regarding response times and to do so would incur disproportionate cost. However, the software used to monitor and track PQs tabled for both this Department and the Department for Children, Schools and Families is being upgraded at the moment and a new enhanced system is close to implementation.

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many and what proportion of Parliamentary questions from hon. Members for answer on a named day received by his Department and its predecessors have received a (a) holding answer and (b) substantive answer by the named day in each year since 2001. [190296]

Bill Rammell: The information requested can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Higher Education: Females

Helen Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what research his Department has undertaken on the impact of removing funding for equivalent or lower level qualifications on women; and what discussions he has had with the Minister for Women on this issue. [177596]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 10 January 2008]: Nearly 60 per cent. of students are women. The proportion of students studying for equivalent or lower level qualifications who are women is the same. But our policy of redistributing grant will widen participation and mean that more of the ten million women of working age who do not have a first higher-level qualification, especially those from non-traditional backgrounds, will be able to benefit from participating in higher education. I have had no discussions with the Minister for Women specifically on this issue which does not discriminate against women, but offers more opportunities for both men and women without a first higher education qualification.

Drinking Water

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many litres of bottled water were purchased by his Department and its predecessor in each of the last three years; and if he will make a statement. [191253]

Mr. Lammy: Hospitality and catering services for the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills, since its creation in June 2007, are provided on our behalf by the Department for Children, Schools and Families and the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform. We do not have separate figures on how much bottled water our Department has purchased.

Official Engagements

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what the engagements of the Minister of State for Lifelong Learning, Further and Higher Education were for (a) 5, (b) 6 and (c) 7 November 2007; who he was scheduled to meet; to whom invitations were issued; what issues were discussed at each meeting; which officials travelled with him on those dates; what transport was used; and which hon. and right hon. Members were informed that he would be visiting their constituencies. [178643]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 29 January 2008]: Ministers and civil servants meet many people as part of the process of policy development and advice. It is not normal practice to disclose details of such meetings.

Physics: Degrees

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many first degree physics undergraduates there are; and what the equivalent figures were in (a) 2003, (b) 1998 and (c) 1993. [189317]

Bill Rammell: The latest available information is given in the table. Due to a change in the methodology for recording subject in 2002/03, comparisons between figures for 2001/02 and earlier, and those for 2002/03 onwards cannot be made; Comparable figures for the 2007/08 academic year will be available in January 2009.

Latest figures from the Universities and Colleges Admissions Service (UCAS) show that applicants who were accepted to full-time first degree courses in physics in 2007/08 increased by 10 per cent. compared to the previous year.

Number of first degree physics undergraduates[1] English higher education institutions[2]—academic years 1994/95[3], 1998/99, 2003/04 and 2006/07

| Academic year | Physics students |
|---|---|
| 1994/95 | 7,730 |
| 1998/99[4] | 8,035 |
| 2003/04 | 7,795 |
| 2006/07 | 7,835 |

[1] Includes both full-time and part-time undergraduates from the UK and overseas.
[2] Figures from the Open University have been excluded from the analysis.
[3] Figures for first degree physics students are not available for 1993/94 academic year, only for physical sciences as a whole. Therefore, comparable figures for the 1994/96 academic year have been provided as an alternative.
[4] In 2002/03 the methodology for recording subject of study was changed on the student record. Aside from the introduction of a new coding frame, JACS (previously a system called HESACODE was used), students were apportioned between their subjects of study rather than being assigned on a headcount basis to their major subject. As such, comparisons between figures for 2001/02 and earlier, and those for 2002/03 onwards cannot be made.
Note:
Figures are on a snapshot basis as at 1 December excluding those writing up, on sabbatical or dormant and are rounded to the nearest 5.

Space Technology: Finance

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what support the Government has provided to the UK space sector since 1997. [191893]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 6 March 2008]: Information on funding for civil space by the partners of the British National Space Centre was provided to the House of Commons Science and Technology Committee for its inquiry into UK space policy, and published in the Committee's seventh report of session 2006-07. The figures provided to the Committee, with the addition of the 2006-07 figures, are as follows:

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| 1997-98 | 183.18 |
| 1998-99 | 184.99 |
| 1999-2000 | 172.62 |
| 2000-01 | 177.38 |
| 2001-02 | 169.18 |
| 2002-03 | 160.20 |
| 2003-04 | 188.65 |
| 2004-05 | 197.94 |
| 2005-06 | 207.61 |
| 2006-07 | 217.88 |

Note:
The figures are expressed in cash in the year of expenditure.

Students: Bankruptcy

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many undergraduate students resident in (a) Suffolk, (b) the East of England and (c) England declared themselves bankrupt in each year since 1997. [187615]

Bill Rammell: Provisions were included in the Higher Education Act 2004 to prevent student loans being written off on bankruptcy (mortgage-style loans from July 2004 and Income-contingent loans from September 2004). Currently student loans are not exempt from individual voluntary arrangements (IVAs).

The increase in student loan borrowers with bankruptcies and IVAs should be seen in the context of the increases among the general population. Figures from the Insolvency Service show that between 2002 and 2006 the number of individual bankruptcies in England and Wales more than doubled; the number of IVAs increased seven-fold.

Up to 2004 only combined figures for bankruptcies and IVAs are available from SLC data. After the change in legislation SLC ceased to record bankruptcies, as student loans are excluded from bankruptcy debts and are not written off on discharge from bankruptcy. Figures from 2005 show IVAs only.

Available data are shown in the tables.

*Students with publicly-owned student loans who notified the Student Loans Company (SLC) of their bankruptcy or individual voluntary arrangement (IVA) while studying[1]. ## Students: Finance

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to his request to the Higher Education Funding Council for England of 7 September on funding for equivalent and lower qualifications as additional degrees, what assessment he has made of the effect of his decision upon (a) women returners, (b) older men, (c) disabled students and (d) black and minority ethnic students. [175798]

Bill Rammell: Our policy is a progressive redistribution of £100 million in institutional funding by 2010 away from students who already have a first HE qualification and want to study another one at an equivalent or lower level towards first time entrants which will enable more of the 20 million people of working age without a first HE qualification to participate in higher education and enjoy all the benefits it brings. Within that group without higher level qualifications, there are millions of women returners, older men, disabled students and black and minority ethnic students who will all have more opportunities as a result of the ELQ policy. The majority are likely to be mature learners from non-traditional backgrounds who want to study part-time.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to his request to the Higher Education Funding Council for England of 7 September on funding for equivalent and lower qualifications (ELQ) as additional degrees, whether ELQ students of medicine and veterinary science will be (a) publicly funded and (b) exempt from the withdrawal of funding; and if he will make a statement. [175799]

Bill Rammell: We have always recognised that there may need to be exceptions to our general policy to redistribute institutional funding for ELQ students towards other students for particular subjects. We are not going to rush into making special arrangements, other than those subjects we have already identified as requiring support in the public interest—such as medicine, initial teacher training teaching, science (including veterinary science), technology, engineering and maths subjects, area-based studies, and modern foreign languages. But we are asking the Funding Council each year to look at subjects which might in future be regarded as key because of their economic or social significance, and in cases where there is evidence of a fall in demand, advise us on the best way forward. The first review will start in December 2008.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how he plans to fund the 50,000 higher education student places for 2008-11 announced in the comprehensive spending review; and how many of these students will be first-time entrants. [175800]

Bill Rammell: The 2 per cent. real terms annual increase in funding we are providing through the outcome of the comprehensive spending review, together with our policy of redistributing £100 million by 2010 away from students studying equivalent or lower level qualifications to ones they already hold, will enable us to provide 60,000 new places in full-time equivalent terms for new students either entering HE for the first time or progressing to higher level degrees to ones they already hold.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to his request to the Higher Education Funding Council for England of 7 September on funding for equivalent and lower qualifications as additional degrees, what funding will be available for re-skilling students for higher level qualifications. [175803]

Bill Rammell: Our policy is a progressive redistribution of £100 million in institutional funding by 2010 away from students who already have a first HE qualification and want to study another one at an equivalent or lower level towards first time entrants which will enable more of the 20 million people of working age without a first HE qualification to participate in higher education and enjoy all the benefits it brings. However, our policy is a balanced one. There will be opportunities for those with a first HE qualification who want to re-skill in a different subject at the same or lower level, through foundation degrees, and employer co-funded provision and we will continue to fund students progressing to higher level qualifications than the ones they already hold.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to his request to the Higher Education Funding Council for England of 7 September on funding for equivalent and lower qualifications as additional degrees, what estimate he has made of the potential costs transferred to (a) business and the private sector, (b) the public sector and (c) the not-for-profit sector. [175804]

Bill Rammell: Our policy is a progressive redistribution of £100 million in institutional funding by 2010 away from students who already have a first HE qualification and want to study another one at an equivalent or lower level towards first time entrants will enable more of the 20 million people of working age who do not have a first HE qualification to participate in higher education and all the benefits it brings. But it will also bring economic benefits to employers by expanding the supply of more highly qualified, more productive workers. Lord Leitch's report, comparative data from the OECD, and the fact that the lifetime earnings premium associated with having a first degree remains among the highest in the world, all suggest that employers in this country in the private, public and not-for-profit sectors are themselves, under the current system, paying for the fact that we are not producing enough graduates for our economic well-being.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to his request to the Higher Education Funding Council for England of 7 September on funding for equivalent and lower qualifications as additional degrees, what assessment he has made of the effect of his decision to withdraw funding on the viability of courses for first-time entrants to higher education. [175805]

Bill Rammell: The outcome of the comprehensive spending review will enable us to support an additional 60,000 new places in full-time equivalent terms for new students either entering HE for the first time or progressing to higher level degrees to ones they already hold. Despite doubts about the viability of growth and individual courses when we introduced our policies in 1997, there has already been an increase in the number of students in the system of over 300,000 and we remain confident that any sceptics will once again be proved wrong. That assessment is also consistent with Lord Leitch's report and comparative data from the OECD. An extra 5 million people will need to obtain a first higher education qualification by 2020 if we are to be even on the edge of the premier league for world-class skills, with 40 per cent. of the workforce with higher level qualifications.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to his request to the Higher Education Funding Council for England of 7 September on funding for equivalent and lower qualifications (ELQs) as additional degrees, how many part-time ELQ students he estimates will be affected in institutions other than the Open University. [175806]

Bill Rammell: No existing ELQ students will be affected at any institution. Our policy is a progressive redistribution of £100 million in institutional funding by 2010 away from students who already have a first HE qualification and want to study another one at an equivalent or lower level towards first time entrants will enable more of the 20 million people of working age who do not have a first HE qualification to participate in higher education and enjoy all the benefits it brings. The majority are likely to be mature learners from non-traditional backgrounds who want to study part-time.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to his request to the Higher Education Funding Council for England of 7 September on funding for equivalent and lower qualifications (ELQs) as additional degrees, whether his proposals extend to ELQ students on courses leading to qualifications in (a) child and adolescent studies and (b) biometric science. [175807]

Bill Rammell: Yes. In finalising our proposals, we have decided not to rush into making special arrangements, other than those subjects we have already identified as requiring support in the public interest—such as medicine, initial teacher training teaching, science, technology, engineering and maths subjects, area-based studies, and modern foreign languages. But we are asking the Funding Council each year to look at subjects which might in future be regarded as key because of their economic or social significance, and in cases where there is evidence of a fall in demand advise us on the best way forward. The first review will be in December 2008 and could provide an opportunity to look at these subjects. There will also be opportunities for those with a first HE qualification who want to retrain in these subjects, through foundation degrees, and employer co-funded provision.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to his request to the Higher Education Funding Council for England of 7 September on funding for equivalent and lower qualifications (ELQs) as additional degrees, what savings he expects to make by ceasing public funding for ELQ students of (a) pharmacy, (b) psychology and (c) educational psychology. [175808]

Bill Rammell: None. We are redistributing funding not saving it. The large majority of students already study these subjects as a first HE qualification and as a result of our policy of redistributing £100 million by 2010 away from supporting ELQ students, there will be even more opportunities for students to study these subjects either as a first higher education qualification or a higher education qualification to one they already hold.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to his request to the Higher Education Funding Council for England of 7 September on funding for equivalent and lower qualifications as additional degrees, whether from 2008-09 a student with a higher national diploma studying for an accountancy qualification would qualify for funding. [175809]

Bill Rammell: Such a student would only attract institutional funding if the level of that accountancy qualification was higher than a higher national diploma. In other cases, there should still be opportunities available if the accountancy qualification was either a foundation degree or the course leading to the accountancy qualification was co-funded by an employer.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what consultation he undertook in advance of his request to the Higher Education Funding Council for England of 7 September on funding for equivalent and lower qualifications (ELQs) as additional degrees on the effect of his request on the (a) administration and (b) regulation of the ELQ sector. [175810]

Bill Rammell: None because the request to HEFCE was itself a request to consult on the details of the decision we had already taken from first principles and advise us on the way these issues might best be tackled in a way that gets the balance right between regulation and not having an overly bureaucratic system. In all cases, HEFCE will work with institutions to audit fundable student numbers and final HEFCE funding will be determined oh the basis of audited returns and through a robust audit process.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills prior to his request to the Higher Education Funding Council for England of 7 September on funding for equivalent and lower qualifications (ELQs), what research he commissioned on the effect of his request on access to higher education. [175811]

Bill Rammell: The latest data from the labour market speak for themselves. There are 20 million people of working age who do not have a first HE qualification, including six million who have qualifications at A level or equivalent but have not progressed to higher education. Over time, new data from the labour market and comparative date from the OECD will inform future analysis of whether we are producing enough graduates for our economic well-being and enabling enough people with the talent to succeed to access higher education to study for a first qualification.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what forecast he has made of the number of students enrolling for an equivalent and lower qualification (ELQ) as an additional degree between 2011 and 2015 who will no longer receive funding as a result of his request to the Higher Education Funding Council for England of 7 September; and how much funding he no longer plans to allocate to ELQ students in each of these years. [175812]

Bill Rammell: All we have asked HEFCE to do is to find savings of about £100 million a year by 2010-11. No strategic decision has been taken about whether to reallocate further ELQ funding after 2010-11 and no assessment has therefore been made about ELQ students enrolling between 2011 and 2015.

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps his Department plans to take to ensure that students are informed of bursary and scholarship options prior to completing the PN1 student finance application form. [188041]

Bill Rammell: Universities and colleges offering higher education provide information about the bursaries and scholarships they offer. Following the publication of their annual monitoring report, the Office for Fair Access has written to all universities with an access agreement saying that not all eligible students have applied for bursaries and asking them to put more effort into advertising their bursaries to students.

DIUS continues to raise awareness of all elements of the higher education student finance package, including bursaries, via literature, web (including an interactive bursary map showing what finance institutions in England) and campaign material.

Information for prospective students on bursaries is also available via the Universities and Colleges Admissions System website.

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many (a) undergraduate and (b) postgraduate students had their university fees (i) partially and (ii) wholly paid for by their employer in the last 12 months. [191165]

Bill Rammell: Information on the number of students who had their fees partially paid for by their employer is not available centrally. The latest available information on students who had their fees wholly paid for by their employer is given in the following table.

Number of undergraduate and postgraduate students[1] who had their fees wholly paid for by their employer—English higher education institutions

Academic year 2006/07

| | Postgraduate | | Undergraduate | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Major source of tuition fees | Number | Percentage of known | Number | Percentage of known |
| Employer[2] | 45,725 | 15.0 | 66,155 | 4.9 |
| Other | 259,700 | 85.0 | 1,283,670 | 95.1 |
| Total known | 305,425 | 100.0 | 1,349,825 | 100.0 |
| Unknown | 4,830 | — | 6,235 | — |
| Total | 310,255 | — | 1,356,055 | — |

[1] Includes both full-time and part-time students.

[2] Employer as major source of tuition fees includes students who were recorded as having their tuition fees paid by "student's employer" and "UK industry/commerce".

Figures are on a HESA standard registration population basis. Figures have been rounded to the nearest five, so components may not sum to totals.

The Leitch Review of Skills encourages employers to support and fund the upskilling of their work force to level 4 or above to support the nation's international competitiveness. He set a target for at least 40 per cent. of the nation's work force to be qualified to level 4 or above by 2020.

Training: Employment

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what estimate he has made of the additional number of jobs that will be created for British citizens following the announcement of new training places made on 16 November 2007. [173748]

Bill Rammell: The UK has a dynamic and flexible labour market with the highest employment rate in the G7 and 2.8 million new jobs have been created in the UK since 1997. Despite this success there are too many people still missing out on work and the benefits that it brings. This Government are determined to ensure that no individual is left behind. Independent projections suggest that there will be five million fewer low-skilled people in work in 2020, and five million more higher-skilled people in work. This will require significant upskilling of the British population from today's levels.

The announcement of new training places reaffirms the Government's commitment to upskilling British people to provide them with the skills required in a more competitive labour market, to get them off benefits and into jobs and to help them to advance from low skilled to higher skilled jobs. We will continue to help those who need to improve their skills—the overwhelming majority of whom, but not all are British.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Departmental Equality

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much was spent by her Department (a) in total and (b) on staff costs on promoting equality and diversity in each of the last three years for which figures are available; and how many people are employed by her Department for this purpose. [173846]

[Official Report, 18 December 2007, Vol. 469, c. 1309W.]

Letter of correction from Parmjit Dhanda:

An error has been identified in the written answer given to the hon. Member for Shipley (Philip Davies) on 18 December 2007. The correct version of the first two paragraphs is as follows:

Mr. Dhanda: In 2004-06, the Equality and Diversity Unit (EDU) recorded staff costs of £1,951,549 and non-pay spend of £755.851. The EDU was responsible for internal equality policy delivery.

In July 2007, the EDU transferred to the Race Equality Unit taking seven posts, a pay budget of £319,000 and a non-pay budget of £16,000. The newly formed Race Equality and Diversity Division has a forecast outturn in 2007-2008 of £1,126,099 pay costs (average 35.55 FTE posts) and £80,260 non-pay costs. Due to Machinery of Government changes it is difficult for the Department to provide more detail.

Floods: Finance

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what percentage of funding allocated to Gloucestershire for (a) flood recovery and (b) the introduction of flood prevention measures has been drawn down. [178791]

[Official Report, 5 February 2008, Vol. 471, c. 1023-24W.]

Letter of correction from John Healey:

An error has been identified in the written answer given to the hon. Member for Cotswold (Mr. Clifton-Brown) on 5 February 2008. The correct version of the first two paragraphs is as follows:

John Healey: To date £14,984,900 has been awarded to councils within Gloucestershire to support their recovery from the floods last summer. This includes £2,763,000 in Flood Recovery Grant, paid by the Department for Communities and Local Government to the county's six district councils to support flood affected communities. It is for authorities in receipt of grant to decide how to use and distribute any of this funding locally.

Flood affected Local Authorities have also been able to apply to the Department for Communities and Local Government for help through the Bellwin scheme which provides financial assistance to local authorities dealing with emergencies. Exceptionally, the terms of the present schemes, have been made more generous because of the circumstances of the recent floods. Gloucestershire County Council received an interim payment of £1.1 million to help with its costs in clearing up after last summer's floods and Gloucester City Council received an interim payment of £114,000. Both may receive further payments once they submit final claims. Claims have also recently been received from Gloucestershire Police, Worcester City Council, Cheltenham Borough Council and Cotswold District Council.

I have notified Mr. Clifton-Brown of the error and a revised answer has been sent to him.

JUSTICE

Probation: Expenditure

Norman Lamb: To ask the Minister of State, Ministry of Justice how much was spent on probation services in each year since 1997; what expenditure is expected for the forthcoming financial year; and how much of this spending (a) was and (b) will be dedicated to (i) mental health services, (ii) substance abuse rehabilitation services and (iii) vocational education in each of these years. [144165]

[Official Report, 25 June 2007, Vol. 462, c. 356W.]

Letter of correction from David Hanson to Norman Lamb:

On 25 June 2007 the Ministry of Justice provided an answer to a written question from the hon. Member for North Norfolk (Norman Lamb) on spending on probation services in each year since 1997. I regret that although the answer described the figures provided as expenditure, most of the figures were budget figures.

The following table provides expenditure figures from 2001-02, when the probation service was created in its current form. For earlier years local Probation Committees were responsible for delivery and the figures include some estimates.

| | | £ million |
|---|---|---|
| | Resource | Capital |
| 2007-08 | 976 | 15 |
| 2006-07 | 920 | 5 |
| 2005-06 | 906 | 4 |
| 2004-05 | 768 | 28 |
| 2003-04 | 768 | 20 |
| 2002-03 | 660 | 17 |
| 2001-02 | 596 | 39 |
| 2000-01 | 539 | 16 |
| 1999-2000 | 492 | 23 |
| 1998-99 | 466 | 22 |
| 1997-98 | 464 | 17 |
| 1996-97 | 467 | 22 |

Notes:

1. The data includes probation boards (and prior to 2001-02 probation committees and local authorities), the National Probation Directorate and latterly relevant expenditure met by the National Offender Management Service centre.
2. From 2001-02 the resource expenditure included in respect of local probation boards is the Net Operating Cost recorded in the annual consolidated accounts of the local probation boards. Following standard accounting practice, local boards' pension contributions are not fully reflected in these figures.
3. Prior to 2001-02 resource figures are based on the expenditure implied by the main grant cash limit plus an allowance for probation hostels and for consistency, an estimate has been used for central expenditure by the sponsoring unit in the Home Office.

4. All figures exclude Electronic Monitoring and contributions to the Department of Health for the pooled treatment budget related to drug rehabilitation.
5. Figures for 2007-08 are planned expenditure.
6. Comparisons over a long period of time are difficult due to machinery of government changes and accounting methodology changes.

I apologise that this information was not properly provided at the time the question was answered.

I am arranging for copies of this letter to be placed in the Libraries of both Houses and I am copying Gerry Sutcliffe in to the reply.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Police: Greater London

Mr. Boris Johnson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police officers there were in (a) London and (b) each London borough in each year since 1997. [166922]

[Official Report, 4 December 2007, Vol. 468, c. 1109-10W.]

Letter from Tony McNulty:

An error has been identified in the written answer given to the hon. Member for Henley (Mr. Johnson) on 4 December 2007. The correct answer should have been:

Mr. McNulty: The available information is in the following tables. Police officer figures for London boroughs were collected centrally from 2003.

Number of police officers for London and London boroughs: 1997 to 2007[1]

[2] The London totals comprise officer totals for Metropolitan police and City of London police. They are 'not' totals of the London boroughs because they also include Heathrow and Central Services. Excludes officers on career breaks and maternity/paternity leave.

A letter has been sent to the hon. Member and made available in the Library of the House.

JUSTICE

Police Custody

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 20 February 2007, Official Report, column 1227W, on police custody, on how many occasions Operation Safeguard was used in England and Wales between 1 January 2006 and 1 April 2007. [134069]

[Official Report, 30 April 2007, Vol. 459, c. 1416-17W.]

Letter from David Hanson:

Errors have been identified in the written answer given to the hon. and learned Member for Harborough (Mr. Garnier) on 30 April 2007. The correct answer should have been:

Mr. Sutcliffe: Operation Safeguard was reactivated on 22 January 2007. Between 22 January and 30 March 2007, Operation Safeguard was used on 9,640 occasions. This does not correspond precisely to a number of prisoners: one occasion means one prisoner night in a police cell.

I apologise that this information was not properly provided at the time the question was answered. I am arranging for a correction to be made in Hansard.

I am copying this letter to Gerry Sutcliffe.

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many convicted prisoners have been held overnight in police cells or custody suites in Wales; and for how many nights each prisoner has been so held, broken down by police force area. [162846]

[Official Report, 12 November 2007, Vol. 467, c. 28-29W.]

Letter from David Hanson:

Errors have been identified in the written answer given to the hon. Member for Chesham and Amersham (Mrs. Gillan) on 12 November 2007. The correct answer should have been:

Mr. Hanson: Figures for convicted prisoners are not held separately. Between 22 January and 7 November 2007, convicted and remand prisoners were held under Operation Safeguard in police cells in Wales on 4,289 occasions. The number of occasions does not correspond precisely to the number of prisoners: one occasion means one prisoner night in a police cell. This total breaks down by police forces as follows:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| Dyfed Powys | 682 |
| South Wales | 1,177 |
| North Wales | 1,628 |
| Gwent | 802 |

I apologise that this information was not properly provided at the time the question was answered. I am arranging for a correction to be made in Hansard.

Police Custody: Wales

Mr. Crabb: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) on how many days police custody suites in (a) Wales, (b) Dyfed-Powys police area and (c) Pembrokeshire have been used to accommodate prisoners in 2007; [166247]

(2) how many prisoners have been accommodated in police custody suites in (a) Wales, (b) Dyfed-Powys police area and (c) Pembrokeshire in 2007; [166248]

(3) how many cells in police custody units in (a) Wales, (b) Dyfed-Powys police area and (c) Pembrokeshire are reserved for prisoners. [166246]

[Official Report, 28 November 2007, Vol. 468, c. 483-84W.]

Letter from David Hanson:

Errors have been identified in the written answer given to the hon. Member for Preseli Pembrokeshire (Mr. Crabb) on 5 December 2007. The correct answer should have been:

Mr. Hanson: The following table shows the correct number of nights between 22 January and 22 November 2007 that police cells were used in Wales, by Dyfed Powys police force and in Pembrokeshire for Operation Safeguard, and the number of occasions prisoners were held (one occasion means one prisoner night in a police cell).

| | Nights | Occasions |
|---|---|---|
| Wales | 628 | 4,654 |
| Dyfed Powys | 135 | 682 |
| Pembrokeshire | 85 | 372 |

I apologise that this information was not properly provided at the time the question was answered. I am arranging for a correction to be made in Hansard.

Police Custody

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice on how many occasions prisoners were housed in police stations in each of the last six months due to prison overcrowding; and what additional funding has been provided to the police forces providing prison services. [170465]

[Official Report, 5 December 2007, Vol. 468, c. 1261W.]

Letter from David Hanson:

Errors have been identified in the written answer given to the hon. Member for North Down (Lady Hermon) on 5 December 2007. The correct answer should have been:

Mr. Hanson: The following table shows the correct number of occasions prisoners have been held under Operation safeguard in England and Wales in each of the last six months:

| 2007 | Occasions[1] |
|---|---|
| June | 10,157 |
| July | 810 |
| August | 4,950 |
| September | 7,840 |
| October | 9,565 |
| November | 7,693 |

One occasion means one prisoner night in a police cell.

I apologise that this information was not properly provided at the time the question was answered. I am arranging for a correction to be made in Hansard.

Prisoners: Police Custody

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners were held in police cells in each police force area in each of the last five years; and at what estimated cost in each year. [172863]

[Official Report, 7 January 2008, Vol. 470, c. 164-66W.]

Letter from David Hanson:

Errors have been identified in the written answer given to the hon. Member for Bury St. Edmunds (Mr. Ruffley) on 7 January 2008. The correct answer should have been:

Mr. Hanson: The following table records the accurate figures for the number of occasions on which prisoners have been in police cells under Operation Safeguard in England and Wales in 2006 and 2007. (One occasion is defined as one prisoner night spent in a police cell).

Custodial Treatment: Children

Susan Kramer: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer of 13 November 2007, Official Report, column 145W, on custodial treatment: children, how many children of age (a) 10, (b) 11, (c) 12 and (d) 13 years were held in custody following incidents of assault in (i) 2004, (ii) 2005 and (iii) 2006. [175782]

[Official Report, 9 January 2008, Vol. 470, c. 532-33W.]

Letter from David Hanson:

Errors have been identified in the table of the written answer given to the hon. Member for Richmond Park (Susan Kramer) on 9 January. The correct answer should have been:

Mr. Hanson: The following table shows the number of young people from ages 10 to 13 in custody on remand or under sentence whose principal offence was assault as at 30 June in the three years in question. Young people in this age range are accommodated in either a secure children's home or secure training centre. This data has been supplied by the Youth Justice Board.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Islam: Females

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much was spent on the development of leadership skills among Muslim (a) women and (b) young people in each year since 1997. [183584]

[Official Report, 4 February 2008, Vol. 471, c. 846-47W.]

Letter from Parmjit Dhanda:

An error has been identified in the written answer given to the hon. Member for Wycombe (Mr. Goodman) on 4 February 2008. The correct answer should have been:

Mr. Dhanda [holding answer 31 January 2008]: The Department for Communities and Local Government (DCLG) was formed on 5 May 2006. Since that date £118,000 has been spent directly by the Department on projects relating to the development of leadership skills of women and £225,000 on projects relating to the development of leadership skills of young people.

DCLG has also provided £6 million 'Pathfinder Funding' to local authorities for work to build the resilience of Muslim communities and some of this work will include building the leadership skills of Muslim women and young people. A full list of all work funded through the Pathfinder Fund is available from the Library of the House.

Other DCLG projects may have supported work to develop leadership skills but it is not possible to quantify the specific impact on Muslim women and young people.

I have written to the hon. Member to advise him of this error and the correction.

DEFENCE

Military Equipment: Iraq

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) what military equipment the UK gifted to Iraqi forces in each year since 2003; [163033]

(2) what military equipment the Government plan to gift to Iraq over the next 12 months. [163034]

[Official Report, 21 January 2008, Vol. 470, c. 1601-03W.]

Letter from Des Browne:

An error has been identified in the written answer given to the hon. Member for North Devon (Nick Harvey) on 21 January 2008. The final paragraphs should have read:

2007 military equipment

300 L109 hand grenades

Our records indicated that no military or security-related equipment was gifted to Iraq in 2003 or 2004. Currently, we have no plans to gift military equipment in future.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Poverty

14. Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate the Government has made of levels of poverty among disadvantaged groups. [186559]

[Official Report, 18 February 2008, Vol. 472, c. 221W.]

Letter from Stephen Timms:

An error has been identified in the written answer given to the hon. Member for Cotswold (Mr. Clifton-Brown) on 18 February 2008. The answer should have been:

Mr. Timms: The number of children in poverty has fallen by 600,000 in the past decade, the number of pensioners by over a million and the number of individuals living in households containing a disabled person by 900,000. We are determined to make further progress.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Departmental Computers

Mr. Gauke: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many of his Department's (a) computers and (b) laptops have been stolen in 2007; and what the value of those items was. [168597]

[Official Report, 3 December 2007, Vol. 468, c. 912W.]

Letter from Douglas Alexander:

An error has been identified in the written answer given to the hon. Member for South-West Hertfordshire (Mr. Gauke) on 3 December 2007. The correct answer should have been:

Mr. Douglas Alexander: 10 laptops have been stolen from the Department for International Development in 2007, all of which had encrypted hard disks. The estimated value of these laptops was £5,962. No other computers have been stolen from DFID in 2007.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Northcott Theatre

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what discussions (a) he, (b) his Department and (c) his predecessor have had with the Minister for the South West on funding for the Northcott Theatre in Exeter. [183845]

[Official Report, 7 February 2008, Vol. 471, c. 1305W.]

Letter from Margaret Hodge:

An error has been identified in the written answer given to the hon. Member for East Devon (Mr. Swire) on 7 February 2008. The correct answer should have been:

Margaret Hodge: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State has had no discussions on this matter with the Minister for the South West.

The Department has received no representations from the Minister from the South West in his ministerial capacity.

The Department has received two letters from the Minister for the South West (Mr. Bradshaw) in his capacity as a Member of Parliament for Exeter about the Northcott Theatre. There has been one telephone conversation between my hon. Friend the Member for Exeter and a senior official at the Department.

My right hon. Friend the Member for Stalybridge and Hyde (James Purnell) and my hon. Friend the Member for Exeter briefly discussed the matter in December.

It has been explained in all discussions that the Arts Council operates at arm's length from the Government and decisions about which arts organisations to fund are entirely for them.

A copy of this letter has also been sent to the hon. Member for information.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Pension Credit: Overpayments

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many overpayments there were of pension credits in each of the last three years; what the average sum involved was; and how much has been or is expected to be recouped from the executors of deceased pension credits claimants. [163335]

[Official Report, 26 November 2007, Vol. 468, c. 138W.]

Letter from Mike O'Brien:

An error has been identified in the written answer given to the right hon. Member for Birkenhead (Mr. Field) on 26 November 2007. The correct answer should have been:

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 13 November 2007]: The information relating to the volumes and average value of all pension credit overpayments identified in the last three years are in the following table:

| | Volume | Average value (£) |
|---|---|---|
| 2004-05 | 29,000 | 225 |
| 2005-06 | 83,000 | 200 |
| 2006-07 | 168,500 | 414 |

The large increase in overpayments identified in 2006-07 reflects the Department's effort in improving the management and recovery of overpayments and in reducing error in the benefits system, including the identification and removal of error from the pension credit caseload. The increase in average value in 2006-07 is due to the priority attached to tackling high value error and the fact that overpayments identified could have existed since the introduction of pension credit in October 2003.

Information relating to how much has been recovered from executors of deceased pension credit claimants is only available from 2006, and is in the following table. Information relating to how much is expected to be recouped is not available.

| | Amount recovered (£) |
|---|---|
| 2006-07 | 4,869,000 |

TRANSPORT

Motor Vehicles: Lighting

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate her Department has made of the likely increase in annual fuel consumption resulting from the requirement to have daytime running lamps on motor vehicles. [188257]

[Official Report, 25 February 2008, Vol. 472, c. 1132W.]

Letter from Jim Fitzpatrick:

An error has been identified in a written answer given to the right hon. Member for East Yorkshire (Mr. Knight) on 25 February 2008. The correct answer should have been:

Jim Fitzpatrick: Research undertaken for the Department for Transport indicated that the requirement for new types of motor vehicle to be equipped with dedicated daytime running lamps would result in an increase of about 0.5 per cent. in fuel consumption.

Electoral Commission: Finance

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission what budget has been set for the Electoral Commission for each of the next three financial years. [186070]

[Official Report, 26 February 2008, Vol. 472, c. 1337-38W.]

Letter from Peter Viggers:

An error has been identified in the written answer given to the hon. Member for Chichester (Mr. Tyrie) on 26 February 2008. The correct answer should have been:

Peter Viggers: The Speaker's Committee considered the Commission's budget for the four years 2007-08 to 2010-11 when it met in March 2007 and approved a cash flat resource budget of £23,995,000 (including the £2 million annual Policy Development Grant budget) in each of the four years, subject to reconsideration only in the event that Parliament places new responsibilities upon the Commission during this period.

I have written to the hon. Member to advise him of this error and of the correction.
